How Satisfied He Is!

Think of the satisfaction of being able to sell a clean-cut piece of cheese like this with the knowledge that it is precisely the size or weight your customer ordered!

This sort of satisfaction is cheap, for it only costs the small price of a Perfection Cheese Cutter, which cuts any size cheese into all size pieces from 5 cents' worth up. Or, if you prefer, money's worth or pounds or ounces.

Does everything it does without any figuring on your part.

Wholesalers Join the Fight.

National Association Dealers In Favor of Pacific Coast Plan.

WANT PROFITS PROTECTED.

Big Dealers Want Manufacturers to Fix and Maintain Fair Retail Selling Prices.

By Frank B. Connelly, Director National Retail Grocers' Assn.

It is with great pleasure that I present to the grocery trade of the Pacific Coast a letter I have just received from Mr. C. J. Kramer, president of the National Retail Grocers' Association.

Mr. Kramer, knowing how earnestly I sought to show the retail grocers how essential were profits and bring an honest believer in the course I advocated, hastened to let me know when the wholesale grocers of the UNITED STATES in convention assembled, stamped the proposed with their approval.

The wholesale trade knows what splendid results a number of earnest Association workers among the retailers have secured through our State Association in getting prices protected.

We want to ask: "Have you thought how much easier it would be if the wholesale grocers were united in asking the manufacturer to take the necessary steps to stop cutting in his goods?

Our work would be made much easier.

The manufacturer's work would also be much easier.

Mr. Kramer's letter is as follows:

Chicago, June 28, 1907.

Mr. Frank B. Connolly, San Francisco, Cal.

My Dear Mr. Connolly:—No doubt you will be interested in knowing that the National Wholesale Grocers today, in a resolution favored the naming of the retail selling price on proprietary articles and also INSTRUCTED THE OFFICERS to use their best efforts with manufacturers in bringing about this result.

The executive committee of our National Association was in session yesterday and decided on holding the annual convention at Boston next May, thereby changing the date. This will no doubt please you.

Those present at the meeting of the executive committee were Messrs. Padberg, John A. Greene, Henry Schwab and myself. Sorry you were not here. I met Mr. Newberry here.

With best wishes, I am, very truly yours,

C. J. Kramer, Pres. National Ass'n. Retail Grocers.

Grocers Give Their Views.

STATE CONVENTION PLANS.

Directors Plan for Meeting of Extraordinary Value at Sacramento.

All over California, the grocers are watching the work of the State Grocers Association with approval.

Through the columns of the Advocate they are learning how great an influence the trade can bring to bear when working under intelligent and recognized direction..

The interest taken by the men of the interior shows how valuable will be the State Convention that is to be held at Sacramento on Sept., 10th, 11th and 12th.

Every grocer will be welcomed and entertained.

The grocers will discuss the lines along which they shall act during the ensuring twelve months.

They will then choose the men to carry out their plans.

The State Directors last week appointed a committee consisting of secretary Connelly, San Francisco; Treasurer Pearson, Stockton, Vice-President Duncan Oakland, to arrange "Advocate" Representative Finds Trade of Peninsula Want Full Weight Butter.

LOCAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS Are Watching the "Advocate's" Fight.

In evidence that the city grocers are not the only ones effected by short weight butter, we give below the results of numerous interviews with merchants in, Colma, Milbrae, San Mateo, Redwood City and Menlo Park.

The local commission merchants are greatly interested in the movement, as might be expected.

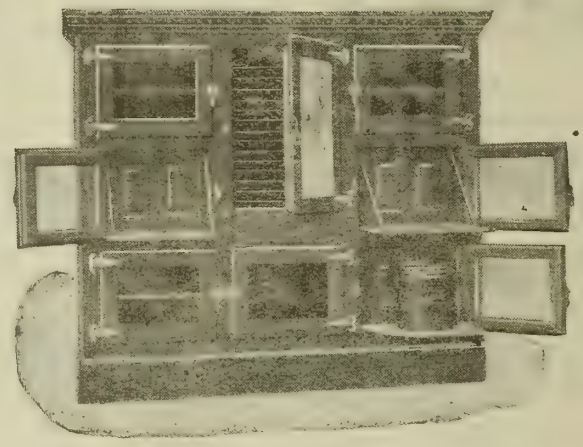
In an interview with Mr. Camm of the well known and reliable firm of Martin Dangers and Camm he said:

"Short weight butter, is not, being sold or sent out intentionally by any reputable commission merchant. When grocers receive short weight butter they fail to consider shrinkage or anything, else. They jump at the conclusion that we commission men are trying to "do" them. Too many grocers want to buy short weight butter. Some of them ask for such goods.

"We are anxious to correct any and all abuses which are really existant.

"We have to buy all our butter f.o.b. creamery and stand the loss in shrinkage, while goods are in transit.

"We would like to see that feature changed. If we could buy butter f.o.b San Francisco, we would be better, satisfied and so would the retail grocer.



"Further than this—it is impossible to cut butter with present machinery, exactly correct throughout every square in a box. The wires which cut the butter will stretch despite all precautions to the contrary.

During the coming week the Advocate will confer with members of the Exchange and with its secretary, with a view to finding out what course of procedure they are desirous of following in the premises.

The out-of-town grocers make the following comments.

M. & S. Belli, Colma:—"We thing the Advocate is doing a great work for the grocers of the State in its fight for full weight butter. It has our earnest support."

J. J. McCarthy, Millbrae:—"Too much cannot be said against the unprincipled jobber who sends out butter short in weight. I will do all I can to aid in forcing the jobbers to give the retail trade and the public a square deal."

J. M. Early, San Mateo:—"The butter which I receive comes to me about an ounce short to the square. The Advocate can count on me to do all I can in this movement for full weight butter."

Levy Bros., San Mateo:—"The retail grocers as well as the general public are entitled to get what they pay for. Any movement which will bring this about has our full support. We hope the Advocate will be successful in the fight for full weight butter."

Stafford Bros., Redwood City:—" Butter often comes to us light in weight. although we deduct the shortage from the bill this gives us unnecesarry trouble and loss of time. We hope that the Advocate will carry on this butter campaign to the bitter end."

A. P. Heise, Redwood City:—"Short weight butter is a trouble from which I almost always suffer from four to five pounds to the box is the average shortage in the butter which comes to me. An honest grocer wants to receive what he pays for, as well, as give full weight to his customers. This can not be done as long as the jobbers are permitted to send out butter or any thing else that does not come up to full weight. Let us all put our shoulders to the wheel and get our just dues, not only with regards to butter but all other goods."

R. R. Chamberlain, Redwood. City;—"The Advocate's Butter Roll of Honor is a good idea. I hope it will prove an unqualified success."

A. F. Hoffen, .Redwood .City:—"I must admit that I have not been as careful in weighing my butter as, I should. I buy by the square, not by the pound, for this reason have paid no attention to the weights. Hereafter I will watch this matter and let the Advocate know results."

Duff & Doyle, Menlo Park:—"It is a business principle with us to give our customers full value for their money. We want the same treatment for ourselves. Dishonest or careless jobbers and commission men should be forced to give full weight butter as well as all goods which they sell to us."

A representative of the Advocate paid a call upon F. H. Thrope, last week, who is one of the leading spints of Redwood City Board of Trade. During the course of the conversation the Advocate's fight against short weighted butter came up. Mr. Thrope praised the stand of the Advocate in no light terms, and promised the moral support of his organization in furthering this, movement, or any other that may be of benefit to the grocers o rto trade conditions in general.

Redwood City Board of Trade is in a flurishing condition and counts amongst its members all the grocers of San Mateo County's capitol twon.

Our Los Angeles friend, "The Commercial Bulletin," says, editorially, in it issue of June 28:

"The San Francisco 'Retail Grocers' Advocate' is in the midst of a thankless, though laudable, undertaking—that of proving to the grocers that of proving to the grocers that they are inconsistently demanding full weight from jobbers and selling butter at short weight. The present method of handling butter certainly is wrong. A large part of the butter sold in California is short weight. Most of it weighs 15 ounces and it can be bought from any so-called reputable dealer in rolls weighing down to 13 ounces. The high price of butter and theh desire to sell at a low price have brought about this condition. A few dealers, it is true, buy fifteen ounce or lighter butter believing it to be full weight, but it must be admitted that the majority go into the deception open-eyed and pay accordingly.

"It is another case case where conditions put dishonesty at a premium. The merchants who buy sixteen ounce butter—andy only a very small percentage do—find that while they sell butter with a clear conscience, they really do not get much of the business; the man up the street cuts the price 5c and thus receives all of the earthly glory. The 16-oz. merchant can only expect to get his glory in heaven.

"This is rather a gloomy picture. It is one of those cases where the whole trade is a petty graft. It would seem that the produce exchange, rather than the retailers, could get at this matter more directly by agreeing among themselves not to pack butter in any but full two pound, full pound or full half pound rolls. But herein enters the Cartwright law and there you are."

All we care to say in reply is this: We do not believe that the retail grocery trade in this part of California is actuated by any such motives as those named by the "Commercial Bulletin." We believe that they want a square deal and honest weights—that's all.

BEER PROFITS.

Grocers Want Bottlers To Take Steps To Fix Prices.

A representative of the Associated Retail Grocers has been calling on the dealers to learn their attitude as to the maintenance of prices on beer without exception the men have said they would ask bottlers to use their legal rights in this regard.

The bottlers at present say, "We want to do this if the rocers want it. We must know they want it."

Do YOU want the bottlers to say to the dealer: "You must ask 35c. for 2 bottles of beer (25c., net) or we will not supply you further?"

Are you willing to take this stand: "We will sell only such beer as the bottlers will not allow to be cut."

If you are, write to the Associated Retail Grocers, 1714 Webster St. and they will let the bottlers know.

It is interesting to note the increase and decrease of the yearly output of gold in the Yukon territory since the discovery of gold therein in 1896. The following is a statement of the output during the eleven years ended December 31, 1906, as taken from the records of the gold commissioner at Dawson:

Year—	Value.
1897	2,500,000
1898	10,000,000
1899	16,000,000
1900	22,275,000
1901	17,368,000
1902	11,962,690
1903	10,625,422
1904	9,413,074
1905	7,162,438
1906	5,257,739
Total	$112,864,363

Ft. Smith Refrigerators—Cold and dry.

The following figures show the numbers of cigars put out during May 1907 and May 1906 by the 1st Pennsylvania Tobacco District:

	May 1907	May 1906
Cigars at $36—	60,452,670	58,877,560
Cigars at $4—	17,089,000	4,340,500

These figures show an increase close to 4,000,000 cigars.

ASSOCIATION NOTES.

Secretaries of associations are invited to send reports of meetings or items of news of their organizations for publication under this heading. They should be forwarded as early as possible.

The withdrawal of the labor delegates from the conciliation committee as a result of the action of the Labor Council last week in disapproving the action of the committee in trying to arrange for an indusrial peace conference, has practically brought an end to the committees existence.

STATE DIRECTORS MEET.

Commend Work of "Advocate" and Transact Necessary Business.

At the call of President Jost of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, the officers and directors of that organization met in Stockton on the evening of June 28th.

President Jost, First Vice-President Doyle, Second Vice-President Aubry, Treasurer Pearson and Secretary Connolly, together with Directors J. W. King and F. F. Dustin were present, the officers named being directors also.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Various bills for necessary expenses were brought up and passed for payment.

Considerable discussion relative to the question of "weight, count, measure and gauge everything you buy," was had and it was determined to have the Advocate continue this campaign all along the line.

The question of full weight butter was brought up and the work being done along this line approved.

The matter of a program for the State Convention to be held at Sacramento this September was gone into inexhaustively and a committee to take care of this important detail was appointed by President Jost, the committee consisting of Director Duncan of Oakland, Treasurer Pearson of Stockton and Secretary Connolly of San Francisco. They were to report back at the next meeting of the State Direc- at the next meeting of the State direc- of July.

In behalf of Sacramento, President Jost stated that the Association there was working hard to make the convention a success and that all delegates attending could be assured that they would have the time of their lives.

After the directors had been in session for an hour and a half, a recess was declared so that they might attend the sixth annual banquet given by the Stockton Grocers' Protective Association.

After this was over the directors discussed matters of interest and importance to the trade.

The importation of coffee in the calendar year 1896, less the quantity exported, aggregated 804,692,275 lbs, as compared with 843,652,918 pounds in 1906. The quantity consumed was greater in 1906, but the value was less than in 1896 to the extent of $4,574,273 There was 10,270,376 pounds less of tea imported in 1906 than in 1896, though the value of the imports was $601,966 greater in 1906. The importation of cacao has greatly increased and also of chocolate. But the large increase in the consumption of cacao has been almost wholly due to its use in the manufacture of confectionery. Its price has remained nearly stationary during the last ten years. For the five years ended with 1901 the average annual imports of coffee amounted to 816,570,082 pounds, and for the five years ended with 1906 the average was 956,817,166 pounds, showing a steady increase in the consumption of coffee in the United States while the contrary is true of tea.

Every now and then we run across a merchant who has thrown up both hands, so to speak. He is pessimistic. Everything seems to go wrong with him. The supply houses are getting all the business. Nothing seems to satisfy his customers. Bro. merchant, if you are in this condition, you have gotten into a rut, and it depends on how long you have been in the rut and how deep you are sunk in it as to whether it would be advisable to pull up stakes and seek a new location.

SUGAR.

The situation here has shown change during the week. We still think that an advance is the most probable movement in this line and that it is apt to occur at any time.

New York, June 27.—Willett and Gray report:

"The Week.—Raws: Advanced 1.65c Refined: unchanged. Net cash quotations this date are: Molasses 3.125c. Centrifugals, 3.87c. Granulated, 4.85c.

"Net Cash Prices Refined.—It is generally understood that the lowest price named for refined here is basis of Granulated, in barrels at 4.85c, net cash, quotations by all refiners.

" Statistics By Special Cables.—"This week's summary of the statistical position shows stocks in the United States and Cuba together of 677,878 tons, against 689,246 tons last week and 585,167 tons last year, an increase of 92,711 tons from last year

"Raws.—As indicated at the close of last week's report the downward reaction came to an end and was succeeded during the present week under review by a firmer and advancing tendency, closing with sales at the highest point of recovery and showing improvement for the week of .01; 65c per lb. in spot and nearby sugars, and .06c. per lb. in futures for July shipment.

"Now that Cuba crop manufacture is over and will not be resumed until the next campaign in December, the combined stocks as above will continue to decrease from week to week, and a corresponding increase of value result up to the parity of beet sugars

"At the close holders are offering very sparingly and the general conditions throughout the sugar world indicate a continued strong tone and tendency.

"Refined.—We have to report another week of quietness in the refined sugar market.

"Weather conditions favor increased consumption and it will soon be time to engage fresh supplies in quantity.

"All the refiners continue to quote basis of 4.90c. per cent, cash for Granulated. At the close the tone became firmer, with indication that the next general change will be an advance."

COFFEE.

New York, June 27.—Willett & Gray report:

"When a staple article undergoes a decline in prices, this is sometimes attributable to speculation—sometimes to a natural overproduction and on other occasions, may be owing to a general decline in all other commodities or because of conditions in the commercial world. The decline in Coffee has been principally due to the heavy production during the crop season now finishing, but this decline has been accelerated by the attitude of the trade and the public press, both doing their utmost to help along the depression and to bring prices as low as circumstances would permit.

"Now, seeing that more than the surplus of this crop is held by the Government of San Paulo entirely out of the market, the available supplies in the world's Visible are not large enough to justify any lower range of values, unless it should be that the next two crops in Brazil turn out larger than consumption requires. For the immediate future, however, the trade must remember that the merchandise offering for the next six months will hardly be sufficient to satisfy the active trade demand, which is unavoidable when considering the small stocks existing everywhere outside of the seaports. There has always been good active business in Coffee between July and October and with this in view and because there has been heavy pressure from all sides during the past six months to depress the Coffee market, it is not likely that prices will recede from this level. On the contrary, legitimate trade buying for absolute requirements should bring about much improved conditions."

Visible supply of world, in bags June 1, 1907, 16,551,708; May 1, 1907, 16,009,449; June 1, 1906 10,171,979;

TEA.

Local importers have received the first shipment of new crop Japan teas. Prices are uniformly very high being from 1 to 3c. above the quotations at the beginning of last year. We are advised that the crop is short in quantity.

CHOCOLATE.

Most of the brands of local manufacture were advanced 2c per lb. on July 1st.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co., report under date of July 2nd:

The market on all grades of Rice is very strong because, practically speaking, there is not a bag of Rice in the South today, that can be bought for any price, especially in the Domestic Japans. The stocks on this coast at the present time will have to carry the trade till Oct. 1st.

New York, June 25th.—Dan Talmage's Son's Co., report:

While the demand for the week cannot be called active, yet it is of seasonable proportions and if anything, trifle in excess of previous records. Prices are firm as the movement each day makes perceptible inroads on stock in hand, and there being no resupply the effect on the market does not need extended elaboration.

Advices from the South note quiet market on the Atlantic Coast, principally because of limited offerings. On account of the backward spring, the growing crops are late and harvest will be delayed from two to three weeks, and therefore, subject to autumnal storms incident to this section. At New Orleans, market is quiet, but little offering and prices on such held firmly at full figures. In the Interior Southwest Louisiana and Texas crop conditions are improving and planters are much encouraged. The general crop will be late and from now until close of harvest, will be an anxious period for all interested in the culture.

Cables and correspondence from abroad not firm and advancing markets on all styles.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has not been very much doing in this line during the past week, interested parties being inclined to lay back and await further developments. Such a course of procedure will not profit the trade, however, because the statistical position of cured fruit is such that nothing but advances can be expected.

RAISINS.

Nothing particularly interesting has transpired in this line during the week.

Demonstrating the fact that the spot seeded raisin situation is extremely strong, 400 cases fancy seeded one pound cartons was sold at New York a few days ago at 11½c. f.o.b. Fresno. This is probably the highest price ever paid for seeded California raisins since they were first put on the market in merchantable quantities. We are further informed that this sale has virtually cleared the Coast market of spot goods so far as first hands are concerned.

Prices on raisins have been made in Spain for shipment out of new crop but are the lowest that have been quoted at the beginning of the season for a number of years. The bulk of the raisins raised in Spain are disposed of in England and therefore have no material effect upon the California crop.

Private advices from Fresno say that some growers report that their raisin crop prospects have been reduced 15 per cent owing to extremely hot weather during the week. In some sections the vines are said to be burned badly, though these are extreme cases, nevertheless there has been a good deal of damage done, and the enormous crop that has been talked of will not materialize.

T. B. Thompson, of the North Ontario Packing Company, is quoted as saying that the only way he can account for the increased price is that the increase in the number of seeding plants has had a tendency to create a greater demand for raisins. He seems to think that the price will remain pretty well up, but does not indicate that it will mount any higher than it already is.

California raisin grapes are now said to be threatened by a new pest, which in appearance, is something like the tobacco worm. It strips the vine of leaves, and has hitherto defied every effort to exterminate it. The removal of the worm from the vines by hand is being tried, but prove to be highly expensive, as the pest is most prolific.

PRUNES.

The prune situation shows little change from last week. If anything, the market is somewhat stronger.

The growers and packers are placed in an unusual strong position this season because of the European demand and it makes little difference to them whether the buyers from eastern States purchase a lb. or not. Several interests have expressed the belief that prunes will advance to a 6c. f.o.b. basis.

The underlying conditions are undoubtedly good and the market is certain to develop increased strength as the season progresses. Prunes purchased at present quotations may be considered a very safe buy and are certain to pay the grocer an excellent profit on his foresight.

It is estimated by the best authorities of the Santa Clara Valley, according to a San Jose report, that from 65 to 75 per cent of the 1907 prune crop of the valley has been disposed of, and that 75 per cent of this fruit has gone to 50 per cent of the packers of the valley, the remainder getting but a small slice of the valley's product. "A final survey of the crop of the valley," the report continues, "brings forth the fact that, while the crop will be a trifle heavier than expected by some, it will not in any event exceed 40 per cent of the output of last year. A rise in the value of last year's prunes is marked, spot prunes now commanding 3⅞c. with a premium of ¼c. on 30s. and 40s.. European demands are not so frequent as they were a week ago, although the demand for fruit in the large California sizes is still steady."

A private letter from Portland states that some of the packers of Oregon Italian prunes intend to increase the charge for packing to five-eights of a cent in 25-lb boxes, faced, instead of half a cent as heretofore, and three eights of a cent in 50-lb boxes, unfaced, instead of a quarter of a cent.

Private advices from Salem, Ore., repirt a strong market for 1907 Oregon Italian prunes with a probability of an advance in the near future.

New York, June 25.—"Journal of Commerce" says:

It is reported that opening prices just made on the new French crop of PRUNES are above a parity with the quotations on the 1907 California fruit and, according to telegrams from the Coast received here yesterday. European buyers for this reason are showing renewed interest in the latter The revival of export demand imparts additional strength to the feeling among sellers on the Coast. The local trade is sending few inquiries out for future prunes at present and confines its purchases of old crop to small lots on the spot needed to keep up assortments. It was also reported from California yesterday that England is inquiring there for old fruit, but that as there is no stock left there in the sizes wanted the intending buyers have had their attention directed to the New York market, which is better equipped to supply their demands.

CANNED FRUITS.

A letter received from one of the most prominent operators on the Pacific Coast states: "This is the worst year California has ever seen for canned fruits. Canners are paying as high as $100 a ton for apricots, which will make standards cost $1.75 to $1.85, and the better grades in proportion.

It is estimated the total gross returns to California orchardists by the end of the season should exceed $10,000,000, the possible falling off in the number of carloads as compared with last year being more than made up by increased prices.

The California Fruit Canner's Association has not yet issued opening prices on the general line of canned fruits of 1907 packing, but has made a uniform price of $4.50 per dozen on all varieties in glass, except cherries The latter they do not offer at all.

APRICOTS.

Concerning apricots, a San Francisco writer says: "Cots are cots" this year, and the grower with a fair stand will be on easy street when the bell rings. On account of the high prices asked, the Eastern trade has apparently forgotten that there is such a thing as an apricot and are not getting into the deal very strong. The demand from canners is heavy, however, and growers will dry but very few apricots this year. When growers can get from $65 to $75 for cots as they run they are not going to dry very many."

CHERRIES.

San Jose mail advices say that owing to the cloudy weather and the heavy wind which followed immediately after the rain it is probable that the loss in cherries will not be as serious as might be expected. After the first shower it was thought that the damage to the crop probably amounted to one-tenth of its value. It is not believed now that the cherries will be spoiled to any extent except for long shipments.

HONEY.

John Leffler, who owns the larger per cent of the apiaries near Redlands, Cal., is quoted as saying that the cold weather of June will make the honey crop shorter than for several seasons, especially on fancy brands, as the cool, damp weather, has prevented the bees from working while the black sage has been blooming now, but the honey. The white sage is blooming now, but the honey from it is not of such fine character. So far the bees have been unable to get in much work. There has been plenty of flowers, but the cool weather and rains have prevented work.

CANNED PEAS.

So far as Maryland is concerned the pea packing season is practically over. The season there has been a great disappointment to packers and jobbers.

There is no reason to look forward to anything but high prices through out the year.

Reports from other sections, such as Wisconsin and New York are not particularly encouraging and there is no question but what canned peas are the strongest article in the canned vegetable market to-day. Present quotations on futures or spots are lower than they will be 90 days or 6 months hence. This vegetable is a safe buy and no grocer will make a mistake in purchasing a year's requirements at this writing.

CORN.

New York, June 28.—One of the New York State packers of corn, represented here by Wood & Stevens, writes to them as follows: "We would not take on another case of futures at any prices, as it is going to bother us considerably, from present outlook, to fill the orders we have already booked. There is no question but that next year sweet corn will be the best article on the list, as the acreage all over the country is very short, and this fact, in connection with the backward spring, has in almost all cases necessitated corn being planted twice and even three times. Very little of our corn is at present out of the ground, while at this time it ought to have at least a six-inch stand, so you can easily understand what the conditions are that we are facing at present."

CANNED TOMATOES.

The market in this line has shown quite a little interest during the past week or ten days and quite a few large transactions are said to have taken place. Jobbers are paying in the neighborhood of 80 to 82½c for 2½ lb. standards.

The market in the east continues to maintain a strong position both in spot goods and in futures. Packers are not showing any anxiety as to their ability to dispose of their products at their own figures.

Advices from Indiana are to the effect that only 85 per cent of the tomato acreage contracted will be set out, because farmers became discouraged by the recent weather conditions and are putting their ground into corn.

Aberdeen, Md., June 28.—Strasbaugh Silver Co., report:

The market for futures, is dull and draggy. After the activity which prevailed there is little wonder, Buyers who have not filled all their requirements for Futures, are consoling themselves with the fact that we are having quite favorable Tomato growing weather. Packers feel that since the thermometer has reached the nineties that it is more probable now than it was ten days ago, that we may have at least something like an ordinary summer. Even though we have not had ten days of genuine summer weather, there seems to be no inclination on the part of packers to force sales upon unwilling buyers.

There have been recent opportunities for them to sell Futures at fairly lucrative prices (i. e. providing they pack them) and as more or less business was taken on the basis of each advanced point, their prospects were fully covered with orders, from day to day, and at each suceeding point, and as result, there are no anxious sellers and the packer who is willing to shade 90 cents is the exception rather than the rule."

SALAD OIL.

New York, June 27, 1907.—Aspegren & Co., report:

In the early part of the week market showed considerable weakness, and the foreign demand which we spoke of in our last weeks letter was entirely scared off and all deliveries both off and new crop have declined from 1c. to 1½c. per gallon below last weeks quotation. This decline did no stimulate any business, but on the contrary market has remained very dull with absolutely no inclination to buy or sell on the part of traders. The market is very narrow and one that can easily be manipulated one way or another. Crude oil has been offered very sparingly during the past week and no disposition to trade is shown.

LOBSTERS.

A prominent Canadian lobster packer, writing to his New York agent, says: "We have never seen the fishing so bad. There is going to be a great big shortage, and we are sure we will be short in our deliveries unless there is a very decided improvement in the catch."

AMERICAN SARDINES.

Eastport advices are to the effect that the run of sardine fish on the Maine coast has increased to a considerable extent, but that the supply is not yet sufficient to keep the factories in full operation.

HAY.

Somers & Co., report under date of July 2.:

The past week has shown a still further continuance in increased Hay shipments. This is the heaviest record for a long time past and our facilities here have been utterly inadequate for handling such a quantity.

Under the pressure of such heavy arrivals the market has naturally weakened considerably, although this weakness is chiefly with Volunteer Hay, which is constituting the major portion of our present arrivals. After the market is settled from this present disturbance we look for conditions to continue on a much more intelligent basis than has been noted for some time past.

Although choice Wheat Hay is none tooo plentiful here on the market or in the country, yet at the moment it shows some little weakening in sympathy with other grades. We incline to the idea that during the winter this particular grade of Hay will be commanding high prices. Alfalfa is coming to market but sparingly, but as the demand for same is light as yet we do not find much of interest to report in this line. For to-day we give the market as follows:

Choice Wheat Hay	$18.00 to 20.00
Good Wheat Hay	15.00 to 17.50
Other grades same	9.00 to 14.50
Wheat and Oat	9.00 to 16.50
Tame Oat	9.00 to 16.00
Old Wild Oat	8.00 to 11.50
New Wild Oat	9.00 to 12.50
Stock Hay	7.50 to 9.00
Alfalfa	8.50 to 13.50
Straw, per bale	.10 to .80

THOSE COLLECTION LETTERS.

A System That Enables Dealers To Get Money and Save Commission.

Each member of the State Grocers Association is entitled to a set of Collection Letters that are certainly wonders.

There are three letters.

The dealer fills the letters out himself. At the bottom of each letter is a line that says "In order to avoid you publicity, we enclose this letter in a plain envelope. Always pay to the Creditor Direct."

So the dealer puts the letter in a plain envelope and the debtor thinks he is getting a letter from the lawyer of the State Grocers Association.

Letter No. 1.—Is a friendly letter. The State Association reminds the debtor that the grocer did him a great favor when he let him have the credit The debtor is told what a good fellow they think he is and non-payment is charged up to carelessness or oversight and he is advised to go to the dealer and square himself and the amount.

Result.—This letter in most cases brings a nice friendly response. In some instances that debtors write: "We realize that you have been very lenient. "Sometimes they get sore but usually they begin to pay.

Letter No. 2.—This letter tells the debtor that the State Ass'n is afraid that after all he is trying to get out of paying an honest debt, but that they won't let him. They remind him that legal action is expensive and that costs and lawyer's fees will make his bill very heavy. They state definitely that if he doesn't go to his debtor at once and settle, they will be forced to begin this expense-breding legal action.

Results.—Slow debtors who have been putting the payment off and some of the bad pay who want to avoid expense go around to the grocer and settle.

Letter No. 3.—This letter looks like a legal form.

Results.—When the debtor gets this letter he is most likely to ejaculate: 'Good Lord, I'm sued.' Those who can be scared, get a move on. It brings results from any debtor that a lwayer could collect from without suit.

And the Grocer saves the 20 per cent.

The dues to the State Grocers Association are $3 per year. The letters alone are worth more than this. If you want to be "counted in," send a check to California Retail Grocers and Merchants Association; 1714 Webster St., S. F.

You ought to do this anyhow. if you haven't for the good the State Association has done and the good it still can accomplishe.

Ad Letter story avir..raoffi,ffiffi..tls.. Crockett.—Booth Bros:—We are enclosing $3 for membership in the State Association. This is something we should have done before as we have received a great deal of benefit from the Association work.

We have been subscribers for the Advocate for some time and find it very valuable. We weigh, etc., and find shortages. In one day we found 13-lbs shortage in 3 half cases of butter. The shortage was claimed and allowed and we now get no more short weight butter. We will try to get the State Convention this year.

Glen Ellen.—Chas. J. Poppe:—"We sometimes check up the goods as we receive them but recall no shortages. The Advocate is all right.

Ft. Smith Refrigerators—Cold and dry.

Frank J. Brandon, trustee of the insolvent estate of Graessler & Reichwald, restaurant keepers, who formerly conducted the Savoy Creamery, at 72 Geary St., has filed suit in the U. S. Circuit Court against R. Consani for $5,000. He claims that preference was given to a certain creditor.

HAND SAPOLIO

Always supply it and you will keep their good will.

HAND SAPOLIO is a special toilet soap—superior to any other in countless ways—delicate enough for the baby's skin, and capable of removing any stain.

Costs the dealer the same as regular SAPOLIO, but should be sold at 10 cents per cake.

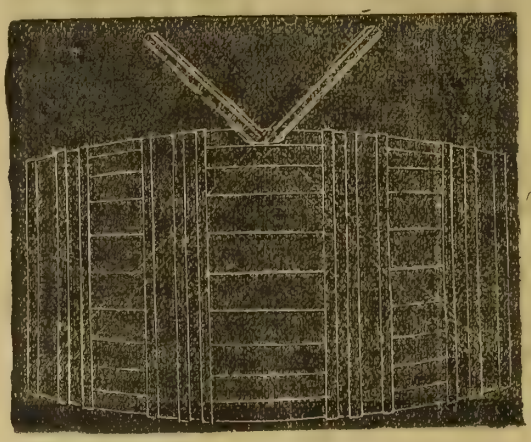
THE "ADVOCATE" GAUGING RODS HAVE ARRIVED!!

Send Your Order In At Once!

Now Do You Want Any Further Proof?

In the evidence given in the proceedings to oust the Standard Oil Company from Missouri, a former agent of that company testified that salesmen were instructed to carry gauge rods (which the agent intimated were false) and when the argument failed to get orders given to independent competition countermanded he was told to use the gauge rod and show where the oil was over-gauged four or five gallons.



This testimony ought to convince any merchant of the absolute necessity of having his own measuring instruments on which he can rely for protection. Oil and vinegar are frequently overgauged and unless a merchant has a set of gauging instruments he cannot tell whether he is paying for oil or vinegar that is charged to him at, say 52 gallons, when as a matter of fact the barrel will only hold 48 gallons. This is a trick frequently practiced as these concerns know that few dealers have measuring instruments.

The long stick is used to determine the actual capacity of the barrel while the small one shows the amount that is lacking in the barrel. Protect yourself as many readers of this paper have, by buying a set of the Advocate gauging instruments which are sold at a nominal figure. It is advisabe to have two sets, one for vinegar, molasses and syrup and another for oil if it is bought in barrels as one set should not be used to gauge both oil and vinegar or molasses.

We will deliver the gauge rods to you at your store at these prices, cash in advance. . . . .

3	"	"	3	"	"	4.20

Cuts in this advertisement show both the gauge and wantage rods while the cut of the barrel shows how the gauging is done. Complete directions for using will be mailed free with each set.

Get a set of gauge and wantage sticks, then you'll know to a certainty when you buy what you get for your money.

TRADE GETTING AND YOUR ASSOCIATION.

While the Results May Not be Quick They Are Sure and Profitable.

What constitutes an ideal association? Is it numbers? We think not. A large association does not always possess strength. Sometimes an organization consisting of only a handful of men accomplishes more good than its larger brother. Is it financial strength? Not always. We know of an association that has over one hundred thousand dollars in its treasury and it is far from being an ideal association. Numerical strength and financial resources are two elements that go toward assisting to ideal conditions, but more is required.

The ideal association is an organization of power; of accomplishment; of unity; progressive activity on the part of the members and ability on the part of the officers. A big army without careful generalship would soon meet disaster where a small army well officered would be successful.

The ideal association will be one that will stamp itself indelibly on the community in which it lives; it will be impressive and powerful. To make the ideal condition possible we repeat there must be unity. This begets strength. Every side of the organization field must be carefully tilled. The members must be educated and cultivated. The lessons of organization must be patiently taught. Too much must not be expected at the outset. Time must be given for the seed to grow.

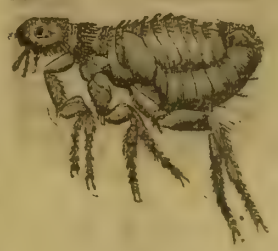
Things worth having are worth working for. Officers and members must learn to work together. There must be a spirit of give and take. Ideal members will bring forth ideal officers. Ideal officers and members produce ideal organization. The social, educational and business side of the members must be cultivated; this will cause a natural development of strength and fitness for work along ideal lines. The ideal association will not be produced without cost of time and money. Too often we look for ideal conditions and are unwilling to produce the means to bring them forth. An ideal association should be liberally supported. There is such a thing as being "penny wise and pound foolish." The ideal assoication will not only attempt, but it will produce results. Hiding the association in a back alley or up seven flights of stairs will not assist in producing ideal results. Get in the foreground so far as location is concerned. Spend some money on rent and office fixtures. Make the meeting room comfortable; make the meetings interesting. Here are some of the things that will help toward the ideal. The ideal association is a long way off, but we get nearer to it. The members are learning loyalty, which is one of the main necesisties. Every victory won brings us a step nearer the goal. Let us all strive for the ideal, even though we never reach it. The effort will bring forth big results.

Latest advvices by mail from Honolulu say that the Wahiawa Consolidated Pineapple Company was preparing for a big season's work at Wahiawa, and the canning plant is being increased to many times the capacity which it was last year. The output of the cannery this year will not be as heavy as might be expected on account of the fact that the Hawaiian Fruit and Planting Company, which consolidated with the Tropic Fruit Company to form the present concern, had a contract by which its copr for two years was to be turned over to the Dole cannery. For this reason the Consolidated cannery will put out only about 12,000 cases of pines this year. A conservative estimate of the out-put for 1908 is 50,000 cases and from then forward there will be a steady increase in the production.

With the new prune crop starting in on a basis of at least from 4¾c. to 5c. peaches from $60 to $70 a ton, Bartlett pears at $60 or better, cherries at 9c. and 10c. and cots simply out of sight, it is evident, the San Jose "Mercury" thinks that there will be "something doing" in the fruit line in California this year, in spite of the fact that there will be probably not over a quarter of a crop on the general average, taking the State as a whole.

The Western Pacific Railroad has finished tracklaying inside the city limits of Stockton, and will now put down the tracks northward toward Sacramento. The work through that city was slow owing to a portion of the streets having to be torn up, but out in the country the rails will be placed in position at a much faster rate. The grading has been completed and sufficient material to build the line to the Capital City is stored on the line of the Tesla road, which was purchased by the Western Pacific. A track-laying machine is being used with good results. It handles the ties at a fast rate where there are no obstructions. Construction trains have been made up and busy scenes will be enacted north of Stockton for days to come. It is expected that trains will be in operation between Stockton and Oroville before the end of the present year.

MERCHANT ROBBED.



Salida Grocery Store Entered by Thieves Recently.

Salida, Cal.—Thieves entered the grocery and general merchandise store owned by T. H. Kewin here a few days ago and rifled the cash register of $6.30, stole a pair of shoes and secured a quantity of canned goods, and escaped without leaving the slightest clue.

The thieves entered through the postoffice, which is run by Mr. Kerwin, in connection with the store. They molested nothing the postoffice, although $20 in an unlocked drawer might easily have been secured. The robbers were evidently not anxious to have the United States authorities put on their track, and judiciously left the government's property alone. Sheriff Dingley was notified of the robbery, but was unable to find a clue to the perpetrators of the crime.

The allied merchants' committees are to take up the matter of charter amendments this week, and among the changes which are to be proposed will be the incorporation of the principle of the recall in the charter, so that the present situation in the municipal government, if it were to occur again, would not be without remedy.

Charles C. Nichols, formerly manager of the Firemen's Fund Insurance Co., and Philip J. Fay announce that they have entered into partenership, at 627 Merchants' Exchange, as general underwriters in all classes of insurance—fire, liability, bonds, elevators, plate glass, automobiles, marine and accident.

Clerk's Corner.

What Marshal Field Has to Say to Young Clerks.

It has been our wont whenever opportunity offered to quote some famous business man on the subject of striving young men. This we have believed to be a line of action that would carry much weight and conviction. In this vein we have quoted Mr. John Wanamaker of Philadelphia, Mr. H. H. Rogers of Standard Oil fame and many other unusually successful business men. This week we submit to our readers an excerpt of letter of Mr. Marshall Field. The similarity of opinion and sentiment in this regard between these now famous men is truly remarkable. This, however, only emphasizes the truth of the statements and proves that they are facts and not theories. Mr. Field's letter herewith:

"Pursue work in hand with diligence and determination to know it thoroughly, which can only be done by close and enthusiastic application of the powers at command. The trouble with most young men is that they do not know anything thoroughly and are apt to do the work committed to them in a careless manner."

"The average young man of today when he begins to earn is soon inclined to habits of extravagance and wastefulness; gets somewhat imbued with the idea that irrespective of what he earns he must indulge in habits corresponding to those of some other young men, simply because he imagines he cannot be manly without.

"The five, ten or fifteen cents a day that is squandered, while a mere trifle apparently, if saved would in a few years amount to thousands of dollars and go far toward establishing the foundations of a future career.

"As a rule people do not know how to save. I deem it of the highest importance therefore to impress upon every young man the duty of beginning to save from the moment he begins to earn, be it ever so little."

He never departed from that standard—be thrifty and preserve your character. It was his message from the new West to the old East. He honestly, valiantly lived to this ideal every day of his life.

Southern Pacific Freight Agent J. W. Dickinson of Oakland, says: "The average freight shipments from the Kirkham St. depot now are 35 carloads per day. This about equals the busy times last year. It is surprising when one considers that a number of firms have returned to San Francisco. But others have taken their places and new wholesalers continue to settle in Oakland. Thirty-five carloads of freight out of Oakland each day shows that this city is doing business. There are wholesalers here who ship merchandise all over the United States.

PERSONALITY IN SALESMANSHIP.

Perhaps the strongest factor in salesmanship is personality.

The Diamond Match Company makes matches; millions, billions, trillions of them. They are good matches. The heads don't fly off. You can strike them almost anywhere.

As a result, the Diamond Match Company sells more than seventy-five per cent of the matches in the United States.

How did they get the business? Here's how. Trust? Yes, but that didn't get them trade; it rather drove it away.

Way up in Minnesota there was a man named Mason. His real name was Frederick Mason, but nobody suspected it. He was Fred to everybody. He was big in body and in mind. He was the national organizer of the Retail Grocers' Association. He made that organization one of the most powerful in America.

He had that mysterious something called personality.

He has it yet.

The Diamond Match Company heard about him. They went after him in the way large corporations have. They got him, but not until he had satisfied himself that their matches were as above described.

We heard him address several hundred wholesale grocers a while back. These wise boys had received stacks of letters extolling the merits of the Diamond Match. They had been visited by scores of salemen, but when Fred Mason stood up before them, looked them squarely in the eye and told them the same old story, they believed and signed his order blanks. Why? Because Fred Mason believed in his matches and talked with conviction.

Personality counts 92 per cent every time.—Graphonotes.

FOR INSURANCE REPORT.

National Association of Credit Men Pass on Various Companies Who Suffered Loss in Great Fire.

Chicago, June 14.—At today's session of the Credit Men's Convention the report of the committee on San Francisco insurance settlements was read. This report says, in part: "In judging the actions of some companies in adjusting their losses, consideration should be given to the fact that careful experts have estimated the earthquake damage in San Francisco as not exceeding 3 per cent of the total damage. Further, the fact should be considered that while the people of San Francisco did not object to a small discount for immediate cash payment, in many cases the companies themselves caused great delay in making the adjustments and then demanded deductions, proper only in the case of immediate payments. It should be noted again that deductions made by the companies were not from the face of the policy, but were from the adjusted loss. Small deductions for cash were considered justified, as in many instances this meant to the insurance company a sacrifice of its assets in order to procure the ready money. The following six companies paid their losses promptly upon adjustment without asking cash discount: Aetna of Hartford, California of San Francisco, Continental of New York, Liverpool and London and Globe of Liverpool, Eng., Queen of Aemerica of New York, and Royal of Liverpool.

"It is due to the insurance companies which paid in full their vast losses in San Francisco to give them the financial aid and encouragement of our business as a recognition of the uprightness of their dealings and as an appreciation of the sacrifices they have made. We have gone to the greatest pains in our investigation of the payments made by the large number of companies paying losses in San Francisco. We have endeavored with great care to do no injustice to any company interested. There are numerous companies having small losses that we have not mentioned in our report for the reason that we did not consider a company entitled to any great praise which paid a small loss in full. We trust that this will be treated as a practical guilde for many years to come in the placing of insurance by the members of the National Association of Credit Men. The following is a list of companies that, in the opinion of the Committee should be placed on the roll of honor.

"Aetna of Hartford, Alliance of Philadelphia, Atlas of London, California of San Francisco, Citizens of St. Louis, Connecticut of Hartford, Continental of New York, German Alliance of New York, German-American of New York, Hartford of Hartford, Home of New York, Insurance Co. of North America of Philadelphia, Law Union and Crown of London, London and Liverpool and Globe of Liverpool, London Assurance of London, Manchester Assurance of London, Michigan Fire and Marine of Detroit, New Hampshire of Manchester, New York Underwriter's Agency of New York, Niagara of New York, North British and Mercantile of London, Northern Assurance of London, Pelican Assurance of New York, Phoenix Assurance of London, Queen of America of New York, Royal of Liverpool Scottish Union and National of Edinburgh, Springfield Fire and Marine of Springfield, Sun of London, Union Assurance Society of London, Washington of Seattle.

"The following companies while not included in the roll of honor, maintained a high average of payments and settled their losses to the satisfaction of their policy-holders: Agricultural of Watertown, American Central of St. Louis, American of Newark, Glen Falls of Glens Falls, Mercantile Fire and Marine of Boston, New Zealand of Auckland, Pennsylvania of Philadelphia, Phoenix of Hartford, Protector Underwriters of San Francisco, Providence-Washington of Providence, Security of New Haven, St. Paul Fire and Marine of St. Paul, State of Liverpool, and Teutonia of New Orleans.

"The Advocate has the full report of the Credit Men's Committee on each Company on file, and will answer all inquiries in accordance with same. If you have policies in doubtful Companies's (not on the roll of honor)—write us for a report on same. You can not afford to take chances.

Preparations for the industrial peace conference which is to be held in San Francisco during the coming visit of three of President Roosevelt's Cabinet are to be in charge of the following committee of arrangements, appointed by George A. GROCERS GIVE THEIR VIEWS.

plans for the convention. These plans will be thoroughly practical.

The Sacramento grocers are already planning the entertainment.

Every reader of the Advocate who can do so should plan to meet with the other grocers of the State at Sacramento. It will be an experience of of great value as well as great interest.

The State Association has got many valuable laws for the the grocers.

Grocers are getting better profits on many things because of their action

The "short delivery" cheat is being cleaned up.

Grocers are getting much money through the Associations collection letters.

The dues are $3 per year.

What some of the grocers think about the work being done by the Association and by its paper, can be best understood from the following excerpts from letters received this week:

Vacaville, Vacaville Mercantile Co.: —"We check all goods carefully and usually find them right. We are using the State Collection letters and they are getting in a lot of money for us. We think there is no better way for old bills. We are very well satisfied with the Advocate also."

Ydalpom, P. H. Fisk:—"We now weigh, count, etc, most of our goods I have found shortages in bloaters, cakes, chocolate, and potatoes, all of which were allowed for. I think the Advocate the best trade paper in the State for many reasons.

Boulder Creek:—S. H. Rambo Co: " We weigh and measure goods we receive when practicable and seldom find shortages except such as result from theft in transit. We are well pleased with the flour situation. We make a point of reading each issue of the Advocate as soon as it arrives and find that it pays us."

Hopland, W. W. Thatcher:—"We find few shortages although we are careful in checking up invoices. The Advocate is a very good paper."

Winters, Parker & Wertner:—"We do not check up goods received as we should. We find shortages from time to time which are usually allowed. We think the Advocate a very good paper for the grocer."

Petaluma, H. C. Newman, proprietor 311 Grocery):—"We check up goods carefully where we have any doubt but seldom find shortages. We usually weigh barrel goods. The Advocate is a valuable factor in improving grocery dealers since it is an Educator and states what we recognize as facts."

Tracy, Koehler Bros:—"We read every word of the Advocate each week and find nothing but what is a help in our business."

San Franciso.—T. Salomon, 1688 Eddy:—"A shortage of 21 pounds on two sacks of potatoes (which was allowed) shows the necessity of weighing, etc., all goods. The Advocate is a very valuable paper for the grocery trade."

Oakland.—Royal Grocery Co., 4108 -4110 Piedmont Ave:—"The Advocate is an A No. 1 paper for grocers because its is first last and all the time for the grocers and too many other reasons to mention."

J. W. McClellan, Martinez, Cal.:—"We weigh and measure almost everything we buy and as a result have found shortages in potatoes, crackers, and coal oil when in barrels. We also find that egg cases shipped to the city are robbed. I am convinced that the Advocate is the best paper of its kind for the grocers of the State."

THE EAST ON SAN FRANCISCO.

New York.—The "Wall Street Journal" says: Shirley E. Johnson returning from a trip to the Pacific Coast, describes conditions in San Francisco as suffering from the unsettled conditions of labor and capital, and the consequent backwardness in restoring the city from the disastrous effects of the earthquake. He says: "While there have been some large structures erected, as evidence of the enterprise and confidence of people who have abundant resources, the great mass of work remains to be done, the resources are inadequate, and in the present deadlock it is not easy to see how much progress can be made. There are now 40,000 unemployed in the city and the labor situation is ruled by from 15 to 20 unions. As a result of the co-operation of influential business men to bring this state of things to a close, it is difficult for merchants and manufacturers to get credit from the banks where employers make concession to demands for higher wages, in order to meet contracts. Instances are known in which banks have withdrawn credit and called their loan, thus forcing the employer to ally himself with the organized effort to withstand labor unions. A large number of large establishments have been closed because of the impossiblity of making any profit under existing scale of wages and with limitations upon their capacity to command working capital. To add still further complications the street car strike has been prolonged, in the midst of idleness, by the strike-breakers. Under such circumstances the financial, commercial and industrial interests of the city are all working at disadvantage. The situation is not, however, without its brighter aspects, as seen in the determination of the better element to work out their own salvation with the help of time. Business conditions on the way east from San Francisco, at such points as Salt Lake City, Kansas City and elsewhere, indicate a disposition to make few, if any, commitments beyond those already assumed. While general prosperity stil prevails there is a much more conservative attitude than a year ago."

Blowing soap bubbles may afford considerable amusement, but it hardly ever proves profitable. The day-dreamer whose chief business is building air castles and who does not hustle with the aim of seeing his dreams realized, is likely to have numerous regrets.

Collections have all seasons for their own. Do not put them off. If you have a disagreeable one that should be looked after today, look after it. The customer who gets offended when you ask him for past due money is not a first-class customer. Let your backbone assert itself.

DeWolf Hopper had a slight cold one night, and in a curtain speech r ferred to it in this fashion: "I went to my doctor," he declared, " and the doctor said I had been eating too much nitrogenous food and must stop it and eat farinaceous food. Since that I haven't been able to eat at all, for I don't know what other word means."

Strikes in Butte some time ago brought about a suspension of all publications for a time. Almost at once business stagnated. Panics occured on the streets, and rumor went about white-faced and terrifying—all because the papers were not issued. There has never been a more successful object lesson of the importance of the press.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was once on an electioneering tour in Ontario, and as the elections were bitterly contested every effort was made to stir up race and religious prejudice. One day a Quebec Liberal sent this telegram to Sir Wilfrid: "Report in circulation in this country that your children have not been baptized. Telegraph denial. To this the premier replied. "Sorry to say report is correct. I have no childen."

It is estimated by the National Board of Fire Underwriters that total property loss in San Francisco by earthquake and fire was about $350,000,000 The loss to the 243 Insurance companies in which the property was insured was approximately $176,000,000, represented by 150,000 claims. Many foreign companies carried isurance in San Francisco and the total loss of all the insurance companies on account of the calamity is about $225,000,000.

There is a drudgery about business, and work of the same kind day after day and week after week becomes monotonous. Merchants need vacations. The vacation time is now at hand. A few days spent in the mountains, at the sea side, or in the country will have a charm for the over-worked tradesman and will give him renewed energy that he can utilize to advantage upon his return. The money and time spent in taking a vacation is very apt to bring splendid returns.

Milwaukee might well be made famous in grocerdom as a city where the grocers showed their independence to the extent of refusing to handle a five cent breakfast food, thereby keeping goods of that size out of the market.

Secretary Wilson shows that he is abreast of the times when he says that the American people are demanding better goods and more every day. While he said that in connection with meat, it also applies to groceries and the man who pushes quality to the front will be the winner.

CALIFORNIA.

Los Angeles:—Mr. J. H. Thaxter, a Los Angeles grocer, published a notice of the sale of his business on July 2d. The reason for the sale was left undivulged. Constantine Wilkins is now the proprietor.

A meeting of the creditors of J. A. Papot, a grocer, was held in the latter part of last week.

Mr. I. D. Williamson, the Los Angeles grocer, has just taken a mortgage of $301.

The store of Mr. E. W. Grannis has been mortgaged to the extent of $2,000. Mr. Grannis has been prominent in the grocery business for many years.

Oakland:—In this city the following remarkable occurances have been reported. The Palo Alto and the Old Mission grocery companies have been closed. Both stores were not incorporated. Mr. J. H. Johnson's grocery business was also closed down.

Fairfield:—The Fairfield Grocery Co published the notification of the sale of the business some time ago. The new proprietors will assume active managership beginning today.

Palo Alto, Cal.—Robert Compton, proprietor of the grocery and tea and coffee store at 321-323 University Ave., has had the interior of his building remodeled, giving larger floor space and providing for a better display of goods. The store is particularly attractive. Mr. Compton has also materially increased his stock of goods and enlarged his force of clerks.

National City:—The grocery firm of G. B. Lott & Co. have been succeeded by M. A. G. Williams, who has long been a resident of this place.

Santa Clara, Cal.—H. S. Berry's grocery business has been purchased by Wm. M. Jacobson.

Santa Cruz, Cal.—The corner store in the Anthony block, formerly occupied by Kelly Bros.' dry goods store, has been rented by Nicholas Damascus, who will conduct therein a grocery store.

Sultana, Cal.—A fire recently destroyed the merchandise store of L. G. Uniacke. The stock of merchandise belonging to Mr. Uniacke was valued at $4,000, on which it is said there was no insurance.

San Diego:—Mr. F. N. Hamilton of the grocery firm of Hamilton Bros. has sold his interest to his brother, Thos. H. Hamilton.

Willits:—Mr. B. F. Stradley, a grocery in this place has been reported to be attached.

Ukiah, Cal.—Dan Gibson of this city and Frank Grant of Hopland have purchased the grocery store from the Lucas Bros.' Co. and will take charge next week.

OREGON.

Portland:—E. Sabin Grocery Co. have received a mortgage for $125.

Joseph:—While the firm name of Conley and McCully Grocery Co. will remain the same, it is generally understood that Mr. G. F. Conley has sold his interest to Mr. McCully.

Bend:—Mr. W. S. Mehoes, the prominent Bend grocer, has sold his business to Messrs. Scofield and Turley.

Ontario:—D. H. Burnard has discontinued his grocery business at this place.

UTAH.

Salt Lake City, Utah.—"No pay, no goods" is expected to be the motto which the members of the Buthers' and Grocers' Association will adopt at a meeting to be held this evening. It is planned that in the future the grocers shall refuse to extend credit to customers who do not pay their bills at the end of each week.

The matter was forcibly brought to the attention of the dealers a few days ago by a notice from the wholesale dealers that beginning with July 1 all bills contracted during the week will be payable the following Monday.

Stockton Grocers Meet

MERCHANTS OF VALLEY GATHER 'ROUND THE FESTIVE BOARD.

Directors of State Grocers' Association Among Those Present.

Some of the Addresses.

Necessity of Co-Operation Among Grocers Shown With Telling Emphasis.

On Thursday evening, June 27, the Stockton Grocers' Protective Association held it's sixth annual banquet. In the neighborhood of seventy-five grocers and their guests, among whom were the president and other officers and directors of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants Association, together with the Advocate's editor.

After partaking of a most excellent banquet as arranged by Billy Madden, the well-known Stockton caterer, those present were treated to a series of remarks which would make the State Grocers' Association an organization of thrice it's present power, could all concerned have been present.

The Stockton Grocers' Protective Association was formed some six or seven years ago and from the day of its organization it has been one of the strongest associations in the State. The present officers are: W. R. Senter, president; S. Rossi, vice-president; W. E. O'Connor, secretary; Directors: C. B. Pears, president; J. D. Campbell, F. W. Aubry, T. F. Knutzen and R. J. Wheeler.

The banquet was presided over by W. R. Senter, with C. B. Pearson as toastmaster. In his introductory remarks Mr. Pearson struck the keynote when he propounded the question to those present: "Can you go it alone?" He showed the absolute need of union because of increasing and high cost of labor as well as goods, rents etc.

Following Mr. Pearson the grocers were favored with an excellently well rendered solo by J. L. Whittmore of Aubry & Whittmore.

The toastmaster then introduced Mr. A. A Jost, president of the State Grocers' Association, who spoke to the toast, "Our State Organization." He said, in part:

"Something less than two years ago at the invitation of the Stockton Grocers' Association, I with many others had the pleasure of attending the State Convention in your city. I had a most enjoyable time and the Stockton Association certainly did themselves proud. The way they entertained us will always remain in my memory as one of the pleasant events which goes to make the life of a retail grocer. Here again tonight I have the pleasure of accepting the hospitality and I assure you I appreciate the honor and enjoy the opportunity of being with you. All of this has been brought about by the fact of our State Association and this brings me to the subject assigned for this evening.

"What have we accomplished?

"What are we now doing?

"What are our future possiblities?

"I wish I had the command of language to express my admiration for the president and directors who have preceded me, for by their untiring efforts they have kept the Association in line through some of the dark days and discouraging circumstances and have succeeded in establishing the State Association upon a firm foundation and its individual members see many improvements in conditions.

"A better and more harmonious and united feeling, better collections, better hours of labor, better recognition at the hands of the manufacturer and jobber, and an effort on the part of the mills and wholesalers to see that we get a better profit and surely realize the need of the same. We have a larger membership than ever before and have accomplished many things we thought impossible.

"We have succeeded in securing a number of laws which will be for the betterment of trade conditions, and we have the respect of the merchant and public.

"Your deelgates to the National Convention of retail grocers at Dallas made a gallant but unsuccessful fight on the resolution bearing on the question of the manufacturer, making and maintaining a minimum selling price on the goods he placed before the public, but the agitation is surely doing good, as it has set the merchants to thinking and acting as they have never done before and the time is not far distant when this will be a fact rather than a fancy of Paulding, Connolly and others. This Association by its united efforts has just persuaded one of the largest manufacturers of a popular comodity to name the retail prices on his goods and forbid the department stores and cutters to sell the same unless at a profit.

"Also, by a systematic campaign, forcing dishonest commission men and others to give us honest weights and measures.

"Although we have accomplished much, we do not realize what we can achieve if we only stand united and insist on what is right and just.

"Many lines of goods have advanced and to the detriment of the retailer, for his profits are less and his expenses more; so we must co-operate and with confidence in each other and in justice to ourselves. We must advance prices and profits to correspond with additional cost and selling of goods.

"Within the confines of our State so grand, extending as it does from the snow-capped peaks of our Siskiyous, from the base of whose rugged bluffs the sturdy miner continues his search for the yellow gold, to the ever-blooming gardens of the south land, where the boomer never tires of magnifying his resources and helping the large crop of tourists to separate themselves from their money; from the beautiful lakes and grand Sierras, where the weary and tired retail grocer might, should, or would (if he had the price) spend in restful quietude some of the days of his needed vacation; to the sun-kissed hills of Marin, where the studious artist and poet looks in wonder and admiration as the king of day sinks beyond the azure blue of our grand and majestic Pacific, bidding farewell to the departing day. Surely there are opportunities and possibilities which we must not overlook to be up and doing, never tiring of doing good for the sake of the dear public.

"Our next convention, which meets in Sacramento on September 10th, 11th and 12th, promises to be one of the best we have ever held and I hope most helpful, and I, on behalf of our local association, extend to you a hearty invitation to be present, and I assure you a warm welcome."

Then came Mr. Joy D. Campbell, who answered to the toast, "Points to Watch." Among others he dwelt on the Advocate's slogan, "Weigh. Count, Measure and Gauge Everything You Buy," the Pure Food Law and the "little leaks." One abuse referred to was "the failure of customers to return empty jugs, cases, cans, etc." "The advancing cost of goods must also be watched." "Watch credits—you cannot pay debts with the money on the books." "Cut out petty accounts—they don't pay—they are a loss." "Goods well bought are half sold." "Watch the little things, watch the big things—eternal watchfulness spells the groceryman's success."

"The Wisdom of Conservatism" was the toast selected for Secretary W. E. O'Connor. Mr. O'Connor made a most telling argument, his remarks being in part, as follows:

"That the policy of the Association has been one of conservatism, is shown by the disposition to maintain and adhere to our established order of business, our opposition to innovation and change is also a true manifestation of conservatism.

"The preservation and upbuilding of institutions into a state of permanency must be backed by a conservative policy.

"The story of the work of our Association its organization and its growth are but the fruits of a conservative mind.

'There can be no co-operation among the members of an organization unless the business affairs are held in line by the master hand of conservatism.

"In putting together the threads of my thoughts I see the outlines of a picture of a great commercial community wherein are located a number of merchants following one particular line of business.

"Competition and business strife has existed between these merchants for so many years that each has been led to believe that his competitor is his arch enemy. They are scarcely acquainted with their closest business competitor. They believe that every customer who tells them that he can buy 5 per cent cheaper from their neighbor, is telling the truth. They feel that they must meet any old price quoted by a customer and must open an account with almost anyone who asks credit, because if they refuse to do so their neighbor will take advantage and secure the customer. The end of the year rolls around and stock taking commences, the balances of the book accounts are struck and what does it reveal? It is found that the excess of the assets over those of a year previous are represented in long-winded book accounts, and, summing up the whole year's transactions the business has been conducted at a loss.

"One afternoon as one of these discouraged merchants sat in his dingy little office pondering over his bad debts, and wondering where he was going to get the money to meet the stock invoices now due, a thought struck him and he asked himself this question, 'I wonder if my fellow merchants will be willing to join hands with me and make our competition a little more harmonious?'

"With this question pressing him for an answer he called on his nearest competitor and invited him to call at his place of business the following evening for the purpose of talking over a little business matter. He then proceeded on to the next one and so on until he had seen several, and when the meeting time arrived he found that he had brought together more merchants in his line of trade than he had ever seen together before.

"They chatted and exchanged ideas and had a sort of heart to heart talk, and all present seemed to receive a new inspiration, and for the first time came to realize that their so long hated competitor was not such a bad fellow after all, and, like all other sinners they were on the wrong road and of necessity must call a halt and begin anew in order to meet the changed mercantile conditions. How was this new condition to be brought about? The answer came, from an association composed of all the bonifide and legitimate dealers in this respective line of trade. The neucious of this new Association was here formed and it gradually grew until at the end of one year it is found that the following results had been accomplished:

"First, Each merchant had become acquainted with his competitors.

"Second, They have established a credit rating or delinquent list and have placed thereon the names of all persons who fail, neglect or refuse to pay their just debts to any member of this Association.

"Third, They have weeded from their stock all cheap, trashy goods which it became necessary for them to carry in order to meet the competitions brought about by the former disorganized state, and have substituted in their stead, wares of good manufacture and of merit and have quit robbing their customers by baiting them, and selling them worthless goods.

"As a further result we find each co-operating with his fellow man in an effort to build up the standing and dignity of his vocation and the community in which he lives, where all that is sweet and valuable in the theory or reciprocity is to be found, and where the radical ideas of the past have been misplaced and the wisdom of the past errors has brought full-fledged that new and lasting policy of conservatism, and out of the chaotic state of radicalism that so long had full sway the peaceful wings of harmony and conservatism were now fanning the breezes of success.

"Going back some ten years and making an analysis of the grocery business and the conditions that have surrounded it during that period, I find many facts worthy of note:

"During the prosperous financial years of 1898-99-00-01, the grocers made little or no progress, and very few Stockton grocers paid their bills when due. This may seem like a broad assertion, but those of you who met your obligation had very little company; a great change has taken place. Today we find that nearly all Stockton grocers are in the very best of standing with the wholesalers. I also find that this period of good standing goes back not more than five or six years. The question that naturally arises is: 'What has brought about this change?' A review of the facts as they stand out shows that during 1898-99-00 and part of 1901 the grocers were unorganized and were like a flock of sheep without the bell wether, or a swarm of bees without the queen bee, and instead of fighting a common enemy they were only fighting themselves. In the spring of 1901 the grocers formed a mutual organization for the purpose of protecting each other, and elevating their chosen vocation from the depths to which it had sunken during the many years of misuse and abuse, with the result that now, just six years later, we find nearly every member of this organization, taking advantage of all available discounts and working along teh lines of harmony and conservatism.

"Public opinion and public sentiment is on the side of the grocers of this city, a fact which has been proven on more than one occasion. And why? Simply because every act of this Association has been a mere carrying out of the matured thought and act of a body of conservative men."

At the conclusion of Mr. O'Connor's remarks prolonged applause greeted him. His address was highly appreciated and should be read by every subscriber to this paper.

Mr. Pearson then introduced Mr. Senter, president of the Stockton Association, who spoke of the harmony and mutual confidence promoted by the association movement. He dwelt upon the necessity of team work among the grocery trade. He paid Mr. O'Connor a high compliment for his efficiency as secretary and for his remarks.

After Mr. Senter had seated himself, Mr. Frank B. Connolly, director of the National Association of Retail Grocers and secretary of the State Association, addressed those present. He dwelt upon the advantages of organization as shown by the laws passed at the last session of the State Legislature. "The National Legislature at Washington is the next point of attack," said Mr. Connolly, "and the Federal lawmakers can be won over in exactly the same way as our recent friends at Sacramento." His remarks were heartily applauded.

CANNERS FAVOR LAW.
Secretary of National Canner's Association Officially Expresses Attitude of That Organization

The crocodile tears that have been shed and the pigmy thrusts of attack which have been made upon the pure food law by certain trade journals,, which deluded themselves into a belief that they were serving the great packing and canning industries of the of the country, are evidently in vain. Here is Secretary Frank E. Gorrell, of the National Canner's Association, who has been with the executive committee to see Dr. Wiley about the law and all the terrible consequences which might come from it, expressing officially in a circular to the trade, under date of June 10, the utmost confidence in the law and its administration. He says:

"The committee believes that the policy of the Department will be liberal and its officers appreciate that if the law was strictly enforced it would mean the loss of millions of dollars to the canning trade. It is thought that if all new labels are printed to conform with the law, prosecutions will probably not be forced on those who use old labels, so long as the goods contained under the labels are in strict conformity with the Food and Drug Act.

The committee desires to express its appreciation of the courtesy, consideration and fairness which were shown its members by every officer connected with the Department of Agriculture. The members wish to impress upon the trade the importance of as early as possible making their labels conform to the spirit as well as to the letter of the law, the main import of which is to prevent falsification or misrepresentation of any kind. If tomatoes are packed in New Jersey, label the can "packed in New Jersey." if in Iowa, have the can say the truth. As to quality, if marked "fancy" see that they fully come up to this high require ment. If of standard quality do not hesitate to say "seconds." Consumption of canned goods in this country will soon quadruple if every person engaged in the business will do his part toward seeing that the provisions of this law are literally carired out."

AMUSEMENTS.

NOVELTY THEATRE.

Everybody laughs at the Novelty Theatre this week. The offering is "The Private Secretary" and Manager Frawley presents it with an unusually strong cast. The play is a classic among the comedies and is given for its full value by these clever people. The Frawley company is one of the cleverest and best balanced stock aggregations San Francisco has even known.

THE AMERICAN THEATRE.

If you want to spend an evening where your eyes are pleased, your ears are pleased and your sense of humor set to working over time without too great a strain upon your intellect, then go to see "The Broadway Review." It is now in its second week and the pretty music, dainty dancers and rollicky frothy form have made it very popular. "Mam'selle Awkins" is to follow.

THE ALCAZAR.

"A Fool and His Money" is the offering at this theatre . The story is full of incident and is full of interest both for itself and the splendid way it is presented. Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon are to appear with the Alcazar next week in "Her Lord and Master."

DAVIS THEARTRE.

"Winchester," a stirring war drama is being played at the Davis this week. It is a beautiful romance of Virginia, the time of which is fixed during the rebellion. Love and patriotism are beautifully portrayed by a very capable company, special summer prices of 10c. 20 and 30c. are now being charged.

CENTRAL THEATRE.

Herschell Mayall was "The Boy Behind the Gun" this week at the Central. It is a war drama, full of thrills and patriotism and tended to make a better American of every man and boy who sees it. The company is well cast. Next week "The Great Express Robbery.

THE CHUTES.

Once more, this big pleasure ground is open for visitors and entertaining all corners.

THE "ADVOCATE" GUAGING RODS HAVE ARRIVED!!

Send Your Order In At Once.

There is no question but what every merchant should have his own measuring instruments on which he can rely for protiction. Oil and vinegar are frequently overgauged and unless a merchant has a set of gauging instruments he cannot tell whether he is paying for oil or vinegar that is charged to him at, say 25 gallons, when as a matter of fact the barrel will only hold 48 gallons. This is a trick frequently practiced as these concerns know that few dealers have measuring instruments.

The long stick is used to determine the actual capacity of the barrel while the small one shows the amount that is lacking in the barrel. Protect yourself as many readers of this paper have, by buying a set of the Advocate gauging instruments which are sold at a normal figure. It is advisable to have two sets, one for vinegar, molasses and syrup and another for oil if it is bought in barrels as one set should not be used to gauge both oil and vinegar or molasses.

We will deliver the gauge rods to you at your store at these prices, cash in advance: 1 Guage and 1 Wantage Rod $1.45; 2 Guages and 2 Wantage Rods, $2.80; 3 Guages and 3 Wantage Rods, $4.20.

Cuts in this advertisement show both the gauge and wantage rods. Complete directions for using will be mailed free with each set.

THE RETAIL GROCERS ADVOCATE

EARL D. EDDY, EDITOR. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., JULY 12 1907. VOL. 12. NO. 27.

State Members Pleased.

Interior Grocers Tell of Good Work of State Collection Letters.

KIND WORDS FOR "ADVOCATE."

Many Dealers Will Attend the State Convention at Sacremento.

Last week we printed a number of letters from members of the State Grocers' Association.

Several of these gentlemen said they proposed to attend the meeting at Sacramento that is to be held on Sept. 10, 11 and 12, when grocers will come together from all parts of the State to decide how they can best work together and what can best be done towards bettering trade conditions.

Every Grocers' Association in the State is expected to send delegates to tell what that community wants and what it is willing to do to help. Every grocer in the State is invited to be there.

The Sacramento grocers are arranging an elaborate program of entertainment for the visitors.

We give herewith statements from some of our friends in the interior:

FRANKLIN—H. J. Lutting: "Results from the State Colection Letters are far better than we expected. I think the Advocate is the ideal grocer's friend because it is continually striving for the betterment of the conditions and profits of the retail grocer. We always check up goods we buy Sometimes we find shortages and they are always allowed."

SAN RAFAEL—F. J. Ward: "We check up goods as they come to us and have found shortages in macaroni, crackers and lard. These shortages were not allowed. We have got good results from the State Collection letters. The Advocate is a hustler, all right."

HAY FORK—C. D. Morton, Mgr. Valley Produce Co.: "If I possibly can, I will attend the convention at Sacramento. I have only sent out two of the State Collection Letters. I received prompt returns from both of them. They are better than an attorney."

GLEN ELLEN—Chas. J. Poppe: "We weigh hand measure the gods we receive when the opportunity offers. I can recall no shortage of any importance. The Advocate is all right."

CROCKETT—Booth Bros.: "We have received a great deal of benefit from the association work. We have been subscribers to the Advocate for some time and have found it a very valuable trade paper. We weigh and find shortages. We found a shortage of 13 pounds in three half cases of butter on one day. The shortage was allowed and we get no more short-weight butter. We will try to get to the convention at Sacramento."

LAWS WON

The following laws have been secured by the efforts of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association:

1. Permitting the Attachment of the wages of public officials.

2. Making a Wife's Separate Property responsible for family bills for the necessaries of life.

3. Mutual Fire Insurance.

4. Extending life of open book account to four years instead of two.

5. Making the drawing of a worthless check "with intent to defraud" a state's prison offense.

6. A fair guaranty clause in the pure food law.

POINTS TO WATCH.

Honest Butter Possible.

Commission Houses Want to Know Grocers' Desires.

WILL DO WHAT IS ASKED.

Retail Dealers Must Be Consistent and Uphold Those Who Back Them Up.

Honest butter weights interest every grocer in the country.

Individual commission men, almost as a unit, state that the grocers can have what they want.

If the State Grocers' Asociation and the Associated Retail Grocers will unite in asking that butter be put up in certain forms, it will be done. We MUST know that the grocers want a change and what they want.

This is the general statement of the butter men.

There is a price for everything.

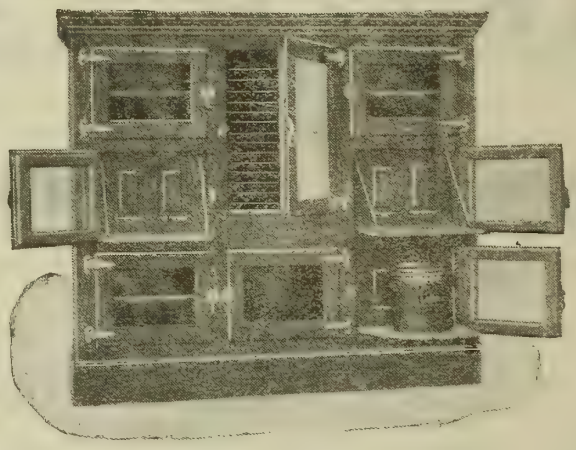
The grocers must pay for the consideration, if they want butter put up in certain forms.

First—They must themselves handle only butter put up in the prescribed form.

Second—They must REWARD the firms that protect them by buying their butter from the firms that comply with their request. (This would include punishment through loss of trade for firms that did not comply).

The butter men will not have to be whiped into line.

They will be glad to do what they feel is for the best interests of the trade and in compliance with the wishes of the grocers.



It must be remembered that the grocers themselves are to blame largely, for dishonest butter.

Some grocers ask for short weight butter and pay accordingly. They do this intending to deceive (this means "rob") their customers and also to steal some of their competitors trade by making the customers think they are being overcharged for butter.

If the majority of grocers want honest weighted butter and want it badly enough to demand it and to Give Preference of the Butter Men Who Turn Down Crooked Business, then the commission houses will gladly do their share.

The Advocate's advice to the grocers is, "Get Together! Act Together!!

THE GROCERYMAN'S TURN.

"Yes," said the groceryman to the "News" reporter as the latter carefully helped himself to the best apple in sight, "men in our line need a vacation, I reckon, as much as anybody, and possibly more than some, but it isn't always our fault when we stay home. You said a minute ago that I was looking used up and that the heat was telling on me. Maybe you're right. But just now," he went on, smiling, "I'm suffering more from shock than heat prostration."

"Suffering from shock?" questioned the reporter, scenting a story. "How's that?"

"Well," said the groceryman, as he deftly wrapped up a half-pound of butter and a yeast cake and labeled the package with the purchaser's name, "it was like this. As you possibly know, I carry a good many accounts on my books; but, as you may not know, some of them sometimes run to pretty high figures before they get collected. Of course," he went on confidentially, "I want to keep the balances as low as possible and try every means that occurs to a tired brain to get them in without driving the customers away. If he's good I want his business, but if he ain't I don't; and it is a troublesome problem to guess whether it would not be better to cut him off than to keep sending good vegetables after bad money. Well, two days ago, one of these doubtfuls came in and ordered a nice lot of things for Sunday. I took the order down myself, wondering all the time if I should send the stuff after all. When he got through he said, 'By the way, Mr. Jones, how does my account stand?'

The regular bluff(thought I, but I carefully counted up the long line. He usually asked that question, then would say, 'Just give me credit for this,' and hand over a five spot.

"'Sixty-nine eighty-three,' said I finally, after I had gone over it twice to see if it was all o. k., and was just about to add, 'and I would be very much obliged, etc.,' when he said, 'and today's order?' 'Four thirty-one,' says I, consulting the slip. 'Seventy-four fourteen altogether,' I added, to save him the calculation. He took the slips I handed him and went over them thoughtfully. I was waiting for the five, and then I was going to tell him a thing or two, when he looked up and said, 'Seventy-four fourteen is correct,' and handed back the memos with four twenty-dollar bills."

"Gee!" said the reporter, "that must have been a shock; did you faint?"

"No-o," answered the groceryman, slowly, "but I was knocked speechless. I got out his change, muttering something about being very much obliged, when he broke in with: 'I'm glad that's paid, and I guess you would be too if you knew how near you missed getting it. I had five of those twenties,' he went on; 'my vacation begins Monday, and all my arrangements to go were made. It was a toss-up whether I would take my wife and the kids to the shore and stand you off another month or two or settle up and stay home. You've been pretty square with me, if you remember. Last spring when our boy Billy got hurt and had to have that operation and quarters got to be as scarce as dollars in a church collection I came around to stand you off. Instead of making a fuss you said, 'Why, certainly, that will be all right, Mr. Blank; let the account stand.' Then came my vacation. I went and you stayed home. Well, coming out on the train I got to thinking it all over. I had made up a yarn to give you instead of the cash, but somehow I couldn't be such a hog. I thought it's only fair to divide with you; you go this year and I will stay home. The kids will be disappointed, I reckon, and so will the wife,' he added, after a pause. 'Everybody on our street is going or has gone somewhere, but we'll have to stand it. I couldn't stand your reading in the "News," Mr. and Mrs. Blank, of Blank avenue, will leave Monday for a two weeks' sojourn at the seaside, and then mentally add to yourself, while Mr. Jones, the grocer to whom they owe seventy-five dollars, will stay home.' "Do you know," went on the groceryman, "that man had my nerve I started to say something about half the bill would do, but he wouldn't hear me. 'Don't tempt me,' he broke in; 'I feel better already.' And then, as he turned to go, he added, with a whimsical smile, 'It's your turn this time, but next year look out,' and with that he was gone."

"Are you going?" said the reporter at length, as the groceryman paused to get breath.

"Get your pencil out," answered the other, "and I'll give you a news item."

"Mr. Jones, the well-known grocer, will leave Monday with his family for a two weeks' outing at Santa Cruz." "I think," he added, "I'll have to go away to recover from that shock, and besides I think my friends would like to see that item in print."—S. P. Levis, in the Lansdowne News.

SUGAR.

The local refineries have failed to announce any move in either direction with respect to their product, the tendency being towards advances sooner or later.

New York, July 3—Willett & Gray report:

The week.—Raws: Declined .04c. Refined: unchanged. Net cash quotations this date are: Molasses, 3.085c; Centrifugals, 3.5835c. Granulated 4.85c.

Raws.—The notable feature of the week under review is the somewhat mysterious weakness of the European markets for beet root sugar. After holding unexpectedly firm and steady during the long selling of the Cuba crop at prices much below the beet parity, the markets abroad have suddenly developed a declining tendency without giving reasons therefor, which foreshadows a coming together of

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co., report under date of July 8, 07:

"The market is very stiff on all grades showing an advance of ⅛ over last quotations. We look for prices on Japan rice to advance 50c. per bag before the new crop is marketed. Cable advices from Japan note an advance of 20 points."

New York, July 2d.—Dan Talmage's Son's Co., report:

Demand for the week has been good.

Advices from the South note quiet and strong market on the Atlantic Coast. Crop conditions are favorable. At New Orleans, market is very strong almost nothing offering, the small reserve stock being heavily drawn upon to supply imperative demands. Crop conditions in the Southwest are regarded as encouraging: a few forward sections report normal outlook, but the general crop will be late.

Cables and correspondence from abroad note firm markets, particularly on spot deliveries.

COFFEE.

C. E. Bickford, reports under date July 3rd.:

"The arrivals of Canal American coffee in this market for the half of this year are in excess of those up to the same period of any previous year by about 40,000 bags. The deliveries are also above the average of former seasons, although June business has been light. Buyers have only been interested in offering when tempted by unusual concessions from quotations, and the constant pressure on the part of Importers to market their holdings, has steadily weakened prices. Even under these conditions trading has been listless and dealers buy only for temporary requirements.

"The Brazilian crop year just ended, June 30th, shows unprecedented receipts, nearly 19¾ million bags, coming down to the shipping ports, with an unknown quantity still left in the interior. This is 4¼ million bags in excess of the previous record crop of 1902-03 and 9½ millions larger than last year's.

"The purchases for account of the Brazilian government under the "Valorization Plan" to some 8 million bags, are now said to be ended, the purpose of caring for the surplus from the enormous crop just ended having been fully and sucessfully completed to that extent and to this time.

"This stock is to be held in reserve until the needs of consumption require its use, which in the calculation of its holders may be within another year, or possibly two, since in their opinion Brazil is now entering into a sucession of crops below the world's requirements. The key to the immediate future therefore, would appear to be the crop just beginning, estimates of which have been put forth as low as eight and as high as fourteen millions."

DRIED FRUIT.

The Dried Fruit industry of California, stands to-day threatened with absolute annihilitaion, because of the possible action of the Secretary of Agriculture at Washington, by which the amount of sulphur in drying fruit is to be limited to 35-1000 per cent. Should this ruling be made, it would mean the practical distruction of the dried fruit industry of this State, so far as peaches, apricots, bleached Thompson's and bleached Sultana raisins, applies pears and ruby prunes, all of which fruits are sulphured. Every grocer in California is directly interested, because the making of such a rule would make it illegal to even possess fruit containing a greater quantity of sulphur than that named. Mr. Griffin of the Griffin-Skelly Co. is now in Washington making a fight for the whole State of California on this question. It is the duty of every grocer to call the attention of every fruit grower they may be acquainted with, to the danger which confronts the industry. Telegrams should be sent to Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

There is no known substitute for sulphur and there is no known instance where any of the medical professors or body of scientists have ever found or in any way intimated that California dried fruits were not healthy, nutritious, and a safe article of diet. ACT TO-DAY.

Los Gatos, Cal., July 9.—Los Gatos Cured Fruit Co., report:

The Apricot crop is as near a failure as possible. The Canners have bought what few they could get at about $100 per ton. A very few will be cured and a choice grade in 25 lb box will have to bring about 26 to 27 cents per lb to play even on the Canners price for green fruit.

"Peaches have been much sought after by the canners and at prices, that a grower to come out even by drying would have to ask at least 12 to 14c for his cured product.'

PRUNES.

Quotations in this line are without change since our last report. The situation remains extremely firm in all Pacific Coast producing districts. as well as in all buying centers both in Europe and in the U. S.

The Santa Clara Co. Fruit Exchange estimates the crop of California prunes this year at from 95,000,000 lbs to 100,000,000 lbs. This is a very high estimate and very few think it will be reached.

Referring to prunes in a recent letter the Griffith Durney Company say: "All of the really best sizes, that is the medium sizes of prunes, can at the present writing be retailed at 10 cents without any difficulty. Prunes at even a 5-cent bag basis of price would leave many of the medium sizes at a point where they could still be retailed at 10 cents. Experience has demonstrated that the article of food that can be retailed at 10 cents per pound is the one that moves the most freely, and where there is but one that can be sold on this basis the demand is always enormous. There is no possibility of either peaches or apples getting down to a point where they can be retailed at 10 cents during the season of 1907 and 1908. We would not be at all surprised before the season is closed, in the light of conditions as we can see them now, if prunes finally reached the point where some of the medium sizes could not be retailed at 10 cents. We cannot help but conclude, in the light of these conditions that there is a better chance for the trade to make a profit on prunes bought at the present basis of price than on either peaches, apples or any other item on the list."

Griffin & Skelly Co., report:

"So far as prunes are concerned, the situation could not very well be stronger. As we have already advised you, it is very apparent that the carryover of 1906 goods will not be any more than enough to take care of the trade during September and October, when it is impossible to get new goods to their destination. As a natural consequence, when new goods reach their destination, they will be in strong demand and not affected in the least by the 1906 goods that the trade have previously received. The crops of prunes in this State are very much below normal. It is difficult to say just what the percentage will be. Of course, that cannot be determined until the crop has been harvested, but so far as Santa Claras are concerned it is not apt to be over 30 per cent of what it was last year. The outside districts will all run short. The demand, both foreign and domestic, has been very large and not in the least speculative so far as we can see up to date. While there has been a large amount of prunes sold to the domestic trade, we are unable to see that they have bought more than their early necessities, which leave the probabilities of a later demand very strong. Prunes at the present basis of price are the cheapest article of evaporated fruit there is on the market."

Los Gatos, July 9.—Los Gatos Cured Fruit Co., report:

"Prunes to-day are higher that at any time since 1892 and it looks as if the high prices have come to stay for this season at least. The crop of the world is away below the consumptive requirements. Europe is already in the market for supplies to cover the short crop in her territory. The crop here is one of the lightest in many years. Many growers reporting that they have so few that it will hardly pay to gather them. Of course this applies only to certain section, but it is certain that the harvest will be of short duration in all producing sections. As far back as six weeks ago two of the large packers became convinced of the shortness of the crop and placed their agents in the field with instructions to buy everything in sight and they did. This actually of course ran the price up until 5c. and even 5½c. per lb. was paid the growers for the our sizes, but even at this price prunes are about the cheapest thing in the fruit line to-day. It is reported that parties have unloaded freely to the jobbers on a basis of the prices to the growers and what then is left unsold bids fair to bring even better prices than those asked to-day."

RAISINS.

California Fruit Grower" says:

The market on raisins is a little firmer in some lines and quotations a bit off in others. To be specific, seeded are somewhat firmer in that practically every one who is quoting at all now is doing so on the basis of maximum quotations, and 9c. for fancy 16-oz. is about the only figure heard of at the moment. The situation is that seeded are practically sold up on October-November capacity, and the trade has put in liberal orders. But little new business is or can be done just at present. Buying values in the country rule as firm as heretofore. Some slackening off, however, is noted in quotations on loose goods, and 2-crown Muscatels and seedless in most varieties are not quoted at quite such high values as a week or two ago, although the difference is but slight. Quotations on bleached Sultanas, northern goods, are announced as follows: 8c, 8½c and 9c for standards, choice and extra choice respectively.

DRIED PEARS.

It is now becoming evident that the coming pack will be very light owing to the short crop. The rains and floods last spring prevented the proper attention being given to the fruit in many districts, with the result that blight made great headway.

NUTS.

There have been no developments in this line for some weeks with the exception of continuel strengthening of the market.

CANNED FRUIT.

California Fruit Canners' Association report under date of July 10th:

"The packing season has thus far verified our previous advices given you. Cherries and apricots of the raw products, as well as other materials, has no particular significance, for comparatively few of them have been packed and, of course, few of them can be sold. Peaches and pears are costing more than we would like to see them, but the failure of Eastern crops has made a strong demand for green fruit, dried fruit, and canned fruits of all kinds, and there is every indications of another clean-up, such as we have had the last two years.

"Prices have been named on tomatoes and have apparently met with the approval of wholesalers and retailers. The price is very close to manufacturing cost and there is every indication of a firm advancing market throughout the coming year."

In the absence of quotations on new pack from the California Fruit Canners Association there are no changes of moment to note. There seems to be a strong belief that the Association will name prices at an advance of 10c. to 15c. per dozen above the opening prices so far made in canned peaches and apricots of all grades, including standards, seconds and fruit in water. The Association appears determined to wait until the last moment before quoting figures.

California Canneries Co., report under date of July 8:

It is very difficult to give the outlook for California Canned Fruits, excepting to say that prices will be higher than they have been for many years. It is not a question this year of selling the goods, but rather one of supplying the demand, hence everything in the line, Tomatoes included, will rule from 10 to 25 per cent higher than last year. This is caused not only by the demand, but also by the high prices on raw materials, and everything else that goes to making up the canned fruits."

Griffin & Skelly Co., report:

In a letter to their Eastern brokers the Griffin & Skelley Company of San Francisco say that the season of 1907 will go down into history as about the most unsatisfactory for the operators in California products that has ever been known; at least, if the bal-of the season is as unsatisfactory ne conditions prevailing up to date been. After quotations were e, while the prices seemed to the ers to be high, much to their sure the jobbers bought freely and kept buying, forcing the packers the country to cover their sales urchases, and finally resulting in farmer becoming absolutely unageable.

icago, July 3.—The Western can-corn market, according to the ago "Canner," continues to act in rdance with the wishes and ex-ations of the packers; that is, it inues to stiffen. The market is er than a week ago, particularly utures, on which packers take a ng view. As a rule, Western can-are not anxious to sell more fut-
, not that they, in general, have racted very heavily for 1907 corn rather because the situation as res the crop is not flattering, while acreage for the county is less than year. A good many packers have drawn offerings of futures.

BEANS.

lolf Koshland, report under date
uly 9, 1907:

ne bean market is at present in a steady position.

uring the past few months there been advances in the price of , Lady Washington, and Pink s.

he present prices are being well ntained, and higher quotations should be looked for in view of fact that we shall most likely only a short crop of beans in State of the colored varieties.

ne present price of Lima beans is a very high one, and while it may go still higher, I cannot consider Lima beans a speculation at this price.

"The new crop of Lima beans at the present time certainly promises to be a record breaker. The acreage is great, and the present conditions of the plant are very good.

"In view of this, lower prices for Lima beans will rule this Fall.

"The acreage in Small White beans is a full one, and if nothing unwonted happens, we should have a full average crop of this variety. The prices may rule a little below the present figures.

"In view of the fact that there is a good demand for beans right along, the consumption of this article having grown in the last few years, and realizing that beans are now cheaper than Potatoes, and that Potatoes will be pretty high this Fall, dealers in general expect that the price of beans for the coming crop will rule on a somewhat higher basis than for several years past."

Los Angeles, July 6.—One competent authority places the probable output of Lima beans in California this season at 750,000 bags providing favorable weather conditions rule from now on. As July and August are sometimes trying months with this crop, it is early yet, however, to predict.

HONEY.

Riverside.—Reports from bee men throughout this section indicate that the honey crop this season will be in excess of that of last year, but not nearly as large as it should be for a normal season. One great reason for this is the cool spring, which has kept many of the flowering shrubs from blooming at the usual time, Bees as a rule are in excellent shape, however, and the bee men are generally quite encouraged with the outlook for the balance of the season. Reports from the central and northern parts of the State as to the crop this season seem to differ. Some reports indicate that the crop is a very short one, while others state that the prospect is for a large output.

ONIONS.

A new record price was set for onions in this State a few days ago when $2.77 a sack was paid San Joaquin growers on a wholesale basis. It is predicted by some commission men that the price is liable to reach $3 before the second crop is ready for shipment.

PICKLES.

Reed Pickles Works, report under date of July 8.:

"The year just past has been a most remarkably successful business year for us. The output of our factory has been far greater than the capacity. At this time the market is practically bare and supplies in the pickle line are almost exhausted. It has been quite a difficult task to get goods enough to supply the demands of the trade.

With the advent of the fall our new goods will be ready and we will be in a much better position: Although the cost of raw material this season is greater than ever. The outlook for a big crop is good.

We are making preparations to increase our factory and tankage, and pack a much larger supply than ever.

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, July 2.—B. O. Bowers Co., say:

On account of the scarcity of fish and high price of oil, there is a possibility that packers may advance prices. The market is firm at present.

Last year the packers were buying oil at from 35c to 37c per gallon delivered at packing points. This season they are paying from 60c to 62c per gallon, which makes an increase in the cost of production of about 25c per case. The cost of cans has also advanced about 10c per case, and fish are costing just double what they did one year ago.

Taking everything into consideration it is costing the packers nearly $1 per case more to produce a case of one-quarter oils to-day than it did one year ago this time. Some of the scarcity of fish for the past ten days.

New York, July 5.—According to advices received from Eastport the supply of sardines fish is still light, the pack to date amounting to only about 150,000 cases, a little more than half of which has been shipped on contracts.

SALMON.

The situation in spot red Alaska salmon is exceedingly strong in all parts of the United States. The shortage has become so great in eastern markets that something like 15,000 cases were purchased in Liverpool for consumption in this country, last week The eastern conditions are reflected by the markets here and jobbers are quoting a $1.25 per dozen.

SHRIMPS.

Canned shrimps are becoming extremely scarce.

SALAD OIL.

New York, July 3, 1907.—Aspegren & Co., report:

Market the past week has been very dull with almost nothing doing, being up a little one day and down the next. We expect the market to continue dull for quite sometime to come with occassional small advances or decline.

IMPORTS OF LUXURIES.

Over 100 million dollars was sent out of the United States in the fiscal year 1906 in the purchase of luxuries. This total of 100 million dollars' worth of luxuries imported includes, according to the records of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, over 40 million dollars' worth of diamonds and other precious stones; about 40 million dollars' worth of laces, edgings, embroideries, and ribbons; about 7 million dollars' worth of feathers, natural and artificial; over 6 million dollars' worth of champagne; and the remainder miscellaneous articles, such as perfumes and toilet articles, smokers' articles, and opium for smoking. If to this is added the value of tobacco, cigars and cigarettes imported, the total will reach 125 million dollars. This grand total of 125 millions dollars, including tobacco and cigars in this class, is more than double the imports of similar articles a decade ago, the total for 1896, for the articles above named, having been 51 million dollars, and in 1906, 125 millions. Tobacco and cigars, if included in this category of luxuries imported, form one of the large items in volue, aggregating nearly 27 millions in 1906, against about 19 millions in 1896. Champagne imported in 1906 aggregated over 6 million dollars' value, against about 3½ millions in 1896.

TEMPERANCE PEOPLE HAVE BOYCOTT PLEDGE.

Agree Not to Patronize the Grocers Who Sell Intoxicants.

"We pledge ourselves, each to the other, that with the help of God, we will buy goods and merchandise only from those who, to the best of our knowledge, do not sell intoxicating drinks.

"And, while we will work to secure the signatures of as many honest persons and Christians as possible, let us free ourselves from the liquor dealers in place of enriching them."

This pledge is being freely circulated in Berkeley and the temperance people say that they expect the plan to work many benefits. The purpose of the pledge is two-fold. It is intended to show the town trustees that the temperance people do not want any change in the present liquor law and that they are ready to push the power of the "boycott" to the final extreme to keep liquor selling out of Berkeley.

The pledges are being circulated in Oakland and other parts of the State as well as in Berkeley. W. W. Clark is one of the leaders in the "boycott" movement. All hotels, grocery stores, drug stores and similar establishments that handle liquor in any way are to be tabooed by those who sign the pledge.

Ft. Smith Refrigerators—Cold and dry.

There is a great deal more in proper display than some grocer's seem to think.

YOU ARE ALWAYS SURE of a sale and a profit if you stock SAPOLIO. You can increase your trade and the comfort of your customers by stocking at once. It will sell and satisfy.

HAND SAPOLIO is a special toilet soap—superior to any other in countless ways—delicate enough for the baby's skin, and capable of removing any stain.

Costs the dealer the same as regular SAPOLIO, but should be sold at 10 cents per cake

Strictly Cash.

Successful "No Credit," "No Delivery" Grocery Firm Tells How It Was Done.

My brother and I worked for a man in our home town in Iowa, I as a clerk and he as delivery man in a grocery and market. Our employer had made a success of his business in this town of about 12,000 and was comfortably well off.

But in spite of his success he always was complaining of two drawbacks to his business—the credit system of selling and the custom of delivering goods.

In this age of telephones, when the housewife can order her groceries and meats, it would seem that it were impossible for a market of this kind to succeed without delivering the goods, but there are fully as many people ready to declare that it is as impossible to conduct a store of this kind on a strictly cash basis.

And yet it has been done and with most satisfactory results. At the time our old employer decided to retire from business my brother and I, being out of work and having saved about $2,500, decided to embark in a business of our own, but as we were going to try new methods and conduct the business along original lines, hoping to profit by some of our employer's experiences, we did not wish to take his old business nor even his old stand.

We decided that we would risk our little capital in an effort to conduct a business from which the two elements of loss of which we had heard so much complaint should be eliminated. In other words, we would deliver no goods and would sell for cash only or keep the goods on our shelves.

We came to this decision after mature deliberation and after many consultations with our old employer, who was much interested in our experiment and who gave us much advice.

We went into this business and adopted these methods, fully realizing that in doing so we would have to lose a certain class of trade, which we could otherwise hold—and some of this was desirable trade, too—but we reasoned that we could hold out inducements that would bring and hold other trade which would more than offset this loss.

The loss by bad accounts, the expense of books, bookkeepers, collectors, horses, wagons, delivery men, etc., were, of course, estimated from our own observation and the experience of our former employer, and with his help we figured about as follows:

Bad debts	$1,200
Bookkeeper and collector	800
Saved on books, bills and other stationery and printing	100
Deliveryman at $40 per month	480
Interest on cost, wear and tear on horses, wagon and harness	125
Feeding and shoeing horses, repairs on wagon and harness	250
Barn rent	30
Total	$2,985

We secured a room which had never been thought of as a location for a grocery by any one but ourselves. We considered the location good. The room was convenient and light, the rental reasonable, but not as low as we could have rented as large rooms for in other locations.

We put $2,000 into the business at the start, holding a reserve of $500 in the bank.

As before stated, we had determined to give our customers the advantage of at least a large part of what we were saving by our elimination from our business of these two elements of loss, and so we stated in all our advertisements, both in the newspapers and on cards placed conspicuously in the store and sometimes in the store windows so as to show on the outside.

We aimed to put this reduction on all of our goods, but we were careful to show a leader every day, in staple lines, which we brought to the notice of every one who came into the store and most of those who passed and even to the readers of the daily papers, employing methods which are well known to all progressive dealers.

The business was a success from the start, even more of a success than we had ourselves anticipated. We had been told by nearly all of our friends that it could not be made to pay. Even the wholesale house of which we bought our goods was doubtful. But as our bills always were discounted and increasing in size and numbers, this house was converted to our way of thinking before the year was out.

We realized in attempting to do a strictly cash business that most of those who had tried it before us and failed—and most of them did fail—did so because they could not refuse an old friend or a member of a prominent and wealthy family credit when asked for.

Knowing this, my brother and I determined that we would show no friendship, no rich, no poor in this connection and had spent considerable time in discussing methods and in formulating arguments with which to refuse requests for credit and yet hold the customer.

One incident in our experience is interesting in this connection, also in its relation to our moving to a larger city at the time we did.

Dr. B. was a prominent and well connected citizen of our town, an old friend of ours, and had bought goods of us for years when we were clerking. He had patronized us some in our new store, always paying the cash and taking with him purchases.

But one fatal day he came in, ordered a few groceries put up, then, as if he were in the habit of buying that way every day, he started to leave the store and said, "Just make a ticket of that."

Seeming, however, to remember the conditions, he hesitated at the door, and it became my duty to talk with him and to finally refuse him the goods on those terms, which I did with the best front I could put up.

After listening attentively to all I had to say Dr. B. sat in sober thought for several minutes, got up, and, extending his hand, said: "You are right about it: the credit business is a curse wherever you find it. It is a curse to him who gives and to him who receives. Hereafter I will pay the cash for what I buy, and if I were a young man starting in my profession again, I would break away from the ethics of the profession and select a specialty, advertise, and collect my fees in advance."

At the end of our two years' experiment we closed out our stock in Iowa and opened up on a much larger scale in Colorado Springs, conducting our business along the same lines of our first venture, and we still are of the opinion that this is the only way to do business after one year of success in our new location.—W. S. Longshore in Chicago Tribune.

Clerk's Corner.

A kindly, encouraging word to the clerk now and then goes a long way toward helping make the business pay. It makes the clerk a better workman, gives him more enthusiasm and more desire to so employ his time and talents as to make them of the most value to his employer. An employer who treats his clerks kindly and encourages them now and then will have willing, ambitious clerks. The employer who is constantly grouchy and never has a kind word for his clerks will knock their employer, behind his back and they will knock each other. They will not have the interest of the store at heart, and, no matter how good a business man the head of the concern may be, this condition of affairs amongst the clerks is bound to make itself adversely felt in computing the earning power of the store.

In this connection we do not advocate free and easy relationship between the head of the concern and the clerks, although this condition of affairs is bound to obtain to a greater or less extent in the smaller store of the country town. While the employer should always be just and kind and deal courteously with his clerks he should always be able to maintain his position in such a way that familiarity cannot be too easily bred. There is a wide difference between friendliness and familiarity. The employer should make his clerks feel that he is their friend, but, at the same time, he should so carry himself as to always maintain the exact status of employer and employe.

The man who is cranky and grouchy with his employes usually adopts the plan with a view to getting more work out of them and of keeping them in fear of him. It is possible that he may succeed in installing a fear of the loss of their positions in the breasts of their employes, but that is all. He loses their respect and he loses their best earning ability. The just man who treats his clerks fairly and kindly is the man who will get the best return for the amount expended in wages, be it large or small.

Have you ever realized how much the success of your store depends on your clerks? They sell your goods—or not. They boom your reputation—or turn it away. They swell your profit sheet—or become a tax on you. They are either an integral part of your success—or thorns in your business flesh. What can you do to improve your clerks?

A great deal. You know that, after all, they are human plants who will surely improve under wise cultivation. Won't it pay better to develop them than be forever scolding or changing, or "firing" them?

There is a way out of the difficulty—a difficult way for both employer and employe, but it is the surest way to success for both. Create in your clerks the desire to know not only the price, but also the merits and practical value of every article in your store. Knowledge of this kind is power. It fits him to sell goods intelligently, easily and profitably. Such intimate knowledge of everything in your store from cellar to garret gives him a bearing that makes friends of all your patrons who naturally will turn to him because "he knows his business."

Such intimate knowledge of your store and its contents makes him a sure business getter and business builder, as well as a cheerful worker, and not only a comfort to all with whom he deals, but a strong factor in the prosperity of your business. Such knowledge makes him conscious of the power it gives him over every purchaser, will develop in him the spirit of trust, energy, order and high purpose, and his service to you will grow in value every day. He will become indispensable to your customers and your business.—The Southern Merchant.

THE TRADE JOURNAL'S PLACE.

Here is what William L. Terhune says of the trade journal's place:

"I have been asked how the trade paper stands between the manufacturers and buyer; and if I were to answer the question in a single line would say: "It is the best salesman the manufacturer has."

"There are many salesmen who, if they are not ready to agree with me that the trade paper is the best salesman, are perfectly willing to concede that it is the best assistant salesman. I have known of many cases where a salesman representing a shoe manufacturer who was advertising in my journal has been able to approach the retailer, who was already acquainted with the goods through these advertisements, and these salesmen have but little trouble in showing goods and taking orders; for it depends only upon the salesman in such cases where his line is a well advertised one, and is well known to the man whom he is approaching as a customer.

"The trade journal is the direct medium of communication between producer and buyer. In order to be so, it must have a circulation among the class of people it is desirable to reach; and the way to do this is by publishing a journal which is of so great a value to these buyers that they cannot afford to do without it. Articles of a technical nature, full of information and instruction, the news of the trade, a certain amount of personal gossip, and able editorials on the prominent business questions as relating to the particular trade, are among the main things which will make a trade journal valuable to its clientele; and when once the right kind of matter has given a paper a circulation among the right class of people, the question of obtaining advertising is practically settled. If the paper is read thoroughly for its practical value, its advertisements cannot help being read; for they generally contain exactly the information which wide-awake, go-ahead merchants need in order to keep posted on the market and what is offered, and therefore what they can buy to advantage to sell to their customers."

SNAKES IN INDIA.

Snake bites occur frequently in India, and they are generally inflicted by venomous snakes, like the cobra. Last year there were reported 21,797 deaths from snake bites, and it is believed by well-informed persons that the deaths reported from this cause fall 50 per cent below the actual number. The official report covering thirty years averages about the number of deaths from snake poisoning annually as that reported for 1906. The report says that "the returns are probably not very accurate." Rewards are offered in most provinces in India for the destruction of snakes, but experience has shown that this measure does not have any appreciable effect on the mortality from snake bites, and the total amounts so paid are small.

The medical officers employed at the research laboratories in India are engaged in investigating and testing the antivenomous sera and other curative agents which have been suggested, and a system of treatment of affected persons by permanganate of potash, suggested by Sir Lauder Brunton, is being tried in some provinces. The use of permanganate of potash is that employed in connection with the lancet. A sufficient quantity of the crystals for several treatments is carried in the handle of the instrument and is always on hand in case of a bite, and the person bitten is prepared on the instant to cut open the part affected and to introduce the required amount of the potash.

FOOD SHOW FOR SPOKANE.

Manufacturers of pure food produc all over the United States will be invi ed to make displays and demonstr tions at the mammoth show planne by the Spokane Retail Grocers' Asso ciation and the 150,000 Club of Spo kane in Spokane the second and thir weeks in November.

The associations embrace a territor of 150,000 square miles in Easter Washington and Oregon, Norther Idaho, Western Montana and Soutl eastern British Columbia, and it is pre dicted that the show will be the bigge success of any of its kind ever pre esnted in the Pacific Northwest.

The grocers have entered into contract with J. W. Dean of Detroit, t put on the show, and in addition to h presentation there will be displa by Spokane manufacturers, as well a those in various parts of the Inlan Empire.

The grocers will be represented o the joint committee by E. N. Cor Thos. A. Gallangher and B. A. Smitl the 150,000 Club by F. W. King, pres dent, and Fred H. Gaston, secretar while the retail dealers will have C H. Hinke, chairman, Secretary Carbar and several other members. It is like the show will take place in Spokane state armory recently compited at cost of $100,000.

Spokane, Wash.—Spokane Reta Grocers' Association entertained it members and friends in royal style a its ninth annual excursion and picnic, June 19, in Blackwell's Park, Coeur l'Alene, Idaho, thirty-four miles east of Spokane, where more than 5,000 persons were asembled. The trip was made in express coaches over the Spokane & Inland Electric Railway Company's lines and there was not a mishap to mar the pleasures of the day. One of the big things on the card was a baseball game between teams representing the Spokane Flour Mill and the Powell-Sanders Co., the latter winning in seven innings by a score of 4 to 3. Following this were games and sports. The executive committee were composed of C. Anderson, E. E. Parmeter, J. E. Silbaugh, S. B. Crandall, E. K. K. Allen and E. N. Cory, the judges of the contests being A. W. Bower, John McGonigle and L. C. Brown.

Spokane, Wash.—The Benham & Griffith Company, wholesale grocers, for 20 years on Railroad Ave,, has moved to new quarters on Washington St., where a two-story brick building has been erected, covering a floor space of over 52,000 feet, at a cost exceeding $50,000. The structure was to have been completed May 15, but owing to delays has not yet been finished. The move is necessary, as large consignments of goods now in transit may be handled there, the old place being inadequate. The warehouses are situated conveniently to the railroads, and have been arranged to handle large quantities of goods with a minimum of labor.

WAITING FOR SANTA FE TRAINS.

Could I cash the time that is lost, by Gee,
A waitin' on trains on the Santa Fe,
This state wouldn't see any more of me
For about a fourth of a centuree.
I'd take a trip across the sea,
And I'd own for a year, gay old Paree.
Could I cash the time that is lost, by Gee,
A waitin' on trains on the Santa Fe.

The agent'll say, "I'm sorry to state,
That number six is four hours late."
We need not mind, for their regular gait
Is bein' behind, I'm here to state.
The traveling men as they wait and wait
For the passenger for the local freight,
Grow old, and gray, and more sedate.
There's much more I could enumerate.

Lost every station along the way
Gets out the band and makes 'em play,
When a train goes through as the timecards say.
The little children cease their play,
The cattle low, and the horses neigh,
The pigs all squeal, and the donkeys bray,
When a train's on time on the Santa Fe.

One day last week, old farmer Bain
Rushed in from the field, and said,
"Hey, Jane,
It's a dead sure cinch it's going to rain,
For here comes that old two-ten train,
And, be gohr, the thing's on time again;
That's twice this week, or I'm insane."
But his wife replied, "You give me a pain;
That thing you see is last week's train. —L. G. Dooley.

JUNE PROSPERITY.

California Promotion Committee Give Out Very Encouraging Statement.

Progress in California has been specially marked during the month of June. Reports received by The California Promotion Committee from all parts of the State indicate steady growth from which is eliminated all boom aspects. The fifty thousand home-makers who came to the State during the Spring season have located themselves, and this enormous influx of people has had material effect on general prosperity. From all interior and coast cities reports show greatly increased building operations.

With the coming of fruiting season demand for farm labor has vastly increased, and from sixteen to twenty thousand men and women can find immediate employment throughout the State. In all cities where are located canneries, packing houses and other factories, female help is in great demand. Farm help can find steady employment in California during the entire year at greatly advanced wages over those paid in the East and Middle West.

Crop conditions throughout the State continue good, with high prices for products prevailing and Eastern demand greater than heretofore noted.

In San Francisco industiral conditions are rapidly improving. The settlement of labor disputes is gradually coming about.

With the closing of the month business in San Francisco showed great improvement, bank clearings being specially strong, and showing heavy increase over similar weeks of the two preceding years.

The following summary for June shows California conditions:

San Francisco building permits, $3,916,450.

San Francisco building permits, $3,916,450.

San Francisco building permits since the fire, $73,497,842.

Los Angeles building permits, $1,493,279.

Oakland building permits, $448,570.

San Diego building permits, $1,136,850.

San Francisco real estate sales, 625; value, $1,922,346.

San Francisco bank clearings, $177,307,227.96.

San Francisco bank clearings, June, 1905, $148,312,795.94.

San Francisco bank clearings, June, 1906, $132,149,341.46.

Los Angeles bank clearings, $51,457,221.

Oakland bank clearings, $11,495,511.75.

San Jose bank clearings, $2,395,935.52.

San Francisco Customs receipts, $668,176.17.

BUSINESS CHANGE.

NStockton, Cal., June 30.—The interest of R. L. Quisenberry in the grocery firm of C. V. Thompson & Co. has been purchased by A. E. Gordon, who has been in the employ of Hammond & Yardley. Quisenberry has purchased the interest of G. H. Snell in the East St. Foundry, which is soon to be removed to N. Sacramento St.

Notice is hereby given that the grocery business of M. L. Bearce, located at 1432 10th St., has been sold to Hortman & Busch.

Dated, June 28 1907.

J. Blumline of Sussman, Wormer & Co., returned to his desk a day or so ago, after several weeks' absence in the East.

Getz Bros. & Co. have embarked in the wholesale grocery business and have joined the Wholesale Grocers' Association.

Haas Bros. are reported to have determined on the corner of Sacramento and Davis streets as their site for a permanent building.

Miss Mae Preece, the charming young stenographer of S. & W., is enjoying a vacation at Petaluma. No doubt she rises with the chicks. We all wish her a happy time, but might add, as a word of caution, "beware of summer flirtations."

Those who do most in the world are those who love most.—Elbert Hubbard.

Estimating four persons for each child in San Francisco up to the age of 17 years, the compilation of School Supt. S. W. Beckett gives this city a population of 363,828. The final figures show that there are 76,589 white children of school age. In 1906 the school census showed a school attendance of 101,000. The total of all children in San Francisco up to the age of 17 years is 90,957. Last year there were 120,000. On the census figures the city this year will receive as its apportionment from the State $523,750 for the support of the schools, whereas last year it was about $750,000.

Success is getting up after one has fallen.

Those who have none worry without it.

Silence often shows more character than speech.

Many a man's nervousness is due to his lack of nerve.

What's the use? Those who have money worry about it.

There is nothing in this world more industrious than a lie.

The doors of business can not be closed upon reliability.

Speak evil of no one, and leave wicked names to the wicked.

Besides taking a wise man to make money it takes a one to keep it.

If you would expect promotion make your work attract favorable attention.

This is an absolute fact—You must advertise or go under. Which would you?

It is not the part of wisdom to stand on an unfriendly footing with other men.

Make your employers interest your own and you will never have occasion to complain.

Give the good goods the floor and the center of the stage and then turn on the light strong.

Success is planting a new tree in the place of the one destroyed by the tempest of yesterday.

Success is bracing up the shattered mast and patching the torn sails and keeping on toward the harbor.

Success is beginning the construction of a newhouse while yet the ashes of the old one are smouldering.

Get after the profit. Make something on every article you sell, and push hardest on the goods that pay best.

Success is planting a new crop of corn the next morning after the first had been cut by the frost of springtime.

Success is putting up the fence thrown down by the wind of last night before the stock has done damage to the growing crops.

Vacation time is at hand. A vacation is not a luxury to be onjoyed only by the rich, but is a profitable investment for anyone.

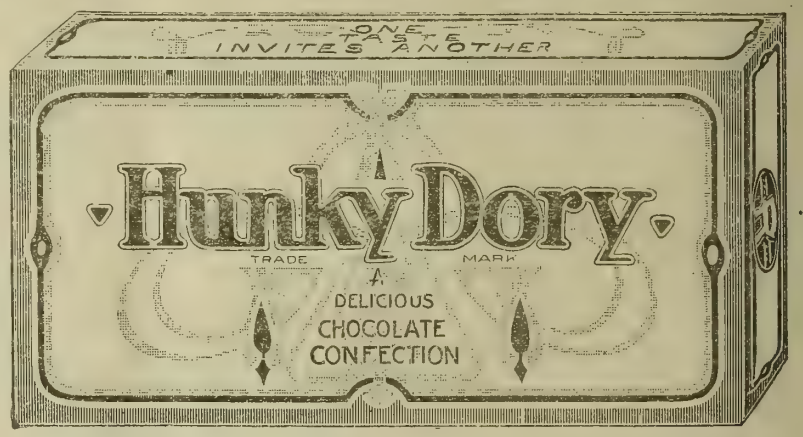
Whenever you find a quality grocer, one who preaches quality rather than prices, you can make up your mind that man is a merchant.

Don't try to reform the clerk who kicks and gets sore when asked to do something "he wasn't hired to do." Your efforts in that direction will be wasted. Just "can" him.

"It is the unfailing law of trade and of nature that nothing is ever given away. You pay for everything you get, and when you borrow you pay big for the privilege, not only in peace of mind but in money."

Pay good wages to your clerks. Remember that you do not give something for nothing and you cannot expect other people to do differently. It is poor economy to pay ten dollars to a six-dollar assistant.

There is greater need of absolute cleanliness in the grocery store nowadays than ever before, for the people are better educated in regard to sanitation and hygiene and know the dangers of eating either unclean food or products coming from a dirty store.



Gold is a wonderful clearer of the understanding. It dissipates every doubt and scruple in an instant, accommodates itself to the meanest capacities, silences the loud and clamorous and brings over the most obstinate and inflexible.

Success is ever to be found close to the line which divides loss from gain. Sitting down on the wrong side of this line makes men failures. Bravely looking over to the other side and bending the last remmant of strength to get there changes the word failure into success.

It is moral courage that characterizes the highest order of manhood and womanhood—the courage to seek and to speak the truth; the courage to be just; the courage to be honest, the courage to do one's duty. If men and women do not possess this virtue, they have no security whatever for the preservation of any other.

Are you patronizing our advertisers? Display counts for more in the store than the average retailer give it credit for. Foodstuffs sell much better when they are shown. Modern store fixtures are designed by men who thoroughly understand how important it is that goods in cans, bottles, jars, and even in bulk, be properly displayed.

The California Fruit Canner's Association has just closed a quarter of a million deal in Tulare county buying the Kuhn orchard of 1,060 acres near Farmersville. The purchase price includes this year's crop, which will run close to $100,000. The orchard consists almost entirely of peach trees and with peaches ranging from $50 to $65 a ton for canning and 12c. a pound dried, the product very quickly runs into money. This is one of the biggest transactions recorded and is in line with the present tendency of the packing companies in acquiring producing property.

The Retail Grocery Clerk's Union has been organized with fifty charter members and the following officers: President, Frank M. Burke; vice president, Charles L. Brown; recording secretary, Philip J. Walcott; financial secretary, Harry Fredericks; treasurer George Cheney; sentinel, P. J. Donovan. First Vice President, Max E. Licht of the Retail Clerk's International Union, installed the new organization as a branch of the national body.

One Portland grocer made $30,000 net in eight years in a small neighborhood store. He takes his family for a tour of Europe this summer. We asked him to tell us how he had made such a success. The answer was, "I sold everything at a profit. Looked up every man's credit before I opened an account for him and sold every one of my customers their tea and coffee." There's food for reflection.

PACKAGE GROCERIES HAVE COME TO STAY.

The Grocery Business Is In a State of Evolution and Has Been for Some Time.

The grocery business is in a state of evolution and has been for some time. The tin can, glass jar and oiled paper are the overturning influences acting upon the old-time grocery trade. The customer at retail wants his goods delivered to him in a package. The manufacturer and jobber in "straight" goods encourage the idea. The retail grocer finds a simplified business, a cleaner, surer profit, and the minimum of time and labor in dispensing these package goods to his customers. It is the age of the illustrated, printed package in the grocery business, and, with the introduction of one package to a new line of commodity, the grocer feels the pressure of demand for packages for half a dozen other lines that have not been adapted to box, jar or carton.

Seriously, as well as in the comic papers, prunes always have been associated with the grocery store. Fifteen years ago, when a grocer in a big city bought his prunes, he got them in a tremendous packing case weighing many hundred pounds, and stamped with the hieroglyphics of the Turkish growers and custom ports. With the coming of the American prune and raisin the handy packing box is coming assuring the customer cleanliness, freedom from insect ravages and the undertoriorated flavor of the fruit.

Sanitary Era in Groceries.

Without doubt cleanliness and sanitation have been the greatest forces leading to this evolution of the package grocery store. The consumer, with his knowledge of germs and their menace, his disposition to fear adulterants, and always his repugnance against the unnecessary handling of the things he has to eat, caused him to lead, rather than follow, the idea of the package, with the name of the packer stamped upon the outer covering. This acknowledged source of a packed commodity carried an assurance with it which no grocer's parcel in brown paper ever had given the customer. Then, in the same measure, this same package relieved the dispensing grocer of the authority for its excellence. With only these things in favor of the package the evolution of the grocery business was made plain.

But in a hundred other ways the old-time grocer, looking on at the package business in the modern grocery store, may see where his old methods were more than archaic by comparison.

The grocer selling in packages, first against the inaccuracies of the average clerk who handles weights and measures. This clerk is not a scholarly, systematic man. He may be tired out late in a long day. If he makes a mistake on the scales and gives out too much he cheats the house of profits; if he weighs too little he is almost as likely to antagonize the customer and lose the trade for his house. At the best, and at all times, the customer, looking on, expects to see the scale register the proverbial "down weight," and this may mean one pennyweight or two ounces—all depends upon the clerk or upon the clerk's mood and attention.

Freed From the Errors of Clerks.

Thus in weighing alone the proprietor in a grocery store dealing along the lines of case goods, never was certain that even the law of averages would keep him on the right side of reasonable profit. The eleven eggs in a bag which should have held a dozen; a pound of crackeds, full weight, but with half the squares broken, and dog-eared; a parcel improperly wrapped, which on the way to a customer would burst open, spilling half the contents—these conditions in the business of the old-time grocer left him especially open to the suggestion of the package trade.

Heavy Loss on Bulk Goods.

Considering the old-time grocery store, it might be said that three-fourths of all the goods he handled in bulk were subjcet to a ligitimate loss in weight, and to this extent a deterioration in quality and flavor. But this illegitamate loss that came first through a short count from the jobber and later through the petty shoplifting of the loafing ,inquiring, but non-purchasing "customer," was a terror to the average small grocer. These losses made his business as much a guess as the package trade makes it a certainty.

It may be set down as certain that if ever the package grocery ceases for any reason to exist, it will be against the strenuous, hard fighting of the package grocery keeper. When package groceries have evolved to include every line handled by the gropackage grocer will have the simplest, cer — if that shall be possible— the surest business in the world. It will be possible then for him to make an almost absolute statement of his condition of business every night in the week. How shall this be possible?

In the first place, he will know almost at a glance what his sales for the day have been. He will know that neither more nor less has been handed out to a customer than the package paid for has guaranteed. He will have got the packed commodity at a certain fixed price, and it will have been sold at the fixed retail figure beyond any reasonable chance of mistake. And with all of this in favor of the packed commodity, the whole business of receiving the goods into the house, the displaying of it, the handling of it to the delivery wagon, and the final dumping of it on the kitchen table of the customer will have saved the grocer at least one-third of the time of his working forces.

Chance for Progressive Grocer.

Under the present conditions of the grocery trade there is opportunity for the wide-awake, active grocer to anticipate some of the coming certainties in package development. He may have a certain bulk goods which he knows are up to his standard of quality. He is assured that his customers will be glad to have the commodity in a staple package, if even he have to put his own name and address upon the wrapper in identification. For instance, bulk prunes of good quality may be sold to the consumer for 14 cents, giving a clean, sure profit of 5 cents on every package handled.

Naturally as the neatness and general appearance of a grocery package mean much in the sale of its contents, the general tendency of the package commodity will be to enforce tidiness and display of goods to every advantage on the part of the grocer. Goods that a few years ago were in boxes barrels and bales which served to litter up the best kept store now are placed on shelves down the side of a store-room and in the front windows, dressing the room attractively and at the same time doing as much as the salesman can do in suggesting purchases for the customer who ha his eyes about him.

Name Must Carry Guarantee.

Package goods carrying the name of the producer or jobber or retailer are the goods par excellence of the present and of the future. The guarantee of the packer must go with every package. This is an implied condition upon which the customer will insist. A man may go to John Smith's grocery store and buy a commodity from a bulk case, taking it home to find it distinctly second-class. Yet he may use this commodity to the end of its common brown bag, unmarked, while if the stuff had been in a cardboard carton bearing the name of John Smith, the goods would have been reurned with indignant protest.

It is in handling the package goods that the grocer finds his protection against the operation of the food laws. Goods coming in an original package from the manufacturer or his agents, and sold in that package by the retail grocer leaves the grocer free of legal entanglements if th egoods shall have been ndulterated. If goods are bought in bulk and weighed and sold by the grocer at retail, the customer finding short weight or adulteration, has recourse against the grocer.

Spice Trade Proves Point.

No plainer showing of the responsibility of the firms packing groceries can be shown than has been marked in the spice trade in the last fifteen years. In 1890 at least 65 per cent of all spices were sold in bulk, much of it was ground, and even more of it adulterated. Today virtually all spices are in packages, ground, and in the grinding and packing and labeling of these spices the public has its chief assurance that it is getting the best that the market affords. Few people today would buy ground spices from a bulk can, and nobody who buys his whole spices with the intent to grind them himself can feel that he is getting any better commodity than is served in packgaes by a responsible manufacturer of spices who expects to remain successfully in business.

Packages Come to Stay.

Package groceries have come to stay. Cleanliness, sanitary precaution, and celerity in the retail business will insist upon the retention of the package. And because of this demand for package groceries the pro-

A QUESTION?

Did it ever occur to you, as a retail grocery reader, that the advertisers in the "Advocate" are helping to make your business less hazardous?

Well, they are!

How?

Well, you see the "Advocate" belongs to the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, and every dollar the paper clears above expenses goes to assist in the unquestioned good work that that organization is doing for your business.

Therefore, advertisers in this paper are placed in the position of indirect supporters of the grocery association movement which is growing with such rapid strides all over the United States.

Is it not your bounden duty to support with all the purchasing power you have at your command, every advertiser in the "Advocate"? If you want to help your business to succeed, buy your goods of those firms who are proven friends—the evidence you can find in our columns.

McCarthy Brothers, wholesale dealers in coffee and tea, are preparing to erect a large four-story business block on their property on Front Street. At present the company occupies a temporary shack, which was the first to be erected after the fire along that street. On another part of the ground is the wooden building occupied by Chas. F. Thierbach & Co., also dealers in tea and coffee. In August the latter will change location to a permanent building, and McCarthy Bros. will commence the erection of their permanent structure. At first only half will be built, on the place now occupied by Thierbach, and as soon as that is habitable the McCarthy people will move in and start work on the rest of the building. In this way they will save moving twice and renting other property. The new building will be of brick with a steel front, and is expected to be the finest structure on the street. Half of it will be leased to other parties, the coffee men occupying the rest.

DAVIS THEATRE.

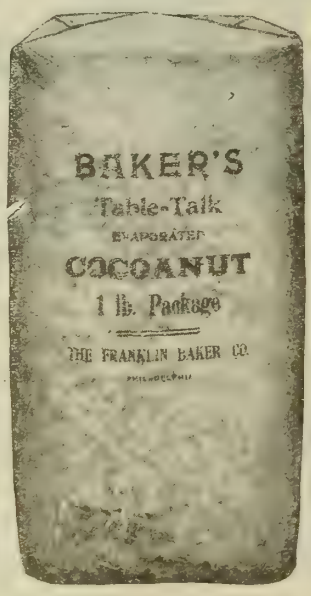
"A Mother's Sacrifice," a melodrama dealing with material devotion and telling a story of cruel wrongs corrected and virtue rewarded, is being produced at the Davis. Next week Darrell Vinton will once more appear in San Francisco where he was a great favorite some years ago. His initial appearance will be in a revival of "Francisca di' Rimimi."

A CLEAN STORE.

"One thing about Mr. Stone's store is that it's clean. Go in when you please, and you'll find it clean. You'll find his stock clean and his clerks clean." This was remarked of a somewhat old-fashioned grocer, who is successfully competing with several modern rivals. And this remark was true. He had no modern fixtures, no new ideas, but just a clean, old-fashioned grocery. The cleanliness of the store was his chief trade-getter. It was his only aid to a successful competition with his more modern brethren. His shelves were clean and his stock was clean, and that's all there was to it. It was the secret of his success.

While we realize that it is the exception and not the rule in these days to find a store that is not kept up in pretty passable shape, still we know that there is considerable room for improvement along the line of system, order and cleanliness in many stores.

If your store floor is not scrubbed out at least once or twice a month you are not as cleanly as you should be—once a week would be better; although I have seen pretty respectable storekeepers who did not think it necessary to scrub the floor oftener than once or twice a year. If your entire stock and the shelving is not dusted at least twice a month you are not as cleanly as you should be—once a week would be better and many stocks are dusted once a week. By this dusting I mean taking the goods from the shelves and thoroughly brushing or wiping and wiping the shelves before replacing the goods; of course a store and stock is dusted in a general way every day.



I have seen a neat, refined lady come come into a store and ask for some kind of package goods, and when the clerk took the package from the shelf it was so dusty that his finger marks showed plainly. He wiped the dust from the package with his hands and then wiped his hands on his coat or pants. The lady next wanted some dried fruit, and the clerk, without taking time to wash, and instead of using a scoop, clawed right into a box of evaporated applies with his grimy hands. I wondered if that lady would ever patronize that store again in the grocery line.

We're Compelled to Use the Best Nuts.

There is as much difference in cocoanuts as there is in apples. We could make a good bit more money—for a while—if we would put a lower grade of nuts into

Baker's Cocoanut.

But if we did that we couldn't guarantee Baker's Cocoanut to keep its sweetness and color. So we have to use the best grade of nuts to protect our guarantee, even if there were no other reasons.

Do you see any Green in her eye?

"This is what I want"

Not much—Mr. Grocer.
She's the up-to-date housewife.
She's the woman who does the buying.
She knows what she wants, and
She despises an imitation.
She knows that every other so-called "corn flakes" is an imitation of

Kellogg's---the ORIGINAL

TOASTED CORN FLAKES

Our extensive advertising campaign is educating her to ask for Kellogg's; to look for the signature on the package, to refuse a substitute. AND SHE WILL. Then the quality—the delicious flavor; the quantity—the new large package, is bound to hold her to Kellogg's. Isn't this the person you want to cater to? Under the circumstances do you see how you can profitably handle anything but Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes? It will only be a matter of a very short time until there will be but one corn flakes—that will be Kellogg's. And the dealer who loaded up on imitations will have more worthless stock left on his shelves, as he did in the days of that wheat flake deluge.
A glance at the situation should make clear why you should stick to the genuine Toasted Corn Flakes. When you order be sure and specify Kellogg's.

THE RETAIL GROCERS ADVOCATE

EARL D. EDDY, EDITOR. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., JULY 19 1907. VOL. 12. NO. 28.

Will Attend Convention

RETAIL GROCERS SAY THAT THEY WILL HELP THE WORK ALONG.

Members Praise the "Advocate" and Tell of Its Splendid Values.

It was because the grocers, by getting together in a convention once a year, learned how to work together, that they got the laws needed by the trade through the legislature.

It was when the grocers got together in a convention that they learned how they could pull together to help the man who helped them get a profit. It was this movement that is giving several thousand of them a profit such as they never got before. got before.

It was by getting together in convention that the grocers of the smaller communities learned that they would get the help of the rest of the grocers of the State to stop any wholesaler or manufacturer from selling to people who would otherwise buy from a retailer.

Of course, the Advocate helped in these things. It also helped make the Associations.

Another convention is to be held at Sacramento on Sept. 10, 11 and 12. The grocers of that city are going to give the delegates the time of their lives. The convention will enable grocers to discuss many problems and decide on many additional things they can do.

With almost no funds, the State Association, has worked wonders. With funds, they can do much more.

Every grocer is invited to attend.

Every grocers association is entitled to send delegates. Where there is no association the grocers can attend as individual members.

Can YOU come?.

If you can, write and tell us about it.

Here is about what some of the Advocate readers say:

Placerville, J. W. Limpinsel:—"I expect to be with you in Sacramento in September. I have been affiliated with the State Ass'n now for about 4 years and it was through the knowledge I received in this way of the value of organized effort, that I helped in organizing our local association. Your collector has got bad accounts for me several times. I have been on the subscription list of the Advocate almost from its infancy. We feel that it has made it possible for us to work together to make our influence felt at the legislature and with the trade. The Advocate is the best grocery paper. I have seen and I have read several. It suits me. I sometimes check up goods and have found shortages which were always made good.

Bloomfield, B. Colburn:—"I would like very much to attend the State Convention at Sacramento. If I can possibly get away, I will be there. I have not had occasion to use the collection letters as yet. While I generally check up everything I buy, I find few shortages except in re-packed goods (groceries and hardware) these shortages have always been made good. The Advocate is one of the fixtures of my business. It is the means

LAWS WON

The following laws have been secured by the efforts of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association:

1. Permitting the Attachment of the wages of public officials.

2. Making a Wife's Separate Property responsible for family bills for the necessaries of life.

3. Mutual Fire Insurance.

4. Extending life of open book account to four years instead of two.

5. Making the drawing of a worthless check "with intent to defraud" a state's prison offense.

6. A fair guaranty clause in the pure food law.

POINTS TO WATCH.

SEE PAGE ELEVEN

Do you Weigh, Count, Measure and Gauge Everything You Buy?

Read Below the Results of Four Months' Investigation.

OVER THREE HUNDRED GROCERS HAVE REPORTED SHORTAGES.

Forty Different Commodities Sold "Short" to the Poor Grocer.

When we opened the columns of the Advocate to the statements of grocers who had checked their deliveries, we did not anticipate that the number or magnitude of such reports would aggregate the number stated above.

It appears that eternal vigilance is the price the grocer must pay if he would stop the proven leak which exists.

It seems incredible that jobbers and first hands generally are leagued together in an attempt to defraud the grocer.

The grocery wholesalers, as a class, are the friends of the retailer. Yet, regardless of this fact, shortages recur with never-ending regularity.

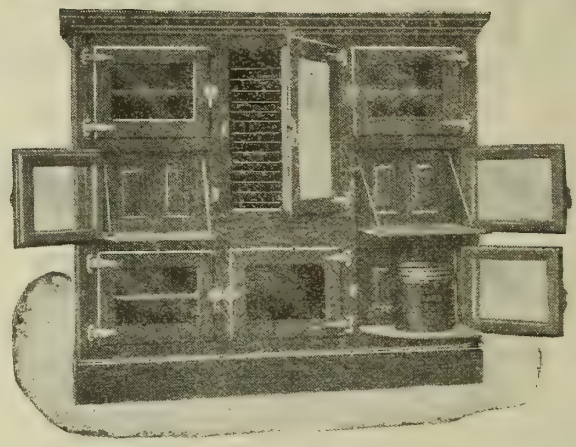
Who is in fault?

The retailer should not be forced to feel that unless he weighs, counts, measures and gauges everything he buys, he will lose money.

The various local associations, as well as the State Grocers' Association, stand ready to do their part in correcting the evil.

What will the jobber do?

If the manufacturer from whom the jobber buys his goods is the culprit, cannot he not be punished by loss of business and by other means even more drastic?



Note:—On March 15th the "Advocate" published its initial article advising the retail grocery trade of California to "Weigh, Count, Measure and Gauge Everything You Buy.". The result of four month's work is given space below.

Four months' investigations shows:

Butter — Frequently two ounces short per square. Over 150 grocers have complained about this evil in the columns of the "Advocate."

Boneless Herring — Supposed to contain ten pounds net to case, fre-

NEWS NOTES.

Office Purchasing Commissary, U. S. Army, 1006 North Point St., San Francisco, Cal., July 12, 1907.—Sealed proposals, in duplicate, for furnishing and delivering on or about August 20, 1907, subsistence stores in accordance with specifications and conditions set forth in Circular No. 3, War Departme Office Commissary General, Washington, D. C., February 12, 1907, will be received at this office until 11 o'clock A. M., July 22, 1907, and then opened. Information furnished on application. C. R. KRAUTHOFF, Major, Commissary.

Members of the Jobbers' Association and the Potrero Improvement Association having learned that the Interstate Commerce Commission had abolished the toll of 5 cents a ton on freight brought into this city over the coast line, will prepare another contest against the railroad company to have discontinued by the Interstate Commerce Commission a charge of 20 cents a ton on freight unloaded into the company's freight sheds. The decision of the commission means a saving of $100,000 a year to the shippers, while the unloading and loading charge amounts to $500,000 annually. James McNab and the J. K. Armsby Company have been the most active opponents of the latter charge.

Eugene O'Neill, the popular buyer for Haas Bros., has been sick for several weeks. He is said to be on the road to recovery at this writing.

Over 100 saloons in San Francisco have failed from May 15th to June 15th. Only one-half of that number are right failures, while the rest are in the hands of receivers. The saloon-keepers, proprietors of breweries and the wholesale liquor merchants assert that the failures are directly due to the strikes and industrial disturbances.

ASSOCIATION NOTES.

Secretaries of associations are invited to send reports of meetings or items of news of their organizations for publication under this heading. They should be forwarded as early as possible.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION PROGRESS.

Meeting of the National Board at Chicago Brings Out Reports of Progress.

Wednesday, June 26, the members of the National Association held a meeting in President Kramer's room in the Great Northern Hotel, Chicago, at which time the matter of changing the date of the National Convention was taken up, and after reviewing the correspondence and the general attitude of the membership in regard to the change of date, of holding the next National Cnovention at Boston, to May 11, 12, 13 and 14.

The question of finance was taken up by the board, and Secretary Green was instructed to send a bill for per capita to the several associations based on the membership of last year.

Other matters of importance to the trade were thoroughly discussed. President Kramer reported Mr. Schillcutt organizing in Arkansas; E. R. Moore organizing in Georgia and Alabama. The secretary reported North Carolina doing effective work through the attorney general of the association, N. H. Johnson. The State of Iowa keeps a man continually in the field; effective work is being done in Minnesota by J. J. Ryan, secretary of the State Association, and Secretary J. A. Green in the last ten weeks, covered seven States, three of which were newly organized, and one of which it is hoped to organize in the near future.

Other States are doing effective work, and the outlook as reported at the meeting is of the most encouraging character.

J. A. Green,
Secretary.

SWINDLER FOILED.

Woman's Wit Saves Oakland Grocer From Loss.

Oakland, July 11.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferrari, proprietors of the grocery and fruit store at 509 San Pablo Ave., were selected as victims of a bunko man Tuesday, but his plan failed.

Early in the afternoon a man called at the store and purchased some fruit and potatoes, saying he would go with Ferrari to show him the house where the goods were to be delivered. After riding a few blocks, he made an excuse to leave the wagon and return down town, asking Ferrari as he left to write down his name on a piece of paper, as he might want to purchase some more goods later, at the same time giving him a bogus address for the delivery of the goods.

Ferrari wrote his name as requested, and a little later the man appeared at the store and told Mrs. Ferrari her husband wanted $5, showing her the signature, with "$5" written above it. Mrs. Ferrari, however, refused to take bait, saying she had only $4 there, and if her husband wanted money he could come after it.

The man left and the police were notified, but too late to catch the fellow. A description was given, however, and the authorities are keeping a lookout for him.

There are hundreds of merchants who have a large portion of their capital on their books and are afraid they will offend those who owe the money if they ask for it as if they really wanted it. Timidity of this sort is a mighty bad quality in the make-up of a retailer; but it is a mistake to let too much of your capital get on your books, or stay there if already on. You need your capital in your business; therefore, make the delinquents square their accounts.

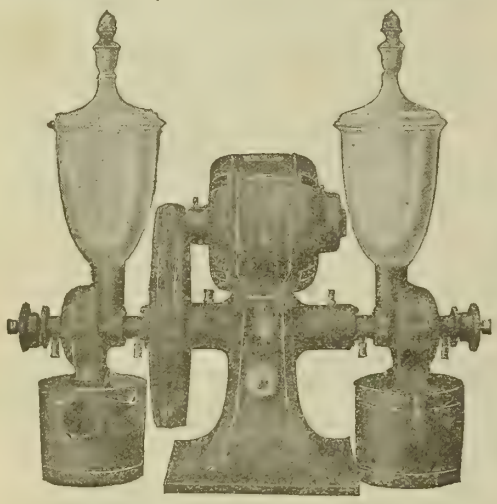
Clean, Sharp-Cut and Nail-Eating Features

Ideal Tea Company, 17-19 East Santa Clara Street,
San Jose, Cal., Mar. 14, 1907.

Frank F. Wear, Oakland.



Dear Sir: Have been using coffee mills for over 20 years and had experience with nearly all of them. Always wanted one a "little better" for the mill is a great factor in maintaining coffee trade. Our last purchase was one of your No. 2121 Hobart's and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the best we have seen. Are particularly pleased with the clean sharp cut of the granulating burrs, something we have always wanted and never found so near perfection as in our Hobart.

We "press the button," the Mill does the rest—and does it right, and its nail eating qualities stand alone. Would not consider ourselves up-to-date without it.

Respectfully yours,
C. M. SHELBOURN,

AGAIN IN STOCK.—

Royal Baking Powder; A. and H. Soda (both sizes.)

SUGAR.

As predicted in our "Points to Watch" column for some weeks, the refineries advanced their quotations 10c. on the 13th inst. We think that further advances are apt to be made within a short time. The demand is becoming very heavy. The New York situation is daily becoming stronger.

TEAS.

Cables received from the Orient are uniform in reporting a firm market and high prices in all sections. Cables were received during the week from China and Japan and Formosa and it appears that a large business is being done at very high figures. This state of affairs will make itself felt in this market in due time.

RICE.

As predicted in our "Points to Watch" column during the past 60 days, the market in this line continues to advance, the past week showing an upward movement of ¼c. in Japan rice and ⅛c. in Carolina styles.

M. Phillips & Co., report under date of July 18:

"The market has again advanced ¼ on all grades of Japan Rice since our last quotations. Stocks are thinning out and with no available supply before new crop next October we look for a further advance shortly. If the railroads do not make any better time in bringing freight through this season than they did last, it will be the end of Oct. and probably Nov. before new crop is offered on this Coast.

"All grades of Carolina rice are firm and show an advance of ⅛.

"There were a few small shipments of New Crop Island rice which arrived on the last steamer. These goods are attractive and should find ready sale."

New York, July 9th.—Dan Talmage's Son's report:

Demand for the week has been active, covering all grades and coming from widely distributed territory. Assortments are light, both of Honduras and Japan, hence full figures are being obtained. Present conditions may be emphasized by comparison of stocks past few years: Carried over into New York Crop:

Aug. 1st. 1903 50,000 pockets; 1904, 1,200,000 pockets; 1905, 750,000 pockets; 1906 400,000 pockets, 1907 practically nothing.

In 1903 (the year when supply was similar to that of to-day) prices, it will be remembered; were as full and on Japan sorts, higher than at present.

Advices from the South note quiet market on the Atlantic Coast. Offerings almost nil and general attention is attracted forward to the growing crop, which, unless untoward weather intervenes, promises an enlarged yield as compared with last year. At New Orleans the market is strong: offerings light and held at full prices. In the Interior Southwest Louisiana and Texas, but little is doing except watching the growth of present season's planting, reports from which, are, in the main, favorable.

Cables and correspondence from abroad note active market with hardening features.

DRIED FRUITS.

The local dried fruit market is quiet at this writing, these conditions having been brought about by the hot weather now existing in the Eastern states. Buyers are away on their vacations and little business is being done. As soon as the market again grows active, there is no question but what advances over all present quotations will be noted. It would be well to purchase during the present

Sacramento.—In a telegram to Governor Gillett, Secretary Wilson says that he does not believe that the California fruit drying process will be affected by the new rule forbidding the use of sulphur, the intimation being that the new order applies only to the entrance of sulphur directly into the make-up of food products. The secretary adds that the rule has not yet been signed by all of the departments by which it must be before it goes into effect, and that he will be glad to receive Mr. Griffin as a representative of California and conduct a hearing.

CANNED FRUIT.

We publish herewith the 1907 list of the California Fruit Growers Association.

We have made analysis of the prices named in the table printed herewith as compared with those of last season. By studying same the reader will observe that every variety of fruit as well as every size shows a material advance in price. The figures in this analysis represent the increase in cost of each item as compared with the prices quoted last year. There is every reason to anticipate further advances and we cannot urge grocers too strongly to book their orders at once.

This analysis should be carefully read and stocks in hand at the present time, of last seasons pack, should be advanced in price accordingly.

That Eastern buyers are not taking kindly to the price named by our Canners is evidenced by what The Chicago correspondent of "The Trade" of Baltimore, says about handlers of canned goods in that market. "They were astonished and somewhat disgusted by the enormous advance in prices by canned fruit packers, and though many of them confirmed their contracts made subject to approval of price, some did not, and a guerrilla warfare will be waged by several strong houses that are generally in line. These houses hold that consumers cannot and will not pay the prices for canned fruits made essential by the advance of about 33 1-3 per cent on the average over 1906 and 1905, and state that they do not propose to carry their usual stock at such prices. A determined warfare will be waged against these firms by several strong houses., which claim that packers have exceeded the bounds of reason and good sense in their foolish competition among themselves, resulting in heavy advances in green fruits."

FIGS.

In quoting prices on new crop California figs, one of the larger packers stated that the scarcity and high price of labor have made it necessary to curtail the large variety of styles in which figs have been put out in the past. The list in this line has become very complicated of late, each jobber having his own ideas as to styles of package. and the present tendency is toward a curtailment in this line and a standardization.

Advices received advance quotations 5c. a pound all around on 1907 crop figs. Choice or bricks is now held at 70c. and fancy at 75c. f. o. b. Fresno. Layers are quoted f. o. b. Fresno at 70c. for 4s. and 80c. for 3s. in 10-lb boxes, while the f. o. b. prunes or bulk figs are 4¼c. for standard 5c. for choice, 5½c. for fancy and 4¾c. orchard run, in 50-pound boxes.

HONEY.

A report from southern California says that the exceedingly hot weather of the past few days has made serious inroads upon the honey crop. The sudden change in the weather has killed many bees and induced others to keep indoors. with the result that honey making is at a standstill at the very time when it should be at its height. As a whole the crop for the season is a disappointment and it now looks as though the crop would not turn more than half a yield. One estimator puts the production for southern California at 3,000 tons.

Conflagrations which swept the country around Elsinore last week worked great damage to the bee-keepers of that section by destroying the bee feed. Hard fights alone saved the apiaries from wholesale destruction, although about fifty stands were destroyed. Most of the bee men lost some material.

Ventura.—The season's honey crop is harvested, Bee men had hoped to continue the havest for several weeks yet, but the weather of the past week has settled the honey question for this season. The flowers have dried up and the bees will not be able to gather any more of the nectar. McIntyre reports his season's work done. He has harvested about 500 cases of strained honed, which will net him about $3500 for his month's work. This is about one-half of the crop of two years ago. Other honey men report about one-half crop.

PRUNES.

In our last issue, we published a review of the situation in this line as sent us by the Los Gatos Cured Fruit Co. It appears that our compositor failed to correctly interpret their report, and we are re-publishing same below with proper changes made therein. ;

Los Gatos, July 9.—Los Gatos Cured Fruit Co., report·

"Prunes to-day are higher that at any time since 1892 and it looks as if the high prices have come to stay for this season at least. The crop of the world is away below the consumptive requirements. Europe is already in the market for supplies to cover the short crop in her territory. The crop here is one of the lighest in many years. Many growers reporting that they have so few that it will hardly pay to gather them. Of course this applies only to certain sections but it is certain that the harvest will be of short duration in all producing sections. As far back as six weeks ago two of the large packers became convinced of the shortness of the cron and placed their agents in the field with instructions to buy everything in sight and they did. This activity of course ran the price up until 5c. and even 5½c. per lb. was paid the growers for the four sizes, but even at this price prunes are about the cheapest thing in the fruit line to-day. It is reported that packers have unloaded freely to the jobbers on a basis of the prices to the growers and what there is left unsold bids fair to bring even better prices than those asked to-day."

RAISINS.

The situation in this line is unsettled . Eastern interests are trying to scare the California Growers and packers by telling how cheaply they can import the Spanish fruit. There may be something in this argument, and if such goods are landed in New York and Philadelphia at the prices they claim they can be, there is apt to be a slump in the high values now ruling.

It is claimed that every pound of raisins that can be seeded in October has been sold. The same condition applies to quite a per centage of the November seeding capacity. There is a report of a break of ½c. in sweatbox valuations, which it is claimed will eventually cause a decline in the packed and seeded fruit.

It looks as though the growers and packers had better go a little slow instead of trying to gobble up everything in sight. There is a limit to the price that the trade will pay for any piece of goods.

CANNED CORN.

Packers in all parts of the East and Middle West are withdrawing quotations on futures and are not at all anxious to book further business. It is claimed that everywhere the out look is for a short pack; 1st, on account of greatly reduced acreage, and 2nd, because of the cold, wet spring and the resultant delaying of the crop causing danger of early frost in the fall destroying a large part of it before it matures sufficiently to can.

Jobbers here are naturally being influenced by these strong reports from the East and are inclined to advance quotations.

CANNED TOMATOES.

The California Fruit Canners Association recently made prices on their 1907 pack and jobbers are now selling on the basis of 87½ to 90c. for 2½ lb. standards and $2.75 for gallons. There is every indication of advances in these quotations and readers will do well to secure their requirements at the figures quoted above.

BEANS.

There are no startling developments in this line, although the Lima bean market has shown some strengthening in the last few days.

EVAPORATED MILK.

We are informed that the situation in this line is again tightening up and stocks are becoming short once more. We have been advised to warn the trade of the conditions so that they may protect themselves accordingly.

LINSEED OIL.

We are reliably informed that linseed oil will advance shortly.

CAVIAR.

Weiland Bros., report under date of July 18th:

Caviar is now being sold in our market at a lower price than it can, be landed here at present. Dealers should take advantage of the situation and lay in stocks. Prices in the "Advocate" are based on present actual values but we are still selling our supplies in this line at lower prices.

VINEGAR.

Owing to the higher cost of manufacture, vinegar is programmed for a sharp advance within the next 30 days.

PICKLES.

All local pickle packers advise us that prices will be advanced within the next few weeks on their line of manufacture, owing to the increased cost of every article which goes to make up the finished article. Labels, bottles, cases, labor, barrels, cucumbers etc., are all much more costly than last season.

SAUERKRAUT.

Owing to the high cost of all factors used in the preparation of this article, the price on same will suffer an advance shortly.

SALMON.

Local jobbers are quoting red Alaska ones at $1.20, Sockeye halves at $1.20, ones flat $1.90, Alaska Pink 95 c.

DOMESTIC SARDINES.

New York, July 9,—B. O. Bowers & Co., report:

Factories have been practically idle for the past week on account of sacrcity of fish. No change in prices.

There has been an enormous demand for roll top keys owing to the scarcity of this style of package.

FRENCH SARDINES.

New York, July 12.—Mail advices are to the affect that the outlook for the French sardines fishery was more encouraging, as while few had been caught at Les Sables and Olonne to date of writing, the fish had been sighted in considerable quantities on the Coast, and with settled summer weather a good catch was expected. However, it was added the movements of the fish have so often in the past falsified the most confident predictions that it could only be hoped that the near future holds a pleasant surprise for those who have waited year after year for the good time that has been so long in coming.

SALAD OIL.

New York, July 11.—Aspegren & Co., report:

The market continues exceedingly narrow so that any little circumstance may easily affect the prices one way or another. As a whole market continues very dull and uninteresting.

HAY.

Somers & Co., report under date of July 16:

The market has shown some reaction during the past few days on account of lighter receipts, and some grades have advanced 50 c. per ton. As was expected right along, it is all waiting at many sections for a later market. The immediate future af the situation depends entirely on whether or not transportation facilities will keep our market over or under supplied. We give present prices as follows:

Choice Wheat Hay	$17.50 to 19.00
Good Wheat Hay	14.00 to 17.00
Other grades same	9.00 to 13.50
Wheat and Oat	9.00 to 16.00
Tame Oat	9.00 to 16.00
Old Wild Oat	8.00 to 11.00
New Wild Oat	8.50 to 12.50
Stock Hay	7.50 to 9.00
Alfalfa	8.50 to 13.50
Straw, per bale	.45 to .85

THOSE COLLECTION LETTERS.

State Letters Help Merchants Get Money Without Cost.

A very clever set of these collection letters is supplied members of the State Grocers' Association. Members who have used them all say they are money getters and money savers. They collect the money and the member doesn't have to pay 20 per cent.

Here is what a few members say:

Frank B. Connolly:—"The letters are great, what I have saved in collectors' commissions will have paid my dues for the next five years to come."

Gus. Lehrke:—"I want twenty more No. 1 letters. They are the candy. I have not found it necessary to use No. 2 and No. 3 at all."

Geo. B. Doyle:—"The collection letters have brought me a lot of money and have left a nice impression with the people to whom they were sent."

Jos. A. Stulz Co.:—"We sent out one letter last week. The man came in the next day with a $20 piece and thanked us for reminding him. We will use the letters oftener."

H. Wreden & Co.:—"We have sent out ltters to seven debtors. All are now paying or have paid up. Letter No. 1 brought two men. Letter No. 2 brought three more. We sent out Letter No. 3 to the other two and that brought them around."

Samples of these letters will be sent on application to any grocer who contemplates joining the Grocers' Association.

How to make money is a big problem. How to save it is also a great one. In solving both the retail merchant must get down to a big assortment of detail work around his store. It is irksome at times but it must be attended to.

The young man who would be successful has to acquire many virtues and also avoid many faults. It wouldn't do for instance to be prompt and show a lack of courtesy, or be neat and clean and then do a heap of knocking.

AN ANNOYANCE—NOT A DISASTER

The Toasted Corn Flake Company Does Not Mind a Little Thing Like Fire.

HOW T. C. F. CLEBRATED THE 4th

Toasted Corn Flakes has shown itself to be not only the most successful breakfast food America has ever known, but also the most patriotic.

On the morning of the Fourth, one of the three factories which have been occupied for many months past, twenty-four hours in the day, six days in the week, turning out the popular breakfast food, became overheated in its enthusiasm and burned to the ground.

The financial damage was partly covered by insurance, but W. K. Kellogg, the President of the Company, says this was the least important part of the misfortune. The annoyance caused the trade by a temporary lessening of the product worries him more than the damage done by the fire.

For six months, Mr. Kellogg has been devoting his attention to the producing end of the business, endeavoring to catch up with the ever increasdemand for Toasted Corn Flakes. Although at the time of the fire the Company was many carloads behind on orders, arrangements have been made whereby it would at an early date be in a position to promptly fill all orders. This date has now been temporarily postponed, and Mr. Kellogg asks the indulgence of the trade until the damage has been repaired, which will be in a very short time.

Within a few hours after the fire started, plans had been made to erect a large addition to Factory No. 2, which is located in another part of Battle Creek. Factory No. 2 is a handsome brick structure, and the new addition will be similar in character, fire proof and containing every modern appliance for the manufacture of Toasted Corn Flakes.

Mr. Kellogg will not, however, wait for the completion of this building, but has already made arrangements for temporary quarters to provide an output while the new building is being erected, and to make good the shortage which the loss of this one factory has caused.

Reports have already been circulated that the Toasted Corn Flakes Company is seriously hampered by the fire, and the trade has been urged to put in imitation Corn Flakes in place of the genuine Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes.

Don't be fooled by these reports.

The Toasted Corn Flakes Company still have two fine factories working night and day, with a capacity of almost two thousand cases per day, and this output has probably been substantially increased by the time you read this notice.

For the time, overlook any little delay in getting the genuine Toasted Corn Flakes, and remember that a concern who urges you to put in an imitation to substitute under such circumstances as these is not entitled to any consideration from fair-minded members of the grocery trade.—Adv.

We wonder if the time will ever come when retail grocers will realize that the vast majority of failures in the trade are directly due to uncollectable accounts. Entirely too many retailers will haggle a half afternoon over a few cents a dozen on the price of something they are buying, pat themselves on the back for their business sagacity and then sell ten times as much as the difference he was haggling about, to a man who will never pay him.

The Babcock Estate Company applied for a permit to construct a two-story brick building at the northwest corner of California and Battery Sts., to cost $102,000.

PROGRESSIVE DEALERS foresee that certain articles can be depended on as sellers. Fads in many lines may come and go, but SAPOLIO goes on steadily. That is why you should stock

HAND SAPOLIO

HAND SAPOLIO is a special toilet soap—superior to any other in countless ways—delicate enough for the baby's skin, and capable of removing any stain.

Costs the dealer the same as regular SAPOLIO, but should be sold at 10 cents per cake.

Attracting Trade.

In window dressing, too, it is conceded that Americans are more competent than their European brothers.

An exchange, whilst giving the palm to America for well dressed windows, says that France and Germany can lay claim to having beautiful show windows. The article says:

"To the window trimmer there is occasion for thought in what is said about the arrangement of goods in the show cases and windows. English windows are not favored, as you will see.

"There is another, too, why Americans spend so much in Paris. How many times have we heard a fair traveler from across the seas exclaim: 'I didn't mean to buy a thing in Paris, but the shop windows were so tempting I could not resist!'

"In London, the casual arrangement of the show cases is a tacit suggestion to the purchaser that if he wants anything, he can find it for himself.

"If you do window trimming at all, in the vernacular, do it up 'brown' Don't half do the work and then trust that an indiscriminating public will either overlook your sloppy little attempt at right results or kindly excuse the miserable makeshift of a trim.

"In many a San Francisco window I have noticed a lamentable absence in care of details, and that, too, in stores which claim to be—and are considered—model establishments. They seem to think that window dressing is a subject of such minor importance that matters may be slighted therein. But, let me tell you, Mr. Heedless Windowman, you are lowering the tone of your store, commercially, when you neglect the nice points that show perfection in your art.

"In the very first place, attention is not given to the conditions of the glass. This, one would think, would engage a window dresser's thought before anything else entered his mind, for if the front be not shining with cleanliness how can a proper inspection of goods be made?"

The same dirty appearance is also to be seen upon the articles behind the glass. I have seen many an attractive design—a design that was remarked time and again—tabooed by the simple but slovenly fact of several dead flies being allowed to accumulate at the base of the window-pane. Other times the writer has known such mistakes to be made as would repel the least exacting in the matter of taste. He has seen a high-class window ararngement actually mutilated by the fact of some cheap article tossed carelessly in to fill out an awkward corner instead of the dresser using a little more time and patience. Such things as dirty paper or unmodern stands in an up-to-date window are certainly foolish.

Of course we know the grocers have heard this tune sung before, but at the same time we also remember that very apt saying that the advertising men are using, that to repeat and repeat an honest proposition is the only way to get results. So to the grocer who is enterprising and who would make the best of his assets we recommend a tasteful, modern-looking window.

During the year 1906 more than 31,000 commercial travelers secured license to solict trade in Switzerland. Of the total number of traveling salesmen seeking Swiss trade, Germany furnished 4,700; France, 1,300; Italy, 390; Austria-Hungary, 250; Belgium, 85; England, 67; Holland, 28; Spain, 6; while only 1 was registered from the United States. Switzerland's total imports for 1906 amounted to $283,528,483 United States currency. During the same period the exports amounting to $207,449,623. Of the import trade, the United States furnished less than 5 per cent. The fact that so small a portion of the trade came from the United States is not surprising when the records show that only one American commercial traveler secured license in Switzerland last year.

Quality in lieu of free goods—that's Griffon's.

Every Dealer in Groceries Should Join the California Retail Grocers and Merchants Association. HE OWES THIS TO HIMSELF. The Same Influence that made the Legislature of 1907 willing to give us FOUR LAWS would make the Wholesalers and Manufacturers Willing to Grant any Fair Request.

Here Is What You Can Do

1. Get Better Laws. 2. Collect Bad Bills. 3. Induce Manufacturers to Protect Profits. 4. Make Wholesalers, Etc., Stop Selling to Your Customers.

REMEMBER: The State Grocers Association Does Not Do These Things For You. It Helps You Do Them For Yourself With the Help of Other Grocers. If You Are Willing Help, Send Us Word. (The Dues are $3 per Year).

Clerk's Corner.

AN OCCASIONAL WORD OF COMMENDATION WILL HELP MUCH.

A Good Clerk is Worthy of His Salary

It is not always wise to do business on a credit basis, but the merchant who recognizes good work by his clerical force and is not too small to admit it will find that the clerks will put more energy and effort into their salesmanship, into their efforts toward making good all the way around than the clerk will who is roasted to a turn for little mistakes and passed without mention when something commendable is accomplished.

Not that it is wisdom to be always throwing bouquets at your employes—a foolish and useless plan resulting, as a rule in spoiled, useless clerks, who hold an insane idea that they are running the establishment and are indespensable.

Clerks are as a rule young people. And young people are not supposed to be grounded in sense and steadiness as the more mature, and it is nothing more nor less than a square deal that the employer should pay a little attention to coaching the clerks in his ways, in his methods and in his way of doing business.

It is not enough that you tell a clerk your way once and then roast him if it is not done as you directed—repeat your advice and explain the reason why for everything and the knowledge of the object desired and the way to accomplish it is the surest training.

Clerks are apprentices and the employer the master mechanic of the mercantile establishment. It is vastly better that they learn your way—if you are an up-to-date lively merchant—or that they seek employment elsewhere if you are not.

A good clerk is worth his or her hire. The clerk who is competent to take charge of the store while you are absent, who is able to meet your customers with a smile and call them as they enter by name, who knows their buying power and the things that suit them, their credit lines and their families is too valuable a clerk to lose

Your clerks should be just what you make them, The merchant should mould them him way, should encourage, train and work with them until he has a force that he is not only proud of but that will make business for him, and run the store in his absence.

To mould a force to suit one's ideals may seem a difficult undertaking, but it can be accomplished. To raise a clerk's salary without his asking may no doubt seem extravagant, but the policy is sound and money-saving. It may be hard to praise a clerk, but a word of encouragement goes an unusual long way.

The clerk you know is just as appreciative as the next one—in fact they are more appreciative than the next one.

N. Y. STATE RETAIL GROCERS.

Elaborate Plans in Progress for Their State Convention.

The committee in charge of the plans for the annual convention of the New York State Retail Grocers' Association, at Elmira, August 5-8, reports encouragement for anticipating one of the largest conventions of the association's history. It is expected that fully a hundred accredited delegates will sit in the executive sessions and probably four times that number of grocers and their guests will participate in the social features of the gathering. At a meeting of the Brooklyn association Tuesday evening 20 official delegates were selected to attend. It is expected that from Greater New York over a hundred will be in attendance.

The plans contemplate a very desirable mixture of business and pleasure. The Monday morning session will be largely routine, with the organization of the convention occupying the bulk of the session. There will be business sessions on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, at which questions of interest to the State trade will be discussed. The committee on resolutions, which will comprise the presidents of the various associations, will be chosen in advance of the convention in order that it may be ready to report its findings and recommendations throughout the week, rather than all at one time, when hasty action is likely to result.

The program of speakers is not yet complete, but among those expected to address the convention are L. J. Callanan, on "Sixty Years a Grocer;" Fred Mason, on "Factors of Trade;" Secretary John A. Greene, of the National Association; President B. Bischoff, of the Brooklyn association; President Fred H. Otten, of the Manhattan association; ex-President Henry Lohman, of Brooklyn, on "The Wife's Liability Bill" ex-President Charles Lamy, of Buffalo, on "The Garnishee Law;" Thomas Larkin, of Ithaca, on "The Modern Grocer:" Assemblyman Moreland, on "Business Legislation;" A. E. Landon, on "The Retailer Is King:" H. O. Wilkey, of Amsterdam, on "The Grocer;" A. E. Garrison, of Peekskill, and Joseph A. Weis, of Rochester. In addition to these every association will render a full report of its condition and work during the past year.

The Elmira Association has made elaborate plans for entertaining the visitors. On Tuesday afternoon there will be a visit to Watkins' Glen and in the evening a theater party at the open-air performance at Rorick's Glen. There will be special times assigned for visiting the Elmira Reformatory and the big food show, which is to be conducted as a part of the convention enterprise. Over forty exhibitors have already been assigned space in the rink, where the show is to be held.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF, which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

A TIMELY BOOK.

We are this week in receipt of a very timely book on the Pure Food Law, "The Food and Drugs Act, June 30, 1906." It consists of a careful study of the law, with the text of the act annotated, the rules and regulations, food inspection decisions and official food standards.

The volume is by Arthur Greeley, who is a member of the bar of the Supreme Court, member commission to revise patent and trademark laws. Formerly assistant commissioner of patents.

The book may be regarded as a critical study of the Federal Food and Drugs Act written from the standpoint of a lawyer. Chapters on purpose and scope of the act, procedure under the act, articles to which the act applies, adulteration, misbranding, guaranty, etc. A practical guide for the manufacturer, packer, wholesale dealer, jobber and retailer of foods, drugs, medicines or liquors, giving the best available information on all of the many questions arising under the act. 8 vo. Cloth; $1.50 net, delivered. John Byrne & Company, law booksellers, Washington, D. C.

Griffon Catsup has captured the trade. In the short period of thirty days over 600 San Francisco grocery stores have stocked these goods. In excess of 300 repeat orders have been booked by the California Fruit Canners' Association since the first named sales were made.

Griffon Catsup—No deals.

A wonderful yield of apricots is reported from seventy-six trees which are growing on land owned by the Southern Pacific Company near the Sacramento river at Corning. The seventy-six trees yielded a fraction over ten tons of splendid apricots. The apricots will, according to figures of fruit men, amount to 4,500 pounds of dried fruit, and the fruit has already been sold at 22 cents per pound delivered at the Corning depot, which means that these particular seventy-six trees yield the grower a gross profit of $990. As it takes ninety trees to make an acre of fruit, it is safe to say that this acre of ground was worth this season fuly $1,000.

Los Angeles.—The walnut growers of California were given a body blow Tuesday in a federal court decision by Judge Wellborn. They are forever barred from using the patented cleaning process of the Anderson-Bargrove Manufacturing Company of SSan Jose, and the Fullerton Walnut Grower's Association must pay the concern $23,000 damages for infringement. The growers are vially affected and will appeal to the United States Supreme Court, it is announced They claim the process they have been using is not that of the San Jose company, though similar. They assert they will be almost ruined if thrown upon the mercy of any company controlling a patent for handling their crop.

Griffon Catsup—No deals.

Fresno.—The California .Canner's Association has just closed a quarter of a million deal in Tulare county, buying the Kuhn orchard of 1060 acres near Farmersville. The purchase price includes this year's crop, which will run close to $100,000. The orchard consists almost entirely of peach trees, and with peaches ranging from $50 to $65 a ton for canning and 12 cents a pound dried, the product very quickly runs into money.

FRED MASON—MATCHES.

How A Clever Man Achieved Success In His Line.

One of the New York party (N. Y. jobbers' delegation to Chicago) was Fred Mason. Fred is not a grocer at all and yet, in many respects, he was one of the most interesting figures in the convention. His friends are just now congratulating him on his recent elevation to the post of assistant general sales manager of the big Diamond Match Company.

Matches aren't very big things in themselves, but they nevertheless involve the investment of $16,000,000 in this one company and keep busy thirty-six factories, with 38,000 employes. And Fred sells all the matches they put out. The way he does it is one of the things which have made the company and the man so much talked about in grocer's circles, because Fred has exemplified the merchandising system toward which all the talk and all the theories of the convention were directed and has thus far made it a glowing success.

Fred Mason had been in the grocery association business most of his life and knew all about the troubles and trials of the trade. That's why the management of the company saw that he was the man needed for the hour.

When he took hold a grocer could buy matches at almost any old price, and it naturally followed that they were usually of almost any old quality After he got them he had no certainty that the same maker would not turn about and sell his competitor at lower rates. If he did'nt the rival manufacturer would. Every grocer carried half a dozen lines of matches and then moaned because they took up more room than they were worth. The jobber grumbled because the manufacturer who sold him also sold the retailer, who was his natural customer. The retailer grumbled because he never knew where he was at. The public grumbled because the matches were trash.

Fred studied the question a year. Then he put his plan into operation To-day not a retailer can buy a match from the Diamond Company unless he agrees to take them through the jobber. He must also agree to sell them at a certain price and never to cut rates. Both the jobber and the retailer agree that in consideration of protection in price and in a fair profit, they will handle only Diamond matches, in the capacity of recognized agents or distributers. Instead of making nothing whatever they are all making more money in proportion on matches than anything in stock. The price cutter is no more heard of. The company sells 95 per cent of the matches made in the country. Everybody is happy and the consumer is buying the best match made at the rate of 500 for five cents.

The Diamond Match Company may require exclusive contracts with its agents and thereby lay itself open to criticism. But it certainly shares its profits with its allies all along the line. Above all, it has eliminated an intolerable condition in the match business and has put into practical operation the very things for which the jobbers contend—a trade from the manufacturer through the jobber, to the retailer, and by no other channel. And because Fred Mason is the father of the plan, he always gets a glad hand from grocers wherever he goes. Grocers are disposed to keep their eyes on Fred and on the "Diamond Match plan" of merchandising.

N. B.—The California Retail Grocers and Merchants Association expect to have Mr. Mason with them at the convention in Sacramento in September.

Egg-o-See's Giant Growrh Explained

COMPETITORS BESTED BY APPLYING NEW SELLING IDEAS.

Salesmen's Use of Advertisements. By J. E. Linehan, General Mgr. Egg-O-See Co.

CHAPTER ONE.

Salesman and sales managers alike will be interested in an inside statement of the methods by which the sale department of the Egg-o-See Company has marketed its produce, since these principles throw light upon the possibilities of co-operation for sales between all the different sales departments of a business.

The company has adhered to three principles:

The first of the three principles is a matter for the head of a manufacturing and of a business and the head of the sales department to decide between them. It concerns the quality of a product in relation to its price.

The second principle relates to advertising policy.

The third to personal salesmanship.

In regard to the first it may be taken as an axiom in salesmanship that any article in which the highest degree of quality is combined with the lowest possible retail price offers the greatest inducement to the trade that any dealer can possibly ask.

When the dealer awakens to the fact that the article is one which is bound to create a steadily increasing demand from consumers, on the strength of its intrinsic merit, and that he is able to offer it at low a price as any of its inferior competing products, he becomes enthusiastic in regard to it. He is not only willing to buy, and steadily increase the size of his orders, but he is willing, even eager, to do everything in his power to force the article upon the attention of his customers and spread its fame.

He becomes a co-operator with salesmen and advertisers in booming trade on the specialty. And the enormous volume of trade secured by virtue of such co-operation more than compensate the manufacturer for any excess costs incurred in perfecting the article to the highest possible degree of excellence.

When Egg-o-See was put upon the market there were some thirty-two other varieties of breakfast foods already there. Most of them were already "petering out" at that time, and since then all but seven have faded out of existence altogether. Although the market was overcrowded and dealers shelves were overstocked with innumerable varieties of unsalable breakfast foods, the projectors of Egg-o-See felt no anxiety for their success in introducing a new variety. They knew that the experiencing was not due to a lack of interest on the part of the public in cereals or to the absence of a demand, but was owing to the plan of action which the various manufacturers had adopted in trying to market their wares.

The majority of them had entered the field with a product whose initial cost had been reduced to a minimum. All expensive processes in its manufacture had been eliminated. The one thought had been: "How to boom trade and load up dealers; how to get initial orders and make big money at the start." The salableness of the product itself, from the dealers point of view, seemed to be a negligible consideration.

Their idea was to reduce the cost of production and raise the wholesale price. But this system could not be made to "go" with dealers, unless some special inducement was held out; there was obviously a need of an attraction before even jobbers and retailers could be expected to fall in line, to say nothing of consumers. The realization of this need gave rise to the premium idea.

"We will give away a box of paints, a china dish, or a child's toy with every package of breakfast food," agreed the manufacturers, "and no dealer will be able to resist the temptation to stock up with an article which gives him so strong a talking point to use on consumers, as that."

The plan, of course, presupposed a still more vigorous economy in the cost of production, in order to offset the cost of the premiums.

And this plan was expected to boom trade! Its incongruities seem never to have occured to the projectors.

CHAPTER TWO.

In the first place, the premium plan put the manufacturers in direct competition with the very dealers whose

Do a little advertising every week.

One of the stepping-stones to success is attention to details.

To know what not to do knows half th secret of successful clerkship.

We pain ourselves greatly to find at the last we have pleased nobody.

Talk quality to your clerks. The grocer who talks quality gets business.

In dealing with men if you leave out their heart, you will lose your own.

What's the use of seeing "openings" unless one has the courage to close them.

As food is to the body so, it is said, is a word of encouragement to the heart.

A midsummer dull season need not be if you go after the trade with right methods.

Every man at length passes for what he is worth, even though he may not think so.

A dirty fixture is just a bad as as a dirty window glass, so if needs be to get busy!

There is nothing but failure ahead for the man who measures himself by his inferior.

When you have finished a job completely is the time to be satisfied, but not till then.

Suggest good old corn-meal mush to the woman who wants something different for breakfast.

There are generally many ins and outs to lies, but a truth is generally clean cut and forward.

Men and women crave the assurance that their work and effort is meeting with approval.

Industry is the price of success. The man does not live who can be successful and unindustrious.

An enterprising grocer is the man who goes after the trade instead of letting it come after him.

Only the weak and "ne'er-do-well's" complain of hard luck and a lack of opportunity and hard times.

Teach your clerks to be patient, since patience is a quality which wins many a customer for the store.

The last census year—1900—showed the production of eggs in the United States to be 1,293,662,433 dozen.

Some think that happiness is to possess one part of life; joy without sorrow, the sweet without the bitter.

There is no real life without toil—to idle away time is very laborious, but to do good works is a pleasure.

Nobody can expect to accomplish anything much in the world unless he is really into it with heart and soul.

The forceful and effective men are those who execute their ideas while they are full of enthusiasm and vein.

It is not the man who simply does things, but the man who does things better, for whom the world is seeking.

Nothing is so careless looking as a clerk who has to shout out for information as to price every now and then.

It has been said that genius consists in an immense capacity for hard work and a real conviction of its necessity.

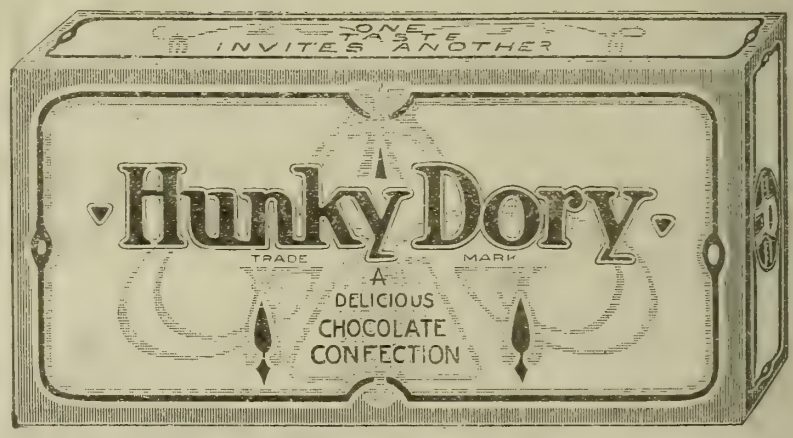
Some men are born great, but the vast majority of men are constrained to work hard for any greatness they acquire.

To win people to his views the merchant must be a strong believer in himself and his values. Faith moves mountains.

A man ought to look upon his career in the same light as a great artist does his work—he should consider it part of him.

Some people have neither the force nor the courage to remove the obstacles that stand between them and their ambition.

Cheerfulness of manner and a little determination are the essentials of salemanship. To convince cheerfully means everything.



Don't only do what you are told to do, but get busy—clean up those desk corners or straighten up the stock—never stand around.

After all of the returns are in you know that quality and good value are the two foundation stones on which permanent trade is built.

A clerk who is apt in avoiding the faults in a grocer's stock and proficient in exploiting their good qualities is an asset to any house.

increases he successful merchant will more and more become one who works his field most intensively.

No sensible clerk will imagine himself of more value to the firm than he really is—he will not think more about himself than his business.

A good many retail stores fail, because the proprietors and the clerks have but an insufficient knowledge of the real value of the merchandise.

Your personality is a valuable asset. Get to know your customers personally and intimately. Put your name on everything you send out.

The business world demands interest on past due bills. The retail merchant who collects it from his customers must stand firmly on his heel.

Nothing is so annoying to an employer as to have a clerk show up late every now and then, but to see a man make a practice of it is unbearable.

The man who is continually looking forward to quitting time is never pushed ahead, and why should he? Never be afraid of doing too much.

Every secret is laid open, every crime is punished, every virtue rewarded, every wrong redressed, in silence and certainly some way, some day.

Remember that the success of the firm with which you are connected means you success. This thought will stimulate you in your duty to the house.

Pleasure is taken from pleasant things, and power from strong things, as soon as we seek to separate them from that which makes them pleasant and strong.

It is undoubtedly preferable to say too little than to say to much and we have even heard it said, that to keep one's mouth shut should be a clerk's first lesson.

The cereal department of the grocery store is getting bigger. But it is the fault of the people. They want cereal foods and they want a big variety of them.

A good salesman is not a creature whose business it is to misrepresent things. On the contrary—he will sell an article for just what it is worth and nothing more.

Don't you feel favorably impressed when you see a neatly attired merchant and a clean, well-kept stock? Don't you like to trade at such a store? So do others.

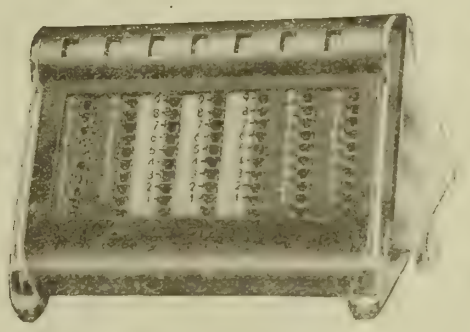
Always remember that outside ourself there are several intelligent people. Don't try to suggest the real utility of some thing that is obviously useless and valueless.

If you don't like unprofitable goods don't educate your trade to call for them by carrying them in stock. You know when you buy goods how much you are going to make on them. That's the time to get your pencil out.

Have you ever stopped to think how the rest of the community regards you? Do they consider you public spirited? Public opinion is worth cultivating. There's dollars in it.

Be sure not to save all your frowns for your customer and then distribute your smile among your acquaintances and friends. For who is a better friend to you tha na good customer.

Watch the stock. Instruct the clerks carefully in the use of the want book. Always have enough stock but not much too much. Live money is the merchant's strength. Slow stock is his weakness.



Paper bags are absolutely necessary in certain lines of business, and considering that there in no cash return, constitute probably one of the large items of expense to stores and market stalls. The expenditure for ordinary paper bags, such as are used in grocery stores, during 1906 reached nearly $9,200,000. The outlay for all bags of various kinds amounted to $25,000,000 Nearly $24,000,000 passed into the coffers of the men who make the ornate, beflowered, fancy boxes for candy, gifts and flowers.

The rules of any house were not made to grumble at. If something has really become antiquated why a gentlemanly suggestion may improve things but an antagonistic dispostion will only make matters worse than they are.

During the year 1906 the world's production of aluminum was 14,500 metric tons, an increase of 25 per cent over the production of the year previus. The United States leads all other countries in the production of aluminum, France being second Germany third and England fourth.

trade they were after. Most of the dealers were as anxious to sell china dishes and children's toys to consumers, as the manufacturers were to give these articles away. Every time the proprietor of a general store handed out a premium to a purchaser of breakfast food, he felt that in doing so he forfeited a possible sale. He reasoned: "If my customer wants this toy or dish bad enough to buy a package of breakfast food, which he has no use for, in order to obtain it, he probably could easily have been induced to spend a little more money and purchase a better toy or a better dish from my regular stock. I have not only assumed an obligation to pay for a lot of breakfast food which nobody wants and which is likely to be a dead loss to me; but I can't even make an occasional sale of the stuff without losing trade on some other and more profitable line!"

There was still another disadvantage of the premium plan from the dealer's point of view. Some people will buy a second or third package of an article which they don't want, in order to obtain a premium; but they won't keep on buying indefinitely for the same reason. Their interest in collecting premiums soon dies when they realize that they could duplicate the premium for a fraction of the sum spent in obtaining it.

But they will keep on indefinitely buying an article which is offered them on its merits as a household necessity, and which by its exceptional quality proves to them that they are getting more than their money's worth.

Dealers naturally favor the article which the consumers will keep on buying indefinitely, rather than an article which no purchaser is likely to ask for more than two or three times. And in "favoring" an article dealers assist its sales.

It was therefore a principle in salesmanship on which the Egg-O-See Company based its policy of cutting out premiums and spending its money instead in heightening the excellence of its product.

The Egg-O-See Company put a minimum price on its goods and offered exceptionally advantageous terms to dealers, not so much with a view of inducing dealers to buy, as with a view of making it easier and more profitable for them to handle the goods, the main point being to get at, through the dealers, as many consumers as possible.

Egg-O-See's advertising policy has been framed up along practically the same lines. Its object is to help the dealer make sales. The salesman's assistance is important in accomplishing this.

On entering a town a salesman is prepared with tables of figures from which he can deduct approximately the number of inquiries for Egg-O-See which each dealer in that town may reasonably expect as a result of the company's local and national advertising. These tables are compiled with reference to advertisements appearing in monthly or weekly periodicals, trade papers and the local dailies—the circulation of each medium among the people in the locality in question being made the basis of the computation. For example, if our advertisement is to appear in next month's number of the Delineator, the salesman is furnished with figures showing how many copies of that magazine will be distributed in each of the various towns or cities on his route, and it can be reasonably estimated what proportion of these copies will reach the neighborhood tributary to each dealer's store. Taking into consideration the class of people residing in the neighborhood, the situation of the store, and the extent of the dealer's business operations, it is comparatively easy to estimate the average number of inquiries for Egg-O-See which that dealer will receive on the publication of the ad. This estimate is not altogether a matter of guesswork; it is based on reports of other dealers similarly situated, as to the inquiries received by them in the past from ads. of a like character and equal circulation.

The exactness of these figures is never assumed by any salesman, however. No one will presume to say that he could estimate accurately the number of inquiries which each dealer may expect; but the figures are effective none the less in influencing dealers. Since the they are conservative figures he is bound to admit the reasonableness of the salesman's estimate, and this gives him a feeling of security in placing a large order, when otherwise he might feel he was taking unwarrantable chances.

The Chamber of Commerce, upon learning that the Commissioner of Indian Affairs intends to discriminate against San Francisco merchants in the matter of furnishing suppies for the local Indian warehouse, has sent a letter to its members, advising them of the proposed action of the Commissioner.

Wellman, Peck & Co. will occupy their entire building about Monday of next week. They will then have the largest wholesale grocery in town.

HALF YEAR'S FIRE LOSS.

The fire loss of the United States and Canada for the month of June, as compiled from the carefully kept records of The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, shows a total of $14,765,000. This makes the aggregate for the half-year $117,477,500. The following table gives a comparison by months of the losses this year with 1905 and 1906:

	1905	1906
January	$16,378,100	$24,064,000
February	25,591,000	18,249,350
March	14,751,400	18,727,750
April	11,901,350	292,501,150
May	12,736,250	16,512,850
June	11,789,800	13,950,650
Total 6 mos.	$93,147,900	$377,665,550
July	13,173,250	12,428,050
August	11,435,600	9,641,600
September	13,715,250	10,852,550
October	12,267,000	13,872,450
November	16,178,200	16,248,350
December	15,276,600	19,001,450
T'l 12 mos.	$175,193,800	$459,710,000

1907
January	$24,064,000
February	19,876,600
March	20,559,700
April	21,925,900
May	16,286,300
Jnue	14,765,000
Total 6 mos.	$117,477,500

There were during June no less than 291 fires where the loss reached or exceeded $10,000 in each instance A detailed list of these fires appears on the insurance page, this issue, but for the sake of comparison they may be classified as below:

$10,000 to $20,000	114
20,000 to 30,000	51
30,000 to 50,000	34
50,000 to 75,000	39
75,000 to 100,000	22
100,000 to 200,000	22
200,000 and over	9
Total	291

The more important fires during the month under review were these:

Tacoma, Wash., saw mill	$350,000
San Francisco, Cal., school, flour mill and other	200,000
Altoona, Pa., dry goods store and theatre	220,000
Utica, N. Y., tool works	230,000
Pine Beach, Va., hotel & other	411,000
Birmingham, Ala., dry goods store and other	300,000
Coal Creek, Col., business portion of town	200,000
Newark, N. J.. color works	300,000

The fire underwriters have had a bad half year. As will be seen from the first of the foregoing tables the losses for January, February, March and June, 1907, have exceded those for the same months in 1906. The San Francisco conflagration was in April, 1906, and the May, 1907, losses are within $250,000 of those of the same month in 1906. The first half of 1907 shows over $24,000,000 more loss than did the same period in 1906. In addition to the abnormal drain from fire loss claims the fire insurance companies suffer severely from the depreciation in security values, so that 1907 promises, even without any important conflagration, to go on record as a memorably bad year.

WHALE LEATHER.

The British consul at Chicago has made a report to his Government concerning the whaling idustry carried on by Newfoundland fishermen. They have been attempting to make whale leather a commercial product, and are said to be meeting with some success. The average whale hide covers a surface of about 1,500 square feet. A square foot of the hide weighs from 2 to 5 ounces, and is priced as high as 50 cents. The leather is very tough, and is said to have great wearing qualities, and may therefore be adapted to the covering of furniture, buggy tops and seats, and also automobile uses. It is also claimed that it can be used for bots and shoes. Leather made from the intestines of the whale resembles kid, and is very thin and tough. It will take color readily, and is to be offered to glove manufacturers for making the long-sleeved gloves now warned by women.

W. B. Wellman, of Wellman, Peck & Co., left yesterday for a thirty day stay in the Yosemite Valley.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

California Asparagus Company—Captital stock $50,000; shares $50 each; subscription, $150; directors, Winfield Dorn, L. M. Sheeper and Allen L. Chickering, one share each; place of business, San Francisco.

Ukiah—Westport Mercantile Co.; capital stock $20,000; shares, $100 each; subscription in full, by T. C. Hunter, C. E. Gordon, A. J. Lowell; place of business, Westport.

Monterey.—The Pajaro Packing Co. has been incorporated for $75,000, of which $20,000 has actually been paid in. The principal place of business will be Watsonville, and the purpose of the concern is to conduct a general canning. preserving and avaporating business in fruits and vegetables.

Cordelia.—The California Wine Association is planning to make large experiments in manufacturing unfermented grape juice this summer in Fresno. This industry is very extensive in the East, but very little unfermented wine is made on the Pacific Coast.

Albany, Ore., is to have a milk-condensing plant to cost at least $40,000. The industry has been promoted by H. H. Olmstead, who represents Eastern manufacturing interests. The plant will utilize 80,000 pounds of milk daily. It will be erected this summer.

Fallon, Nev.—C. W. Kinney, a well-known mining promotor of this district, has returned from Boston and New York, where he has succeeded in organizing a company to erect a large salt mill on the desert near Sand Springs. This mill will have a capacity of 100 tons per day and the machinery will be the most improved make. The mill cost thousands of dollars, but Kinney states that the company has plenty of money and will enter upon the business on a large scale. It is stated that there are hundreds of acres of good salt beds in this district and that the company will be able to manufacture thousands of tons of salt for years to come.

Sacramento.—It is announced that Attorney-General Webb, at the instigation of the State Bank Commissioners, has given an opinion that nearly every bank in the State is violating the State banking corporation law, which allows banks to do either a saving bank or a straight commercial business, as with but a single franchise, nearly every banking house is doing both a commercial and saving bank business. It is expected that this decision will have a wide and significant effect on all of the banks of the State.

Do you carry a broom that has real merit? Well, why don't you say more about it. Why not suggest it to every woman who enters your store.

CLEVERNESS DISPLAYED.

Advantage Taken of Accident to Advertise Escondido Merchant's Sale.

Escondido, Cal.—A mule team belonging to a Bonsall farmer ran away on the streets last Monday morning and brought up in Steiner & Co.'s big corner show window, breaking two immense plate glass, and causing several hundred dollars in damage. One of the mules was badly cut by the heavy plate glass falling on him. Mr. Steiner, with his usual enterprise, used the incident by advertising the great rush to the "Skidoo Sale now on."

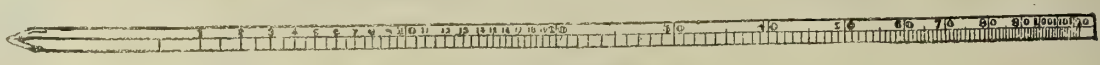
In the next day's advertisement the following appeared:

Notice! Prices Smashed!

The "Skidoo" Sale has such attractive inducements that people are coming on the rush. A large team with buyers were in such a hurry to get into the store they went through the large 8-foot plate glass show window. We have still have several good things to offer in this sale.

A German authority has compiled statistics as to the production of India rubber. In 1900 there were produced 53,348 tons. In 1906 the production had increased to 67,999 tons. The consumption has advanced in the mean time from 48,352 tons to 62,574 tons.

THE "ADVOCATE" GAUGING RODS HAVE ARRIVED!!



Send Your Order In At Once.

There is no question but what every merchant should have his own measuring instruments on which he can rely for proticition. Oil and vinegar are frequently overgauged and unless a merchant has a set of gauging instruments he cannot tell whether he is paying for oil or vinegar that is charged to him at, say 25 gallons, when as a matter of fact the barrel will only hold 48 gallons. This is a trick frequently practiced as these concerns know that few dealers have measuring instruments.

The long stick is used to determine the actual capacity of the barrel while the small one shows the amount that is lacking in the barrel. Protect yourself as many readers of this paper have, by buying a set of the Advocate gauging instruments which are sold at a normal figure. It is advisable to have two sets, one for vinegar, molasses and syrup and another for oil if it is bought in barrels as one set should not be used to gauge both oil and vinegar or molasses.

We will deliver the gauge rods to you at your store at these prices, cash in advance: 1 Guage and 1 Wantage Rod $1.45; 2 Guages and 2 Wantage Rods, $2.80; 3 Guages and 3 Wantage Rods, $4.20.

Cuts in this advertisement show both the gauge and wantage rods. Complete directions for using will be mailed free with each set.

Lay for the trade on picnic specialties. During the summer the trade on such as canned and potted meats, mustard in bottles, pickles, sardines, olives, etc., is best. When you hear that a certain club, society or church organization is going to give a picnic or outing you can easily find out the names of many of the people who are going. A special effort to sell them "picnic groceries" will show profitable results.

Palo Alto, G. W. La Piere & Son:—"We check up everything as we receive it. We have found some butter shortages which were not allowed. The Advocate is all right. It keeps up posted on all necessary points."

Newark. Silvey-Munyan Co.:—"I want to unite with the other merchants of California to help better trade conditions. I therefore enclose check for $3.00 and request that I be enrolled among the members of the California Retail Grocers and Merchants Association."

Pepperwood, Geo. R. Young:—"I am going to try to get to Sacramento on September 10th. It is too far away to be able to tell for certain yet whether I can go or not. The Association letters have made several collections for me. Give my best regards to the Alameda County members."

STATE ASSOCIATION.

Duty of Every Dealer to Unite with Fellows to Better Conditions.

If the grocers had secured nothing more than the extension of the Statute of Limitations on open book accounts, they would have been amply repaid for their work in getting together. But this is only one little result.

Let us see what they have done.

First—They have helped the grocers organize in many communities.

Second—Their activity has resulted in a profit of 25c per sack on flour in many communities where the grocers got only 5 to 7½c per sack before.

Third—They have convinced the D. Ghirardelli Co. that it will be profitable to force cutters to maintain fair prices.

Fourth—They have secured numerous laws.

Fifth—They supply members with a set of collection letters that enables the dealer himself to get in much money that he would otherwise have to pay a lawyer to collect for him.

Sixth—When a member suffers from any abuse, the entire grocery trade of the Coast can be notified and the offending firm made to see the folly and danger of continuing its evil ways.

Seventh—The grocers are made better acquainted.

Eighth—By discussion, they learn better methods of doing business.

Ninth—The tone of the trade is elevated and the members take more pride in it.

..Members secure an additional advantage that broadens their lives and makes them better men.

Every grocer should do his share. It costs $3 per year.

The grocer, who, through carelessness or meanness, is unwilling to pay this sum, does not deserve better laws nor better trade conditions.

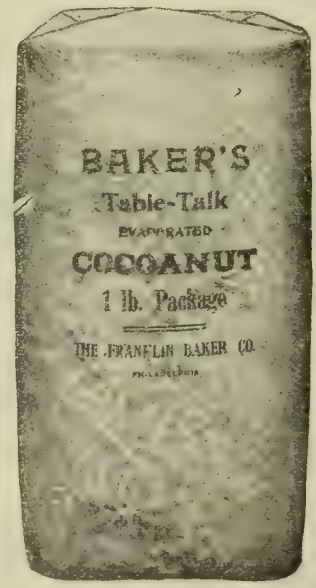
Grocers to Gather.

Grocers will convene at Sacramento on September 10, 11 and 12th.

Every Association is entitled to send delegates.

Every individual member who pays $3 a year dues is entitled to attend.

There will be a very valuable session.



Every grocer who can possibly manage it should attend.

The City Hall dome has been tested by President Duffey of the Board of Public Works, who yesterday reported that this third largest dome in the world went through the disater of April 1906, virtually uninjured. It is not one inch of plumb, and its steel structure is intact. For $100,000 Duffey says he could restore the whole edifice supporting the dome.

The following paper houses will close their places of business on Saturday afternoons at 1 o'clock during the months of July, August and September: Blake, Moffitt & Towne, Bonestell, Richardson & Co., Zellerbach Paper Company, Pacific Coast Paper Co., A. Fleshacker & Co.

The postal receipts during June were $145,630, against $100,228 during June of last year, an increase of 44.43 per cent. This represents a big increase of business independent of the recovery of business temporarily lost in 1906 after the disater.

We're Compelled to Use the Best Nuts.

There is as much difference in cocoanuts as there is in apples. We could make a good bit more money—for a while—if we would put a lower grade of nuts into

Baker's Cocoanut.

But if we did that we couldn't guarantee Baker's Cocoanut to keep its sweetness and color.. So we have to use the best grade of nuts to protect our guarantee, even if there were no other reasons.

We're Compelled to Use the Best Nuts.

There is as much difference in cocoanuts as there is in apples. We could make a good bit more money—for a while—if we would put a lower grade of nuts into

Baker's Cocoanut.

But if we did that we couldn't guarantee Baker's Cocoanut to keep its sweetness and color.. So we have to use the best grade of nuts to protect our guarantee, even if there were no other reasons.

THE RETAIL GROCERS ADVOCATE

EARL D. EDDY, EDITOR. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., JULY 26 1907. VOL. 12 NO. 29

Fixed Prices Can Stand.

Los Angeles District Attorney Admits Constitutional Right of Manufacturer to Name Retail Selling Price.

A CARTWRIGHT LAW DECISION.

Most Active Opponent of Fixed Price Proposition Confesses His Position Untenable.

The District Attorney of Los Angeles County, after making announcement that fixed prices would have to go, regardless of the means adopted to enforce them, has thrown up his hands and acknowldged defeat.

The grocers have A. Schilling & Co. of this city and Bishop & Co. of Los Angeles to thank for this result.

The attorneys for these firms succeded in arranging with the District Attorney of Los Anegles county for a hearing prior to the commencement of legal proceedings.

A careful study was made of all previous decisions covering fixed prices in California and several Eastern States and also various Federal decisions, especially that decision recently made in Indiana dissolving the drug trust.

Individual Manufacturers Not Affected.

The final result was the announcement made last week by Attorney Blair for the District Attorney, that prices fixed by individual manufacturers are not illegal under the Cartwright law or any Federal law.

In an interview with our esteemed contemporary, the "Commercial Bulletin," he said: "We are convinced that any attempt to prosecute individual manufacturers for fixing a retail price on their goods would not be successful. It is doubtful if under a court's construction of the Cartwright law such prosecution would hold and even if it did we are convinced that the law under such construction would be unconstitutional. But if one or more manufacturers should agree on a fixed price on a certain commodity or similar commodities then the law would be violated and prosecutions would follow. In every other respect we think the Cartwright law will hold and are ready to prosecute any violations whom we can apprehend."

Other Manufacturers Interested.

In addition to the two houses noted above, following is a partial list of the manufacturers who fixed the price on their goods before the Cartwright law became effective and probably will return to the fixed price plan: N. K. Fairbanks Co.; Enoch Morgan & Sons Co., Royal Baking Powder Co., and all local flour mills as well as Rumford Chemical Co., Crescent Manufacturing Co., J. A. Folger & Co., M. J. Brandenstein & Co. and Chas. P. Grogan.

The attorneys for Bishop & Co. and A. Schilling & Co. contended that an agreement between a manufacturer concerning his own goods and a retailer was NOT collusion or restraint of trade, but was simply the carrying out of a manufacturer's constitutional right to regulate the sale of his own goods as he sees fit.

LAWS WON

The following laws have been secured by the efforts of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association:

1. Permitting the Attachment of the wages of public officials.

2. Making a Wife's Separate Property responsible for family bills for the necessaries of life.

3. Mutual Fire Insurance.

4. Extending life of open book account to four years instead of two.

5. Making the drawing of a worthless check "with intent to defraud" a state's prison offense.

6. A fair guaranty clause in the pure food law.

Want Beer Protected.

Retail Dealers Willing to Do Their Share.

ACTION BY BOTTLERS NEEDED.

Strenuous Competition Forces Sales at Loss Unless Restrained.

Grocers realize now how necessary it is to have the manufacturer help if profits are to be secured.

There was no profit on flour possible till the individual mills were induced by the Associated Retail Grocers to refuse to sell to cutters.

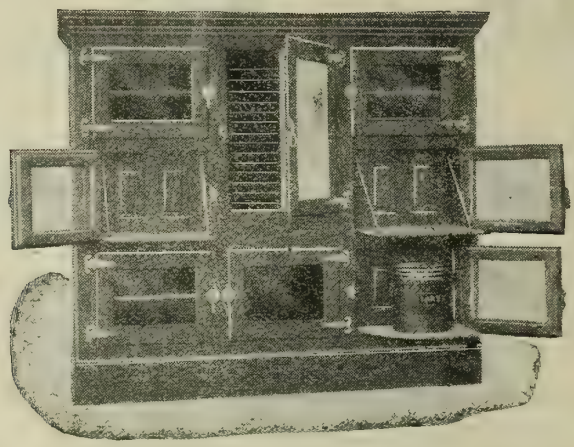
The bottlers of beer were afraid to do this for fear that if they should insist that their beer must be sold two for 25c and the bottles be charged for, that the grocers would push unknown brands of beer for 10c.

The Asociated Retail Grocers insisted that this was not so and that the grocers would refuse to sell any beer that could be sold by others at net prices.

Bottlers Want Protection.

This is all the bottlers want to know.

If the grocers want protection on beer as well as flour, they will gladly give it to them.



To show that the bottlers that this is so, a meeting has been arranged of the grocers to which the bottlers have been invited.

A meeting between the bottlers and the grocers has been arranged for Wednesday evening, July 31, at 8:30 o'clock at Veteran's Hall, 131 Duboce Ave.. It is obviously to the interest of EVERY grocer to be present. Let no question of association affiliation deter you.. Your pocket-book association is the affiliation you should think of first.

The "Rainier Beer" people, desiring to help the grocers get a profit, issued cards giving the retail selling price of beer. They did not notify the trade that these prices had to be lived up to, however, and as a result, many prices rule in every part of the city. This firm, however, we are informed by a retail grocer, refused to sell to

Egg-o-See's Giant Growth Explained

COMPETITORS BESTED BY APPLYING NEW SELLING IDEAS.

Salesmen's Use of Advertisements. By J. E. Linehan, General Mgr. Egg-O-See Co.

CHAPTER III.

Another potent influence is brought to bear upon the dealer. In addition to the arguments respecting the circulation of our ads. in each dealer's locality, the salesman is equipped with advance press proofs of the ads. themselves. He is able to show the dealer exactly how our ad. will appear in the forthcoming number of this magazine or that, or in next week's edition of the local newspapers.

As an example, we recently contracted for the entire back cover of the Delineator for one month. Several weeks in advance of publication date, our salesmen were furnished with press proofs of the cover of the magazine, printed in three colors and embellished with half-tone cuts. Both front and back covers had been printed on one card and Egg-O-See's ad. occupied half the space, the actual front cover design and publisher's announcement occupying the other half. Egg-O-See's advertisement on the back cover was certainly no less artistic and attractive than the front cover poster. The ad. presented a half-tone reproduction, in colors, of the painting entitled. "Dere ain't go'n'er be no leavins'." a picture familiar, it is safe to say, to every merchant of food products and to every housekeeper throughout the United States—a picture which strikes a responsive cord in the hearts of all lovers of small boys and good dogs.

There is a singular magnetism in striking pictures. The dealer who is shown these press proofs cant resist being attracted and interested. He gauges the effect which the ad. will produce upon the general public by the charm which the picture has for him. When he is made to understand that, on date of publication, the same picture will be circulated all over the United States—when he is told approximately how many copies will be distributed in the neighborhood from which he draws his trade—he is bound to feel a much livelier interest than he would feel in the bare announcement that Egg-O-See's ad. would occupy the back cover of such and such a magazine for the following month.

It is one thing to tell a dealer that you are going to do extensive advertising; to name the periodicals in which the ad. will appear; to state in general terms how much advertising you are going to do and why he may expect to come in for a share of the benefits. It is another thing, and a far more effective thing in making sales, to show the dealer such evidence as these press proofs from which he can drawn his own conclusions. "Seeing is believing"—and when a dealer actually sees a proof of a striking ad., he feels a keener interest than he would be likely to feel in any assertion with regard to the extent and costliness of any advertising project.

The same policy is used with regard to display ads. in local newspapers. Wherever a campaign of local advertising is under way, the salesman in that territory provides himself with specimens of the ads. that are to be run and presents these to his dealers, together with a statement of just how large a circulation the ad. will have among the people from whom each dealer draws his trade.

If a salesman were to use. as a talking point, the fact that doctors and nurses are unanimous in indorsing Egg-O-See as being the most nutritious and easily digested food for invalids, he would no doubt make a certain impression. But he makes ten times as strong an impression when he tells the dealer that Egg-O-See's ad. appears in 35 trade papers read by nurses and doctors; that so many copies of each paper are circulated among the physicians and hospital attendants in the dealer's own city; and when he displays specimens of this advertising, together with the actual testimonials of well known physicians. When you tell a dealer that "nurses and doctors are unanimous in indorsing this article" you give him a reason to think that the article is a good one; when you tell him exactly how many physicians and nurses doing business right in his own neighborhood are bound to see this advertisement and have its significance forced upon them, you give him reason to believe that the merit of the article is something that particularly concerns him. He pictures to himself not only a "good articl e,"but a lively demand for it as well—he runs over in his mind the names of physicians in his own neighborhood and of hospitals which he might reasonably expect to buy their supplies of him; and every name suggests a probable customer. This line of thought is likelier to make him want to buy than any conviction which the salesman might inculcate as to the intrinsic merit of the goods.

Virtually, the salesman is not offering him goods, but is offering him prospects of sales.

Fresno.—E. R. Smith, the contractor in the employ of Guggenheim & Co., arrived here from San Francisco with much enlarged plans for the refitting of the Guggenheim plant on Santa Fe avenue, and the conversion of the old Scropian place into a plant to be operated co-operatively with the present house. It is now proposed to make of the old Guggenheim house a raisin plant exclusively, which shall have twice the output of the former plant. The seeded and loose fruit will be handled in the main building, and the layers in the house called the "fig" house, at the south end of the whole line of buildings. The new establishment will put one ten cars of seeded raisins a day, which is double the former capacity.

Chas. W. Haas left this week for Europe, where he will join his father, William Haas.

San Francisco can give first-class accommodations to 16,000 people at present.

NEWS NOTES.

The lot on the northwest corner of California and Battery Sts. is being cleared preparatory to the erection of a $100,000 building by the Babcock estate.

The Quaker Oats Co. of Chicago have opened a branch office in this city (23 Market St.) under the management of a Chicago man. Kelley-Clarke Co., no longer represent the account.

Application was made a few days ago by D. O. Mills for a permit to erect a 10-story office building of steel and concrete construction adjoining the Mills building in Bush street near Montgomery at a cost of $340,000.

The registration of voters since the new primary law, which demands that a voter to participate in the primaries should declare his political allegiance at the time of registering, has amounted to 5564 names. The total registration up to date is 55,183.

Jones Bros., the big vinegar people of Louisville, Ky., have purchased a site for a big Coast factory at Watsonville, where they will soon commence the construction of the most up-to-date vinegar factory on the Coast.

The Lovera Baseball Team (Wellman, Peck & Co.) are certainly making a record. On Sunday last they defeated the Petaluma aggregation after a 11 inning engagement—score, 4-2. They recently defeated Haywards twice in succession as well as Santa Rosa.

W. H. St. Johnson of the Wm. Cluff Co., has just returned from a two weeks' vacation which he spent at Camp Taylor. In view of the fact that there were a bevy of fair damsels there and St. Johnson the only man (except on Sundays), he surely must have had a joyous time.

James J. Flood, the owner of the lot which the old Grand Opera House stood will be the home of a wholesale woodenware store, on which there is now being a massive foundation sunk in the sand at that place. A contract has been let for the building of the structure. Hyman Weill Co., wholesale dealers in woodenware will occupy the building. The building will be five stories in height and will cost about $300,000.

C. W. Colby, for the past twelve years Pacific Coast agent of the Erie Despatch and recently appointed general agent here of the Erie Railroad, has been summoned to Chicago to be promoted to the position of commercial agent of the Erie Railroad at Chicago. He will be succeeded in San Francisco by Lawrence Harkness, agent of the Erie Despatch at Los Angeles for the past ten year.

Thirty to forty millions of dollars may be expended to make the harbor of San Francisco the most modern and finest in the world, which may be the recommendation of the joint legislative commission that is conducting a thorough investigation into the various ports of the State.

Henry Cowell has sold to the Government the land at the northeast corner of Clay and Sansome streets, 122 feet on Sansome, with a depth of 37½ feet and two frontages. The consideration was $200,000. The Government will build the new sub-treasury on the land. This sale will help to build up that quarter of the city as the new sub-treasury will be near the appraiser's building, and it is regarded as a good move on the part of the Government to keep all its buildings as close to each other as is possible.

The wholesale looting of the Southern Pacific freight boats and yards by employes of the company has entailed a loss in merchandise during the past year that is estimated at $100,000.

Geo. T. Knox, the pioneer notary, died last week at the age of 81 years.

Dear Sir: Have been using coffee mills for over 20 years and had experience with nearly all of them. Always wanted one a "little better" for the mill is a great factor in maintaining coffee trade. Our last purchase was one of your No. 2121 Hobart's and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the best we have seen. Are particularly pleased with the clean sharp cut of the granulating burrs, something we have always wanted and never found so near perfection as in our Hobart.

We "press the button," the Mill does the rest—and does it right, and its nail eating qualities stand alone. Would not consider ourselves up-to-date without it.

Respectfully yours,

SUGAR.

The week which has elapsed since our last report has shown no change in the situation. The market continues very firm and some interests are inclined to the belief that further advances will take place. We think that a policy of conservatism had best be followed with respect to the purchase of this commodity.

TEA.

Reports from Japan are to the effect that strong holders in that country have pooled their interests with the result that new crop teas are in strong hands and advances are predicted.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co., report under date of July 22, 1907:

The market shows no marked change since our last report. Demand has been active and full prices paid.

We look for prices on Best Grades of Imported Japan to reach $6.50 and expect to see the better grades of Domestic Japans bring $6.00 by August 1st.

New York, July 16th.—Dan Talmage's Son's Co., report:

"There has been good enquiry during the week, both from local and nearby trade. Orders are rather larger in volume than usual for the season, and prices are firm account of somewhat scanty assortment. This is being reduced daily with but trifling accessions in way of fresh arrivals to illustrate:

Receipts at New York.

July 1st. to 16th, 1906, 22,681 pockets; July 1st, to 16th, 1907 2,330 pockets. Comment is unnecessary as to effect upon the market.

"Advices from the South noteestrong but quiet market on the Atlantic Coast nearly everything disposed of and stocks in distributor's hands, light At New Orleans, market is strong, good demand but transactions limited account of scanty supplies and almost nothing offering. The advent of the "scissors crop of New" may be expected any day, although receipts of practical moment are not looked for quite as early as usual. Bountiful rains have been very beneficial to the growing crop, and if nature will kindly give sunshine for harvest during August and September, finer qualities than usual may be expected. The vicissitudes of weather at this juncture, play a most important part and contribute not a little to the anxiety of planters.

"Cables and correspondence from abroad not firm market."

DRIED FRUIT.

According to a letter from W. M. Griffin, who is now in the east, the ruling of the Department of Agriculture preventing the use of sulphur in the drying of fruits will not be so rigidly enforced as was at first supposed. Mr. Griffin says that the department will allow sulphuring during the current season, so the question is apparently settled for this year. This is good news to the orchardists of the state, as it means that there will be no great slump in values as a result of the elimination of sulphur in the process of fruit drying, and applies particularly to peaches at the moment Since the opening of the season the canners have been paying from $40 to $70 a ton throughout the state for peaches, but when it became apparent that dryers would be forced out of the field on account of the sulphur question they were quick to take advantage of the situation and reduce their bids. It is reported that the canner's agents have cut their prices in the Vacaville region to $25@30 per ton, but with the drying industry still a factor growers will not be obliged to accept these low prices and can again expect the remunerative returns which the light crops warrant.

PRUNES.

The slight weakening of 10 days ago has given way to a sharp upward tendency, which is attributed to the heavy drop of the partially developed fruit in the San Joaquin valley. Another factor in the situation lies in the fact that a considerable percentage of the Santa Clara Valley crop is within the control of one or two firms, and they are inclined to force the market up a notch.

San Jose, Cal., July 23—The returns from growers as to their estimates of the crop of dried prunes for the current year are now all in and the estimate for 1907 can very safely be placed at 36,000,000 pounds of dried prunes. The yield for 1906, according to our information and the average estimate of the packers, can be fairly said to be 110,000,000 pounds, and of the year previous 1905, as 45,000,000 pounds.

RAISINS.

The market in this line shows a little softening due to the slackening of the eastern demand. The jobbers east of the Rockies are in many instances imbued with the fear of a lower market. This feeling is unquestionably induced by the reports from Valencia, Spain, which are to the effect that unless something out of the ordinary should happen, the Valencia crop will be the largest in years, with consequent low prices.

Fresno, Cal., July 22—There is practically nothing doing in raisins in the Fresno district at present. The packers seem to have all the goods necessary to supply their demands and are not reaching out for any more. Ask them what they are offering and they will say 5¼c to 5½c. But few if any growers are selling. It is estimated that three-quarters of the crop has passed out of the hands of the growers. The general opinion is that the prices will not again reach high water mark until late in the season.

New York, July 20.—Latest advices received in the trade are to the effect that the Malaga raisin crop in Spain is progressing favorably, and with no setbacks between now and September the crop will be a fine one.

California raisins were offered late yesterday at 8¾c. for fancy seeded f. o. b. Coast for October-November shipment, showing a slight easing up in the market.

DATES.

New York, July 20.—The Hills Bros. Co's agent at Muscat advises them that the crop of Fard dates will be an abundant one and of good quality. Regarding the Persian crop, advices from Bussorah point to a good crop of both Sayers and Khadrawis, with Hallowis not so plentiful as last season.

HONEY.

Los Angeles.—A hundred tons of honey is the output of Orange County apairies this year. The yield in this county as in all Southern California is only about half a crop. Practically the whole output in this county has been bought up by Guggenhime & Co. and C. C. Collins & Son at prices ranging from 5c. to 6c per pound. The output in this county is nearly all extracted honey. There is very little comb honey put on the market. The price paid this year to the apiariets has been between 5c. and 6c.

Riverside.—Some honey buyers are in the market here, to buy comb honey at 11½c. While some bee men may sell at that price, others will hold for 12½c. and 13c. The crop would have been very short here had there been no fire, and the fire cuts it off a third or more in addition.

WALNUTS.

Fullerton.—G. W. Sherwood says the walnut crop on his place will be 25 per cent larger than that of last year. Many other leading growers also say that the crop of Fullerton and Pleacentia will be much heavier than it was last season.

Los Angeles.—Unless something unforesseen occurs this year's walnut crop in Southern California will be fully as large, if not larger, than that of last season.

ALMONDS.

None of the almond growers Associations have come out with prices on new crop up to this writing. It is believed that prices will be in sympathy with foreign grown nuts, such goods being lower in price this season than last. The crop is very short.

CORN.

Future Corn is about as last reported, with few packers willing to accept business of any consequence on account of the uncertainty prevailing as to what the yield may bring forth. Unfavorable conditions which have been reported from week to week, must be forgotten and possibilities cannot be reported any more favorable at this writing, than heretofore.

BEANS.

The market in this line continues firm with a natural advancing tendency.

It is reported from Stockton, Cal., that the San Joaquin County bean output this season will be but one-fourth of that of last year. Owing to the many flooded tracts the acreage has been greatly reduced and on Staten Island alone fully 150,000 bags will have been lost to the general yield of the section.

PICKLES.

Chicago, July 17.—The acreage planted for cucumbers for commercial pickling is so much smaller than last year's acreage that the selling agents for the Western Pickling Association have issued a statement to the effect that on account of the reduction in the acreage regardless of the yield from that planted there will be a shortage in the crop. This statement continues:

"The blight which last season ravaged all the Western States and which seems to have come to stay in some of the old pickle-growing sections, is causing much uneasiness and alarm in the minds of packers who are accustomed to selling futures. The fall trade has started in a month ahead of the usual time and the crop being late there is likely to be an exhaustion of 1906 crop before new crop is cured fit to use.

"Some wise jobbers are ordering now for fall trade, as prices will, no doubt, be higher, even with a full crop. If unfavorable weather or disease hits the crop the prediction of $8 per barrel for 30-gallon barrels 1200-size mediums may be realized, and the salter who is asking two dollars per bushel for his 1907 crop vat-run pickles will find customers."

LIMBURGER CHEESE.

Wieland Bros., report under date of July 25:

Limburger cheese New Stock—We advise dealers to buy from hand to month as this New Stock is not of a good keeping quality.

SALMON.

Seattle, July 20.—Uncertainty still characterizes the salmon canning industry of the Northwest. The sock-eye run is not yet on and so uncertain are the prospects that calculations as to the final pack cannot be made. Packers up the coast have in many cases flatly refused to quote prices on their output. They have taken all the orders for cheap fish that they can safely take at present without jeopardizing their business. Some refuse to contract at any price until they know what the pack will be. A few have closed contracts, price and quantity subject to the pack and to the prevailing quotation at the time of delivery. Ordinarily the packers contract their fish long before it is put up, but the fact that the market is different this season and that the pack of recent years becoming more and more problematical, is this year causing the cannerymen to be more cautious. In previous years packers have sold futures ahead and then been compelled to make short deliveries, and in many cases selling at an actual loss. This year they have determined to wait. Speaking of the situation, Andrew Weber, a well known salmon broker says:

"The cannerymen cannot be blamed for refusing to sell in the present condition of the market. Conditions are much different this year from what they have been in the past. The market is bare of salmon of any kind. The demand is enormous. We do not know what the pack will be, but the present indications are that it will be woefully light and not equal to the demand. If by waiting until the extent of the pack is definitely known, the packer will be able to realize more for his fish, he is wise in refusing to sell even at the present high quotations. There is little salmon changing hands. I expect, however, that the market on the Sound will open about the same as the Columbia River salmon. In the entire history of the salmon industry on the Sound, I have never seen the salmon market in as healthy condition as now. But little salmon still remains on the market.

Philip J. Brady says "The salmon market is remarkably firm, but this was to be expected. While the sock-eyes should now be running there will still be time for a good pack. The market, however, will be influenced most by the output of the canneries in Southeastern Alaska. If the output there is heavy, the present firmness may be eased off somewhat, but it is still too early to tell what will happen up there. The brokers have been anxious to buy sockeye salmon even at a substantial advance over last year's quotations, but with a few exceptions, we have been able to secure but little fish. Would the packers sell, there would be no difficulty in closing out the bulk of the output in the next few weeks."

IMPORTED SARDINES.

Private letters from Louis Schwiers, of Newman & Schwiers, dated July 5, at Nantes, France, give an especially pessimistic tone to the buying market in France. Mr. Schwiers writes that he was unable to buy a single tin of French sardines there, the packers being absolutely bare of goods and unwilling to make prices or take orders at any figure. They expect no catch of the fish before September. Another cause of disturbance in the American trade is the new requirement as to tins and labels, which means the abandonment of thousands of tins already on hand. In mushrooms the situation is no better, all the big manufacturers having cancelled orders and withdrawn prices. He says that Portuguese sardines are as scarce as the French, especially due to the closing of the big factories for a month past by a strike of the workmen.

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, July 16.—Jed Frye & Co., report:

"The catch of fish at the Maine canneries continues very light and irregular. Packer's shipments are, as a rule, in excess of their pack, and the small surplus accumulated during June is rapidly being reduced. Indications all point to an advance on spot deliveries.

HAY.

Somers & Co., report under date of July 23,:

No appreciable change can be noted in prices, yet some concessions are being made in order to effect sales readily.

There seems to be but little feeling that the Winter will show any marked advance over present prices except to cover carrying charges.

Alfalfa under increased shipments shows some little weakening, and Straw continues rather scarce but also in very light demand. We give present prices as follows:

Choice Wheat Hay	$18.00 to 20.00
Good Wheat Hay	15.00 to 17.50
Other grades same	9.00 to 14.00
Wheat & Oat	9.00 to 16.00
Tame Oat	8.00 to 16.00
Old Wild Oat	8.00. to 11.00
New Wild Oat	8.50 to 12.50
Stock Hay	7.50 to 9.00
Alfalfa	8.50 to 13.50

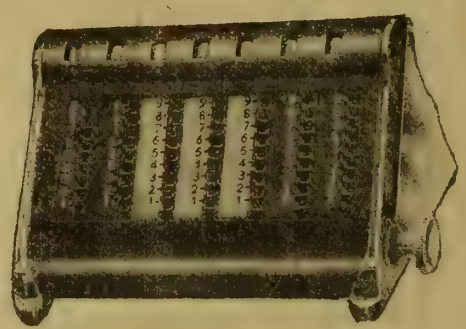
TRADE IN FRUITS AND NUTS.

Rapid Strides Made by United States in Supplying Home Demand.



Washington, D. C., July 13.—Fruits and nuts of domestic production are supplying a rapidly increasing share of American consumption of those classes of commodities, and in certain articles, notably raisins, prunes and oranges, the home product has practically excluded that of foreign origin. A compilation recently made by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor strikingly illustrates the improved position of the United States during the past twenty years with reference to its ability to supply home demand for fruits and nuts.

Twenty years ago the importation of fruits and nuts amounted in value to 20 2-3 million dollars, while domestic exportations thereof were but 2 2-3 millions, purchases of the foreign product being thus over seven times, as much as sales to foreign countries. In the fiscal year just ended importations were about 35 millions and exportations 17¼ millions. American sales abroad of home-produced fruits and nuts being thus practically one-half as much as purchases of the foreign product. In the period from 1887 to 1907 imports of fruits and nuts have increased but 80 per cent, while exports of the domestic product have increased about 540 per cent.

Closer analysis of the figures under consideration develops the fact that the growth in importations of fruits and nuts has been confined to a few lines in which local production has not been sufficient to meet home consumption, such as bananas, figs and other preserved fruits, walnuts, cocoanuts and almonds. Nearly all other articles show decreased importations during the period under review. Bananas have advanced from 2 2-3 million dollars in 1887 to approximately 12 million dollars in 1907, figs and preserved fruits, from 1¼ millions to nearly 4 millions; cocoanuts from 819 thousand dollars to 1 1-3 millions; almonds, from less than 600 thousand dollars to about 2 1-3 millions; and all other nuts (chiefly walnuts) from a little less than 700 thousand dollars to practically 6 million dollars, of which latter sum fully 3 million dollars represented the value of walnuts imported. On the other hand, importations of oranges have decreased from a little less than 2½ million dollars in 1887 to 400 thousand in 1907; raisins, from 2¼ million dollars to less than 400 thousand dollars; and prunes, from practically 3 million dollars to less than 50 thousand dollars; while lemons have remained practically stationary at 4 million dollars; during the twenty-year period, the figures indicating in each case that the greatly enlarged consumption since 1887 has been fully met by domestic production.

The growth in exports of domestic fruits extends to practically every class enumerated in the schedules of our foreign trade. In 1887 apples was the only item whose exports exceeded 1 million dollars, the value of this commodity ($1,382,872) contributing considerably more than one-half of the annual sales abroad. In the year just ended the items whose exports exceeded each 1 million dollars included dried apples, apples green or ripe, preserved fruits, oranges, prunes and other fruits, included in which may be mentioned peaches and pears to the value of 900 thousand dollars, raisins 600 thousand and miscellaneous fruits over 2 million dollars, Meanwhile nuts have made their appearance on the list of exported articles, and for the fiscal year 1907 their total, was about $400,000, three-fourths of which was peanuts. Exports of dried apples grew from $413,363 in 1887 to about 1,100,000 in 1907; apples, green or ripe, from $1,382,872 to $4,700,000; preserved fruits, from $536,283 to $1,700,000; and all other fruits, not separately classified in 1887, from $33,447 in that year to $7,300,000 in 1907.

The changed position of the United States in relation to its dependence upon foreign countries for fruits is clearly illustrated by a comparison of the imports and exports of certain representative commodities. Of foreign-grown fruits consumed in the United States, bananas supply fully one-third of the total. Of the year's importations of bananas, aggregating nearly 12 million dollars, Central America (chiefly Costa Rica, Honduras and Panama) supplied about 6 million dollars, the British West Indies about 4½ millions, and Cuba considerably over 1 million dollars. Italy is the most exclusive source of supply for the lemons imported into the United States from year to year. Imported currents are chiefly of the Xante variety, produced in Greece, Twenty years ago the United States was importing over 2 million dollar's worth of raisins annually, chiefly from Spain, but the entire importations in 1907 were less than a half million dollars. In 1887 Italy contributed nearly 2 million dollar's worth of oranges to the markets of the United States, the British West Indies, Spain and Cuba together supplying an additional half million dollar's worth; but in the year just ended the entire imports were but 400 thousand dollars, of which Italy supplied about one-third.

THOUGHTS ON ADVERTISING

Some Original Thinking by "The Little School-Master"

Good value, it is true, is the very best advertisement ever issued, but there is nothing like printer's ink to let people know where they can get it.

Advertising without quoting prices shows your confidence in your salesmen. Advertising the prices also shows your confidence in your goods and prices.

A good many retailers give such liberal window and poster display to a few of the proprietary articles they handle that all the individuality of their own store is buried out of sight.

The fact, if it is one, that your competitors misrepresent is not a good excuse for following in their lead. You are on the watch for some distinguishing feature peculiar to your own business, for advertising purposes. If you have discovered their weak point, misrepresentation, make it your strong one, and don't misrepresent.

Appearance counts for much and one of the first requisites of success is to appear successful. The man who fails to keep his windows up to date; who sends out circulars printed upon the cheapest kind of paper that will hold together to be printed; who uses only half enough newspaper space to properly tell his story, is rather forcibly advertising the fact that he is not upon the road that men call prosperity.—Printers Ink.

WANT BEER PROTECTED.

one of the largest dealers in the city and used influence to have these dealers stop cutting.

In the next column will be seen the evidence that the bottler has the right to refuse to sell to a cutter if he acts as an individual.

The grocers, too, acting as individuals, have the right to refuse to handle any beer that the bottler allows to be sold by cutters.

The Associated Retail Grocers wanted to bring about an exchange of ideas between these men of mutual interests. They therefore arranged a meeting and, in order that they might voice the opinion of a large majority of the grocery trade, send to 400 grocers letters asking them to answer a number of questions. Inside of 24 hours, more than fifty answers came back. Each said:

"We won't handle beers that are not protected. We will attend a meeting."

The questions asked of the grocers were as follows:

1. Do you want the beer bottlers to do as the flour mills—fix a fair price on their product and refuse to sell to cutters?

2. If the leading bottlers do this will you agree not to handle the beers of the bottlers who sell to cutters?

3. Will you attend a meeting to be called within the next ten days to meet the bottlers?

Among the grocers who answered YES, very emphatically, are:

Attracting Trade.

WHAT REAL HUSTLE WILL DO.

"Don't sit down in the meadow and wait for the cow to back up to be milked. Get up and go after the cow" An extract from a speech at the Advertisers Exposition at Chicago.

There are too many fellows in the trade whose faith in their money and store is too great for their own good. They imagine if they offer a fine stock, in a handsome store, patrons will come without further effort. It's a mistake. "Get up and go after the cow."

Don't sit down by the front door and wait for buyers to come in to be milked. Go out and hunt the customers.

A grocer opened a store on the West Side in Chicago and for a day or two stood in the doorway waiting for "the cows to back up to be milked." Three of four drifted in by chance, but he had to have more milk, so he resolved to go after the rest of the herd, and made a house-to-house canvass covering a radius of five blocks of his store. He made the visits himself. At the end of the second day the one clerk needed an assistant. At the end of the third day both chief clerk and helper were "up to their ears" in orders. This grocer was a genial fellow and a good talker who won favor. In less than a month he built up a trade bigger than that enjoyed by some of the older grocers in the neighborhood who never had considered it necessary to "go after the cows."

Don't sit down behind the desk and wait for delinquent customers to come in to settle. Go out and collect accounts; preserve your credit; make good your opportunity to pick up bargains for cash.

Don't sit down if there is work to do. Keep everlastingly at it, if you want to forge ahead. Keep that motto—Do it now—ever before you. Hustle On rainy or dull days work on the shelf stock, re-arrange. Give the store a new face to win visitors.

And mind you—you don't have to go to Chicago's West Side to see enterprising grocer get results. Right here in San Francisco the same "cow" proposition is demonstrated time and again. And in the country it is demonstrated again. Examples may be found everywhere. Only the other day the writer was brought face to face with a remarkable case of personality. The man in point happens to be a butcher but will neverthless prove interesting and profitable in view of the fact that we want a little evidence for the skeptical. Going into the Western Addition of this city with competition on nearly every block at the end of five years he controlled the biggest trade in the locality. After a lapse of a period of 4 years more he owned 2 stores and a huge ranch in the country. Two years ago this same man had amassed enough capital to tour with his family his native, Germany. And he was on a dull street at that. Nor does this somewhat exceptional story end here. His successor has been in this line of business for twenty years but presented the actual spectacle of letting the business dwindle and pine away till at length it was reduced to the same hand to mouth proposition as the other shop in the locality. And here again our German friend rebuys his business and is rapidly rebuilding it. The writer has heard several coments like the following passed from house wife to housewife in that locality. "Be sure and go to Mr. ——, Jimmie." The same is applicable in the grocery trade. In the country there is no excuse for a grocer to have people being supplied from the city. Neither is there any excuse why an established country merchant's business should be impaired at the inroads of opposition. Any merchant who is a victim of these things has himself to thank. He is one of those ancients that insist that these "young" fellows can't hurt his old "friends" or that say, if I can't get trade in the store I can't get it outside the store. He is mistaken. He is modern. He'll have to get busy or he'll be a dead one. If you want any milk you have to get it yourself. You'll have to hustle and hustle the right way.

Do YOUR Share

Every Dealer in Groceries Should Join the California Retail Grocers and Merchants Association. HE OWES THIS TO HIMSELF. The Same Influence that made the Legislature of 1907 willing to give us FOUR LAWS would make the Wholesalers and Manufacturers Willing to Grant any Fair Request.

Here Is What You Can Do

1. Get Better Laws. 2. Collect Bad Bills. 3. Induce Manufacturers to Protect Profits. 4. Make Wholesalers, Etc., Stop Selling to Your Customers.

REMEMBER: The State Grocers Association Does Not Do These Things For You. It Helps You Do Them For Yourself With the Help of Other Grocers. If You Are Willing Help, Send Us Word. (The Dues are $3 per Year).

Kind Words Make Friends.

How many of us ever stop to consider how little it costs and yet how much good, a kind word of approbation or encouragement means. In these days of hurry and rush after the almighty dollar, we all are prone to forget that the other fellow is human as well as ourselves we do not give a sharp reply with the intent of hurting somebody, but rather it is an expression of our own particular feelings at the time; thus, because we are "feeling sore," we unintentionally hand it to the other fellow, who in turn passes it along, making a sort of endless chain of bad feeling.

How much better it would be if the first sharp answer were never given. No good can come of it, and yet much good might have come if the answer had been of a kindly nature. An instance of the harm of a sharp reply came under the writers observation recently. A lady shopping in a large grocery store, the wooden ware department.

The lady was met by the floorwalker who after learning her wants, lead her to the part of the floor in which t article she desired was kept, and calling a clerk, he told the lady's wants. The clerk, who was a new one in that department took down the article requested, but could not give the selling price. Therefore, he was abliged to go to the head of the store for this information. The head was "sore;" perhaps somebody had given him a sharp answer; at any rate he turned on the clerk and "called him down" sharply for not knowing the price.

The clerk went back to his customer, and with the unjustified and surly rebuke of the proprietor rankling within him, he was in turn sharp, insolent and indifferent to the lady. The customer soon left the store, indignant and hurt. and resolved never again to trade there. Thus we have a sequence of events, each one of which seared and could do no good, and which in the end did mischief.

A kind word, instead of a sharp or surly one, is the kind to utter. Keep the grouch down. Patience may cease to be a virtue at times, but kindness never ceases to be in place at a times.Attracting Trade . . . . . .

A week of exceedingly hot weather in southern California has had the fefect of reducing the crop of sugar beets. It is estimated that the Los Alamitos crop will be more than a thousand tons short, and that of the Chino district will probably be proportionately less. The Oxnard district being nearer the ocean, was not affected to the same degree as the others.

BEAUTY AS AN AD

A Case Proving Again That "A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever."

There is a store in Boston which deals exclusively in dairy products. The management of this store conceived the idea of starting a milk counter in one corner of the store for the purpose of serving to the thirsty passer-by a goblet of milk right fresh from the cow for 5 cents per glass.

So a young wholesome-looking man was placed in charge of the milk counter and the proprietors waited for business. But business didn't come. The milk counter was a failure. Its maintenance really represented a loss in money to the store. Fresh milk was coming in daily, but none was going out.

A member of the firm thought he saw light, so he advertised for a pretty girl to run the milk counter. She came—she came in bunches. There were several dozens of her. The firm member in whose hands had been placed the destiny of the milk counter was a good judge of beauty. From the total of fair applicants for the place he chose the fairest maid of all. She was a comely, buxom lass with brown hair, liquid brown eyes and a complexion which would make a ripe peach want to hide itself. The firm furnished her a tailor-made outfit and moved the milk counter over in front of a big plate-glass window where all who passed might see her. There she stood in all the radiant beauty of the dairymaid of song and story. The little white cap and white apron and her sleeves reefed to the elbows gave a finishing touch to the picture.

Men who hadn't tasted milk since their nurse-bottle days gravitated toward that milk counter. Clerks who disliked fresh milk to such an extent that it choked them came up to that counter, laid down their nickels and took their medicine like sports. Business grew to such an extent that the dairymaid couldn't take care of it, and another pretty assistant was added to the milk counter.

Beauty may be only skin deep, but it sells the goods.

Yuba City.—Dr. E. V. Jacobc of Meridian, who owns extensive holdings in that vicinity, has planted 40 acres to coffee and the reports from the new plants are that they are in a thriving state of growth and promise well at harvest time. Should the coffee grains thoroughly mature Sutter will boast of the only coffee plantation on the Pacific Coast.

VISALIA, California.—The best sugar factory at this place began operations for the season on July 6th. The beets are reported to be of better quality than those of last year and the crop is larger, being sufficient to supply this 350-ton plant for a run of 4 months.

The canning plant of the Antioch Asparagus Company was totally destroyed by fire last Sunday. A large quantity of box material was stored in the building and was also burned. The loss is placed at $45,000, and the plant was insured for about one-third its value.

FRUIT GROWERS PROTEST.

The Fruit-Grower's Protective Association of California is voicing the indignation of the fruit packers and shippers of the State against the action of the Washington authorities in the Department of Agriculture ignoring the requests that an increased amount of sulphur may be used in the preservation of dried fruits over and above the amount prescribed by the recent pure food act. Despite indignant complaints the only answer obtainable from Washington is that Secretary Wilson is out of town and no action can be taken.

The complaint of the association, which met this week at the offices of Henry Cahen at 209 California st. in this city, is that the pure food act allows the use of but .070 of 1 per cent in the drying and preservation of fruit. The growers claim that .250 are necessary to obtain the best product, and that the use of sulphur fumes have worked no injury to consumers in the past and would not in the future.

One week ago the association organized in the offices of the California Promotion committee, where the campaign to have a reconsideration of the law by the Washington department originated. At the meeting this week it was suggested that the association invite every grower in California to wire Washington for instructions as to the suggestion of a way in which they may dry their fruit properly and yet conform with the law. There are more than 8000 fruit-growers in the State interested in the matter, and the association considered the advisability of asking them to wire Washington as individuals or as affiliated associations.

The most serious features of the departmental ruling is that it comes upon the state in the midst of the fruit season, when there is no time to change or modify present methods, or to change or alter labels and cartons on hand in time to meet the demands for the handling of the 1907 crop. The governor, senators and congressmen and the trustees of the Grower's and Packer's association have been and are making every effort to obtain a suspension of this decision for a sufficient length of time to permit the handling of this year's product, being convinced that the situation can be met to the satisfaction of the department and without distress to the industry if time is given in which to meet it. If in the midst of handling the great product, this order is allowed to stand in force, the entire state will suffer irreparable injury.

The present state of affairs is deplorable, for growers throughout the state fear to sulphur and the packers and shippers hesitate to accept delivery, fearing inability to ship to eastern buyers.

A. Schilling & Co. report that the tea business as they find it is good and shows an increase. Local conditions do not seriously affect them. They have their new tea-firing machine installed now and consider it a strong point of their plant. The construction is original and is kept secret by the company. Considerable improvements are also going forward in the coffee machinery.

CHINO, California.—The season has been backward in this section of California and the crop of beets is a little below the average; nevertheless, the condition is fair and there is promise of an outturn of 12 tons per acre. It is expected that the factories at Chino and at Oxnard will start up for the season about the middle of August.

SCIENTIFIC STORE KEEPING.

The Part Played by Labor-Saving Store Equipments.

Most up-to-date merchants now realize that general utility, space saving, labor saving and handsome store equipments are necessary for the scientific retailing of foods, and as a result there has been an increasing demand for fixtures of this character in the past five years.

Previously we were familiar with the old-style open cracker and sugar barrels, the open bin for cereals, dried fruits, spices and other foods generally kept in drawers in bulk quantities, where they were like to deteriorate from exposure and handling. The consumers have been in favor of a more sanitary way of handling goods, have changes from their old routine way of doing business by giving them their trade.

Nowadays every grocer is stirring to have the surroundings of his store of such a character as to excite favorable comment on the part of the buyer immediately after entering his place, and by having the goods displayed in such a tempting manner as to induce people to buy. In order to do this the appointments in the store must be of a kind that facilitate the showing and handling of goods, as well as keeping them from the dust and dirt always prevalent in a store, and from mice, insects and "tasters."

A grocer with modern, up-to-date equipments, where such goods as crackers, dried fruits, cereals and all farinaceous goods are shown in bins, under glass, and teas, coffees and spices and other merchandise presented in an attractive way in bins made with mirror fronts, and other paraphernalia to beautify the store, making the surroundings pleasant—is the man who is doing the most business to-day, while the old "foggy" who cannot keep abreast with the times, and is satisfied to do business under conditions that have been in use for the past fifty years, is gradually losing business to "the other fellow."

Fixtures of this character not only beautify the store, but reduce the store help to a minimum. The writer knows of an instance where there is a store doing business in Philadelphia on one floor, 40 by 80, and handling from 800 to 1,200 people daily with eighteen clerks. This could never be done under the old methods of retailing. There are experts in this store-equipment business to-day who make a specialty of furnishing new stores and remodeling old ones, who have studied the subject completely and are able to advise to the merchant's profit, and who change the appearance of a store so much in a day that the customers who come in the next day to buy often wonder if they are not in the wrong place.

Take it to yourself. If two stores, side by side, were doing business, one merchant keeping his goods clean and free of contamination, presenting to the purchaser goods in the best possible manner, and the other just the reverse — prices being equal where would you spend your money? These are points well worth considering, and the sooner the grocer begins to realize that he has to do just the same as the druggist started to do twenty years ago to retain trade and make new customers, the better off he will be.

The Walker Patent Pivoted Bin Company of Philadelphia, have fitted many stores recently, and have probably fitted as many individual stores as any other concern that we know of in that line of business. We understand that they issue a very handsome catalogue showing some of their many stores and also the different styles of fixtures that they manufacture, which they send on request to possible purchasers.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

It is learned that the bill passed by the last Legislature providing for the submission to the people at the next general election of a plan for the issuance of $1,000,000 of bonds for the condemnation of land at that point has a serious defect that may make the bill invalid. It was recently discovered that one whole line in the body of the bill was dropped out during its sojourn in the office of the State Printer, and the purposes of which the bill was intended, may be delayed for four years to come.

Santa Ana.—Another lot of land has been added to the holdings of the Union Oil Co. between Whittier and Fullerton. This consists o f 700 acres of the Meyer's ranch, west of the Mùrphy gusher territory and near La Mirada Station. This land has not been tested for oil, but its location with reference to other leases now producing and the fact that in drillign years ago a strong flow of gas was encountered, leads to the belief that the territory is in the belt.

Benicia. The Glen Cove Oil Refining Co., composed of Eastern capitalists and represented in the Coast by Davis Fleisher, of San Francisco, has sold its interest to the Standard Oil Co. Work had already been started on putting up tanks and also a large hotel for the accommodation of workmen, and a wharf franhcise secreted from the county. All work has ceased and in all probability this puts an end to the future of the project. It was ever thus..

Gilroy. The cannery has been completed, ready for business as soon as peaches are ripe, at which time the season will open, to run continously until the frosts set in. During this time all kinds of fruits and vegetables will be canned. The proprietors of the cannery, Biceglia Bros., have leased 700 acres of land lying along the Pacheco creek from the Malarin Ranch Co., on which land they will raise vegetables. They have also a large tract of the Bloomsfield ranch leased on which they have planted tomatoes.

San Diego.—San Diego has been chosen by nothern capitalists as the location for a canning factory, to exceed the size in any similar industry in the State. A number of Los Angeles and San Pedro capitalists are interested in the enterprise and have had representatives in this city for some time investigating the possibilities of the city for the undertaking such as they are contemplating. The company will seek concessions from the Mexican government relative to sending fishing fleets into the Gulf of California. and a vast amuont of fish will be brought to this place and canned for shipment east.

Vasilia. The Earl Fruit Co., has, up to last week, shipped 65 cars of plums out of this city this season. Peaches are now being commenced on, and it is expected that fully 75 cars of them will be sent out possibly more..Quite a number of the Crawford a nd Foster variety have already been packed, and the Albertas are now in s eason.

Purposes and Accomplishments

OF THE

California Retail Grocers' & Merchants' Association

OFFICIAL PAPER—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Plan of Operation.

Prior to 1900, different associations of merchants of California had asked for various laws, from time to time, and had always failed to secure results through lack of organization. These failures caused the Retail Grocers' Association of San Francisco to invite other similar associations to send delegates to a convention in September, 1900. At this convention, it was decided to form an organization to be known as the

CALIFORNIA RETAIL GROCERS' AND MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

This Association was organized to enable the grocers of California and other merchants to co-operate in order to accomplish results by their united action that they could not secure singly. Each Association sends delegates to an annual convention. These delegates decide the policy to be followed and elect officers to carry out their plans. Every individual member has the right to attend the annual convention as a delegate.

The next State Convention will be held at Sacramento, on September 10th, 11th and 12th, 1907.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

LAWS SECURED.—Prior to the Legislative Session of 1907, the combined efforts of the merchants affiliated with the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association secured the following results:

Permitting the Attachment of the Wages of Public Officials.

Making a Wife's Separate Property Responsible for Family Bills for the Necessaries of Life. Property owned before marriage or received by will, exempt.

Making a Guarantee of Purity a Sufficient Defense for a Dealer Charged with Violating the Pure Food Law.

We also secured the passage of the following laws through both houses of the Legislature.

VETOED BY GOVERNOR PARDEE.

Making an Account Date from the Time of the Last Item and making a Payment Renew an Account. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Allowing Merchants to Form Mutual Fire Insurance Companies. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Declaring Trading Stamps Illegal. Declared Unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

SESSION OF 1907.

At the Legislative Session of 1907, the work at Sacramento was particularly well organized, and, although we were very short of funds, we secured the passage of the following laws ALL OF WHICH were approved by Governor Gillett and THEY ARE NOW LAWS.

1. Making the time in which an open book account outlaws FOUR years instead of two.
2. Allowing the formation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.
3. Making the passing of a check WITH INTENT TO DEFRAUD a State's Prison offense.
4. Providing that the dealer shall not be held responsible for the purity of goods GUARANTEED TO HIM AS PURE.

WE HAVE MORE LAWS TO GET. We want your influence.

We have, by united action, convinced the manufacturers of flour in several localities that the trade wanted them to stop senseless cutting. This has added many dollars to the profits of the grocers.

We propose to unite, where it is considered desirable, so that, as a body, we can:

(a) Protest EFFECTIVELY when any manufacturer allows his goods to be cut. We want your influence.

(b) Protest EFFECTIVELY when a wholesaler or manufacturer sells to a party who would otherwise buy from one of our members. We want your influence.

(c) Protest EFFECTIVELY when a wholesaler or manufacturer sends out "short" packages to members. We want your influence.

We are helping members collect bad bills (and saving them lawyer's fees) by a set of collections letters which always produce splendid results when properly used.

Our paper, The Retail Grocers' Advocate, which we own, is the medium which makes it possible for us to secure the results outlined above..

ALL THESE THINGS COST MONEY—You could not get them for $300 a year alone. We think you ought to pay your share ($3 a year) in annual dues. DON'T YOU?

California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.

DENATURED ALCOHOL PLANT.

Oxnard Factory Will Use Huge Quantities of Beets and Other Vegetables.

OXNARD, July 21—The first subscribed stock was paid for Saturday in what is to be the first industrial alcohol plant in the west, and, so far as is known, the first in the United States devoted to the manufacture of denatured alcohol as an exclusive industry. It will be established in the heart of one of the richest beet sugar districts in the United States, which feeds the Oxnard sugar factory for a number of months each year. The new industry, it is thought, will do even more than the sugar industry has done in the placing of the agriculturist in a position to be assured a more ready market and a better price for his product, besides lessening the price to him of many manufactured articles. It will enable the manufacturer not only to compete in the home market with foreign manufacturers of many staple articles of commerce, but will open new fields to exploit which have been exclusively monopolized heretofore by countries enjoying the use of tax free alcohol.

The process through which the local manufacturers hope to create a great furor in the industrial world has been patented by Robert Grauer, who has the right of manufacture in the United States. His discovery is so simple that it is almost startling. It consists of making a mash of the beet, potato or other vegetable from which the alcohol is to be manufactured, adding to this wet wheat bran, which is all that is necessary to cause the alcoholic fermentation.

Robert Grauer immediately interested capitalists in his discovery and a company to be known as the American alcohol and sugar company was organized and capitalized with a capital stock of $1,000,000, the larger part of which has been subscribed. Grauer has taken the p osition of consulting chemist for the company. He has written recently a book on the subject of alcohol and has left for Germany to procure and design plans for the factory. He is a member of the famous Wilhelm Grauer family, which has been largely instrumental in the introduction of the alcohol industry in Germany, Austria and France.

Upon his return the plans and specifications will be submitted to the board of directors of the company and the work of construction of a factory will be begun within the sight of the American beet sugar plant. Alcohol will be manufactured from the beets that have always been used hitherto in the manufacture of beet sugar.

Many of the stockholders of this remarkable undertaking are farmers who have become wealthy raising sugar beets and lima beans and have a sufficient holding of the beet lands to supply a large alcohol factory in the form of sugar beets.

The plant to be built by the American alcohol and sugar company will have a capacity of handling 100 tons of sugar beets a day, basing the data upon the calculations of experienced European distillers. The process patented by Grauer and known as the Palmer process also simplifies the distillation many per cent.

Alcohol is used extensively in the manufacture of dyes and other byproducts from coal tar. Its use in the manufacture of smokeless powder, it is said, will reduce the cost of manufacturing that product more than one-half. One of its most important uses is in the manufacture of varnishes and lacquers, where the gums that are employed are dissolved in alcohol.

This use of alcohol is very important and affects many industries. The ether of commerce is manufacturer exclusively from alcohol by the use of sulphuric acid and heat.

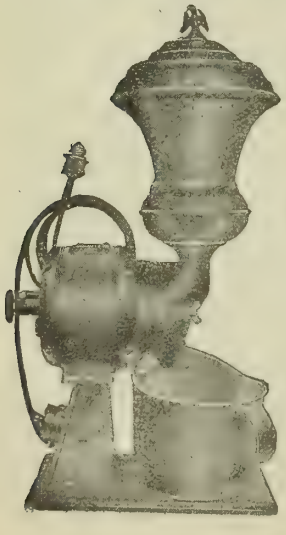
WILL PROTECT PRICES.

Manufacturers of New Articles Sends State Grocers' Association Notice of His Desires.

Another convert to the argument of hundreds of California retailers that they are entitled to a fair profit on the goods they distribute for the manufacturer, made himself known this week.



The California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association is in receipt of the following notice:

"I wish to announce that I guarantee to protect the retail selling price of FLY STICKEM, which is now retailing in all stores at 15 cents each or two for 25 cents. C. A. ARENTS, 561 Lincoln Ave., Alameda.

All manufacturers who take this step are entitled to the most hearty co-operation of the trade, since, by such action, the desire to see the grocer succeed and profit is clearly demonstrated.

Mr. Arents has also been consistent in his recognition of the value of the Advocate's advertising columns and we hope that our readers will show their appreciation of this fact by sending for a free sample of this new sundry—it is a practical article and worthy of investigation.

McCASKEY'S NEW ADDRESS.

W. A. Hawley Permanently Located in Oakland.

The McCaskey Register Company of Alliance, Ohio, through their coast agent, Mr. W. A. Hawley, wish to announce to friends and patrons of the McCaskey Account Register, that they are now permanently located in their new offices in the St. Regis Building, corner 25th and Grove Sts., Oakland, where they are prepared to carefully and promptly attend to all the wants of the trade in way of orders for registers and supplies. Owing to the recent strike troubles which have so seriously crippled car service in the city of San Francisco and in order to accommodates county merchants, Mr. Hawley decided it was for the best interests of his Company to locate in Oakland where viisting merchants may find no inconvenience in calling to have their wants supplied.

Mr. Hawley reports register sales for the month of June amounting to almost $6,000 for his agency.

During the last fiscal year our trade with our Latin-American neighbors aggregated nearly $600 million dollars. The following countries comprise Latin America: Mexico, Central America, all of South America except British and Dutch Guiana, and all the West Indies, save those under English, Dutch or Danish control.

AMUSEMENTS.

AMERICAN THEATRE.

Richard J. Jose is the feature of the American Theatre this week. He has, without doubt, one of the most remarkable voices the world has known, and the audience never tires of listening to his silver notes. Jose is one of the features of the "Isle of Bamboo," the Chinese musical success, which is receiving its first presentation in San Francissco. The show is formed of catchy music and humorous situations. There are many pretty stage pictures and a multitude of pulchritudinous stage girls, who satisfy the desires of an audience looking for musical burlesque.

THE DAVIS.

"The Taming of the Shrew" is drawing good houses to the Davis. Darrell Vinton assumes the leading role of this comedy which is recognized as one of the most effective of Shakespearian comedies. The play is well staged and Mr. Vinton is assisted by a very good company. Next week "Monte Cristo" will be produced.

CENTRAL THEATRE.

Herschell Mayall this week assumes the dual part of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde in a strong dramatization of Robert Louis Stevenson's great novel. This rather grewsome play seems to be perennially attractive and draws large audiences to the Market St. Theatre who are treated to even more than the usual thrills and shudders. Mr Mayall is strongly supported and the play is presented with careful attention in detail.

NEW ALCAZAR.

Herbert Kelcey and Effie Shannon are repeating last week's success at the New Alcazar. The play this week is "A Coat of Many Colors." The story is one of considerable interest and each part is placed in efficient hands. The staging is of the best and those various minor details necessary for a finished performance are carefully looked for.

NOVELTY.

Melodrama has taken possession of the Novelty Theatre on O'Farrell and Scott streets. The "Struggle of Life" is the production of this week and will be followed next week by "The Streets of New York."

CHUTES.

This pleasure ground of San Francisco is once more running in full blast. All the various concessions are operated and moving pictures are shown in the theatre. There is a particularly large crowd on Sundays in spite of the car strike.

Quality in lieu of free goods—that's Griffon's.

LARGEST IN THE WORLD.

California Fruit Canners Association Start Their New Plant at Foot of Montgomery Street.

The new cannery of this company, the largest fruit and vegetable establisment in the world started operations last Friday with upward of 600 workers. That number will be increased to fully 1200 within the next three weeks, when the heavy fruit shipments arrive in this city. The plant is located at the foot of Montgomery ave. occupying the entire block, four 50-varas, bounded by Jefferson, Hyde, Leavenworth and Beach sts. facing the bay, and commanding a water-front of 415 feet, and a depth of 275 feet, with a 5-story building. It has a capacity for the season of over 800,000 cases, or about 20,000,000 cans. The prospect for a heavy pack this season is quite favorable, as much fruit is ripening along the river, which will be gathered by boats plying the bay and rivers, and delivered on the wharf at the cannery, saving hauling across town, and avoiding much damage to the fruit.

HAMILTON, California.—The sugar campaign at Hamilton is expected to begin about August 1st. The best crop tributary to the factory at this point is expected to be larger and of higher test than that of last year.

THE "ADVOCATE" GAUGING RODS HAVE ARRIVED!!

Send Your Order In At Once.

There is no question but what every merchant should have his own measuring instruments on which he can rely for protiction. Oil and vinegar are frequently overgauged and unless a merchant has a set of gauging instruments he cannot tell whether he is paying for oil or vinegar that is charged to him at, say 25 gallons, when as a matter of fact the barrel will only hold 48 gallons. This is a trick frequently practiced as these concerns know that few dealers have measuring instruments.

The long stick is used to determine the actual capacity of the barrel while the small one shows the amount that is lacking in the barrel. Protect yourself as many readers of this paper have, by buying a set of the Advocate gauging instruments which are sold at a normal figure. It is advisable to have two sets, one for vinegar, molasses and syrup and another for oil if it is bought in barrels as one set should not be used to gauge both oil and vinegar or molasses.

We will deliver the gauge rods to you at your store at these prices, cash in advance: 1 Guage and 1 Wantage Rod $1.45; 2 Guages and 2 Wantage Rods, $2.80; 3 Guages and 3 Wantage Rods, $4.20.

Cuts in this advertisement show both the gauge and wantage rods. Complete directions for using will be mailed free with each set.

CHAMPAGNE IN THE U. S.

The falling off in importations of champagne into the United States, recently noted by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, appears to be due, in part at least, to the fact that more than two million bottles of genuine "champagne" wine is now annually produced in the United States. The importations of champagne in the calendar year 1906 fell 81,444 quarts below the imports of 1905, while for the nine months ending with March, 1907, the falling off was 165,612 quarts compared with the corresponding months, of the preceding year; and the single month of March, 1907, showed a decrease of 31,920 quarts compared with March, 1906.

New York state is by far the largest producer of American champagne, the industry in that state being chiefly in Orange county, in the southeastern part of the state and Steuben county, in the western section of the state. A consensus of estimates by the producers and dealers indicates that probably two-thirds of the American champagnes of the genuine, or fermented in the bottle variety, is produced in New York state, the other one-third being produced chiefly in northern Ohio, Missouri and California. The area in which conditions are suited to the production of champagne is estimated as sufficiently large to render possible an enormous increase in production, the growth being at present limited by the fact that large sums of capital are required for its successful and profitable production. SAN FRANCISCO GROCERS' PICNIC

A nice, orderly crowd went over to Schutzen Park on Wednesday to attend the picnic of the San Francisco Retail Grocers. The day was perfect and hundreds of people who have attended grocers' mid-week picnics annually during the past twelve years. were present and had a good time Although not many grocers attended the picnic, those that went had a good time. Among those present were C. Claussen, John Owens, Tom Corcoran, J. J. Hayes, J. H. O'Brien, Henry Holmann, Henry Wreden, H. Raase, C. Rawe, J. M. Sullivan, Dick Frische, Julius Berendsen, J. Salomon, J. T. Harley, D. Steffens and scores of travelers. The affair was a decided success financially.

A Stockton report says that the onion yield throughout the section immediately surrounding that city has netted the growers over $125,000. It is estimated that 50,000 bags have been shipped. Prices paid ranged from $1.70 at the opening of the season, to $3.15 for the choicest quality as the season advanced.

It has been discovered that turpentine has wonderful virtues. Moths will leave if it is sprinkled about. Turpentine and soap will reomve ink stains from linen. Gilt frames can be cleaned with a sponge moistened in turpentine. It will exterminate roaches if sprinkled in their haunts. A few drops added to the water in which clothes are boiled will whiten them. An equal mixture of turpentine and linseed oil will remove white marks from furniture caused by water. Ivory knife handles that have become yellow can be restored to their former whiteness by rubbing with turpentine. Carpets can be cleaned and colors restored by going over occasionally with a broom dipped in warm water in which a little turpentine is added.

A new metal last week attracted considerable attention in Germany, and which gives promise of becoming of no little importance to many branches of industry, has received the name of "alzin," the name being a compounding of the first letters of aluminum and zinc, of which it is composed. It is claimed that it equals cast iron in strength, but that it has a great superiority over iron in that it does not rust easily and takes a very high polish.

There is more than $36,000,000,000 of invested corporate capital in the United States, Canada and Mexico. Of this vast amount the steam railroads represent nearly $16,000,000,000, public utilities $8,000,000,000 and mines and industries $13,000.000,000.

EARL D. EDDY, EDITOR. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., AUGUST 2 1907. VOL. 12. NO. 30.

Plan Big Convention.

State Directors Arrange Outline of Important Meeting.

WORK AND PLAY COMBINED.
A Fine Coffee Mill Given the State Association by Frank Wear.

A convention o f more than ordinary interest and value is being arranged by the State Grocers' Asociation for Sept. 10th, 11th and 12th.

The Sacramento grocers are bending every effort to assure the delegates who attend an unusually good time.

At the regular meeting for July of the State Grocers' Asociation, there were present President Jost of Sacramento, F. W. Aubry of Stockton, L. Warnke of Alameda and Messrs. King, Doyle and Connolly of San Francisco.

Mr. Connolly, who had been appointed with Mr. Pearson of Stockton and Mr. Duncan of Oakland, as a committee to prepare an outline for the convention, submitted a program that met with the approval of all the delegates present.

The program included provision for the entertainment of the ladies of the delegates who might attend.

While certain details were left unfinished, a general outline of the program can be given as follows:

FIRST DAY.

The delegates will be welcomed by the leading citizens of Sacramento. The officers will report the work that has been done by the Association and also outline plans for the future. The first day's work will be to acquaint each delegate present with the actual condition of the Association and give him a full knowledge of what, in the light of past events, he has a right to expect in the future.

In the evening, there will probably be a reception with music, etc., at Elks Hall, the most beautiful of its kind west of Chicago.

SECOND DAY.

The morning of the second day will be devoted largely to reports as to local matters from the delegates present. Some one will be called upon from each locality to make a report and each delegate will be supplied with a list of those things which the convention would like him to speak about. There will be several interesting papers each one of which will be discussed by the delegates present, when the speaker has finished.

The first number for the afternoon will be a paper on some subject of general interest and a disucssion of the same which will occupy the delegates from two or three o'clock. At three there will be an excursion which will take up the rest of the afternoon.

In the evening the delegates will assemble and all will proceed in a body to the pavilion where there will be a n unusually interesting exhibit given by the State Fair, and the grocers will be the special guests of the State Agricultural Society for the evening.

THIRD DAY.

This will be devoted entirely to work.

In the morning the Committee will make their reports. It is the purpose of the Directors to have each resolution carefully considered and discussed before it is put to vote. The San Jose Grocers Plan For Better Things And Elect State Delegate.

ALAMEDA COUNTY WAKING UP

Valuable Suggestions Brought Out at Conference of Leading Retailers.

The last week has seen four important meetings of grocers.

On Wednesday evening, July 31st, the Associated Retail Grocers of San Francisco conferred with the beer bottlers about refusing to sell dealers that cut below a fair price.

On Monday evening, July 29th, leading grocers of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley, got together and planned for making a more effective association for Alameda County.

On Friday evening, July 26th, the leading grocers of San Jose came together to plan a strong organization for Santa Clara County.

On Thursday evening, July 25th, the State Directors met in San Francisco to plan for a big State Convention.

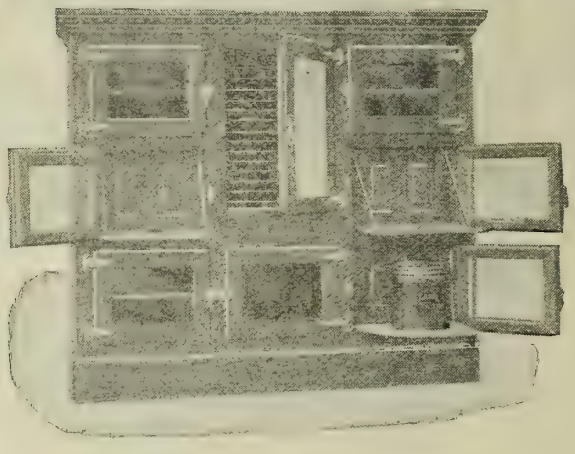
San Jose Grocers Plan.

The meeting in San Jose was held in order to plan for better condition. The grocers of that city recently sent word to the State Secretary that they wanted advise and help.

Mr. Powers went to San Jose last Friday and found that they wanted a live Secretary who could give his entire time to the Associations work.

A meeting had been arranged for Friday evening. State Secretary Connolly left his business to attend that meeting.

About twenty of the leading grocers of San Jose were present. Some of those attending were not members of the Association.



A general business meeting was held and then Mr. Powers was introduced.

Mr. Powers pointed out that in San Jose, the grocers had never had a secretary who had to give his whole time to the work.

"The chief value of the Association," Mr. Powers explained, "lies in its enabling men to make their influence felt.

ufacturer against his allowing some well known cut-throat to slash the price of his goods, the manufacturer can't afford to take action because he knows he will incur the enmity of the cutter and he don't know that any body but the one kicker cares a particle.

"If a hundred grocers entered protest, the manufacturer could not afford NOT to take action because the enmity of the 100 men would be worse than that of the cutter and he knows cutter would not be harsh if he felt the manufacturer was doing what was forced on him.

"It was this policy that has secured for the grocers a profit of 25c per sake on flour. It has secured a fixed price on Ghirardelli's chocolate which will be changed to 35c on August 15th. It has secured the grocers laws."

Mr. Powers then explained in detail what the members might do if they acted in harmony. He explained the necessity of paying enough to get a good man and then advised that they have the secretary act for all the cities of the Santa Clara Valley. The do, would be as follows:

1st—Unite the grocers in a compact principal things this secretary would body to demand protection and to back up concerns that maintain prices.

2d — Help in collections through State Association letters.

3d—In the issuance of a black list.

4th—To make common action possible in other matters and increase good fellowship.

Every dealer present expressed hope that the results could be achieved. Mr. Powers was urged to advise with the Alameda County Grocers and report results.

Mr. Connolly told the San Jose merchants of the efforts being made to secure price protection. He also told of the other work of the State Grocers Association and of the plans for the Convention at Sacramento.

It was decided to send a delegate to the State Convention and Mr. H. E. Jones was elected for the place.

PLAN BIG CONVENTION.

reports of the various delegates will be resumed in order that each community will be heard from. There be several valuable papers.

The afternoon will be opened with a consideration of the questions that have been submitted in the question box. The selection of the next Convention city a nd the election of officers will follow.

The evening will be devoted to an elaborate banquet.

It can be readily seen that a programme such as this will bring out many thought or enormous value and great interest, and at the same time the entertainment proposed by the Sacramento grocers in such as will make each delegate remember the Sacramento Convention, as a very interesting experience,

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

The new vinegar factory at Petaluma is nearing completion and will be ready for operation at an early date.

W. C. Tillson & Co. of Salem, Ore., announce that they intend to start a fruit cannery at Salem, adjoining their big packing house there.

Tulare.—The excavations for the foundation for the new beet sugar factory at Corcoran are being dug and contracts have already been signed for about 4000 acres.

Sam F. Scott, the produce baker, has left San Francisco to enter the firm of John Stewart's Produce House, of Concordia, Kan., as a partner and assistant manager.

The Huntington Beach Canning, Pickling & Produce Company has put up over 100,000 gallons of saurkraut, and is now canning beans at the rate of 18,000 cans per day.

Manager Beekhuis of Hanford is running his cannery with a force of 350 hands and yet the force is short. Peaches are coming in in splendid shape and the quality he says is better than ever.

San Pedro.—W. W. Thompson of Los Angeles and Ed. Rogers of Iowa were here looking over the field for a location for the Maple Grove Sugar and Syrup Co., and if a suitable place can be found these gentlemen will build a factory.

Santa Ana.—Fred Heintz, an Eastern expert sugar manufacturer, was here recently looking for a location for a site for a sugar factory. About $500,000 will be needed for coustruction of a 500-ton plant, and Santa Ana people will be expected to subscribe stock to amount of $150,000. Not less than 4000 acres of beets will be available in order to insure the factory.

Fire destroyed the buildings, machinery, seeds and records at the State experimental farm near Yuba City, entaling a property loss of $25,000. The records cannot be replaced and their loss undoes all the work since the farm was established three years ago. Selected seeds for future experiments and all of this season's crops of grains were also destroyed. The farm is in charge of A. J. Gaumlitz.

F. A. Lang of the Pacific Pea Packing Co. of Oakdale reports that his cannery is doing a big business, at present being engaged in packing peaches; the peaches will be followed by tomatoes, and by that time the second crop of peas will be ready for canning. He states that the principal problem he has to contend with is lack of labor. He wants a large number of girls at once.

The new San Francisco plant of the California Fruit Canners' Association, the largest fruit and vegetable cannery in the world, started operations July 15 with upward of 600 workers. That number will be doubled within the next three weeks when the heavy fruit shipments begin to arrive. The cannery has a capacity of over 800,000 cases. It took considerable energy to get this big plant ready for work so early.

Watsonville.—The first result of the Chamber of Commerce is the location of a $100,000 plant here. Jones Bros. & Co. of Louisville, Ky., have located their plant on the Pacific Coast. The officers of the company are: E. B. Kreiger, president; J. H. Shanks, secretary; C. Dierfield, vinegar-maker. The investment of this company will be at least $100,000. They have now several loads of machinery on the road here, and will in the course of the next year erect an ample building.

A labor famine is said to be causing serious loss to canneries in and near Marysville. Companies operating there began to advertise extensively weeks ago for women and girls to work during the fruit season, but there is reported a shortage of 500 hands. now. Peach canning is now going on, and fruit is ripening so fast on account of the continued warm weather that the present force is unable to handle it quickly enough to prevent spoiling. In face of the fact that canneries are paying $70 per ton for peaches this season the situation is decidedly serious.

If you have a sour-faced clerk, get rid of him. No one, no matter how "grouchy" he is, likes to be waited on by a man who has not a pleasant look on his face.

The most remarmable year in the history of the coffee industry ended June 30. The record shows the greatest crop ever harvested, reaching a total of over 24,000,000 bags, of which 16,654,000 bags were received at the ports of Porto Rico and Santos, Brazil.

What people remember is what they are interested in. If, therefore, you are interested in much, you will remember much. Widen the range of your interests. It may be asked; How am I to become interested in new subjects? To this the answer is: Learn something about them.

Have you a gluttonous horse in the stable, a horse that likes to grab a full mouth of oats then swing his head all over the stall and drop two-thirds of it? The self feeder is a mighty good thing for such horses. It is easily made by slanting the far side of the feed box and putting in a false partition that reaches almost to the bottom. ,

The increase in the foreign commerce of the United States for several years past has been much greater with Pacific than with Atlantic ports. In ten years (fiscal) Pacific ports have increased their proportion of imports 111 per cent, Atlantic ports 79 per cent; while in exports Pacific ports show an increase of 56 per cent, and Atlantic only 46 per cent of an increase is reported.

These are days when you do not feel at all at peace with either yourself or the rest of the world. You have been working hard for a year, up early and through late, and you are tired out. Make up your mind to take a rest and you will find that a week's vacation will prove one of the best investments you can make. It is a debt you owe yourself, and what the recreation costs you will be repaid many fold in renewed energy.

According to the census the average maple-sugar output of the Dominion is about 18 millions of pounds, with a money value of about $1,800,000, or say 10 cents per pound. Canada supplies nearly one-half, or, to be more exact, over 42 per cent, of the world's production of maple sugar and syrup and among the Canadian provinces Quebec is the largest maple sugar producer, turning out about 14 millions of pounds. Ontario furnishes about four millions, while some of the other provinces furnish small quantities.

The United States Geological Survey reports the production of salt, during 1907, in the United States, as follows: Salt, barrels California, 806,788, $291,328; Idaho, 1,574, $1,867; Kansas, 2,198,837, $681,022; Louisiana, 1,179,528, $268,005; Michigan, 9,936,802, $2,018,760; Nevada, 11,249, $6,420; New York, 8,978,630, $2,098,686; Ohio, 3,236,785, $789,237; Oklahoma, 9,893, $4,965; Texas, 360,733, $170,559; Utah, 262,212, $169,635; West Virginia, Massachusetts New Mexico, Pennsylvania and Virginia 989,294, $100,082, 28,172,380, $6,658,350.

Good men are needed in every business house. If you haven't a good job it is really your own fault. If you are not prominent it is because you are too easily satisfied with yourself. There are plenty of positions paying $10,000 a year, and it is no harder to fill a $10,000 a year job thana job paying one-tenth as much. The difference is this: The man who holds the big job acknowledges his weak points and tries to improve on them. He does not stubbornly stick to his "fool notions." Look yourself over. Watch the men who have succeeded.

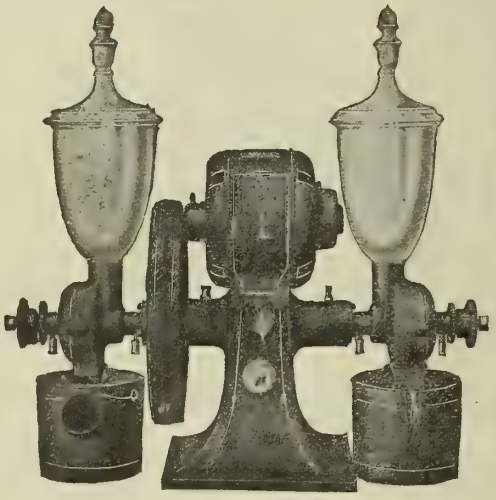
Clean, Sharp-Cut and Nail-Eating Features

Ideal Tea Company, 17-19 East Santa Clara Street,
San Jose, Cal., Mar. 14, 1907.



Frank F. Wear, Oakland.

Dear Sir: Have been using coffee mills for over 20 years and had experience with nearly all of them. Always wanted one a "little better" for the mill is a great factor in maintaining coffee trade. Our last purchase was one of your No. 2121 Hobart's and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the best we have seen. Are particularly pleased with the clean sharp cut of the granulating burrs, something we have always wanted and never found so near perfection as in our Hobart.

We "press the button," the Mill does the rest—and does it right, and its nail eating qualities stand alone. Would not consider ourselves up-to-date without it.

Respectfully yours,
C. M. SHELBOURN,
for Ideal Tea Co., San Jose.

SUGAR.

The week which has elapsed since our last report has shown no change in this line.

New York, July 25:—Willett & Gray report:

The Week.—Raws: Advanced 10c. Refined: Declined 05 c. Net cash quotations this date are: Molasses 3.19c. Centrifugals, 3.94c. Granulated 4.70c.

Raws.—The week under review has been quite satisfactory in its course to holders of raw sugars.

Very small stock of stored sugars remain unsold and the reduced amount of unsold sugar in Cuba give a strong suggestion that it will not be long before refiners are forced to seek further supplies from the full duty-paying countries, and for which supplies the foreign values must be paid. This fact as to raws should be considered by buyers of refined, also, who will continually be called upon to pay more for their supplies. The general conditions, tone and tendency all point to further improvement in due time.

Refined.—The action of the refined market has been also satisfactory to buyers. The coming time when Europe must be asked for supplies of Java or Beet raws at full duty price basis means a higher price to be paid for refined product and full stocks can be carried with safety.

The last day or two a change for the better has appeared in the consumptive demand which should continue through the present favorable weather, and the tendency is toward a hardening of prices.

New York, N. Y.—July 25:—Willett & Gray say:

Some Santos firms report that the quality of the current crop is very unsatisfactory. It may, of course, improve later on, but the reports go to confirm previous advices that the unfavorable weather has not only hurt the quality but affected the quantity also. Generally speaking the lower grades predominate in the stocks at Santos and Rio, and as there is a constant and increasing demand in those markets as well as here, for the higher qualities, it seems probable that the premium over the lower grades will continue to increase.

RICE.

New Orleans, L. A., July 26th.—Sieverd Milling Company, Ltd. report:

The representatives of this Company after a through, thoughtful and personal investigation of the entire Rice Belt, lead us to summarize as follows:

"First. It is our opinion that under the most favorable weather conditions, it will be impossible to produce a crop for the season of 1907 and 1908 of more than 4,500,000 bags.

"Second. We have no carry over or surplus from last season.

"Third. The existing strength of the present market is due entirely to lack of supplies and assortment.

"Fouth. There has unquestionably been an increase in consumption, hence the prevailing and abnormally high price now being obtained.

"Fifth. The aim and idea of the Sieverd Milling Co., Ltd., is to assist in securing a fair price to the farmer for his labors, as a producer, and to sell their manufactureed product to the jobbers at a reasonable price, in order that he in turn may sell to the retailer at a margin of profit that will enable said retailer to attract the business of the consumer.

"Sixth. It is the opinion of this Company that prices now prevailing for Rice are out of proportion to their worth and dangerously high. We respectfully submit this information and unbiased opinion to the thoughful consideration of all those interested in the cereal.

New York, July 23rd:—Dan Talmage's Son's Co., report:

There is sufficient demand to fill broken assortments to keep things going in very satisfactory volume. There are no receipts to brace up depleted stocks, hence prices are firm, and cheerfully met by buyers to the extent of their wants. The conservative course pursued by the wholesale trade in general has had a healthy effect, in that stocks are being put into excellent shape to meet the New Crop when it arrives. Many, however have allowed their stocks to become too low and the frequent return of such to the market to supply imperative needs, has had a tonic effect.

Advices from the South note midsummer quiet on Atlantic Coast. At New Orleans the market is strong, and demand active, but restricted account of scanty supply. Ninety-five sacks of New Crop Rough have been received, and the Cleaned out-turn sold at record prices. That there is a waiting-demand, is evidenced by the spirited bidding for the small parcels offered yesterday. In the Interior—Southwest Louisiana and Texas-planters are watching the barometer with one eye, and the market with the other. It is hoped they will not contract commercial strabismus and rush their early cuttings in before fully ripe or perfectly cured; the former entailing waste in the milling and the latter creating a feeling of distrust as to carrying condition, being liable to heat if not perfectly cured before milling.

Cables and correspondence from abroad note strong and active markets with hardening tendency.

DRIED FRUITS.

Below will be found the latest advices relative to the use of sulpher in this commodity.

The market in a general way is without features Peaches are not growing to any extent and we understand that apricots have been cut off from the lists of many of the jobbers owing to the ridiculously small crop.

According to advices from Washington received by the California fruit interests recently from their representatives at that city, there is a strong intimation that, though the ruling which is so obnoxious to the fruit interests of the State has been made, there was no disposition on the part of the authorities in Washington to enforce it rigidly. The law is, in fact aimed more at the molasses factories of New Orleans than at the fruit packers in California. The Acting Secretary of Agriculture had promised that no interference will be made with the methods of drying fruit by passing sulphur fumes among the crates until the matter could be thoroughly investigated.

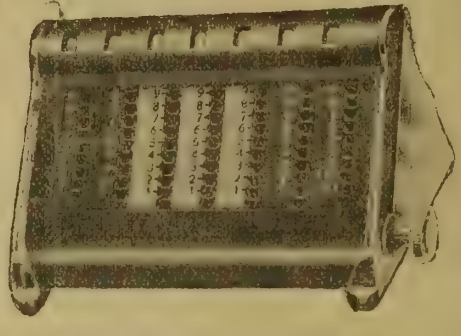
The representatives of the California fruit men, however, feel that the matter cannot be settled by the easy lenience of a department.

"A law is a law," said Albert Castle. When it has been made it is a law. No one can say that it is not going to be enforced. There is this to be considered, our Legislature has made the national Pure Food law a part of California State law, and though the national Government may not take action in the matter, the State may view it in quite a different light. Each State will have to settle the question in its own way."

The ruling prohibits the use of sulphur to an extent that leaves more than 35-1000 of free sulphurous acid in the finished product. The contention of the Californias was for 250-1000.

RAISINS.

The view of a couple of important factors in the trade is given in detail hereinbelow.



Commencing upon a recently published report to the effect that the sweat-box price of raisins had dropped to 5c. and that from all accounts the crop will be from 70,000 to 75,000 tons, L. L. Gray, president of the Fresno Home Packing Company, says in a letter to Seggerman Bros., who represent that concern in New York.

"From what source this article emanated, it is hard to tell, and the information is quite contrary to the actual facts. In the first place we have heard of no raisins being purchased at 5c. sweat box, but do know of purchases made at 5½c. sweat box within the last few days for quite a quantity, and growers rather reluctant to sell. Further fully 70 per cent of the raisin crop has been sold to operators

Bottlers Back Down

Fail To Keep Promise To Attend Meeting of Associated Grocers.

RETAILERS WILL TAKE ACTION

Committee to Get the Trade Together to Promise Support For Friends.

"How many grocers present want the Beer Bottlers to refuse to sell to cutters?"

At this question every one of the grocers who filled Veteran's Hall on Wednesday evening stood up.

"You see, the sentiment is unanimous," said President Geo. B. Doyle to Mr. Barnert, Secretary of the Bottlers' Association who was present.

Then Field Secretary Powers said: Gentlemen, if you want the Bottlers to protect you, you must pay for it. They can't be expected to take a step that will result in their losing business. If the grocers push 10-cent beer when a price of 2 for 25c is fixed, the bottlers will lose business and the grocers will lose their protection. I do not think the grocers are so foolish as to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. The sentiment of those present will decide that.

"Will those gentlemen present, who are willing to agree to sell only beer that the bottlers protect and not to sell any beer that can be cut, stand up?"

Immediately every man was on his feet and there was great applause.

Meeting Largely Attended.

Although the meeting was slow in getting up, Veteran's Hall was packed by nine o'clock when President Doyle called the meeting to order. Numerous grocers who love sport were at the prize fight. Nearly 200 who were not present had sent word that they wanted to help.

President Doyle told how the grocers had stood together to push flour that was protected in price and had cut out flour that could be slashed by the cutters until they had lined the flour mills up.

He told how the machinery of the Association had been employed to induce the legislature to give the grocers laws that had been refused them when they had asked as individuals.

Mr. Doyle also told of how the grocers had shown other manufacturers the wisdom of protecting the trade in their profits.

John W. King then told of the necessity for a larger margin on beer than a 10c price would give. The bottlers had raised the price because the cost of doing business had been increased. Unless they stood by the grocers from whom they were getting thousands of dollars weekly to protect them from a few foolishly selfish or ignorant dealers, the grocers, whose expenses had also increased, would be forced to handle beer for less money. He for one could not afford to do this. As a consequence, he was losing trade.

Have Legal Right.

Secretary Frank B. Connolly explained that courts all over the Union had agreed that individual manufacturers had a right to protect the selling price of their goods if they acted independently. The manufacturers had a right to protect the selling price of their goods if they dated independently. The manufacturer had a right to ask any price he wanted for his goods. If part of his price was that the goods should not be sold below a certain price, he had a right to refuse to supply any concern that would not pay that part of the price and could enjoin by law any one who handled his goods from selling below the agreed price.

Grocers Want Protection.

A. H. Powers, field secretary, then told of the sentiments of grocers in regard to having the bottlers refuse to sell cutters.

"We interviewed about 200 leading grocers. With only one or two exceptions they said that they wanted the bottlers to protect them and that they would be glad to sell at 2 for 25c. if the bottlers would make their competitors maintain that price.

"We wrote to 400 more leading grocers. Out of nearly 200 replies, only one wanted the 10c price retained. About 150 said they would attend a meeting to confer with the bottlers if circumstances would permit.

Bottlers Promise to Come.

"The manager of each bottling concern in this city was invited to attend this meeting. Eight wrote saying they thought the movement was a good one and that they would be glad to help.

"The grocers were then summoned. Tonight, the secretary of the Bottlers' Association is here with a letter. In this letter, the bottlers say:

"We would like to see the grocers get a profit. We find that there are as many do not want it as do want it. We find a great many who would resent being dictated to by us with regard to the price. Unless we can be sure of the desire of practically all the grocers of the city in this matter, we think it would not be wise to protect the price."

Mr. Powers then told of the sentiment in different districts. In one neighborhood, one man out of 9 was the cause of a 10c price. In another, all fifteen grocers were in line; in another, the three grocers were getting profits but two fish markets were selling at 10c.

Among others who told why they wanted the bottlers to maintain prices were McCarthy Bros., H. Hollmann Co., John Hanley, Cameron, Eddy & Buchanan, John Lackmann, Dannemark Bros., Mr. Baumeister, Mr. Zimroth, Courtney & Correll, W. A. Rogers, Simon & Son and others.

After a long and spirited discussion, the votes recorded in the opening paragraphs were taken.

Twenty-two of the men present, located in twenty-two different parts of the city, then agreed to take an agreement to their neighbors for signature so that we could prove to the bottlers that the great mass of retailers wanted a profit on beer and would be willing to stand by those who protected them.

Eight of those present then joined the Associated Retail Grocers and the meeting adjourned.

The board of directors of the Merchants' Exchange of San Francisco, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: C. S. Laumeister, last year's vice-president, was chosen president, to succeed E. R. Lilienthal; G. X. Wendling, from the board of directors of last year, was elected vice-president, while Frank B. Anderson was re-electd treasurer, and T. C. Friedlander was again selected secretary.

Don't let prejudices keep you from adopting the ideas of others when you know they are sucessful. Prejudice should have no place in business.

and the remaining unsold part is held in very strong hands, and growers financially able to carry same, and most of whom are holding for 6c.

"In relation to the report of the largest crop, something like 70,000 to 75,000 tons, there is absolutely no foundation for the report, and the crop at the maximum, with everything favorable, will not exceed 60,000 tons, and we are getting continued reports every day of a shortage on this estimate, due to sunburn and ravages of pest. It would not surprise us in the least to see the crop reduced to not to exceed the output of last year; nevertheless, to be the conservative side, we estimate the maximum, as stated above, 60,000 tons.

"You can rest assured, whenever raisins touch 5c. sweat box, if they ever do, the remaining unsold portion of the crop will be gobbled up by operators or a syndicate here within three days. No doubt the article referred to emanated from some short seller."

New York.—Reports of further important purchases of new crop Valencia raisins by American distributors are not accepted with reserve in view of the fact that indications point to a still lower range of prices on the Spanish fruit, and the disposition among buyers here and abroad is to wait for the market to settle. It is believed, however that the heavy purchasers already made for American account out of the Valencia crop and the prospect of continued strong competition from that quarter are exerting a depressing influence upon the Coast market for future California raisins. Some comment has been caused by a report from San Francisco that the J. K. Armsby So, was offering fancy seeded for Octoober-November shipment at 8¾c. f. o. b. F. A. Aplin head of the company's New York office, was asked as to the truth of the report and said: "The report that we are offering October-November shipment seeded raisins at 8¾c. is correct. This reduction of ¼c. from the price prevailing last week is not a surprise to us and we cannot understand why it should surprise anyone in the trade, as it is now a well established fact, based upon the judgment of disinterested people, that the raisin crop of California will be above 70,000 tons, if nothing unforeseen happens.

"Very many opinions are being expressed these days regarding the question of raisins. The grower has his views, the packers are not a unit by any means, and therefore their views are so varied as to create quite some confusion, but apparently both of these factions, if I may term them so, are inclined to figure that they represent all sides of the question, doubt this. The jobber has something to say, and the consumer, in the end, has things to say about the crop and about consumption and about the price at which the crop will go into consumption. It is true that the demand for California raisins for early shipment has been unusually heavy, owing to the spare markets throughout the country but in the face of a very large Valencia crop, which shuts off the demand for American raisins in the foreign market also supplying Canadian trade that last year looked to California for supplies, the question is prominently brought to the attention of the trade whether the States can consume such a crop as we have before us. Producers are prone to figure that the first sales no matter at how high a price, must and should shape the market for a crop, and too late they find that the consumer has something to say it most emphatically. Crop conditions abroad and in California are ideal. We have argued from the begining that the California crop would show fully 60 per cent greater than in 1906. Our interests are so closely identified with California products that our first desire is to market the crop at the best prices obtainable, but to market it is the first essential to real success. The large sales of Valencia are used is unquestionably the result of prices that have obtained on California fruit, and as the present indications show that Europe will not be able to take the present crop of Valencias, foreign growers naturally turn to the United States to market their surplus."

New York, July 24.—A new source of raisin supply is announced in the West Side fruit trade and a well known broker was yesterday displaying in the trade fine samples of Australia Valencia raisins, of unusually good flavor and appearance. The goods are chiefly interesting because, if the Australian growers are successful in their experiments, it will mean one more base of raisin supplies at a time when other centers are closed for the season. The Australian goods are packed in May, while all other raisin growing countries ship in August or September Prices named, however, are not attractive, ranging in the vicinity of nine cents.

PRUNES.

Advices from most of the growing districts are to the effect that the fruit continues to drop, thereby reducing the crop proportionately. From 5c to 5¼c. basis seems to be the prevailing figure, with a premium of ¼c. on 40's and ½c. on 30's.

HONEY.

Riverside.—Reports from bee men throughout the section indicate that the honey crop this season will be in excess of that of last year, but not nearly as large as it should be for a normal season. One great reason for this was the cool spring, which kept many of the flowering shrubs from blooming at the usual time. Bees as a rule are in excellent shape, however, and the bee men are generally quite encouraged with the outlook for the remainder of the season.

CANNED FRUITS.

Considerable business is being transacted in this line. Jobbers [illegible] sufficient help at home canning [illegible] very serious if [illegible] the industry and not [illegible] at one point. [illegible] in prices of the [illegible] by the sulphur agitation, but now that the bugaboo seems to have been [illegible] enced for the present, prices have resumed their [illegible] level.

CANNED PINEAPPLES.

Honolulu. The [illegible] Co's big new canning factory at Iwilei has been running full handed for some time and an average of seven carloads have been canned daily, between 15,000 and 20,000 cans per day. A night crew is soon to be put on, as the season is at its height.

CANNED TOMATOES.

The California Fruit Canner's Association has withdrawn its pack from the market and declines to quote. No more sales will be made until the size of the pack can be definitely told. The eastern situation is without any features of interest.

MARTIN'S CHEESE.

We are advised that new Martin's cheese is likely to advance ¼c. any day.

SALMON.

Wire reports indicate that the sockeye packing on the Sound at present looks far from promising. Of course, it is not too late to make a moderate pack but every day counts and makes the prospects for the packer poorer as at this time the fish should be running in full blast. With the Columbia River pack running to date about 25 per cent of normal, or 25 per cent of last year, the demand largely centers upon Alaska Red, which are as yet a matter of mystery.

Seattle, July 24.—While it is not too late for the annual salmon run on the Sound to materialize, there seems to be a well defined feeling among the salmon men in this city that the pack of sockeyes will be light. As far as can be learned, the pack thus far has amounted to very little compared to what it has been in previous [illegible] In fact, so light is the pack and so uncertain are the canners of their ability to make much of a showing they are still withholding [illegible] the sockeye stock. Some orders [illegible] taken earlier in the season, but the canners have now refused to sell and fill not even make quotations at present. Conceding that the pack of sockeyes on the Sound will be light, the brokers are now placing their hopes and dependence on the Alaska pack which is [illegible] falling off from previous years. No definite reports as to the exact extent of the pack thus far have been received here [illegible] as to place the estimate of the pack considerably [illegible] the [illegible] However, well informed [illegible] that if [illegible] cases are put up a good showing will be made. [illegible] in Alaska red salmon have not as yet been offered in any quantities, but the market is expected to open in the neighborhood of $1.10. Spot Alaska salmon are now held at $1.05 and to $1.07½ but stocks are moving slowly. Spot goods are about equal to the demand. As usual, however, at this time of the year there is little activity in spot goods. Philip Brady estimated the available spot salmon on the Coast at not more than 65,000 cases, 50,000 of which are Alaska reds and 15,000 sockeyes. He estimates that this year's pack will not aggregate over 3,500,000 cases, all told. He believes that Alaska may be safely depended upon to turn out 2,000,000. There will be probably 1,000,000 cases of cheap fish put up, and the Columbia River and other scattering canneries ought to certainly pack 500,000 additional cases. This will be about the same as last year, but more than 1,000,000 cases below the pack of the big year, when upwards of 5,000,000 cases were packed on the Coast.

Seattle, Wash.—The salmon pack this year will be light, according to advices brought to this city from Alska by the steamship Farallon. There has been a light run of salmon but the sockeyes have not yet even put in appearance and the fishermen of the North regard the situation as serious. The great quantities of snow around the Copper River and its tributaries may have something to do with the lateness of the season. The Farallon expected to bring back at least 25,000 cases of salmon from Hunters Bay and Koywak, but returned without a single case.

IMPORTED SARDINES.

New York, July 27.--Louis Schwiers, writing from Bordeaux, France, states that he was present with Louis Amieux, the official representative of the Nantes sardine canners, at the latter's conference with Dr. Wiley in Bordetux last week, but that Dr. Wiley gave the French packers little hopeful information save the flat and inflexible terms of the Pure Food law and the recent decisions. Dr. Wiley assured them that foreign labels could not pass in America, and that herring and sprats must stand as such on the labels in plain terms rather than as sardines.

MUSHROOMS.

Bordeaux advices are to the effect that in the market mushrooms are futures and packers are refusing orders absolutely unobtainable as spots or for the next two months on any terms.

SALT

The local market rules strong at recent advances. Owing to flooding of the Salton Sea the New England Salt Co. of Los Angeles has been compelled to suspend operations. This leaves in the southern part of the State only the Western and San Pedro.

SALAD OIL.

New York, July 25.—Aspegren & Co., report:

Since our last report on the 18th inst., things have continued very much in the same way as before. The market still continues very narrow. There is a general disinclination on the part of speculators to take hold either way and it takes comparatively little to put the market either up or down. The market closed today with prices averaging ¼c to ½c higher than a week ago.

HAY.

Somers & Co., report under date of July 30th:

Hay shipments have been quite plentiful during the past week. In an ordinary season this market consumes about 3600 ton of Hay per week. The present arrivals would seem to indicate a healthy demand here, for practically everything now being marketed goes at once into consumption or is shipped out of the city.

Owing to the ravages of grasshoppers the Alfalfa outlook is a bit discouraging and prices seem somewhat stronger in consequence. Straw is in light supply and in also light demand. It begins to look as though most consumers had determined to use bedding Hay instead of Straw. Present prices are quotable as follows:

Choice wheat hay	$18.50 to $21.00
Good wheat hay	16.00 to 18.00
Other grades same	9.00 to 15.00
Wheat and oat	9.00 to 16.00
Tame oat	9.00 to 16.00
Old Wild oat	8.00 to 11.00
New wild oat	8.50 to 12.50
Stock hay	7.50 to 9.00
Alfalfa	8.50 to 13.50
Straw, per bale	.45 to .85

Reno Grocer Writes "Advocate" What He Thinks of "Addresses Wanted" List.

The past week brought us the following letter:

Reno, Nev., July 26, 1907.
Retail Grocers' Advocate,
San Francisco, Cal.
Gentlemen:—

On looking over the Advocate, I find on folio 41, issue July 19th, "Addresses Wanted" of parties whose whereabouts are wanted by various California merchants.

The above strikes me most favorably as a means of locating many of the missing. With the assistance of every merchant, a beneficial result would be sure to follow.

I have your list in my possession and if any of the parties mentioned therein are in Reno, you will hear from me.

Being in business for several years, I have fallen heir to numerous accounts, and have been unable to locate any of the parties who were instrumental. I know of no better way to locate them than by the course you are pursuing.

Reno should have a Retail Grocers' Association and with the proper party at the head, I believe every retail grocer would fall into line.

Very truly yours,
L. B. RHODES.

Quality in lieu of free goods—that's Griffon's.

Get the goods to your customers on time. This is one of the most important details of grocery store management and if it is neglected you will lose your customers just as sure as fate—and rapidly, too.

Greer's Washing Ammonia

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF, which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

Attracting Trade.

ATTRACTIVENESS AS AN ASSET.

Very few people appreciate the importance of making an attractive and a pleasing impression upon the mind through the senses.

An attractive store, with cheerful service, makes an agreeable impression upon a customer, and tends to make him feel harmonious and satisfied.

The successful merchants understands this subtle philosophy of suggestion, and he dresses his show windows and arranges his goods in the most fascinating manner possible, for he knows that a pleasing impression upon the customer will put him in a humor to buy. Our stores today are fitted up with costly marbles, expensive natural woods, brass and gilt, and costly decorations everywhere. Merchants know that customers want to see an attractive place as well as attractive goods.

It is astonishing what an improvement has been made in the appearance of stores, offices, hotels, and shops within the last twenty-five years. People are beginning to find out that there is everything in the impression they can make upon the mind; that there must be no discord, nothing antagonistic, nothing which will repel the customer, but everything that will attract him.

We see this philosophy of suggestion in the attractive way in which packages are put up. The poor boy Hoyler, who used to peddle molassses candy from a basket on the street, became a millionaire because he knew the secret of attractive suggestion. He knew that the best candies put in the most attractive packages would appeal to people. He knew that when a young man gives away candy, the appearance of the pacage will have everything to do with the impression it makes.

To attract trade fifty years ago meant to get it in any old way; now it means to draw it by sheer attractiveness. Our stores and show windows in our cities are works of art today. Men are paid large salaries just to trim windows, to win the passers-by, to draw them in, to tempt them to buy.

The evolution of trade along esthetic lines in the last quarter of a century has been something marvelous. The business portions of our cities have a real art today, and are not the mere workshops of the past.

The old grocery store had almost nothing above the first shelf; almost everything was in barrels and bins and hogsheads under the shelves. Fifty years ago there was almost no such thing as canned goods or groceries put up in pacages. Now, everything [illegible] tied up in fan[illegible] a man's necessities, to his animal [illegible] man, he must [illegible] be refined as well as nourishing, attractive, and delicate.

The same thing is true in [illegible] The principal use of clothing was merly thought to be to protect [illegible] body from the weather, but now it is a small part of its function. It must attract, it must please, it must be a work of art. The outlines must be graceful; colors must blend.

Our homes today are following the same law. They are [illegible] attractive than they use[illegible] ple do not cater so much now [illegible] mere animal man. The mere m[illegible] ties are a small part of a m[illegible] It is not enough now to [illegible] people's comfort or to that [illegible] keep them alive. They mu[illegible] live, but they must live [illegible] the children of a king. [illegible] for whom nothing is [illegible] beautiful.—Success.

The largest cash transaction on record in Nebraska occured the other day when receiver W. J. [illegible] the firm check of O'Dor[illegible] & Normile for $99,425.

PANHANDLE GROCERS MEET.

At 8:30 o'clock on last Tuesday evening a meeting of the Panhandle grocers was held at the store of Mr. Wm. F. Bartsch at Waller St. and Tremont Ave. Reports on all the prevailing conditions of the locality were made. The beer prices were found to be generally maintained. After urging upon all present to be sure to attend the meeting with the bottlers at Veterans' Hall the meeting was adjourned at 10 o'clock.

After the meeting a handsome spread was arranged by Mrs. Bartsch. In the course of the evening Mr. Bartsch announced his intention to go East with his wife and daughter, little Miss Bartsch. They intend visiting New York, Philadelphia, New Orleans, and many other large cities. Mr. Bartsch expects to be back late in September

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE U. S. FOOD INSPECTION DECISION 75.

The Labeling Of Mixtures Of Cane and Maple Syrups.

The director of the agricultural experiment station at Orono, Maine, in a recent letter made the following statement:

"There are in Maine many syrups which are labeled something like this: "A Fancy Quality Syrup Made from Pure Maple and White Sugar." Many of these syrups carry but little maple, one company saying that in a sirup analogous to this they put 90 per cent of cane sugar and 10 per cent of maple."

When both maple and cane sugars are used in the production of sirup the label should be varied according to the relative proportion of the ingredients. The name of the sugar present in excess of 50 per cent of the total sugar content should be given the greater prominence on the label; that is, it should be given first. For example, a sirup the sugars of which consist of 51 per cent cane sugar and 49 per cent maple sugar would be properly branded as "Sirup Made from Cane and Maple Sugar," or as "Cane and Maple Sirup." The terms "maple sugar" and "maple sirup" may only be used on the label as part of the name when those substances are present in substantial quantities as ingredients. They should not appear on the label as part of the name when only a small quantity of those substances is used to give a maple flavor to the product. A cane sirup containing only enough maple sirup or maple sugar to give a maple flavor is properly labeled as "Cane Sirup, Maple Flavor" or "Cane Sirup Flavored with Maple."

Whenever it is necessary to declare cane sugar (sucrose) on a label it should be declared as cane sugar and not as white sugar.

LITERATURE OF BUSINESS.

The demand for "The Making of a Merchant," H. N. Higinbotham's recent book, indicates such an interest in business literature that the publishers, Forbes & Company, have arranged to bring out a series of business books. In it they have just reprinted the classic and forerunner of business literature, Sir Arthur Help's "Transaction of Business." This will be followed by "Thought on Business," by Waldo Pondray Warren,— a collection of two hundred essays, each treating some phase of Commercial life.

Baltimore Dispatches Report Combine With $30,000,000 Capital.

Baltimore, July 20.—According to the "Sun's" special New York correspondent, plans are on foot for the formation of a gigantic enterprise which will become an active competitor of the National Biscuit Company, which is supposed to have a practical monolopy of the cracker and cake trade of the country and also does a large export business.

In the negotiations pending Baltimore is said to play a most conspicuous part. The object is to combine into one corporation all th eindependent bakeries of the country. It is understood that the plan has already been submitted to most of these and that they, in effect, assented to the combination after a few details on which differences of opinion exist have been discussed and settled. To this end a general meetings of the representatives of these industries will be held in New York to complete the organization.

The combination, it is understood, is arranging for capitalization of be-ween $30,000,000 and $40,000,000. The business of the concerns which will become parties to it justify this enormous stock and bond issue. In addition it is proposed to increase the output of many of the plants.

The independent bakeries which will become parties to the new trust are located in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, St. Louis, Chicago, Richmond, Cleveland and at other strong distributive points both in the East and West.

The Baltimore concern it is underimportant part in this new company is the statement of those concerned. It has now the Maryland Biscuit Company and the American Pie and Bread Company, both controlled by the same interests and both doing a thriving and profitable trade. In addition, this company has supplemental plants in Richmond, which enable it to assist in the distribution of its product in the South and Southwest.

The Baltimore concren it is understood to be the nucleus around which the new company will be formed. It now has the largest independent bakery in the country. The big National plant is said to have but two larger—one in this city and one in Philadelphia.

Get the smile habit.

One of the best forms of advertising for a retailer is to give good service in his store.

Men who boast of their virtues would probably have more to say is they enumerated their vices.

A fooled customer is a man with a grievance and not pleasant to meet or to count on as a future buyer.

Many a man would be unable to paddle his own canoe if he could'nt borrow some other man's paddle.

Andrew Carnegie says: "To succeed put all your eggs in one baske and then keep your eye on the basket."

A smile is like salt—too much of it would spoil the meat, but just enough will put a flavor into it as nothing else can.

"Knocking" a competitor is poor policy. The wise merchant doesn't do it. Always speak well of everybody.

The window that is often redressed and bears all the marks of careful supervision belongs to a prosperous dealer.

Modern exponents of business have learned that the window, properly handled, will do much more than pay the rent.

Don't let your trade forget all about your canned soups. These are splendid sellers if properly displayed and advertised.

Every employee is an advertisement of one sort or another. If he cannot be a good advertisement he has no right to be a bad one.

Good help is costly, but not so expensive as poor clerks. Good service is worth what it costs. It takes money out of the till, but it puts more back in.

The success of the great lay in their parallelism to the course of thought, which found in them an unobstructed channel, and the wonder of which they were the visible conductors seemed to the eye to be their deed.

We have yet yet to hear of the grocer who found that the checking carefully of the counts and weights of the goods he received was a case of wasted time.

The Italian sailors of the battleship Etruia went ashore at Camden, N. J., and helped destinguish a five. The mayor of Camden made a speech of thanks.

Wait on customers in their order, but never be so busy that you can not give a cheerful word to the newcomer, with a promise of attention in a minute or two.

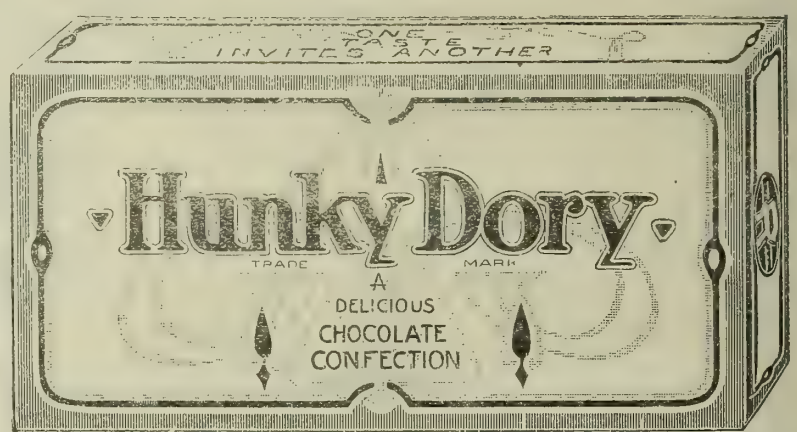
If your business is falling off from what it should be at this season of the year, don't sit around and kick about it, but get busy and find the cause and remedy the evil.

The man who will never give up his seat to a lady has no right whatever to criticise the uncouthness of the farmer who walks into the parlor with his hat on.

An exchange says: "We are inclined to believe that, used with moderation, tobacco is of value second only to food itself, when long privations and exertions are to be endured."

A New issue of Italian money, in gold, silver, bronze and nickel, will soon be ready for circulation. Leading Italian designers have been at work on the drawings and much is hoped for in the finished result.

Southern China has now a revolution on its hands that promises to be serious. Now that modern weapons and a real military organization has replaced the gongs and and so on why there may be quite a time.



The value of our iron and steel during the last fiscal year has been estimated at $175,000,000. As a contrast we may take the year 1887, during which our exports amounted to but $16,000,000, and in 1897 but $57,000,000.

These are dull days, with many customers out of town on their business vacations, and if you cannot plan to take one yourself, put in part of your spare time getting the store in order and slicking up around the place generally.

Take your recreation after closing hours, rest at night. Do not sandwich small allowances of receation and rest into the hours that should be devoted to work. Make every minute count through the day.

Minutes make the sum of hours, dimes make the sum of dollars. Conserve your small change of one kind as well as the other. A spendthrift in the use of time is as pitiful as he who wildly sows his money to the winds and lives to ask alms.

Purposes and Accomplishments

OF THE

California Retail Grocers' & Merchants' Association

OFFICIAL PAPER—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Plan of Operation.

Prior to 1900, different associations of merchants of California had asked for various laws, from time to time, and had always failed to secure results through lack of organization. These failures caused the Retail Grocers' Association of San Francisco to invite other similar associations to send delegates to a convention in September, 1900. At this convention, it was decided to form an organization to be known as the

CALIFORNIA RETAIL GROCERS' AND MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

This Association was organized to enable the grocers of California and other merchants to co-operate in order to accomplish results by their united action that they could not secure singly. Each Association sends delegates to an annual convention. These delegates decide the policy to be followed and elect officers to carry out their plans. Every individual member has the right to attend the annual convention as a delegate.

The next State Convention will be held at Sacramento, on September 10th, 11th and 12th, 1907.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

LAWS SECURED.—Prior to the Legislative Session of 1907, the combined efforts of the merchants affiliated with the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association secured the following results:

Permitting the Attachment of the Wages of Public Officials.

Making a Wife's Separate Property Responsible for Family Bills for the Necessaries of Life. Property owned before marriage or received by will, exempt.

Making a Guarantee of Purity a Sufficient Defense for a Dealer Charged with Violating the Pure Food Law.

We also secured the passage of the following laws through both houses of the Legislature.

VETOED BY GOVERNOR PARDEE.

Making an Account Date from the Time of the Last Item and making a Payment Renew an Account. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Allowing Merchants to Form Mutual Fire Insurance Companies. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Declaring Trading Stamps Illegal. Declared Unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

SESSION OF 1907.

At the Legislative Session of 1907, the work at Sacramento was particularly well organized, and, although we were very short of funds, we secured the passage of the following laws ALL OF WHICH were approved by Governor Gillett and THEY ARE NOW LAWS.

1. Making the time in which an open book account outlaws FOUR years instead of two.

2. Allowing the formation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.

3. Making the passing of a check WITH INTENT TO DEFRAUD a State's Prison offense.

4. Providing that the dealer shall not be held responsible for the purity of goods GUARANTEED TO HIM AS PURE.

WE HAVE MORE LAWS TO GET. We want your influence.

We have, by united action, convinced the manufacturers of flour in several localities that the trade wanted them to stop senseless cutting. This has added many dollars to the profits of the grocers.

We propose to unite, where it is considered desirable, so that, as a body, we can:

(a) Protest EFFECTIVELY when any manufacturer allows his goods to be cut. We want your influence.

(b) Protest EFFECTIVELY when a wholesaler or manufacturer sells to a party who would otherwise buy from one of our members. We want your influence.

(c) Protest EFFECTIVELY when a wholesaler or manufacturer sends out "short" packages to members. We want your influence.

We are helping members collect bad bills (and saving them lawyer's fees) by a set of collections letters which always produce splendid results when properly used.

Our paper, The Retail Grocers' Advocate, which we own, is the medium which makes it possible for us to secure the results outlined above.

ALL THESE THINGS COST MONEY—You could not get them for $3 a year alone. We think you ought to pay your share ($3 a year) in annual dues. DON'T YOU?

Egg-o-See's Giant Growth Explained

COMPETITORS BESTED BY APPLYING NEW SELLING IDEAS.

Salesmen's Use of Advertisements. By J. E. Linehan, General Mgr. Egg-O-See Co.

CHAPTER IV.

Egg-O-See's campaign among the school children has been wonderfully prolific of results. It consisted of offering $5 prizes for the best essay or drawing celebrating the merits of Egg-O-See submitted by a child. Contests of this kind were held in various cities and attracted wide attention, the local newspapers usually making a news feature of each contest, besides publishing it in its advrtising columns. At the close of such a contest the salesmen in the territory would supervise arrangements for a picnic or free trolley ride to which all the contestants were invited. Cars would be chartered, and the children who had competed for a prize would be conveyed through the streets of the city accompanied by bands of music; a spectacle which impressed all observers, and won many friends for Egg-O-See.

It was a selling genius no less than an advertising genius which originated this idea; for the plan not only resulted in advertising Egg-O-See, but in bringing hundreds of thousands of permanent customers to its dealers' stores.

And now, in regard to the third principle—that of personal salesmanship. The company spends about half a million of dollars on advertising yearly; but it doesn't invest this sum at random. It relies upon its sales force to see that its goods are distributed in each locality in proportion to the demand which may be anticipated to result in that locality from the company's advertising. It is the salesman's business to be a good judge of the effect of advertisinfi and to keep each dealer supplied with a stock corresponding in extent to the probable demand upon it. Dealers soon learn to appreciate their advantage in letting a salesman decide for them when to reorder, and how large an order to place. They quickly come to understand that his operations are not in the way of loading them up, but rather of adjusting their stock to the requirements of trade and of inducing consumers to visit his store. As each purchaser of Egg-O-See is a possible buyer of other articles of merchandise, the dealer has a two-fold reason of appreciating the salesman's efforts along this line.

Some companies have made the disastrous mistake of advertising extensively with no thought of apportioning the distribution to the demand created by their advertising. They have expected a large number of inquiries to follow each ad., and have left it to the best judgment of the dealers to order a stock sufficient to supply all inquirers. Personal salesmanship in such cases has degenerated into mere order-taking—with the result that where the demand was strongest dealers were likely to be inadequately prepared to supply it with the advertised wares. Where this condition of affairs exists, the evil of substitution is sure to gain headway. Dealers, realizing too late that they are not properly equipped to take advantage of a sudden strong demand for an advertised article, will in many cases offer their customers some inferior article which they happen to have on hand, representing it as being just as good—and cheaper. Inquirers who do not know that the substituted article has lain uncalled for on the dealer's shelves so long that he is glad to reduce the price in order to get rid of it think that its cheapness is certainly an attraction, and allow themselves to be victimized. They are losers by the transaction, of course, and so is the manufacturer of the article for which they originally called. The manufacturer not only loses a sale in such a case, but also the money which it has cost him to place his advertisement in the hands of the inquirer.

All this has been avoided by Egg-O-See's method of making the salesman a co-operator and collaborator with the advertiser; of computing the probable number of buyers in each locality and making the distribution correspond with this estimate.

All our salesmen are on a salary basis solely. Men who show marked ability are promoted, becoming district managers and having a corps of from three to fifteen salesmen under them. Each district manager is responsible for the results in his territory, and to a large extent exercises initiative in the management of it. We have found it practicable to allow district managers a good deal of freedom for independent action and a chance to try out their original ideas in sales management. This not only inspires loyalty and a healthy spirit of competition, but it results in the invention of a good many original sales plans which after proving successful in one territory, can be used in other territories as well.—"Salesmanship," Chicago.

AMUSEMENTS.

DAVIS THEATRE.

Age does not lesson the thrill in Dumas vivid story of "Monte Cristo." Darrell Vinton is appearing in the title role. He repeats the successes of the past few weeks and then some. The play is a dramatization of the well known novel and brings out vividly the most telling points of the plot. Mr. Vinton has a very capable support. Next week, he is to appear in "Michael Strogroff."

CENTRAL THEATRE.

Herschell Mayall has been the hero of "The Millionaire Detective" all this week. The story tells of a wealthy man who plays detective in off moments and unravels crime and aids virtue by his marvelous cleverness. Next week, a heart touching "Mother" play "For Her Childrens Sake" is to be produced.

NOVELTY THEATRE.

A GENEROUS PROPOSITION.

The following letter from Frank F. Wear, explains itself;

Oakland, Cal., July 29th, 1907.
Cal. Retail Grocers & Merchants Ass'n.
San Francisco, Cal.

Gentlemen: — The Hobart Electric Manufacturing Company of Troy, Ohio, in connection with myself, are hereby donating to your Association one of our very latest No. 2121 Floor Pedestal Electric Coffee Mills, free of all expense to you whatsoever, in Sacramento, Cal.

It will be essential for us to personally supervise the demonstration of this new mill, owing to the construction which has not existed in coffee mills prior to this date. It is understood that we will do this during the propress of your Convention at the Assembly Hall on the dates of the 10th, 11th and 12th of September this year.

This mill in question has already been telegraphed for and in fact is en route to Sacramento.

The only stipulations that are requested by the Hobart Electric Manufacturing Company and myself are to-wit:

First—That the machine will go to a member of the State Grocers Association.

Second—That he will install and operate the mill in his store.

Third—That under no consideration shall the mill be used for speculative purposes by the fortunate recipient.

Yours very respectfully,

Frank F. Wear.

If the grocers of California follow the plan of the procers of Texas, to whom a similar mill was given they should make a great deal of money out of this splendid liberal proposition. The Texas grocers raffled the mill among the members. They sold chances for 50c. As a consequence, one of the members of their association secured a coffee mill worth $250 and the association received about $450 in cash.

The action to be taken by the State Grocers Association in regard to the disposal of the coffee mill awaits the judgment of the Board of Directors.

Washington, D. C., March 15, 1907.

Gentlemen:—

Webster's International Dictionary has been for many years, and is now, the standard in spelling and pronunciation in the Government Printing Office; I can see no reason why it should not continue to be so during this administration.

Very truly yours,

THE "ADVOCATE" GAUGING RODS HAVE ARRIVED!!

Send Your Order In At Once.

There is no question but what every merchant should have his own measuring instruments on which he can rely for protection. Oil and vinegar are frequently overgauged and unless a merchant has a set of gauging instruments he cannot tell whether he is paying for oil or vinegar that is charged to him at, say 52 gallons, when as a matter of fact the barrel will only hold 48 gallons. This is a trick frequently practiced as these concerns know that few dealers have measuring instruments.

The long stick is used to determine the actual capacity of the barrel while the small one shows the amount that is lacking in the barrel. Protect yourself as many readers of this paper have, by buying a set of the Advocate gauging instruments which are sold at a normal figure. It is advisable to have two sets, one for vinegar, molasses and syrup and another for oil if it is bought in barrels as one set should not be used to gauge both oil and vinegar or molasses.

We will deliver the gauge rods to you at your store at these prices, cash in advance: 1 Guage and 1 Wantage Rod $1.45; 2 Guages and 2 Wantage Rods, $2.80; 3 Guages and 3 Wantage Rods, $4.20.

Cuts in this advertisement show both the gauge and wantage rods. Complete directions for using will be mailed free with each set.

FORESTY.

How The National Forests Serve the Public.

"The Use of the National Forests," a publication just printed by the Department of Agriculture, is a brief, clear manual for public information as to the forest policy of the National Government.

It is too true, as the short preface to the public says, that "many people do no know what National Forests are. Others may have heard much about them, but have no idea of their true purpose and use." It is the object of this publication to explain just what the National Forests mean, what they are for, and how to use them.

In the first place, it is explained how the Forests are created and how their boundaries are drawn. Next, their direct use and value are shown from the point of view of the home-seeker, the prospector and miner, the user of timber, the user of the range, the user of water, and other users of Forest resources. Third, it is shown how the Forests are intended for use, for the production of usable products, and for the establishment and maintenance of homes; how on all of them the timber is protected from fire, the water is kept steady, the forage on the range is increased and guarded from abuse; and how, in addition, they serve as great public playgrounds and as breeding places and refuges for game. Finally, the management of the National Forests is described.

Here it is that the great usefulness of the Forests is brought out most clearly and strikingly; for the Forests are managed by the people in their own interests, and every means is used to meet the desires and wants of all Forest users half way by dealing with them in the main directly on the ground and in all cases with the utmost practicable dispatch and freedom from red tape.

In a word, the special interest of this manual lies in its showing that the Forest policy of the Government, both in principle and in practice, is for the benefit of the ordinary man, for the benefit of every citizen equally. There is still a tendency to think of the National Forests as "preserves" closed to use, and to leave the public lands exposed to unregulated individual exploitation. Where these misapprehensions still prevail "The Use of the National Forests" will go far to correct them.

The book is written by Mr. Frederick E. Olmsted, whose intimate knowledge of conditions in the West and the policy under which the National Forests are managed especially fits him to deal with the subject.

GASOLINE TANK EXPLODES.

Berkeley.—The explosion of a tank of gasoline at Sill's grocery store on Allston Way and Shattuck Ave. a few days ago nearly caused a serious fire. The damage was principally to the awning in front of the store. Clerks in the store put out the fire before the arrival of the fire department.

AFTER LIQUOR MEN.

Grocers Refused Licenses Arrested for Selling.

Vallejo.—The police have inaugurated a crusade against grocery stores where liquor is being sold without a license, and Olsen & Co., and W. J. Corbett were arrested.

The former has demanded a jury trial, pending which he has been released on bail, but Corbett has pleaded guilty and will be sentenced tomorrow.

CONDENSED MILK PROGRESS.

New York and Illinois Produce Output Per Cent of Entire Output.

The immense development in the condensed milk production and consumption of the country is the subject of a special bulletin issued recently by the Census Bureau and based on the statistics of 1905. According to this report the relative growth of the condensed milk industry in the United States has been much greater than that of either the butter or the cheese industry. During the past twenty-five years the condensed milk produced has increased in value 1,202 per cent. The census of 1880 gives the total production as 13,033,267 pounds, valued at $1,547,588. In 1890 the product had increased to 37,926,821 pounds, valued at $3,586,927. In 1900 the output is given as 186,921,787 pounds, valued at $11,888,792, and in 1905 as 308,385,182 pounds, valued at $20,149,282.

The amount and cost of the materials used in the manufacture of condensed milk in 1905 were as follows: 727,450,502 pounds of milk, valued at $8,470,669, and 67,810,031 pounds of sugar, valued at $3,315,892.

The two States, New York and Illinois, with half of the total number of establishments, produced 195,905,407 pounds, or 63,5 per cent of the total product returned for all States in 1905, New York leading with a production of 102,480,355 pounds and Illinois coming second with 93,425,052 pounds. The other States of large production were, in the order of their importance: Michigan, 27,681,608 pounds; Pennsylvania, 20,364,700 pounds; Washington, 13,841,906 pounds; Wisconsin, 11,514,222 pounds; California, 7,723,021 pounds, and Ohio, 1,947,218 pounds. Other States reporting condensed milk factories were Indiana, New Jersey, Oregon, two each; Colorado, Iowa, Maine, New Hampshire, Utah and Vermont, one each.

The greatest absolute gains since 1900 were made in Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania, but the greatest relative gain was found in Ohio, the production in that State having increased in value 2,039,4 per cent.

A GOOD RESULT.

Under the operation of the new Pure Food Laws, baking powders now generally bear on the labels a statement of the ingredients. This is of utmost importance because of the harmful ingredients used in many cases.

Royal Baking Powder is known to be the only baking powder made of Royal Grape Cream of Tartar, and this no doubt explains its greatly increased sale here.

Careful housekeepers are taking advantage of the protection which the Laws afford, and are examining all the reading matter on the back of the label before adopting any brand for use in the home.

When in place of the words Cream of Tartar the words "alum" "aluminum" or "phosphate of lime" appear among the ingredients, they heed the warning and avoid baking powders containing these substitutes.

EARL D. EDDY, EDITOR. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., AUGUST 9 1907, VOL. 12. NO. 31.

Grocers Want a Profit.

Almost as a Man They Ask Protection by the Bottlers.

GOOD WORK BEING DONE.

Every Part of San Francisco Being Convassed At The Same Time.

Twenty-three good grocers have been spending a great deal of time during the past week going to their neighbors to secure signatures to a paper that will probably, result in securing a fair profit on beer for the grocers of San Francisco.

They have had two leading questions to ask. The first question was:

"Do you want the bottlers to refuse to supply these dealers who sell beer for 10c. per bottle?"

There has been about one negatives to every 100 affirmatives. Nearly every grocer who is selling beer for 10c says: "I don't want to do it. I have to because some of my neighbors do. If the bottlers would make them quit, I would be very glad of it because I could get a fair price then."

In almost every instance, the neighbor thinks the other grocers has been forcing him to sell his beer for 10c.

The next question has been answered "Yes" by practically all the grocers. It is:

"If some of the bottlers upheld a price of 2 for 25c., would YOU refuse to handle beer that the bottler allowed to be sold for 10c.?

It was found that some of the grocers were already doing this on their own account. The Associated Retail Grocers are asking their members to make no change for the present, however, as they feel that when they come to the bottlers and can say:

"Here are grocers who sell 50,000 dozens of beer a month. They do not want you to allow fruit stands, fish stalls and other places that look on beer as a side issue to sell your beer for 10c. If you let your beer be sold at 10c. they cannot afford to handle it."

We feel certain that when they know this, the bottlers will say: "You are more valuable to us than the others and we will grant your request."

With a few of the bigger bottlers protecting the price, every bottler who expects consideration from the grocers will be giving them protection, too.

The following are the grocers who gave of their time and energy to securing the co-operation of their neighbors in getting a better profit on beer:

Laws Won.

The following laws have been secured by the efforts of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association:

1. Permitting the Attachment of the wages of public officials.

2. Making a Wife's Separate Property responsible for family bills for the necessaries of life.

3. Mutual Fire Insurance.

4. Extending life of open book account to four years instead of two.

5. Making the drawing of a worthless check "with intent to defraud" a state's prison offense.

6. A fair guaranty clause in the pure food law.

A Chance to Do Things.

State Convention Offers an Opportunity For Great Advancement.

ENTERTAINMENT PREPARED FOR ALL.

Sacramento Grocers Plan Big Doings and Directors Plan Hard Work.

Grocers in California have already bettered their condition by working together.

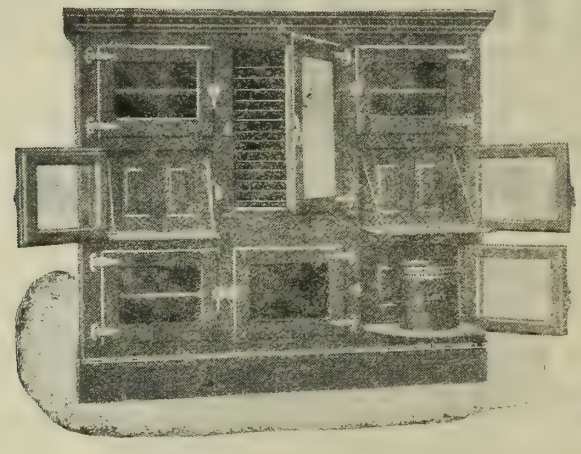
There is still much to do.

It is only when the Grocers themselves, do the work that the betterment is permanent.

The Association Secretary can advise. The Association members must decide what is wanted and then they, themselves, must help put their plans into execution if they expect to secure the abatement of trade abuses or an improvement of profits. They themselves must be active. Everybody is willing to help the man who has brain and strength enough to help himself.

If YOU belong to this class, you will see to it that some grocer in your community does come in order that you may learn how other grocers are helping themselves and how you can help yourself if you are willing to try.

The Convention at Sacramento promises to be one of extraordinary value and interest.



The grocers have learned their power in getting better profits. At this Convention they will decide how they can best make use of that knowledge. The grocers have learned the possibility of securing legislation through cooperation. A decision will also be reached as to how they will put the knowledge so gained to the best use at the session of the legislature which convenes in 1909.

It lies within the power of retail grocers to stop practically every trade abuse from which the grocery trade suffers to-day. They must be prepared to carry out these plans themselves and not expect some one else to do it for them. They must come to the Convention.

It is not enough to say:

"I will be willing to do what the rest agree to. There is no need for my attending this Convention."

If every grocer said that, no improvement would ever be made in grocery conditions.

Every grocer in California, who can possibly be in Sacramento, should attend the State Convention and take his wife with him if he has one. The Sacramento grocers are preparing a series of entertainments that will make the coming Convention memorable in the history of the association. The ladies will be carefully looked out for.

There is already assured a large attendance which guarantees that the Convention will be one of mixed value.

Special rates will be enforced by the Railroads.

The "Advocate" would like to hear from those grocers who think they will be able to attend this Convention.

Without regard to whether you are a member of the Association or not, prepare to go to Sacramento on September 10th, 11th and 12th.

THOUGHTS OF BUSINESS.

By Waldo Pondray Warren.

"Thoughts on Business," by Waldo Pondray Warren, is announced for early publication by Forbes & Company, Chicago. Some of the" Thoughts" have appeared from day to day during the past few months in metropolitan dailies, where they have been received with great favor by all classes of readers. The "Thoughts" are unique in their epigrammatic sytle and strike a new note in business literature. The author takes a broad view of commercial life, discussing methods and gauging success by both economic and ethical standards. Something of his purpose is expressed in the preface:

"This book is an outgrowth of a business experience gained through many years of association with one of America's greatest commercial institutions. During those years I have learned, perhaps more surely than anything else, the value of a right thought. I have seen how men's careers have been marred by basing their actions on unsound theories of life and business. And I have also seen how a change from a wrong thought to a right thought, perhaps during a moment of casual conversation, has been the means of advancing a man to a higher place in his work, opening his eyes to a broader field of opportunity and wholesome activity."

H-O IN TROUBLE.

The H-O Company of Buffalo is reported in trouble financially. Judging from the dispatch printed below, a way out of the difficulty has been found.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Announcement has been made of the organization of the Edward Elsworth Co., a $2,000,000 corporation. The new concern will take over the Edward Elsworth cereal companies. At present there are four Elsworth companies. Two of them are the H-O and the Force Food companies, which have mills in Buffalo The other two are the Pawnee Cereal Co., of Cedar Rapids, and Edward Elsworth & Co. Included in the consolidation will be some smaller companies distributed throughout the country.

Buffalo will be the principal office of the company. All of the stock will be common. A bond issue of $2,000,000 is planned by the newly-organized company. Enough to provide a working capital has already been assured. The plants will be enlarged and greater attention given to the foreign business.

ATTRACTIVE PACKAGES

Further Evidence That It Pays To Attract The Eye By Making Products Appear Well.

Consul Albert Halstead, of Birmingham, reports that in the British Market care in packing, attention to making products appear well, and, in general, everything calculated to attract the eye are of the greatest usefulness in promoting sales. The importance of this has been brought more clearly to his attention by an article in a British publication, from which he quotes the following:

The successful sale here of numerous continental articles of food is due almost entirely to the neatness of the container. Such things as fruit, eggs, and vegetables, which come to us from the Continent, are neatly inclosed in boxes, and have apparently been washed before being packed An edging of tinted or lace paper occasionally serves to make the produce more tempting to the purchaser. Home grown produce is not, as a rule. As a guide to the American sending goods to this market, the following incident will be of interest, because it shows something of the spirit of the purchaser with reference to the way goods are offered for sale. A farmer noticed customers in the grocer's shop picking over the celery to find the best-looking bunches, and it occured to him to take more pains with his celery and see if it would bring a better price. He bought some pink tape and tied the celery with it in neat bunches, and found that it sold quickly and brought more money, while the same kind of celery without the tape sold slowly and brought less.

After that he marketed all his produce in the most attractive manner putting labels on his fruit baskets with the name of the variety, wiping his apples, selecting and labeling his tomatoes, always treating his fruit and vegetables as if they were worthy of distinction. The fame of his produce grew, he enlarged his business and became a wealthy man, all because of the pink tape on the celery.

The bottles, labels, and other items connected with the packing of American proprietary medicines are much admired here, and the chemist readily concedes the fact that such matters are potent in assisting him to make sales. In considering this country as a market for American goods which reach the purchaser through retail shops and stores, I would advise the manufacturer to bear in mind the fact that the package forms an important detail in display either in windows or on the retailer's shelves.

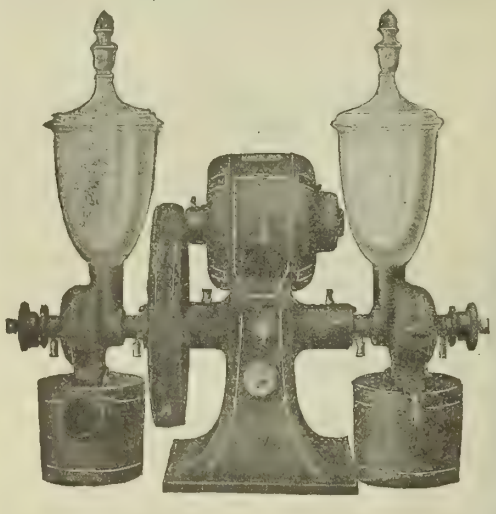
Frank F. Wear, Oakland.



Dear Sir: Have been using coffee mills for over 20 years and had experience with nearly all of them. Always wanted one a "little better" for the mill is a great factor in maintaining coffee trade. Our last purchase was one of your No. 2121 Hobart's and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the best we have seen. Are particularly pleased with the clean sharp cut of the granulating burrs, something we have always wanted and never found so near perfection as in our Hobart.

We "press the button," the Mill does the rest—and does it right, and its nail eating qualities stand alone. Would not consider ourselves up-to-date without it.

SUGAR.

There has been no change in this commodity during the past week.

New York, Aug 1.—Willett & Gray report:

The Week.—Raws: Unchanged. Refined: Declined .05c. Net cash quotations this date are; Molasses 3.19c., Centrifugals, 3.94c.; Granulated, 4.65c.

Raws.—During the week under review our markets have been fairly strong to steady. An attempt to advance prices to 4c. after large purchases at basis of 3 15-16c., 96 deg test was not successful, because Europe at the critical moment turned weak and lower for beet sugar, inducing holders to modify their views, and further moderate business resulted at the old price. Our buyers now show but little disposition to operate, except for occasional small parcels.

Refined.—Prices for refined continue irregular, with restricted transactions.

The backward season, as well as a reaction to some extent in general trade, and the unsettled conditions of the refined sugar market, have had a tendency of reducing the demand, until now buyers are operating on a hand-to-mouth basis, and are waiting important developments before showing any disposition to take hold again actively. COFFEE.

C. E. Bickford (City) reports under date of August 2nd:

A generally better feeling with more confidence on the part of most dealers has prevailed in all coffee markets during the past fort-night, in consequence of which, trading here has been very active, July deliveries aggregating 31,700 bags as against 22,500 bags for the same month last year. A more steady and brisk demand can be noted for coffee classifying low to good at slightly better prices than those given in our last circular, whereas strictly good to prime grades are not selling as freely here, buyers persisting in their policy to take in these classes only for their temporary needs as long as stocks in first hands are abundant. While quotations on the latter grades remain practically unchanged, sellers are inclined to adhere more closely to asking figures and sales have been effected on a higher basis than those of a month ago.

Spot No. 7 Rio and No. 4 Santos have advanced ⅜ in New York during the month and futures have advanced 75 to 85 points, the market closing there firm at the advance.

The receipts for the first month of the new crop year at Rio and Santos were 834,000 bags as against 1,100,000 last year during the same interval.

New York, Aug 1.—Willett & Gray report:

When all news coming out from Brazil was bearish there came also the usual report that this would be an early crop. Now, if the crop is early the receipts are very small and indicate a very small crop, because out of the receipts so far in Santos it appears that only 125,000 to 150,000 bags are new crop. So it is one of two things the crop is either late or very small. While by different parties in Brazil the current crop is estimated very high compared to the Government figures, reports are heard during the last few days pointing to the yield of this crop being much smaller than expected, and saying that the weather is very unfavorable for the growing crop.

Business is regular, and even for the usually dull month of July, the deliveries last month were 300,000 to 400,000 bags in excess of the usual quantity taken in July. That conditions have changed is shown also by the fact that the World's Visible will show a decrease, instead of an increase, at last year.

Visible supply of world, in bags July 1, 1907, 16,399,954; June 1, 1907, 16,551,708; July 1, 1906, 11,265,510;

Stock U. S., all kinds, in bags, July 1, 1907, 3,919,947; June 1, 1907, 3,987,476, July 1, 1906, 4,130,587.

RICE.

New York, July 30th.—Dan Talmage's Son's Co., report:

Demand for the week has been very satisfactory and the comparatively light supplies quite heavily drawn upon to cover immediate wants. This contributes to the maintenance of values, as no supplies are coming in to fill the vacant places.

Advices from the South note quiet market on the Atlantic Coast. Mills closed for the season. At New Orleans there is a brisk enquiry and prices are firm. 1800 sacks of New Crop Rough have been received, and the Cleaned out-put sold at full prices.

In the Interior Southwest Louisiana and Texas, general conditions of the crop are favorable, and planters are looking forward with natural anxiety to what may occur to forward or retard harvest.

Cables and correspondence from abroad note strong markets.

Crowley, La., Aug 1.—The Rice Journal and Southern Farmer says:

"Rather better than the average yield, both in quantity and quality, on an average acreage; high prices at the beginning of the year; a consumption which his nearly doubled in five years, absorbing nearly five million bags on the high range of values of last season; a cheap crop, with the farmers of the rice belt, in good financial condition, thus enabling them to reap the full benefit of a prosperous year.

"That summarizes the rice situation as it appears to the Rice Journal & Southern Farmer at the end of June. This summary is not based on accurate figures, for there are no accurate figures to substantiate or to controvert any statement made. It is rather the consensus of the best opinion among rice men.

"Any opinion as to the probable yield, whether as regards quantity or quality, is pure speculation at any time before the thresher has turned out the rice; but the average condition of rice at this time is apparently better than the average at this season. It is generally acknowledged that the Texas acreage has been increased over that of last year and that the Louisiana acreage is about the same as it was in 1906.

"As to market conditions, there is no room for seasonable doubt. The market is bare for the first time in years and there is small prospect that it will be supplied by foreign rice, as all foreign supplies are reported to be short. The new year will almost certainly open with a strong market and there is every reason to believe that it will hold strong. Unless an unprecedentedly large crop is raised, which is out of the range of possibilities, the consumption will easily absorb every bag grown this year in the United States.

"The outlook for rice is brighter than is ever has been since the spring of 1903."

RAISINS.

Fresno, Aug 1.—Minnewawa Home Packing Co., report:

"The raisin situation remains about the same, and there have been no unfavorable conditions of weather to seriously injure the prospects of a good crop. The estimate of the present crop is about sixty thousand tons, but these estimates always fall short at the end of the season. This is accounted for by the weather conditions and the continued short pruning of the vines, which leaves them with insufficent top foliage, and results in the drying up of the berries by the hot sun before they mature. It is estimated that two-thirds of the present crop has been sold, the grower who has not sold is holding firm for six cents.

New York, Aug 1.—The only interesting feature in yesterday's dried fruit market was the sale of two lots of 1,000 boxes each of the new spot Australian Valencia RAISINS, the first ever sold in this market. It is understood that the price was 8½c.. This is somewhat more than the prices anticipated for new crop domestic goods, but is explained by the fact that the new base of supply gives its yield at a time when the market is bare of spots at any price. No Valencias have been available for two months, and none are expected from usual sources before the middle of September. Seeded raisins continue firm at 13c. for Coast and 12½c. for local packings, with a decided inclination toward an advance.

HONEY.

Denver, Col., July 30.—The Colorado Honey Producers' Association reports: "Since making our last report we have had a fairly good honey flow in some sections of this State, and if we have three weeks favorable weather from now on should secure an average crop. From reports we have received it appears that Utah, New Mexico, and Nevada will have very light crop."

FLOUR.

W. H. Joyce of the Globe Mills says of the flour and wheat situation: "While reports are being circulated in the east to the effect that a decline in flour may be expected still the situation on the coast does not justify a change as far as we can see. There is talk about cheap wheat but when it comes to buying it is not be had. The crop of wheat in California is about California consumes about 500,000 barrels of flour annually and of this amount fully half will have to be shipped in here either in the form of wheat or flour. We are buying wheat now in Oregon. A cargo of poor quality wheat wheat which California millers would not use at any price, was sold the other day in Portland at 85 cents for export.. This gives a pretty good idea of the wheat situation in the north.

"A peculiar element in the flour business is the fact that quiet times increase the demand for flour. I fthis country experiences a period of reduced industrial activity and the general public finds it necessary to reduce its basis of living then the demand for bread will increase. The public will get back to the staples.

"Barley advanced July 30 and the reason is the demand for export. The quality of the barley produced in California this year is exceedingly good and the brewers and distillers in Europe are in the market offering more than millers or feed men can afford

CANNED FRUIT.

The jobbing trade of the United States has taken up practically the whole pack of fruit put up by the California Fruit Canners' Association. The Association has withdrawn from the market on Crawford peaches of practically all grades, standards and seconds, and apricots, cherries and plums..

TOMATOES.

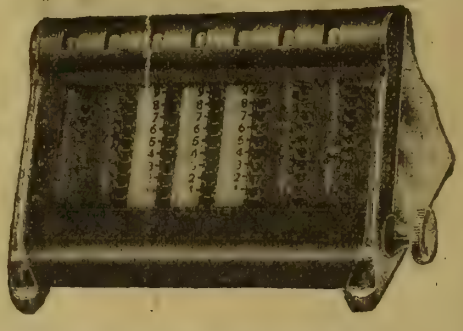
Aberdeen, M. D., July 25.—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co., report:

It is acknowledged that future Tomatoes sold liberally early and more hestitaion was shown on the part of sellers than buyers.

That steady buying followed and Spring weather belated two to three weeks caused heavy buying, which forced the market for Standards up to 90 and 92½ cents, f. o. b.

That warm favorable weather followed the packer to a great degree of the apprehension that he might not pack all the Futures he had sold and awakened hopes that he might have a few carloads to spare, for which he might obtain a more profitable margin.

That with a carry-over of 1,500,000 cases and the 1906 pack of 10,000,000 cases that all warehouses will be bare by packing season. That the growing annual consumption would likely care for a 12,000,000 to 13,000 case 1907 pack.



That cans, cases and supplies cost 16¼ cents more per dozen than two years previous.

That is is fair to expect higher prices for 1907 pack than have averaged for the yield of any previous year.

That over-production, if possible at any time, shows no indication of being due for some time to come.

That the 85,000,000 people have only about three (3) cans of Tomatoes per annum for each person per capita.

That the Pure Food Law will lessen the pack of Tomatoes 1,000,000 or 2,000,000 cases on account of the non use of coloring and water, as heretofore.

That Tomatoes will be more palatable in 1907 on account of the discontinuance of these abuses.

That Organization is a nearer possibility since Canned Goods people are noting the evils heretofore existing and are more ready than ever to obviate these, seeing the same has been successfully accomplished by others."

CHOCOLATE.

Cocoa beans have increased in cost over 90 per cent during the past 12 months. This is the basis for the recent advances in chocolates and cocoa and a further advance in cocoa is anticipated shortly.

SALMON.

Griffith-Durney Co., report under date of Aug. 5th.:

"News from Southeastern Alaska has been coming in and the outlook is given worse than we expected. It is now predicted that the pack in that section will be at least 100,000 cases short. This, together with the shortage in the Behring Sea and the shortage at some of the canneries in Central Alaska, will practically be equivalent to 400,000 cases less Alaska salmon than 1906. For comparison, we give you herewith figures showing the pack of 1906 and the estimated pack of 1907.

Alaska, 1906, 2,227,000, 1907, 1,800,000 cases; British Columbia 629,000, 400,000 cases; Puget Sound 440,00, 350,000 cases; Columbia River 360,000, 300,000 cases; Outside Rivers 159,000, 125,000 cases Total for 1906, 3,815,000; Total for 1907, cases 2,975,000.

Remember there is no carry-over, the market on the Pacific Coast being practically bare and the lightest stocks in jobbers' hands ever known at this time of year. Remember also that the estimated pack of Pinks, Chums and Columbia River Chinooks has been virtually sold out, and that the pack of Sockeyes will be so small as to cut very little figure in the situation. The salmon that should therefore, command the immediate attention of the trade is Alaska Red. We urge our friends to take our advice and as soon as prices are named to buy what they need, as we again repeat, delay is dangerous."

Under date of Aug. 6th., they say:

In our preliminary advices on canned fruits we prepared you for a whirl and predicted that within a week after prices were named it would be impossible to get a full line from any canner in California. Our predictions were based on absolute and positive knowledge of the condition existing all over the world, and we now want to state that we believe the Alaska Red Salmon business on new pack will be done as quickly and in almost as big a whirl as the fruit business. We know postively that our smaller competitors who have heretofore been cutting more or less have heavily oversold, and none of them will be able to fill to exceed 50 per cent of the orders that they have already taken. The leading factors have booked orders for probably 75 per cent of their pack subject to approval of price, and as far as the favorite brands are concerned, we feel quite sure that within forty-eight hours after prices are named it will be impossible to give wholesale buyers their choice of brands.

We think you will admit that every wholesale grocer in the United States is as fully posted on the situation existing on Alaska Red Salmon as we. We want to repeat the advice we gave you on fruits, that the moment prices are named "get in" as we are quite sure that those who delay will feel like those who delayed purchasing fruits

Note.—Griffith Durney Co. are brokers and do not sell to the retailer.

Seattle, Aug. 3—The "Trade Register" says:

The local salmon market continues strong and will remain so till all reports of this seasons' pack are in, when, unless present indications prove to be wrong, prices will go higher. This will not effect the demand for the fish, but in time the demand will exceed the supply. Brokers are anxiously awaiting reports for Alaska, which gives promise of a pack equal to that of last year.

"Philip F. Kelley, of the Kelley-Clarke Co., of Seattle, in summing up the salmon situation, said:

"'There will be a shortage of red Alaska fish this year. Of course, it is now in the middle of the packing season, and the fish may run yet, but the prospects for even a normal pack are extremely doubtful. The run of sockeyes thus far has been light, but, of course, the season is not over. However, I do not believe that more than 150,000 cs. of sockeyes will be put on the Sound this season. The Columbia river pack has not been large, but as the fish run longer there than further north the pack may be fairly large. The western Alaska canneries have not been heard from yet, so it is too early to say anything about the pack there. The worst feature of the whole situation is that the supply will not equal the demand The demand for fish is heavy, and it is seldom that the market is as strong as at present.'"

CHEESE.

Martin's Cheese will soon advance ½c to 1c per pound.

HAY.

Somers & Co., report under date of August 6:

Our regular May sections are facing no particular problem at the moment, for even if cars are not available there is plenty of warehouse space. In the grain sections, where the bulk of the Hay is found this season, it is very different, and unless the Fall rains are greatly delayed there will without be large quantities of hay ruined. A scarcity of balling wire throughout the State is preventing some of the crop from being made ready for market, but the greater trouble at the moment is car scarcity.

As to present prices we have nothing of interest to report, for the list shows no change from that given a week ago.

THE OAKLAND MEETING.

Oakland's Secretary was called away recently. The organization has been headless for some time.

On Monday evening, July 29th, a meeting was convened at the Merchants' Exchange rooms by H. K. Duncan who brought together H. D. Cushing, A. J. Nor, L. J. Sill, Geo. Hoffman and Warnke. President John Mitchell had a previous engagement he had to observe.

Mr. Powers was present and told of the conference at San Jose. The gentlemen present were all certain that big results were possible with the aid of the better men in the business, and that it would be possible to secure results by hiring a competent secretary.

Another meeting was planned for a near by date and the trade will be called on personally by Mr. Powers and officers of the Association.

MONEY.

Several fake "associations" are being operated in Chicago, Minneapolis and other eastern and middle west cities. These "associations" are sending literatures broadcast to retail grocers and general merchants all over the country asking them to subscribe to a fund to be used in fighting catalogue houses. The money goes into the private coffers of the "association" which consists of one man and a beautiful stenographer who gets up the enticing literature which promises immunity from catalogue house competition—if you will spend.

DIAMOND MATCH COMPANY'S POLICY.

(From the Commercial Bulletin and Northwest Trade.

There has been much criticism of the Diamond Match Company, and some of the trade papers have published lengthy articles and communications regarding its selling plan and other methods. Heretofore the company has ignored these criticisms, but now it is out with a semi-official statement which, in effect, says that the company does not want to buy the independents or form a pool or effect a working agreement of any kind, but that certain of the independents whose business is unprofitable have sought to sell themselves to the Barber Company.

The official statement also defends the much criticized factor selling plan, with the somewhat startling revelation that this plan has been in vogue with the company for twenty-five years, during all of which period both the Diamond Match Company and the trade have been mutually satisfied with its workings.

The pronunciamento is as follows:

"It would not be far from the truth if it were declared that the present agitation against the Diamond Match Company is due more than anything else to a feeling of resentment and disappointment (on the part of certain individulas) in consequence of the failure attendant on a recent effort to induce the officials of the Diamond Match Company to discuss a proposition to buy out a number of so-called independent concerns, who, because of their apparent inability to make their own business pay, would like to unload on a rival competitor.

"For six years the Diamond Match Company has not, directly or indirectly, sought nor arranged a meeting with any of its competitors. The officials of the company have repeatedly refused to negotiate with or listen to overtures from individuals connected with competing corporations, and interviews have only been granted representatives of competitors at their solicitation and out of courtesy to them FACTOR SELLING PLAN DEFENDED.

"The plan under which the company is working in its sales department is identically the same as that which it has followed for nearly twenty-five years. Time and experience have proved this plan to be advantageous alike to the company and the trade. Matches are sold through wholesale grocers and jobbers, who under contract, act as its commission agents. They are required to exert their efforts in the direction of extending the sales of the company's goods, and in consideration thereof are paid a commission on all sales they make. The match company, on its part, utilizes a large selling organization in creating a demand for its matches, and at a large expense secures, through its own employes, orders from the retailer which are, however, placed with such wholesale houses as the purchaser may designate. The match company actually helps the wholesaler to sell his goods at a large annual expenditure, and in return simply asks that he be loyal. This plan has worked satisfactorily in the past, and is no respect a restraint of trade or infringement of the rights of competitors. The so-called independent match companies have done exactly what the Diamond Match Company is doing. If they manufacture matches of equal quality, it ought not to be difficult for them to impress first the consumer, then the retailer with that fact, in which case they should have no trouble in inducing the wholesaler to act as their selling agents rather than agents for the Diamond Match Company.

"In the interests of its stockholders it is to be hoped that the present policy of the officials of the Diamond Match Company will be maintained, so far as regards their dealings with other match companies, and that they will not be induced to spend large sums in the acquisition of unprofitable plants.

"In the creation of selling agencies by manufacturing companies, there is hardly a company that does not require that the expense of the agency and the payment of commissions on the sale of its product shall be contingent upon an agreement on the part of the agent to work and utilize its organization and resources solely in its behalf. That is all that the Diamond Match Company is and has been doing."

Diamond Match methods mean protection to profits and a good margin for the retailer. You rearely hear of Diamond matches being advertised at bargain counter prices to the detriment of the retail trade at large. In addition to that the Diamond's goods are the best made. The consumer is given good value and in handling matches to the consumer the retailer cannot afford to go far into experiments.

Since 1899 there have been started 139 independent match-making enterprises, of which five are active to-day. The multiplication of brands of matches is as much of a nuisance as the multiplication of brands of breakfast foods and other competitive proprietary articles, whereby profits are destroyed and stocks unloaded with unsalable brands. As we see it, the Diamond Match Company's agency policy seeks to increase demand and insure to all classes of distributers a liberal profit, without restricting their liberty.

SOAPING CENTRAL AMERICA.

Otto Luhn, Jr., son of the veteran San Francisco soap maker, has made a great success of the soap business in Central America. He has three soap factories running full blast and has as a partner, President Zelaya, the head of the Republic of Nicaragua. His address is Leon, Nicaragua, C. A.

A smile, like a soft answer, turneth away wrath. It need not be a grin, but a good wholesome smile is a factor in business that is worth cultivating.

Clerk's Corner.

A Clerk Who is a Clerk.

"I have had too many clerks assure me that they are not mind readers," said one successful old grocer to the writer last week. "I do not like the confession. It indicates a lack of ambition to be mind readers. Every salesman must be enough of one to be able to judge what to offer and how to offer it to each posible customer.

"For instance, a woman calls at the store and asks the price of canned peas. I have them all the way from soaks at 8 or 9 cents up to imported petits pois at 30 cents or more—perhaps a dozen different varieties at as many different prices. If the clerk starts out to name every price from 8 cents up to 30 he will produce two results. The purchaser will not care to let it appear that she wants the cheapest, when such an array is placed before her. She will not know which to pick and perhaps will not feel like paying for the finest variety. If he knows the family and its resources he ought to be able to pick one or two varieties which will suit its taste and purse. If he does not know her, he ought to be able to judge pretty closely from her appearance and manner as to what is wanted and feel his way until he has hit it exactly.

"Another line and a harder one to sell according to the customer's wishes is tea. A grocer will carry a line varying in price from, say 25 cents to $1. If the clerk names a variety of prices as long as that he will leave his customer in a quandary. He ought to try and learn which variety of tea his customer wants—Japan, Young Hyson, Oolong or some other familiar to the general public. Having learned that, he can name one or two prices for different grades and generally satisfy her. If he attempts to sell goods according to a string of prices alone, he has only one chance in a dozen of giving satisfaction even if he makes the sale.

"Quality first, store service next are the things to be kept before the consumer. Find the quality the customer wants, inspire in her a belief that the service is ready for her and the rest will come naturally. The clerk should know the appearance between a can of sardines, in pure olive oil, heads and tails off, and one of the same fish in cotton-seed oil, heads and tails included, and he should be able to explain the difference in price to a customer who wants the information. It must be done deftly, however, not to give offense to the one who can pay only the lower price of to the one who will pay any price for extra fine quality. The clerk should not talk too much. He should say enough to start the customer talking and then listen. He ought to be able to hold up his end of the conversation, but his main point is to learn the customer's desires and satisfy them. It requires tact and much of it.

"The clerk at the counter and the order clerk should keep on confidential terms with the management on one side and the bundle wrapper and delivery service on the other. Each assistant ought to help the rest to complete without harmony in the store."

GROCER DECEIVED.

Fresno Merchant Bested by Smooth Grafter—Captured by the Police.

Fresno, Cal., July 23.—H. C. Roberts, a hard-looking young fellow, was arrested last night by Patrolman Coyle for obtaining goods and money under false pretenses.

Roberts went into the store of O. O. Card at the corner of O and Merced streets on Saturday and told Card that he wanted to purchase $2 worth of groceries. He said that he was a switchman employed in the Southern Pacific yards and that he lived with his mother on Diana street and wanted credit. Card agreed and then Roberts asked him to advance him $1.25 to pay a butcher bill and Card handed him the money. Yesterday Roberts went back to Card's store and asked for the same amount and Card let him have the money, but late in the afternoon began to grow suspicious and notified the police to keep a lookout for Roberts. Early in the evening Coyle saw him on the streets and followed him to Barstow's saloon on Mariposa street and placed him under arrest.

GASOLINE EXPLODES.

Demijohn of Liquid Ignites From Cigar Stump.

Several persons narrowly escaped severe injury when a gallon of gasoline confined in a demijohn exploded in front of Sill's grocery store, corner of Shattuck avenue and Allston way in Berkeley recently.

The oil was ignited from a cigar stump carelessly dropped beside the demijohn as it stood on the sidewalk outside the entrance of the store. Part of the gasoline had leaked from the bottle and the fluid burst into flame and spread in all directions. Luckly it was confined to the sidewalk area and the flames did not ignite the woodwork of the building. A member of the grocery firm blew the blazing oil into the street by means of the store fire hose.

San Luis Obispo, Cal.—Charles Newcombe has opened his restaurant and family grocery store on Osos street, opposite the Southern Pacific depot. It is located in what may be soon the best position in the city, although it is away from the heart of the city at present.

Quality in lieu of free goods—that's Griffon's.

Get the goods to your customers on time. This is one of the most important details of grocery store management and if it is neglected you will lose your customers just as sure as fate—and rapidly, too.

Greer's Washing Ammonia

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF, which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

Manufacturers' List.

Selling Prices of Goods That Guarantee a Profit to the Dealer.

NOTE—The selling prices of the goods listed below have been guaranteed by the various manufacturers. When a grocer knows of a cut being made, he should at once notify FRANK B. CONNOLLY, Secretary Associated Retail Grocers of San Francisco, 901 Stanyan, cor. Frederick, Phone Fell 6161. Mr. Connolly will immediately take up the matter with the manufacturer, who will see that the cutter is called to task.

Grocers should report all cuts as promptly as possible and thus make it easier to correct the evil before prices become demoralized.

A NATIONAL ATTRACTION.

John A. Green, of Cleveland, Ohio, Secretary of the National Retail Grocers Association and one of its most succesful presidents, will attend the convention of the California Retail Grocers and Merchants Association at Sacramento in September.

It will be a great treat to all the delegates present to hear the National Secretary talk on the benefits of organization, etc.

Director F. B. Connolly of the National Executive Board has completed arrangements for Mr. Green to visit the Western Territory. The item arranged by Mr. Connolly for Mr. Green is as follows:

He will speak at the Anniversary of the Denver Association on Sept. 2.

He will address an open meeting of the Utah State Association at Salt Lake City on Sept. 5.

The California State Association at Sacramento on Sept. 10—11—12.

The Portland Pure Food Show on Sept. 14.

The Washington State Convention on Sept. 18—19.

He will be the guests of these Association's and the expenses of the trip will be divided equally among them.

The presence of Secretary Green at the State Convention at Sacramento will tend to bring the Grocers of California into closer touch with the National Association and the persiplities of greater benefits for the Retail Grocers of the United States.

Mrs. Green will accompany her husband.

RIVAL TO CRACKER TRUST.

Western Man President With M. J. Fitsimmons of Baltimore as Vice President—"General Biscuit Co." to Have Capital of $30,000,000.

New York.—From Baltimore the news comes that at the conference here 19 independent concerns were present, and the project in contemplation was gone over in detail. The final steps for consolidation were not taken at the meeting, as many desired to submit the amended plan to the stockholders before final ratification.

"There was no hitch whatever in the negotiations," said Mr. Penniman, "You must remember, however, that to inaugurate a $30,000,000 corporation requires a great deal of care. It is essential that nothing should be done hastily, but that every possible loophole should be looked after and provided for in advance of the actual signing of the agreement. This is what was done at the New York conference. We held one or more meetings each day, at which the general plan as outlined was submitted and discussed. While this had been carefully prepared, suggestions for strengthening it naturally came up at these meetings. Some of the new ideas advanced were favorably received and were adopted. This changed to some extent the character of the first agreement, and all of the representatives desired to submit the amended plan to their stockholders. This was but natural though all thought the modifications would be accepted and that the combination along the lines as originally drawn will be ultimately accepted.

"I do not know whether another general gathering will be necessary. All who are to become parties to the combination are now fully aware of the terms on which it is desired to unite, and perhaps this can be done as well by correspondence as at a general meeting.

"If another conference should be necessary, I should say it will be called again in New York, perhaps within the next two or three weeks. It will not require a longer time for a full digestion of the modified articles. Then those who are co-operating in this movement can signify their intention of either accepting or rejecting the proposition.

"For my part, I can see no reason why the combination should not be effective as planned. The gathering was thoroughly harmonious at every meeting, and the conference finally broke up with a perfect understanding on all sides."

It was intimated that on its completion a Western man may be chosen as president of the new combination, which will be known as the "General Biscuit Company." Mr. Fitzsimmons will be a vice president, and will also have general charge of the distribution of the output of the combination in the South. The Baltimore plant, with those in Richmond, which it controls, already serves this territory, where they have built up a large and growing business.

It is understood that the idea of this combination originated with Mr. Fitzsimmons, who has been nursing and perfecting it for a long time. It grew out of the immense advantage the independent bakeries secured in establishing a general buying agency in New York. This saved them money, as they took the raw material in large quantities and then distributed it among themselves according to the needs of each.

DESERT SALT CO., ORGANIZED.

Tulare Men Have Filed On Eleven Sections In The Mojave Desert.

Visalia.—Articles of incorporation of the Desert Salt Company were filed today, the principal place of business of which is Tulare. The company, which is at present composed of seven well known Tulare gentlemen, has filed on eleven sections near Searles, close to the country line between Kern and San Bernardino counties.

The salt deposits are large and a test has shown the salt to be 98 per cent pure. It is in the midst of a salt lake.

The Southern Pacific Company has run a survey for a road to extend between Mojave and Keeler in Inyo county and which if built along the line proposed will pass within three-fourths of a mile of the new company's holdings. The property is said to be very valuable.

POWDERED MILK.

Rapid Growth of New Product Among Bakers and Confectioners.

The sales of powdered milk have greatly increased in the market, till the factories are unable to supply the demand, even though the daily output is above 75 barrels. Powdered milk is one of the most interesting of the late arrivals in the grocery trade and promises to be quite as popular, if not more so, than condensed milk. As yet its use has been largely confined to bakers and confectioners, though it is quite as adaptable to soda fountains and as an economic substitute in the home for fresh milk.

Powdered milk, by the processes of Dr. Martin Ekenberg of Sweden, is nothing more nor less than fresh, sweet milk in a dry form, containing all of the ingredients found in the orginal milk. Pure cow's milk contains about 87½ pounds of water to every hundred pounds of milk, so that in every hundred pounds of milk there are about 12½ pounds of dry solids, of this 3½ pounds are butter fat, the other nine pounds consisting of albuminoids, milk sugar and milk-salts.

The manufacturing process is a rapid system of evaporation, removing the water from the milk in less than one minute at a temperature so low that the solids are changed in no way by heat or chemicals, except from a liquid to a dry state.

Bakers mix it with their flour in a dry form and merely add water and find the result equal to those obtained by fresh milk and at materially less cost. It is estimated that milk powder is equivalent to fresh milk at a cost of about 3¼ cents a quart and will keep in any temperature a year or more, in the open package. About three ounces of powder is derived from a quart of fresh milk and it can be restored by the simple addition of water. Although the company has been in operation only two years, its product has more than quadrupled and is still growing in demand. As yet it is marketed only in barrels and boxes for baker's use.

Hot weather is here: if you have a delivery horse see that he gets plenty of water, is not driven too hard or allowed to stand in the hot sun.

The argument in the ad. helps mightily to get the order. The old style of advertising in the shape of a mere card or announcement is gone.

Do not be content with having a business which barely makes a living for you. Try to build for tomorrow, with the idea that each day should be an improvement over the one before.

courteous and care should be taken to avoid mistakes.

Don't let the slow-pay customers do you up. Get after them and make them drop into the store and settle up. It can be done by going after them in the right way.

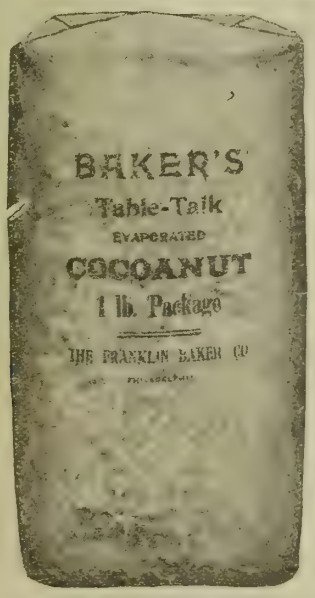
Don't antagonize your customers. If they have ideas which do not fully agree with your own why let it go at that. Don't make a fuss over it. Maybe your own ideas are wrong after all. Always listen to the customer.

If you work for a man in heaven's name work for him. If he pays you wages that supply you your bread and butter work for him, speak well of him, think well of him, stand by him, and stand by the institution he represents.

The wealth of the United States is increasing at the rate of something like $12,000,000 a day. Much of this wealth is material, while a certain percentage of it represents the appreciation of values, as, for instanc, the increase in the worth of real property such as lands and buildings.

Retailers have been known to work up a big trade on a certain grade of coffee, then when the trade really amounted to something, commence substituting an inferior grade. This is a mistaken policy. When you have made a coffee popular, just be satisfied with the profit it pays, instead of trying to increase the margin of "velvet."



The highest type of service is one which governs details. It satisfies the child sent to purchase an ounce of spice just as surely as the customer purchasing generously. It is no respecter of persons. It never tampers with quality. It is exact. It is fair. It is so perfect that it says—Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. It is doing things better than the majority.

Tea is an article that very few people know anything about, it is dealt in by grocers and salesmen and at that they do not know when they are buying and selling good tea. Every grocer should know good tea from bad tea for his own profit. It a customer is pleased with the tea bought at a certain store she is sure to buy again and tell her friends about it.

The time to stop advertising is when you want to go out of business, and then only. You may not believe this, but it is every word true. You man say that you have been in business a good while and have not advertised, and expect to continue in business. This may be, but you have not made half you would if you had been a regular and judicious advertiser. You could have turned your money oftener, made larger margins and had a great deal more fun.

While the United States figures only make up 140,000,000 bushels out of the 600,000,000 bushels of the international wheat trade in 1906, it yet controls the wheat markets of the world. The figures here given show an increase, but are less than those of 1900 and 1901, when the United States alone supplied more than one-half of the total wheat entering international trade. But all these wheat-surplus countries are countries whose wheat production, and still more the wheat surplus, is a variable and uncertain quantity. This is notably true of Russia, Argentina, and British India, and it is very questionable, therefore, whether the wheat consuming world may find it possible to dispense with the exports of wheat from the United States. On the other hand, it seems improbable that the American farmer will now attempt to produce for exportation any considerable quantities of wheat at such low prices as prevailed ten years ago. With a profitable market at home, the American wheat grower seems disposed to adjust the volume of his surplus production to the prices that prevail in the world market.

We're Compelled to Use the Best Nuts.

Baker's Cocoanut.

But if we did that we couldn't guarantee Baker's Cocoanut to keep its sweetness and color.. So we have to use the best grade of nuts to protect our guarantee, even if there were no other reasons.

Los Angeles Progress.

Remarkable Strides in Mercantile Lines During Past Ten Years.

Some of the Big Retail Dealers of Los Angeles—The Amount of Business Done—Number of Help Employed, Etc.

By Geo. E. Place.

Los Angeles has made remarkable strides in the past decade as a great center not only for tourists, but as a manufacturing locality, also for agricultural and other industrial enterprises. The country roundabout is being developed as it never was before, under modern appliances. Its surrounding country has abundant resources, both agricultural, mineral and climatic; all of which have greatly increased its population and created an enormous demand for food products, etc. The trade of its merchants has expanded far beyond its former limits into new fields of operation, while the bulk of business has grown to such enormous proportions that enlarged stores was forced on them and new and large houses have opened up here with larger and greater variety of merchandise, to meet the constantly growing demands.

It is claimed that there are at present nearly 800 retail grocery and general merchandise stores in the city limits of Los Angeles, some of which do a wholesale trade and their aggregate sales run up into millions of dollars annually. Herewith is given a synoptical report of what the largest houses are doing:

J. R. Newberry & Co.

J. R. Newberry & Co., who have twelve (12) stores scattered around in and out of the city and employ 350 men and women, do a business of about two and a quarter (2¼) millions annually. They both wholesale and retail and buy almost by train load lots. Their stores are all large, airy and arranged to facilitate business.

H. Jevne.

H. Jevne, who has been established since 1882 and always has conducted a safe and economical trade under systematic and modern ideas, has grown to such proportions that they now occupy two stores in the heart of the city and employ 200 men and women.

The new six-story structure corner of Sixth and Spring streets, is a model of beauty and elegance and considered the largest and most elaborate grocery house on the coast. The inside finish is of the most costly woods and the bronze electric light fixtures are not surpassed elsewhere. Thirty electric motors and three dumb waiters for lifting packages from one floor to another that will weigh as high as 350 lbs. They have their own coffee roasting plant installed in the building. One hundred telephones are in the building.

On the upper floor, away from flies, heat and dust, there is one of the largest, if not the largest, bakery on the coast, with a capacity of 36000 loaves of bread daily. Here is installed all the latest improved machinery, and here also, is a confectionery department where all the delicate and fine goods are manufactured. The house retails 5,000 loaves of bread daily and ship the balance to outside settlements in Southern California. The firm carries 6000 family accounts.

This house carries the largest, most costly and exquisite stock of imported and domstic wines, liquors and cigars to be found in the city, which are housed in the cool cemented floor basement. A perfect modern system is in vogue in all departments.

The rear part of the building bordering on a wide cemented space basement is nicely arranged for loading and unloading merchandise from and on the teams. The building was especially constructed for the firm and arranged for their convenience. Aside from this the firm has a stable on another street costing $35,000 and with 100 horses that the house use.

Anderson & Chanslor.

Anderson & Chanslor Co., who are located on Spring Street and have been in business for the past 25 years and do a business of half million dollars annually which is constantly growing. They employ 60 people. Also have a store at Catalina Island that employs about 30 people at present time.

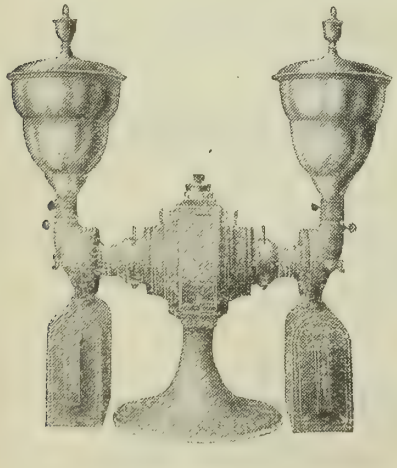
Geo. A. Ralphs.

Geo. A. Ralphs does business of $300,000 annually and employ 25 to 30 men. Have also been a long time in business and carry a large and varied stock of up-to-date merchandise.

Albert Cohn.

Albert Cohn, located on South Main street and Washington and Flower streets, has been in business the past 19 years and employs 75 clerks. He is having a splendid trade and on the increase.

Carr & Stephens.



Carr & Stephens is another prosperous grocery firm that are doing a good business and handle all staple and standard merchandise. They have, also, been here in trade for a number of years.

Wages.

There are several other good sized houses here that do a trade of from $50,000 to $100,000 annually, besides many smaller ones that are rushed with their share of family trade. The average wages paid in the above mentioned stores run from $10 to $20 per week. Some few experts may receive a higher rate.

Sharp Competition.

Some amusing incidents are sometimes encountered and cited by purchasers and salesmen. A gentlemen lately from the East, who had located in the Southern part of the city,

IN TWO YEARS THE Royal Electric Mills

WHY ?

BECAUSE—

1st. A ROYAL MILL cuts the Coffee into even granules, without crushing or grinding.

2d. A ROYAL MILL is self-cleaning, not a grain of Coffee is left in the mill to mix with the next lot.

stated that he could buy cheaper on time and stay at home than to go down town with the cash. This is sometimes the truth and can probably be accounted for by the sharp competition practiced.

Beach Settlements.

Just at present, at the season's height, all the stores at the beach settlements, Long Beach, San Pedro, Venice, Ocean Park and Santa Monica, are overrun with business and have put on extra help who work over hours

Canneries Operating.

The fruit canning factories started up the later part of July and will continue the work on different varieties until about the end of the year. They employ a great number of young and middle aged women and girls, who are expert workers and keep the money they earn in the country and not send it away to China and Japan like the blended heathen of those countries. This is the way it should be by all industrial establishments on the Pacific Coast, hire your own people who, not only use home made goods, but patronize you, and by so doing help keep these sawed-off degenerated mixed races out of our country, who have no interest whatever here, except to skim off the cream of the land and despoil it without upbuilding or developing it, or improving conditions or society in any manner or shape, on modern or progressive ways. It is evident we don't want them here, and if the question was submitted to the vote of the people nine-tenths would vote to not only exclude them forever, but order what are now here to go away.

Vacation Season.

If any errors are herein noticed, or a more extensively mention not given, it is because the head man or proper party to get information from, or correct data, can hardly ever be found in. They are either gone East, to the beach, island or mountain resorts, or taking their quarterly vacation and only the bookkeeper, cashier or ordinary clerks remain on duty.

THE NATIONAL PURE FOOD LAW.

In these days of pure food agitation and the upheaval and exposing to the limelight of various misbranded food products, it behooves one to be most vigilant in making purchases of prepared and so-called "ready to eat" provisions.

The law now requires that a branded product must be labelled with a truthful statement of the contents of the package. In other words, a can of strained honey, if it contains glucose for a "filler" cannot be called "honey" If Maple Syrup contains glucose, it cannot be called "maple". That being the case, very little pure maple syrup will hereafter appear on this market, as the demand far exceeds the supply, and prior to the operation of the National Pure Food Law, manufacturers could make indiscrimate use of glucose as a convenient and cheap method of adding bulk to their output and calling it all "pure maple."

As a matter of fact the only safe way for one to obtain the pure all-sugar syrup is to make it yourself. This can be done by following this simple recipe:

Dissolve seven pounds of sugar in four pints of boiling water; when throughly dissolved add one ounce of Mapleine and strain through a damp cloth. This will make one gallon of all-sugar syrup without a particle of adulteration and with a maple flavor that experts pronounce perfect, even better than the pure maple.

Mapleine is a product of the Crescent Manufacturing Company of Seattle, Washington, and is welcomed as a long-felt want to the lovers of pure food and the old-fashioned maple flavor.—Orchard and Farm.

A GENEROUS PROPOSITION.

Plan of Hobart Electric Manufacturing Co. and F. F. Wear Meets Welcome.

Last week we published a letter from F. F. Wear, District Sales, Agent for the Hobart Electric Manufacturing Co., which, owing to its location may have been overlooked by many of our readers:

For the benefit of those who did not see same we repeat below:

Oakland, Cal., July 29th, 1907.
Cal. Retail Grocers & Merchants Ass'n.
San Francisco, Cal.

Gentlemen: — The Hobart Electric Manufacturing Company of Troy, Ohio, in connection with myself, are hereby donating to your Association one of our very latest No. 2121 Floor Pedestal Electric Coffee Mills, free of all expense to you whatsoever, in Sacramento, Cal.

It will be essential for us to personally supervise the demonstration of this new mill, owing to the construction which has not existed in coffee mills prior to this date. It is understood that we will do this during the progress of your Convention at the Assembly Hall on the dates of the 10th, 11th and 12th of September this year.

This mill in question has already been telegraphed for and in fact is en route to Sacramento.

The only stipulations that are requested by the Hobart Electric Manufacturing Company and myself are to-wit:

First—That the machine will go to a member of the State Grocers Association.

Second—That he will install and operate the mill in his store.

Third—That under no consideration shall the mill be used for speculative purposes by the fortunate recipient.

Yours very respectfully,

Frank F. Wear.

If the grocers of California follow the plan of the grocers of Texas, to whom a similar mill was given they should make a great deal of money out of this splendid liberal proposition. The Texas grocers raffled the mill among the members. They sold chances for 50c. As a consequence, one of the members of their association secured a coffee mill worth $250 and the association received about $450 in cash.

The action to be taken by the State Grocers Association in regard to the disposal of the coffee mill awaits the judgment of the Board of Directors.

APPROVE OF PLAN.

During the week we have received letters from several of our directors which show approval of the proposition, forcasting acceptance at the next meeting of the Board.

A. A. Jost, President of the State Grocers' Association, says:

"Regarding the handling of the Hobart Coffee Mill, will state that it is very liberal indeed of the Hobart Electric Manufacturing Co., and their Mr. Wear, to make us the offer they have. No doubt nearly all the merchants will take at least one ticket and possibly several. There should be an elegant opportunity for some merchant to secure an up-to-date mill at practically no cost to him."

C. A. Mottaz of Los Angeles, says:

"With regard to the Hobart Coffee Mill proposition will say that I think it is very good. It will help raise a few dollars and grease the wheels a bit. Go to it—quick."

F. B. Connolly, Secretary of the State Grocers' Association, says:

"A splendid proposition and one which every member should heartily work for."

H .K. Duncan, says:

"I certainly approve of the proposition as unfolded by the Hobart people.

John W. King says:

"Go ahead—good idea."

L. Warnke, says:

"The Hobart Electric Manufacturing Co., are surely entitled to the thanks of this Association for their splendid donation to our cause. I am convinced that this will add a nice little sum to the funds of the Association.

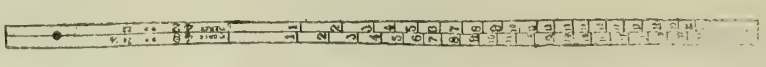
THE "ADVOCATE" GAUGING RODS HAVE ARRIVED!!

Send Your Order In At Once.

There is no question but what every merchant should have his own measuring instruments on which he can rely for protection. Oil and vinegar are frequently overgauged and unless a merchant has a set of gauging instruments he cannot tell whether he is paying for oil or vinegar that is charged to him at, say 52 gallons, when as a matter of fact the barrel will only hold 48 gallons. This is a trick frequently practiced as these concerns know that few dealers have measuring instruments.



The long stick is used to determine the actual capacity of the barrel while the small one shows the amount that is lacking in the barrel. Protect yourself as many readers of this paper have, by buying a set of the Advocate gauging instruments which are sold at a normal figure. It is advisable to have two sets, one for vinegar, molasses and syrup and another for oil if it is bought in barrels as one set should not be used to gauge both oil and vinegar or molasses.

We will deliver the gauge rods to you at your store at these prices, cash in advance: 1 Guage and 1 Wantage Rod $1.45; 2 Guages and 2 Wantage Rods, $2.80; 3 Guages and 3 Wantage Rods, $4.20.

Cuts in this advertisement show both the gauge and wantage rods. Complete directions for using will be mailed free with each set.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

In publishing the new 1907 edition of their cipher code the J. K. Armsby Co., have deviated from the old style and have adopted an adjustable cover which permits the insertion of new and the elimination of old pages. This will obviate the necessity of new editions in the future and instead revisions will be made each year and forwarded to subscribers for insertion. This well known code is now used universally by the grocery and kindred trades, canners and dried fruit packers, and is recognized as the standard code for California cured products and canned fruits, vegetables and salmon.

Fruit and vegetables canners of the State of Washington at a meeting at Seattle organized the Washington Fruit and Vegetable Canner's Association. The objects of the association are the promotion of mutual benefit of members, the establishment of uniform grading and packing, and co-operation in the handling of traffic matters involved in the carrying of the canned product to market.

Goldberg, Bowen & Co. are making extensive improvements in the equipment of their coffee department. A new coffee roasting plant has just been installed in their warehouse. In conjunction with the roaster is a mixer and a new contrivance for removing chaff from the ground coffee. The firm has for some time been working on this machine with Chas. Burdick, the engineer, who is also engaged in the enlargement of the Schilling plant. It consists of an arrangement of fans and elevators, and is considered to be the most efficient device of the kind on the coast. They have also ordered a coffee pulverizer of a capacity of 250 pounds an hour, and as soon as this is installed they intend to make a specialty of pulverized coffee, which is coming into great demand here for use in percolating coffee-pots. They have recently begun the practice of putting up their daily requirements of tea in fancy water-proof and air-tight bags, each bearing the label by which it is known. This not only preserves the tea better than the practice of weighing it out from bins, but also puts before the consumer the brand of tea, and thus facilitates ordering.

Late crops will be harvested on nearly all of the Sacramento islands which were flooded last spring, but little will be gathered from the interior of the islands on account of the failure to drain the water from any parts but near levees. Potatoes, celery some grain, hay and asparagus will be harvested. In many instances the asparagus was not damaged.

A new Los Angeles corporation is the French-American Olive and Fruit Company, which is capitalized at $250-000. The directors are Peter Maggini, Ira Van Marin and Edward C. Canet.

Chicago's first annual World's Pure Food Show, which will be held at the Coliseum November 19 to 25, 1907, has already enlisted the hearty support and co-operation of manufacturers and dealers in all parts of the country. The names of the members of the various commissions are a guaranty to exhibitors of the great commercial, industrial and educational value of the exposition Seventy-five awards will be made in as many classifications. All of them will be granted under the direct supervision of the commissions, which are honorary bodies.

The eleventh annual convention of the Retail Merchant's Association of Pennsylvania will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, August 20, 21 and 22, 1907, in the Court House at York, Pa.

JOBBERS WANT PROFITS.

National Association of Wholesale Grocers Declare In Favor of "Live and Let Live" Policy.

The wholesaler is coming to a realization of the unwise policy of acting as an unpaid distributor for the manufatcurer, is becoming more noticeable. At the banquet following the National Convention of Wholesale Grocers held in Chicago this changing attitude was particularly well exemplified. The N. Y. "Journal of Commerce" quotes Franklin McVeagh, a leading Chicago wholesaler, as saying:

"The time has come when the grocer should assert his rights and refuse to handle goods on which there is no profit. The workman is worthy of his hire, and if the manufacturer expects the jobber to handle his products and supply the trade, he ought, in common fairness, to be paid for the work he does."

Triumph of Mr. Hannahs.

Franklin McVeagh said this in the conrse of his address as toastmaster at the big banquet, with which the convention was closed.

Everyone sat up and took notice while Fred W. Hannahs of New York, first vice-president of the National Association, almost danced out of his chair with joy, says the "Journal of Commerce." It was an innocent enough utterance, but coming from a Chicago man and being applauded as it was by Chicago men and a big Chicago audience in Chicago, it meant a great deal to Mr. Hannahs and those of his intimate asociates who knew where he stands on trade questions.

What Mr. McVeagh said was the very thing that Mr. Hannah has been contending for for years, but till that minute he has found Chicago one of the most consistent opponents in the country. In fact so strong was the oposition in years past that Eastern folks have even harbored suspicions that Chicago jobbers had been subsidized by the sugar trusts to back against the principle of "Live and Let Live," for which Mr. Hannahs was fighting. To thus suddenly find his own sentiments preached in a Chicago banquet by a leader in Chicago commerce made Mr. Hannahs feel that his struggle was worth while after all.

Gratis Work a Sore Spot.

The handling of a few leading staples, notably sugar and flour, has long been a sore spot in the grocer's business anatomy. The sugar refiner would sell the jobber sugar at a price and then go out and sell the customer at the same price. Therefore there was no money for the grocer in sugar and he acted as the distributor for the refiner largely because his retail customers wanted the goods and he felt constrained to furnish them. More, he carried the retainer's account and handled the sugar without any return for his trouble. Everyone grumbled, but no one saw his way clear to successfully resist.

There aren't many strings on Mr. Hannahs' fiddle, but he plays the few very well. He played this one effectively. He declared that the only way way for the jobber to emancipate himself was to refuse to handle the goods of the manufacturer who would not pay him for doing it. Of course, the jober's competitor would do it, but the more goods the competitor handled without any return in cash, the better pleased the jobber should be. Let the competitor sell all the sugar if he wanted to, but the chances were that the more he sold for fun the sooner he would get sick of his bar-demanding pay for his work.

gain and be ready to siwng into line,

Suspected of Nefarious Schemes.

Mr. Hannahs has preached this for years, and has generally been effective in the East. In the West he was not understood and some even went so far as to suspect him of having schemes in his head which they could not safely adopt. It was his aggressiveness of such principles that led to the strong opposition to him this year, aspecially in Chicago. Fortunately the proceedings of the convention brought Mr. Hannahs out in his true light as an unswerving champion of associated effort, and he was re-elected unanimously. His highest triumph, however, was when he heard Mr. McVeagh playing on his old string in such eloquent terms. The mountain had come to Mahomet."

Purposes and Accomplishments

OF THE

California Retail Grocers' & Merchants' Association

OFFICIAL PAPER—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Plan of Operation.

Prior to 1900, different associations of merchants of California had asked for various laws, from time to time, and had always failed to secure results through lack of organization. These failures caused the Retail Grocers' Association of San Francisco to invite other similar associations to send delegates to a convention in September, 1900. At this convention, it was decided to form an organization to be known as the

CALIFORNIA RETAIL GROCERS' AND MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

This Association was organized to enable the grocers of California and other merchants to co-operate in order to accomplish results by their united action that they could not secure singly. Each Association sends delegates to an annual convention. These delegates decide the policy to be followed and elect officers to carry out their plans. Every individual member has the right to attend the annual convention as a delegate.

The next State Convention will be held at Sacramento, on September 10th, 11th and 12th, 1907.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

LAWS SECURED.—Prior to the Legislative Session of 1907, the combined efforts of the merchants affiliated with the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association secured the following results:

Permitting the Attachment of the Wages of Public Officials.

Making a Wife's Separate Property Responsible for Family Bills for the Necessaries of Life. Property owned before marriage or received by will, exempt.

Making a Guarantee of Purity a Sufficient Defense for a Dealer Charged with Violating the Pure Food Law.

We also secured the passage of the following laws through both houses of the Legislature.

VETOED BY GOVERNOR PARDEE.

Making an Account Date from the Time of the Last Item and making a Payment Renew an Account. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Allowing Merchants to Form Mutual Fire Insurance Companies. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Declaring Trading Stamps Illegal. Declared Unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

SESSION OF 1907.

At the Legislative Session of 1907, the work at Sacramento was particularly well organized, and, although we were very short of funds, we secured the passage of the following laws ALL OF WHICH were approved by Governor Gillett and THEY ARE NOW LAWS.

1. Making the time in which an open book account outlaws FOUR years instead of two.
2. Allowing the formation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.
3. Making the passing of a check WITH INTENT TO DEFRAUD a State's Prison offense.
4. Providing that the dealer shall not be held responsible for the purity of goods GUARANTEED TO HIM AS PURE.

WE HAVE MORE LAWS TO GET. We want your influence.

We have, by united action, convinced the manufacturers of flour in several localities that the trade wanted them to stop senseless cutting. This has added many dollars to the profits of the grocers.

We propose to unite, where it is considered desirable, so that, as a body, we can:

(a) Protest EFFECTIVELY when any manufacturer allows his goods to be cut. We want your influence.

(b) Protest EFFECTIVELY when a wholesaler or manufacturer sells to a party who would otherwise buy from one of our members. We want your influence.

(c) Protest EFFECTIVELY when a wholesaler or manufacturer sends out "short" packages to members. We want your influence.

We are helping members collect bad bills (and saving them lawyer's fees) by a set of collections letters which always produce splendid results when properly used.

Our paper, The Retail Grocers' Advocate, which we own, is the medium which makes it possible for us to secure the results outlined above..

ALL THESE THINGS COST MONEY—You could not get them for $300 a year alone. We think you ought to pay your share ($3 a year) in annual dues. DON'T YOU?

BIG CONVENTION PROMISED.

Preparations Progress for Valuable Meeting of State Grocers' Association.

Every grocer in California who can should plan to be in Sacramento on September 10th, 11th and 12th (Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday), when the convention of the State Grocers' Association is to be held.

All grocers will be welcome, whether members or not.

Every organization of merchants is invited to send delegates.

The purposes and call are outlined in the next column.

In referring to the coming convention, the "Record-Union" of Sacramento says:

BIG REPRESENTATION EXPECTED

Sacramento — The eighth annual convention and business meeting of the Retail Grocers and Merchants' association of California will meet in the new Red Men's hall, Tenth street, between I and J streets, on September 10th, 11th and 12th coming, and it is probable that every city and county in the state will be represented in the attendance.

The organization was established in 1900, and held its first meeting in San Francisco. At that time there was but a handful of members, but the grocers throughout the state have taken greater interest each succeeding year until the membership now numbers over 2500.

A. A. Jost of the Jost-Beasley company of Sacramento, is the president of the local association and the executive committee, in addition to the president, who is an ex-officio member, is composed of E. W. Hale, F. B. Fancher, Ellis Kilgore, Wm. Brome, Jr., and J. S. Jones, with Mr. Hale

OFFICIAL CALL
OF THE
Eighth Annual Convention
OF THE
Cal. Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Ass'n.
To be held at
Sacramento, September 10th, 11th and 12th.
Red Men's Temple, 10th St., between I and J Sts.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 9th, 1907.

DEAR SIR:

The Eighth Annual Convention of the State Grocers' Association is to be held at Sacramento, September 10th, 11th and 12th.

We want YOUR COMMUNITY to be represented.

Each Association of grocers or merchants in the State is entitled to send delegates as follows:

Two at large; one additional for each 10 members up to 50; one additional for each additional 50 or fraction thereof.

Where there is not a grocers' association, individual grocers can attend and will be recognized as delegates (on their paying their dues) providing there be not over three from any one city.

Grocers will be present from all parts of the State. They will come to discuss the following problems:

How to get better profits.

How to prevent trade abuses—such as wholesalers selling to consumers, dishonest shortages, etc.

How to get better laws.

How to make associations effective.

John A. Green, of Cleveland, Ohio, Secretary of the National Retail Grocers' Association and ex-President of that organization, will attend the convention and deliver an address.

There will be capable speakers from various parts of the State.

Lavish entertainment is being prepared by the Sacramento grocers, both for the delegates and their wives.

A Hobart Electric Coffee Mill of the latest pattern (worth $250) has been contributed to the State Association by Frank F. Wear, the Coast Agent. It will be raffled the last afternoon of the convention. Tickets cost 50 cents. Only the numbers of tickets known to be paid for will be considered.

On the opposite side will be found the Proposed Program for the Convention. This program is subject to slight change.

Please make it a point to attend.

There will be work and enjoyment for everybody.

chairman. The personnel of this committee assures the members that the meeting will be as interesting and productive of good results as it is possible to make this sort of meeting.

Will Discuss Problems.

The convention is, first of all, a considerative body brought together for the purpose of discussing credita, purchases and the introduction of new methods of buying and selling and, indeed, every phase of the retail grocery business.

The association has already, although comparatively young in years, secured the enactment of many laws which the general public never hear of, but which have improved the grocery business in many ways.

Programme Being Framed.

The committee in charge of the programme for the meeting have not completed their labors and will not be able to announce the program for some weeks yet, although it is known that the programme thus far arranged will permit of every delegate and member of the association participating in the deliberations of the meeting, if he so desires.

There will be sense and nonsense, of course—for no convention was ever yet assembled that did not have something of fun and frolic in its make-up—but the convention will be first and last a working body and the members are earnestly working to make ready for disucussion by the convention as a body, many matters of vital importance to the grocery business.

The Three Chief Subjects.

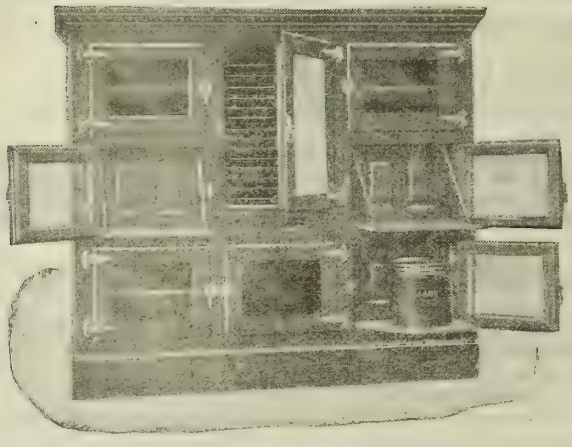
There will be three subjects which will be considered fully, and which will in all probality take up more time than any other subjects brought before the convention. These subjects are the matter of extending credit; the matter of the imposition worked upon the retailers by many unscrupulous merchants and manufacturers in selling the retailers unwholesome and impure food products, and the matter of purchasing, stocking and handling goods of unknown weight and quality.

The labors of the convention will be ended with a banquet, when all members will be welcome, and many will be asked to make short talks upon matters touching upon the relations between the retailer and the consumer.

Consul H. A. Conant, of Windsor, reports that the Ontario College of Pharmacy believes it has hit upon a solution of the difficulty in preventing persons from securing carbolic acid at drug stores for the purpose of self-destruction. A resolution was adopted asking the government to pass a law prohibiting the sale of carbolic acid in any stronger solution than 5 per cent, except it be with a prescription from a duly qualified practitioner.

MINCE MEAT DECISION.

The Department of Agriculture has rendered a decision regarding bulk Mince Meat as follows:



"Permission will be granted to manufacturers to use benzoic acid as a reservative, but the label must not bear the Serial Number assigned to a Guarantee filed with the Department of Agriculture, nor must any statement be made by the manufacturer that the Mince Meat is guaranted to conform with the Pure Food and Drugs Act, but it must contain the statement that the food is preserved with benzoic acid."

It would seem that grocers would prefer to sell a quality of Mince Meat that does not contain any injurious preservatives, in preference to other kinds that are wet bulk Mince Meat, which, as we understand it, will not keep unless it does contain preservatives, and therefore cannot be guaranted pure and wholesome.

A NEW STORE.

Arroye Grande.—P. A. Campbell of Oceano who was with T. V. Wheeler of that place for a long time has taken the premises lately vacated by the Misses Mooney and will open in the grocery business on August 20. Mr. Campbell is well known here as well as at Oceano and will, no doubt, secure a good share of the constantly increasing trade of this growing town.

GREEN WILL ATTEND.

National Secretary to Attend State Convention of Grocers at Sacramento.

After much correspondence, State Secretary Connolly has been able to assure the attendance of John A. Green of Cleveland, Ohio, secretary of the National Retail Grocers' Association and one of its most successful presidents, at the convention of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association at Sacramento in September.

This was done through securing the co-operation of the grocers of Colorado, Oregon and Washington in meeting Mr. Green's traveling expenses.

It will be a great treat to all the delegates present to hear the National Secretary talk on the benefits of organization, etc. Mr. Green is a practical grocer of broad views and large experience. As president of the National Association, he has largely increased its scope and value to the trade.

Mr. Connolly, who is a director of the National Association, has exerted himself strenuously to secure this attraction, realizing that it would both help the California grocers and would also assist in making them realize that the National Association is something of which they are and should be a part.

The itinerary arranged by Mr. Connolly for Mr. Green is as follows:

A NATIONAL ATTRACTION.

John A. Green, of Cleveland, Ohio, Secretary of the National Retail Grocers Association and one of its most succesful presidents, will attend the convention of the California Retail Grocers and Merchants Association at Sacramento in September.

It will be a great treat to all the delegates present to hear the National Secretary talk on the benefits of organization, etc.

Director F. B. Connolly of the National Executive Board has completed arrangements for Mr. Green to visit the Western Territory. The item arranged by Mr. Connolly for Mr. Green is as follows:

He will speak at the Anniversary of the Denver Association on Sept. 2.

He will addre:s an open meeting of the Utah State Association at Salt Lake City on Sept. 5.

The California State Association at Sacramento on Sept. 10—11—12.

The Portland Pure Food Show on Sept. 14.

The Washington State Convention on Sept. 18—19.

He will be the guests of these Association's and the expenses of the trip will be divided equally among them.

The presence of Secretary Green at the State Convention at Sacramento will tend to bring the Grocers of California into closer touch with the National Association and the persiplities of greater benefits for the Retail Grocers of the United States.

Mrs. Green will accompany her husband.

GAERDES' BIG PARTY.

H. Gaerdes of South San Francisco gave a house warming party at his new store on July 27th. The floor of the big warehouse was fine for dancing. A bonfire served to remind everybody for miles around of their invitations. A first-class band supplied the music and 8 kegs of beer, 6 boxes of soda water and 6 bowls of lemonade quenched the thirst while sandwiches, cakes and candy satisfied the hunger of the guests. Pretty souvenir fans were distributed. It was two o'clock in the morning before the party broke up.

ADVANCE THE INTEREST OF CALIFORNIA

As a Good Californian You Can Assist the California Promotion Committee.

By supporting the Chamber of Commerce or other development association of your locality.

By sending to The California Promotion Committee the names of your friends who are residents of other States and countries, so that the Committee may take up correspondence with them and tell them of California's opportunities.

By working hand in hand with your local newspapers and making them the slogans of Progress for your region.

By encouraging the subdivision of large tracts of land and the extension and development of intensive farming.

By keeping in touch with The California Promotion Committee and its work: by furnishing to it items of news denoting progress and prosperity for publication in Eastern centers, and by offering suggestions for the enlargement of the scope of its activities.

By realizing what a glorious State California is and into what a grander commonwealth it is developing with accelerating energy, and letting all the world know about it all the time.

BUYS BEER BOTTLES.

A western addition grocer was much annoyed by the fact that some of his neighbors did nott charge for beer bottles. To his protests, they turned a deaf ear. The nhe got up a scheme of his own.

He let it be known that he would pay 5c for all bottles brought to him with one of his tickets and 2½c for outside beer bottles. At once, the people who are getting bottles without paying a deposit, began bringing them into this grocer and getting 2½c a piece for them or 30c a dozen. These same bottles were costing the foolish grocer 45c a dozen and the grocer was getting 45c for every 30c he paid out.

His neighbors soon found that they were losing 20 or 30 dozen of beer bottles a month. Then they began to realize that they had to get a deposit on their bottles and the situation became normal.

It was a harsh way of treating his neighbors, but he taught them that it was bad business policy to let bottles go out without charging a nickle deposit.

Bockman & Andrews, 1586 O'Farrell street, are having good success with the association colletcion letters. They appreciate, particularly, the fact that they do not have to give up any 20 per cent of what is collected to an outsider.

The importation of tea into the United States via Canada in the calendar year 1906 amounted to 2,301,201 pounds valued at $548,290. This was admitted free of duty, as there is at present no customs charge on American tea imports. Canada has the following customers regulations for this article: "Tea and green coffee imported direct from the country of growth and production and tea and green coffee purchased in bond in the United Kingdom, free;" from other countries, including the United States, 10 per cent, duty is imposed. Under this tariff restriction the shipments of tea from the United States to Canada in the fiscal year 1906 amounted to only 78,564 pounds, valued at $18,522. The foregoing facts are furnished by the Bureau of Manufactures.

Dear Sir: Have been using coffee mills for over 20 years and had experience with nearly all of them. Always wanted one a "little better" for the mill is a great factor in maintaining coffee trade. Our last purchase was one of your No. 2121 Hobart's and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the best we have seen. Are particularly pleased with the clean sharp cut of the granulating burrs, something we have always wanted and never found so near perfection as in our Hobart.

We "press the button," the Mill does the rest—and does it right, and its nail eating qualities stand alone. Would not consider ourselves up-to-date without it.

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. in their circular dated Yokohama July 6th state that since their last report first crop teas have been marketed. The principal feature has been the continued strong demand for good cupping Yenshu leaf, prices having been on an average of fully 10 per cent over last year. Second crop teas are arriving in small quantities, but buying is not very brisk on account of high prices, due to the heavy buying of native concerns in the interior. Cup quality and style is about the same as last season.

the consumptive demand has been better than for some time past and the amount which has been taken out of the market by the Brazilian Government is now making itself felt. The visible supply is expected to decrease sharply, and receipts are small as compared with last year or the one before. This tends to verify the statement which has been so frequently made by bulls and believers in higher prices, also by the Brazilian Government, that the present crop is a very small one.

RICE.

New York, August 6th.—Dan Talmage's Son's Co., report:

There has been an active enquiry during the week. Buyers are not taking in large way, but the demand for immediate shipment has been so constant and from widely distributed territory that prices are strong on the scanty supply in hand. Some trifling receipts of New Crop Honduras are noted all of which were sold in advance of arrival at full figures. No New Japan expected before October.

Advices from the South note dull conditions on the Atlantic Coast. No new offerings. At New Orleans demand is active but poorly met. Old crop stock being scanty and arrivals of New Crop very small. Spirited competition for possession of Rough Rice has advanced the market with prospect of still higher figures in the immediate future. The cleaned product has been sold at full figures, the market closing at an ⅛ to ¼ higher than at opening of the week.

In the Interior-Southwest Louisiana and Texas the prospects for the growing crop are generally good, and in about thirty days harvest will demand undivided attention of planters.

Cables and correspondence from abroad note firm markets.

New Orleans, L. A., Aug 8.—Siewerd Milling Company, Ltd. report:

Rains during the past week, while benefiting the crop, have naturally delayed harvesting hence the strength of the Market, (which is entirely Local.)

With the Clearing Weather now prevailing, 60 per cent of the Planters on the Mississippi River are harvesting in full blast, and unless the unforeseen happens, (that is Rain) we look for Receipts, approximating 10,000 sacks on Monday next, and anticipate a corresponding decline on Clean Rice.

DRIED FRUIT.

The meeting of fruit-growers and dried-fruit packers with Secretary of Agriculture Wilson in San Francisco Friday to consider the new sulphur ruling did not result in any definite change in the situation though the reiteration by Secretary Wilson of his promise of immunity from prosecution to violators of the ruling as far as the present season is concerned will, it is believed, have a good effect. As to the future all that could be secured was a promise of a careful consideration of the matter after a report was secured from experts, or about six months from the present time.

Packers and growers are practically unanimous in the opinion that, if the ruling is continued, the dried peach and apricot industry of the State will be killed. Notwithstanding the promise of immunity, most packers are refusing to accept fruit bought or contracted for some time ago. The J. K. Armsby Company is declining to accept peaches bought before the ruling went into effect, but at the same time it refuses to cancel contracts, and its officials hold that the matter will shortly be straightened out to the satisfaction of all. Castle Bros., on the other hand, are, in some cases at least, accepting sulphured fruit previously contracted for.

New York, Aug 8.—The wholesale grocers do not propose to take any chances of breaking the pure food law, with the creation of which they had so much to do. The point just now at issue is food inspection decision use of sulphur in dried fruits.

Two meetings have been held by wholesale grocers here this week, the first on Tuesday by local jobbers informally and the second Wednesday by the local members of the pure food committee of the National Wholesalers. At both the uncertainty regarding the safety of selling dried fruits containing questionable quantities of sulphur was discussed, and the committee decided to recommend to the association members that all stand by the Government's view of the question and insist on a guarantee from the manufacturers of sulphur goods. Certain packers are understood to have claimed that the goods contracted for were on the old basis and that now having been packed in the old way the risk of their confiscation is on the buyer. The committee will not accept this view, but will stand on decision 76 and accept no goods without a specific guarantee that they are legal under the pure food law.

RAISINS.

Fresno.—Advices from the East show a strengthening in the prices of raisins. It is well known that in the last few weeks there have been signs of a slump, but most of the packers believe that the danger never really existed, or if it did, is now past. A prominent packer of this city is of the opinion that there has never been any real cause for a slump and that is is directly the result of a "bear" movement. On the other hand it is held by another local packer that the large importations of Valencia and other foreign raisins have partly satisfied the great Eastern demand for the commodity upon which the present high prices depend. There has been an effort made to sell ½c below the current prices, but it appears to have been unsuccessful. One responsible firm actually sold one car below the price, but it was turned down. This instance is the nearest to a break that has occurred. It was a New York sale by a big jobber of last December stuff. The whole situation at present seems to hinge on the importations of the lower price than the California growers are demanding. Most of the local packers seem of the opinion that more is being embarked in a deliberate bear movement than is warranted by indications. The fact is admitted that quantities of the Valencia have been bought at a price averaging about 1c. per pound lower than is being paid for California raisins, but the extent to which these will satisfy the market is a matter of opinion. Some dealers express themselves as of the opion that the Canada market, which, in the past years, has bought many raisins from this State, is filled now with Valencias, and offers no market for shippments from California. In the face of this, the fact remains that one big dealer of Fresno has shipped one and one-half cars to Canada in the past ten days. The policy of the growers to hold on to their stuff in the expectation of a raise in prices has caused an unusual deadening of the business this season owing to the fact that the packers have adopted the policy this year to which they have never adhered strictly in the past of never selling a single pound until they have actually bought it. The unprecedented and difficult condition of the market doubtless had much to do with this plan.

New York, Aug 8.—The new Australian Valencia Raisins are still the talk of the dried fruit trade, especially at this time. when there is little doing in other crops owing to the scarcity of spot goods. The chief element of interest from them now lies in the prospect that within a few days these same goods will figure as seeded on a market almost depleted of other seeded goods. Such as are now offered are held at 13c. for Coast seeded and 12½c for Eastern seeded. The rumors are that the Australian goods, bought for local seeding, will be offered at 12c and the trade is interested on that basis.

The scarcity of prunes in the French market is well shown in advices received from Bordeaux, which not only indicate a marked advance over the opening prices of a month ago, but show a wide margin over the quotations thus far made in California. The latter are still on a 5c basis, with a premium of ½c for 40s and 1c on 30s, but the new Bordeaux prices are equivalent to 6⅝c bag for 50-60s, 6¼ c for 60-70s, 5⅝c for 70-80s and 5⅜c for 80-90s.

HONEY.

Los Angeles report says: California honey, "the best in the land," will be conspicuous by its scarcity and high price this year.

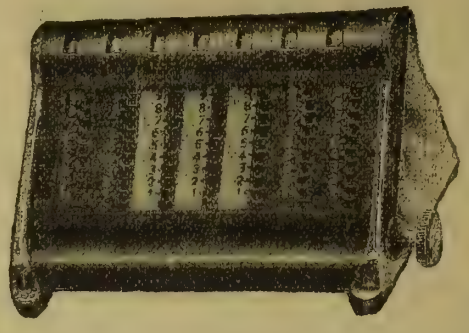
Unfavorable weather during May and June resulted in a big decrease in the production compared with 1905. This, combined with total failure of the crop in 1906, will make it necessary for local dealers to go out of the State to secure a sufficient quantity to supply the demand in Los Angeles.

Reports from several sections, where ten to fifteen cars are produced annually, are to the effect that available for shipment will be exceedingly small and that practically none of it will be comb honey.

At present the price is unusually high for this season of the year and as the season advances that product will gradually increase in value.

The pure food law prevents unscrupulous dealers from selling a grade of honey, which is between 40 and 60 per cent glucose.

San Bernardino.—R. B. Herron, county bee inspector makes the following report: "This month marks the end of the honey season in San Bernardino Valley. I have received reports from a number of bee keepers in different parts of the country, and find that all diseased colonies found during the working season have been either treated according to instructions given or destroyed. Quite a number of apiaries infected last season and treated have not shown any disease this year, while others not showing any disease last year have become infected this spring."



WALNUTS.

Fullerton.—Unless something unforeseen occurs this year's walnut crop in Southern California will be fully as large, if not larger, than that of last season. While it is hard at present to estimate the probable price, owing to the uncertain conditions that prevail, it is likely that it will be about as usual.

Fullerton.—G. W. Sherwood a prominent nut grower of Fullerton says the walnut crop on his place will be 25 per cent larger than that of last year. Many other leading growers also say that the crop at Fullerton and Placentia will be much heavier than it was last season. Los Angeles advices also indicate that unless something unforeseen occurs this year's walnut crop in Southern California will be fully as large if not larger than that of last season.

ALMONDS.

It is reported that the Davisville Almond Grower's Association will not appoint a selling agent, as there will be but few nuts to market through it, owing to the short crop in that vicinity. The quantity will be so small that the Association wants to get rid of its product in the quickest way possible.

Antioch.—Almonds are already being gathered here. Practically every grower interviewed some weeks ago, expressed the belief that picking would begin about Aug. 10th or perhaps later, but instead several orchardists commenced work last Monday. Furthermore, the yield on the whole will be better than has heretofore been predicted.

CANNED GOODS.

"All of the larger packers report being well sold up on 1907 pack and not hunting for business. The Association has withdrawn on everything in its list except apples and grapes, extra and extra standard apricots and a few berries. This shows an unprecedented condition and other large packers report being practically in the same condition. The pack will be heavy this year in many varieties. The apricot pack of course will be less than the short pack of last year, but from present appearances other varieties will make a good showing, and the total pack should prove a big one. California tomato conditions are just as previously, with sales being made at 82½@85c on futures and the Association not quoting.

"Some peach prices have been made on eastern pack at what the trade considers high prices. Eastern peach crops for canning purposes are comparatively light and only a small pack is looked for, although brokers advise that there would be an outlet for a heavy pack this year if it could have been made. Eastern tomato reports indicate a weakening market on both spots and futures." "Fruit Grower"

CORN.

Corn is steadily gaining strength, and as compared with a year ago at this time is one of the firmest on the list. Steadily, without much noise, the surplus which has been worrying both packers and jobbers for the past two years has been absorbed, and the demand has largely increased. Very cheap goods are practically off the market, and from now on it looks as though this staple would be a good purchase.

LARD.

Lard is expected to advance again in the next thirty days, due to the strengthening of the export trade. This will move the accumulated stock that has kept the price down.

COCOANUT.

Cocoanut is rapidly advancing. Eastern factories are not making deliveries. The quotation is 12c for barrels and 13c for drums. The differential on pails is now 1½c.

MUSTARD.

Lompoc.—The high prices paid for mustard last season led to a much heavier acreage for the present year. The yield has been heavy and the opening price is 1c ahead of that a year ago. Last season quotations opened at 3c. and went to 5c. The buyers are contracting this year at about 4c, and the farmers look for better than 5c before the year is out. The barley acreage is less than last year's, but the yield is greater, and more than makes up the deficiency. On one piece of land the crop went 47 sacks to the acre.

SALMON.

Bellingham, Wash.—From the canneries on Bering Sea, where the greater part of the Alaska red salmon used by the world are caught, comes the report that the season is ended and that the pack is 50 per cent less than any previous year in the history of the industry. The packing plants of the Alaska Packers Association, many of which are located on Bering Sea, will be the heaviest loser by the failure of the red fish to appear. Several plants were fitted for packs running from 50,000 to 75,000 cases and the season has ended with only about half of the material used.

Griffith-Durney Co., report under date of August 6th:

We have just received telegraphic advices from the Puget Sound stating that there will undoubtedly be less than 100,000 cases of Sockeyes packed on the Sound this year, and this figures half-pound as full cases The total pack to date is 84,491 cases.

Please note that over 70,000 cases of the foregoing consists of halves, which is equivalent to only 35,000 full cases.

"It may be that your readers will be skeptical, and are likely to take the information we give you with a grain of salt. All we can say in reply to any such accusation is that we are endeavoring to give you as correct a line on the situation as it is possible to give at this writing, and you can rely upon the information we give you as being absolutely correct. Again, we say that as the pack of Sockeyes will cut so little ice this year look out and tell your readers to get in on Red Alaska.

"The British Columbia Sockeye pack is also very short; up to date there having been packed in the entire British Columbia 192,000 Sockeyes as against 459,000 cases Sockeyes last year."

HAY.

Somers & Co., report under date of August 13,:

"Arrivals of Hay have been rather heavy during the past week, the total showing 4750 ton. Cars have been furnished quite freely at many points, although some of the interior districts are complaining severaly because of their inability to ship their Hay as it is hauled from the fields. The warehouse districts are busily storing the crop, but in the sections where the concerning what remains in the fields.

"The outlook is unchanged in every way, for although the local demand is fairly active yet there is nothing in view to encourage dealers to enter the country for heavy purchasing.

Choice Wheat Hay holds its own at above the regular quotations. An occasional car of Tame Oat Hay also sells for a rather extreme figure. New Wild Oat Hay continues to hold at the old range, with anything 'wirey' or grassy being rather neglected. Alfalfa is in rather more plentiful supply from the San Joaquin Valley and some sales are being made at a small decline from previous figures. We give the present prices as follows:

Choice Wheat Hay	$18.50 to 21.00
Good Wheat Hay	16.00 to 18.00
Other Grades same	9.00 to 15.00
Wheat & Oat	9.00 to 16.00
Tame Oat	9.00 to 16.00
Old Wild Oat	8.00 to 11.00
New Wild Oat	8.50 to 12.50
Stock Hay	7.50 to 9.00
Alfalfa	8.50 to 13.00
Straw, per bale	.45 to .85

For the last month the representatives of the contractors and builders and of the building trades men have been engaged in an attempt to insure an equitable wage schedule to insure industrial peace for the next three years in San Francisco. So far there has been no agreement reached, and at the conference Tuesday in the Builders' Exchange the matter was postponed for two weeks.

Attracting Trade.

DON'T LET OLD GOODS ACCUMULATE.

One of the greatest sources of loss in retail stores is the accumulation of old stock which through age has become unsalable, or at least has lost a portion of its value. If you look over your stock in April and find you have still on hand part of a lot of goods received in January it is time to make extraordinary efforts to get rid of them. If necessary make up a job lot of such goods and offer them at a price that will move them. It is better to stand a partial loss than a total loss. This rule of keeping goods as short a time as possible will work to your advantage greatly in keeping your stock clean and fresh, and will insure the maximum of profit on a given amount of invested capital.

A great many sales are lost and a great deal of dead stock is carried by stores which are in the habit of having places behind or under the counters in which to place goods. These goods are probably never overhauled except at stock taking times and these drawers and hiding places are an excellent catch-basin called "stickers," and which ought to be on the counters where they can be pushed more than ordinarily.

Do not have any place in your store where goods can be stuck away out of sight. If you have plenty of room, it is better to have all the goods above the counters, on the shelving. Have no shelves below, so that there will be no opportunity to put things away out of sight. A great many stores, however, cannot do this, as they are crowded for room, and it is, therefore, necessary that a part of the goods should be kept below the counter board.

If this is necessary, see that every lot of goods not in easy access is looked over and examined and brought out to the light at least once a week. [illegible] can be seen at all times, they are very much more apt to sell than if hidden away. The salesmen are usually very careless about goods which are not easy to reach, and they very seldom take the pains to look into any of these old drawers, or under the shelves to find the goods to sell.

If customers come in and call for some particular thing which salesmen know to be in such-and-such a place, they usually go and get it, but if it is in some place where there is any doubt about finding it, they either say they haven't got it, or they don't take the pains to look to substitute something else, which possibly the customer does not want.

If you have goods that cannot be carried on the shelves, arrange bins on the counter, or on a center-table in the middle of the aisle, and place them there in full view of the customers. Do not let anything be hidden from sight.

SAYS GROCERS VIOLATE LAW.

Collector Thomas Finds Doors Between Stores and the Saloons.

The ordinance adopted by the voters of San Francisco at the last municipal election to the effect that groceries and saloons must not be maintained in the same building with connecting doors between the different branches of the establishment is being violated according to the experience of Bert M. Thomas, Collector of Internal Revenue.

The internal revenue regulations provide that where a man maintains two establishments, in each of which liquors are sold in quantities of less than five gallons, a $25 license must be procured for each. Several dealers who maintain both a grocery, where liquor is sold by the quart, and saloons, where it is sold at retail, have tried to convince Thomas that they should pay one license only, saying that there were means of communication between the saloon and the grocery.

Thomas hinted that information to that effect would be very interesting to the Police Commission, whereupon the offenders hastened to assure him that they would willingly close up the connecting doors and pay a separate Government license for each establishment.

HAVE YOU BEEN ROBBED?

Has anybody burglarized your store recently? Do you find anything missing? No? Well, that is because you have not looked in the right place. If you will weight, count, measure or gauge everything that comes into your store, you will save enough on burglaries found, to pay your store rent in a year. Dishonest burglars who pose as manufacturers or packers or wholesalers are shipping you goods constantly, that are short. You do not know it because you do not look for it.

Your pickles, your vinegar, your lemons, your dried fruits, your cheese, your rice, your tobacco, your saltmeats, your starch and a hundred other items that you think your are buying cheap are cheap because they are short in weight or count or gauge. (From Eli Grocer.)

Greer's Washing Ammonia

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF, which, if sold to the consumer will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

Clerk's Corner.

The Clerk That Wins Is the Clerk That Works.

I was watching a bunch of clerks in a fancy grocery of some size who, during a leisure period were doing pretty much of nothing. The store employed a regular porter whose duty it was to see that the entire place was kept clean. The clerks were doing nothing and there was considerable disorder around. The manager passed by and called attention to the fact of there being various things they could set to rights during the lull in business. One of the clerks said: "Why, it is the porter's duty to attend to such things." The manager, who was new in his position, did not wish to interfere with the rules of the house and waited to consult with the proprietor. Fortunately they agreed that such an instance was nothing but a case of swelled head and that, while in large establishments it was desirable to systematize the work, there were no laws demanding the drawing of such fine distinctions as these clerks wished to draw.

The first law in every store, big or little, is to sell the goods. Drop everything and anything in the tidying up line to take an order or show attention to a real or a prospective customer. Give your department your first consideration and then keep an eye on the entire establishment. If you are found doing some of the things which the porter or delivery men ought to do instead of talking to the other idle clerks it will not detract a particle from your dignity.

The great trouble comes in with the limited range of the average clerk's idea of what he can do. Set him at any particular job and you find him there with perhaps at least on customer wondering why he can't wait on her first. He can and he ought to. It is as easy to turn from some job of straightening out goods as it is to turn from a bunch of chatting clerks. We often hear that the best place for the disengaged clerks is near the door. I do not think so. One clerk may be, and very likely is, in stores of any size, stationed near the door, but the others should be found behind their counters, busy if there is anything to do, but ever ready to attend to the main chance—selling goods.

If for any reason one clerk seems to be losing a sale, either through ignorance of his goods or lack of attention, it is most desirable to turn the customer over to some other salesman. An older and more experienced clerk will always be on the lookout for this. When he hears some young clerk say, "We haven't got it," and knows that the article is in the store he should in a tactful manner try to assume charge of the order. In many cases such slight attention will save the house a customer. If, however, you see some new young clerk making headway, even if it happens to be a most particularly valuable customer, do not interfere. Ladies are entitled to their choice in such matters and I have known of several instances where, for reasons best known to themselves, they preferred to leave their orders with some comparatively inexperienced clerk. Perhaps they found him more anxious to please than one who has held his job so long that he is less anxious about his sales.

It will be up to most of you to take inventory around the first of the year. Don't dodge it—nothing is more discouraging to the boss than to find one or two of his clerks sick (?) on inventory day. In most places this is done on Sunday or in the evening; even so take a hold and lift!

WHEN ACCOUNTS OUTLAW.

Supreme Court Decisions as to the Law Secured by the State Grocers' Association.

Some time ago, in response to various requests, we printed in the Advocate information as to the effect of the law secured by the State Grocers' Association at the last legislature by which open book accounts do not outlaw for four years instead of in two years.

The law was signed on May 19, 1907.

Accounts that were two years old prior to May 19, 1907, were not revived by the law. In other words, indebtedness incurred prior to May 19, 1905, was permanently outlawed after May 19, 1907.

As to accounts not two years old when the law went into effect, the California Supreme Court has ruled both that the new law revived them and also that it did not. This is explained at length in the following letter to one of our valued subscribers in response to his request for information:

Mr. J. C. Ford, Rocklin, Cal.

Dear Sir:—Replying to your's of July 31st:

Governor Gillett signed the law extending the life of open book accounts to four years on May 19th, 1907. Said law became effective from that date.

The law applies without question to the accounts contracted since May 19, 1907. The Supreme Court decided both ways as to whether it applies to accounts contracted since May 19, 1905.

New Law Extends Account.

Your Justice of Peace could follow the case of Swamp Land District No. 307 vs. Glide, which is reported in 112 Cal., page 85. In this decision the Supreme Court held:

"There is no vested right in the running of the Statute of Limitations until it has completely run and barred the action; and when a change in the limitation is made during the time of the running of the statute, the time run is not a credit to the defendant under the new law; and THE WHOLE PERIOD CONTEMPLATED BY THE NEW LAW must lapse to bar the action, unless the new law itself expresses a contrary intent."

New Law Does Not.

In 125 Cal., page 9, in the report of the case of Peiser vs. Griffin, the Supreme Court held as follows:

.."If the Statute of Limitations has barred the right to commence an action to set aside a conveyance, the title of the party is regarded as vested in the possessor, irrespective of the original right, and no subsequent amendment or repeal of the limitation can constitutionally have a retractive effect so as to disturb the title."

You can see from this that the Justice of Peace has a full right to decide in your way if he wants to. He also has a right t odecide against you if he wants to.

If he decides against you, you have a chance of winning out should you care to appeal from his decision. On the other hand if he decides in your favor your debtor could also appeal the case with a chance of winning.

Certain uninformed parties are exuding mis-information in regard to this law.

We would advise them to study the columns of the Advocate more carefully if they want authentic trade news.

NEWS FROM REDWOOD.

Bunch of News Items Sent Up By Secretary of Association There.

(By F. H. Thorpe.)
Redwood City, Aug. 8, '07.

P. P. Chamberlain, the pioneer grocer and merchant of Redwood, has incorporated his business under the name of the P. P. Chamberlain company, but he maintains the management of it as formerly.

Dr. R. O. Tripp of Woodside is reported as being quite ill. He is the pioneer merchant of the county, having opened his store in its present location in the winter of 1849, and has also been postmaster of Woodside since 1869. On account of his advanced years it is doubtful if he will rally.

Grocer E. P. Heise spent his vacation at La Honda and came back to work much invigorated.

Neumann Bros. sold their Redwood City store to C. M. Uhlenberg the first of the month. Mr. Uhlenberg was formerly in business here and is well known.

George Stafford, junior member of the firm of Stafford Bros., has taken unto himself a wife, Miss Nellie Flynn becoming his bride before the altar in St. Mary's cathedral in San Francisco on the evening of the 7th. After a honeymoon in Portland, Ore., they return to Redwood, where the home provided by the groom awaits the coming of its occupants. Mrs. Stafford is one of our most charming belles and a leader in Catholic circles. Mr. Stafford is one of the foremost of our younger business men and brother to City Clerk D. R. Stafford and Dr. David Stafford of San Francisco.

Purposes and Accomplishments

OF THE

California Retail Grocers' & Merchants' Association

OFFICIAL PAPER—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Plan of Operation.

Prior to 1900, different associations of merchants of California had asked for various laws, from time to time, and had always failed to secure results through lack of organization. These failures caused the Retail Grocers' Association of San Francisco to invite other similar associations to send delegates to a convention in September, 1900. At this convention, it was decided to form an organization to be known as the

CALIFORNIA RETAIL GROCERS' AND MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

This Association was organized to enable the grocers of California and other merchants to co-operate in order to accomplish results by their united action that they could not secure singly. Each Association sends delegates to an annual convention. These delegates decide the policy to be followed and elect officers to carry out their plans. Every individual member has the right to attend the annual convention as a delegate.

The next State Convention will be held at Sacramento, on September 10th, 11th and 12th, 1907.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

LAWS SECURED.—Prior to the Legislative Session of 1907, the combined efforts of the merchants affiliated with the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association secured the following results:

Permitting the Attachment of the Wages of Public Officials.

Making a Wife's Separate Property Responsible for Family Bills for the Necessaries of Life. Property owned before marriage or received by will exempt.

Making a Guarantee of Purity a Sufficient Defense for a Dealer Charged with Violating the Pure Food Law.

We also secured the passage of the following laws through both houses of the Legislature.

VETOED BY GOVERNOR PARDEE.

Making an Account Date from the Time of the Last Item and making a Payment Renew an Account. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Allowing Merchants to Form Mutual Fire Insurance Companies. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Declaring Trading Stamps Illegal. Declared Unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

SESSION OF 1907.

At the Legislative Session of 1907, the work at Sacramento was particularly well organized, and, although we were very short of funds, we secured the passage of the following laws ALL OF WHICH were approved by Governor Gillett and THEY ARE NOW LAWS.

1. Making the time in which an open book account outlaws FOUR years instead of two.
2. Allowing the formation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.
3. Making the passing of a check WITH INTENT TO DEFRAUD a State's Prison offense.
4. Providing that the dealer shall not be held responsible for the purity of goods GUARANTEED TO HIM AS PURE.

WE HAVE MORE LAWS TO GET. We want your influence.

We have, by united action, convinced the manufacturers of flour in several localities that the trade wanted them to stop senseless cutting. This has added many dollars to the profits of the grocers.

We propose to unite, where it is considered desirable, so that, as a body, we can:

(a) Protest EFFECTIVELY when any manufacturer allows his goods to be cut. We want your influence.

(b) Protest EFFECTIVELY when a wholesaler or manufacturer sells to a party who would otherwise buy from one of our members. We want your influence.

(c) Protest EFFECTIVELY when a wholesaler or manufacturer sends out "short" packages to members. We want your influence.

We are helping members collect bad bills (and saving them lawyer's fees) by a set of collections letters which always produce splendid results when properly used.

Our paper, The Retail Grocers' Advocate, which we own, is the medium which makes it possible for us to secure the results outlined above.

ALL THESE THINGS COST MONEY—You could not get them for $100 a year alone. We think you ought to pay your share ($3 a year) in annual dues. DON'T YOU?

THE TRADE PRESS.

Straight Talk From Eastern Contemporary Should Wake Up Some People.

In it's issue of July 29, the New York Journal of Commerce makes some comments which we think worthy of a place in our columns. May the advice given therein be heeded:

"The Seattle 'Trade Register' is just now engaged in defending itself from an assault by the "Inland Grocer" of Cleveland Ohio, which charges that "the Seattle man never rendered any service to the organization" (National Retail Grocers), but "for years his paper has vilified and misrepresented the association and the men who the National Association."

..."The merits of the question are entirely too personal to deserve any consideration from outsiders, but there is in the charge a reflection of a thought which it would be well for business men and trade journals generally to seriously consider before they too sweepingly condemn this or that paper of disloyalty. Editor Wood, for instance, is a man who generally writes a deal of that peculiar logic known as "horse sense" and quite often it runs counter to some of the preconceived notions of trade organizations and the utterances of certain trade papers. But rarely are his statements those of bias or untoward animus.

"On the other hand, it is a favorite practice of some trade papers—and by this no particular paper is the target—to regard the proper course as that of honey and sugar, to always say sweet and complimentary things of the trade, to think thoughts which run harmoniously along the lines of least resistance, especially if they concern an advertiser. Editors who follow this course delude themselves into a belief that the mission of a trade organ is to tickle its friends and enrage its enemies.

"Nothing could be further from the true course or more detrimental to the interests of the trade. Tradesmen generally are men whose range of observation is limited. From the nature of things their thoughts are too generally devoted to the welfare of their own interests and therefore circumscribed. It is in the very nature of things that this must be so. If a trade organ is to be anything to that man it ought to be the kind friend to bring him fresh material for thought, gleaned from a broad observation of trade conditions—in his store, in every othe man's store, in the markets and in the halls of legislation. If an editor is to fulfill his mission, he ought to educate, not tickle, the mind of his reader, the business man. It is quite possible that the most wholesome truth for that business man to read is the one he least likes and which he and some narrow trade journal editors would regard as vilification and knocking. But the editor's duty is plain, nevertheless.

"It may be that self-contained business men are narrow, but in the long run they inevitably come to recognize truths. And when they do, which paper will they respect, the one which has always wheedled them along pleasant lines, or the one which has sought to keep their minds alert to progressive thought and broad-gauge action? What the trade needs to-day—and the grocery trade as badly as any—are trade papers which will make the business man think, and think in an unselfish way; think far enough ahead to see his trade interests at somewhat greater length than his nose; and, having thought, to act, and act right for the public welfare, which in the long run is his own.

"Thought of this character will illuminate the business man's mind to the ultimate danger of such temporary expedients as price cutting schemes, trading stamp schemes, cutthroat buying, preservative-soaked foods, cheap and unwholesome adulterants, false labels and "nothing-but-my-profits" principles of trade. And it behooves the thoughtful business man to stand by the true friend who is working for his interests; not the one who whines and cajoles him by "linked sweetness long drawn out." One word of commendation from a trade paper of recognized virility and honesty is worth whole pages of complimentary dishwater.

BEER PROFITS.

Local Grocers Anxiously Look For Recognition From the Bottlers.

Local grocers are anxiously waiting the outcome of efforts to protect them in their beer profits.

So far only four dealers have expressed themselves as opposed to a 2 for 25c price.

In almost every instance, the grocers say:

"Of course, we want a 2 for 25c price. But we want to KNOW that no competitor can sell for 10c."

It is up to the bottler.

When a grocer starts a new store, he will want to get trade.

If the other grocers are selling beer at "15c, 2 for 25c," he is going to put out a big sign reading that is, if the bottler lets him.

ALL BOTTLED BEER

10 CENTS

In other words, the new man, if the bottler lets him, will use the beer bottler to steal trade away from the bottlers old customers.

Every large handler of beer but one has gladly agreed to help the fight for better profits.

The one man said: "I am selling 375 dozen bottles a month at 10c. I think I would only sell about half as much at 12½c."

At 10c, his margin on the 375 dozen is only $75.00.

At 12½c, his margin on 180 dozen would be $90.00.

If all his neighbors charged 12½c also, it is doubtful if he would lose half the trade he now holds.

At 10c, his margin is not much over the cost, when the expense of business is considered and breakages, etc. are taken into consideration. At 12½c, he would have less work and his results would be incomparably better as to profits.

All this man's neighbors want a 12½ cent price and much of his 10c trade he takes from men who will not sell beer at a margin that does not yield a profit.

A second meeting of the grocers will be called soon.

WINDOW DISPLAY PRIZE CONTEST

A Wisconsin merchant offered a prize of a library table to the ladies' literary or church society which executed the most attractive display in his window. A neat announcement was written with a personal letter to each society, making the offer and requesting that they send a representative to the store to select a date on which they could trim the window. Each society was assigned a date and their display stood for one week. Large display cards told the name of the society that arranged the display. An amateur photographer took a picture of each display. Judges were selected from among prominent men

Three were chosen to be judges and award the prize. Each judge was requested to see each window and later the photographs assisted in finally deciding the winner. It was a great success. It was given publicity in all the advertising.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Santa Ana.—Representatives of a French-American Olive Oil Co. were here recently in consultation with olive-growers with reference to establishing a factory here.

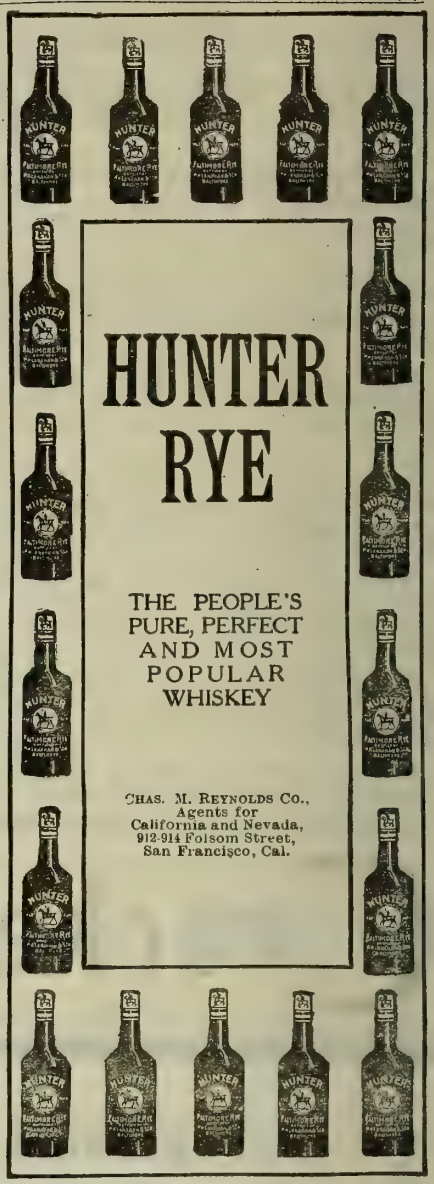
Visalia.—The beet sugar factory has begun the season's run, starting with a complement of 150 men. The machinery is running without a hitch any everything is favorable to a most successful season.

Hollister.—The Gilroy Canning Company proposes to build at Hollister, Cal. a new cannery which will cost about $20,000, and will be built and in operation in time to handle next year's fruit crop.

Visalia.—A prune seeder has been installed in the J. K. Armsby packing house in this city, and a large force of women and girls are busily packing one-pound cartons, bearing the Visalia label, with the product, which is little short of a delicacy.

Albany. Ore.—Oregon is to have a milk-condensing plant at Albany, to cost at least $40,000. The industry has been promoted by H. H. Olmstead, who represents Eastern manufacturing interests. The plant will utilize 80,000 pounds of milk daily.

Porterville.—Work on the new sugar plant to be built at Corcoran Junction by the Pacific Sugar Co. will begin next week. The plant will be twice the size of the one in Visalia and will cost a million. It will have a capacity of 60 tons of refined sugar per day and can eat up 600 tons of beets daily.



Visalia.—Worms and hoppers have been eating up vineyards about Reedley. Hundreds of acres, it is said, are affected with the species of moth which hatches the worm. Moths are daily emerging from the cocoons under the vines. It is said should the eggs laid by the present invasion of moths hatch out 600 acres will be endangered.

Oxnard.—The Oxnard Sugar factory will open about Aug. 15th and although the run will not be up to the usual standard, there will be crushed the product from 11,000 acres. While the beets are poor in some spots, many fields are as fine as they have ever been and the American Beet Sugar Co. looks forward to a satisfactory year.

Seattle.—Wholesale grocers are authority for the statements that there never was a time when the supply of canned goods and dried fruits both spot and futures were scarcer or promised to be short all the year. While ordinarily at this time of the year there is a fair offering of spot canned goods, this year the supply is so insignificant as to be practically useless.

Norfolk, Va.,—Is becoming a factor as a distributing center of the South for Pacific Coast fruit and produce. That market used 150 carloads of California oranges during the past year, and forty carloads of our dried fruits, peaches, raisins and prunes. Forty carloads of Lima and Pink beans were also sent from this State to be distributed at Norfolk and of Pacific Coast salmon 140 carloads were handled. That port enjoys the advantage of being able to make shipments of salmon and other Pacific Coast products direct by vessel.

Suisun.—Some months ago a prominent railroad man without hestation gave out the statement that the road to Eureka was soon to be built and that Suisun was to be the freight terminus. The railroad man stated that the yard here would have to be greatly enlarged and other extensive improvements made. Recently surveyors have been here laying out more track room and selecting a site for a roundhouse. It would appear that the improvements here will be made immediately, now that the construction of the gap between Willits and Shively is to be commenced at once.

H. R. Robbins, president of the Creamerie Breakfast Milling Co., while visiting the plant of the company recently at Sixth and Tehama sts. had his right hand caught in the machinery in the engine room and probably will lose his arm, if the surgeons should be able to save his life. Robbins was dragged by the machinery, and before he could be extricated his jaw was fractured.

It has been estimated that there were 28,130 buildings destroyed by the fire, and that there have been erected and completed since the fire 6000 buildings, and that there are in process of erection and nearly completed 3000 more buildings, so that fully 30 per cent of our buildings can be said to have been restored. Building operations for the month, not-withstanding the tight money market and the difficulty of getting loans, shows an increase over the month of June, the contracts let for the month amounting to $4,687,516. Building contracts let since the fire amount to over $68,000,000.

CARD PRICES RULE WITH FEW EXCEPTIONS.

Minneapolis Grocers Generally Stick to Card Quotations, Though Some Cut All the Time.

The cards sent out to the grocers of Minneapolis by the Minneapolis Retail Grocers' Association quoting prevailing prices on sugar, flour and oil generally govern the prices at which those staples are sold throughout the city, although four of five of the large downtown establishments make a practice of cutting the price on sugar practically all of the time.

One of the largest grocery firms in the city sells 17 pounds of sugar for 95 cents and sometimes cuts the price lower than that, and they are members of the association, too, but then one of the directors of the association is an habitual price cutter on sugar, so the association is not in a position to go after the other fellows very hard.

Why They Cut it.

Just why these grocers cut the price on sugar is hard to determine. Several of them say they would just as soon maintain the card price "if the other fellow would," but as long as one cuts, the others will follow suit, as they feel that they cannot afford to have it said that anyone else sells goods cheaper than they do. The arch cutter says he wants to be known as selling goods just a little bit cheaper than anyone else, and there you are.

A few grocers are of the opinion that the card prices on sugar afford a larger profit than is necessary, but the majority say that by the time the expense of weighing, tying, bags and twine is considered the profit is not too large.

Very often the cut prices have a string tied to them; they apply only with sales of other goods, they are strictly cash prices, only a certain number of pounds to a customer, no C. O. D. orders, etc.

Association Powerless.

The Minneapolis association is able to do practically nothing with the offenders. Argument and persuasion seldom have any effect and it is out of the question to employ any more forcible methods.

The cards prices are, however, generally observed by the smaller grocers throughout the residence portions of the city and are considered a great convenience. Frequently they are the means of saving considerable money for grocers, as in the case of a recent advance in flour, when the market advanced sharply on several succeeding days and three cards were sent out in who had flour on hand which was purchased at the old prices to sell it at the prevailing higher prices.—Commercial Bulletin Trade.

If you would have friends cultivate the quality you admire in others.

THE RIGHT SORT.

The grocer, the hardware dealer, the general store-keeper is deluged with playcards, store and window signs, until he can no longer find a place for both them and his stock.

Much of this work if used would cheapen the effect of his store inside and out with its raw colors and crude design.

The right sort of sign adds to the effect of the stock in the store. Dealers are ready and eager to display good work. But they get little of it.

The Richmond Cedar Works of Richmond, Virginia, has set the trade an example in this respect. It has recently issued three beautiful posters announcing the Snow-Ball Ice-Cream Freezer. The posters are reproduced from paintings made expressly for the Richmond firm by Guernsey Moore, the well-known illustrator. Each one of the originals must have cost some hundreds of dollars and the copies are superb examples of color reproductions.

The dealer who receives one of these posters will use it to advantage. If he fails to appreciate the work he will soon be enlightened as to its value by his customers.

Since it has been aquired by the United States, Alaska has produced about $60,000,000 worth of furs, $50,000,000 worth of salmon, millions of dollars worth of timber, and more than $90,000,000 in gold.

THE "ADVOCATE" GAUGING RODS HAVE ARRIVED!!

Send Your Order In At Once.

There is no question but what every merchant should have his own measuring instruments on which he can rely for protection. Oil and vinegar are frequently overgauged and unless a merchant has a set of gauging instruments he cannot tell whether he is paying for oil or vinegar that is charged to him at, say 52 gallons, when as a matter of fact the barrel will only hold 48 gallons. This is a trick frequently practiced as these concerns know that few dealers have measuring instruments.

The long stick is used to determine the actual capacity of the barrel while the small one shows the amount that is lacking in the barrel. Protect yourself as many readers of this paper have, by buying a set of the Advocate gauging instruments which are sold at a normal figure. It is advisable to have two sets, one for vinegar, molasses and syrup and another for oil if it is bought in barrels as one set should not be used to gauge both oil and vinegar or molasses.

We will deliver the gauge rods to you at your store at these prices, cash in advance: 1 Guage and 1 Wantage Rod $1.45; 2 Guages and 2 Wantage Rods, $2.80; 3 Guages and 3 Wantage Rods, $4.20.

Cuts in this advertisement show both the gauge and wantage rods. Complete directions for using will be mailed free with each set.

LOOKING AT ONE'S-SELF.

A man of affairs must periodically take a look at himself—at his system.

One corrects his faults most effectively when he has looked himself squarely in the face and discovered his weakness.

What system have you in your Coffee Department?

Are you taking just what trade comes to you?

Are you content to have your Coffee Orders moved to the bottom of the pile?

Are you grinding Coffee only when you have to, and grinding it as coarse as your patrons will tolerate it?

Has it occured to you that a little effort on your part to give public just what it wants is nothing more than shrewdness?

Has it not been impressed upon you that your clerks dislike drudgery as much as you do?

In short, how can you expect your clerks to push out for coffee business if you don't encourage them, or the public to buy your coffee if you are indifferent to its wants?

Is it not time to take a look at your system, and to consider what a Hobart Mill can do for you?

OAKLAND CRACKER COMPANY.

Oakland.—Steps are being taken for the purpose of reopening the plant of the Golden Gate Cracker Co., at the corner of Ninth and Cedar sts, and changing the name to the Oakland Cracker Co.. This institution was opened some time ago, and because of insufficiency of capital, went into the hands of a trustee. It is now proposed to reopen it with an unlimited capital, to run it on business principles, and those who have been enlisted in the project are satisfied that it will be made remuneratively prosperous. The capital will be supplied by people both in this city and elsewhere and there is now on deposit in escrow a sufficient amount to assume the sale, if the same is approved by the court, and there is no doubt that approval will be ordered.

"The Telefon-Hirmondo," "or " Telephone Newspaper," of Budapest, talks the news in the Magyar language, and circulars over 1,100 miles of wires in some 20,000 up-to-date families and clubs of the Hungarian capitali Th.s twentieth-century novelty in jounrnalism was invented and founded by the late Theodore Puskas, a Hungarian electrician, who at one time was associated with Thomas A. Edison. At the editorial offices of the "News-Caller," from eight in the morning till ten ten at night, etight loud-voiced "stentors," with clear, vibrating voices literally preach the editor-in-chief's "copy" between a pair of monstrous microphones. The news is of all kinds telegrams from foreign countries; theatricals critiques; parliamentry and exchange reports; political speeches; police and law court proceedings; the state of the city markets; excerpts from the local and Viennese press; weather forecasts—and advertisements In the evening opera is given, and special lectures, concerts and other entertainments keep the wires busy at stated intervals daily.

A RECORD SALE.

A sale of $3200 worth of Computing sales to one retail dealer is a record hard to match. This is what Mr. Duffer, Manager, of the Dayton Scale Co., did in San Jose recently. The purchaser was Mr. Lesser, a retail butcher The Dayton scales can be found in nearly every store in the Garden City.

AMUSEMENTS.

NEW ALCAZAR.

Lovers of good acting and good detective stories should go to the Alcazar this week. These are the last few nights of Herbert Kelcey in the original William Gillette version of "Sherlock Holmes." Miss Shannon has a very effective part as the heroine of a pretty love story that is unfolded as the play proceeds. Dennis O'Sullivan appears next week in "Arrah-na-Pogue" with a lot of new songs.

CENTRAL THEATRE.

Herschell Mayall is playing "Big Hearted Jim" this week at the Central. This is a thrilling melodrama, full of entertaining and picturesque features. The company does fine work. Next week they play "Broadway After Dark."

NOVELTY THEATRE.

"The Two Orphans" is the attraction at this house. This is a play that has long been a favorite with lovers of the drama. It has a strong story, well acted.

DAVIS THEATRE.

Continuous vaudeville has taken the place of the legitimate for the time being at the Davis Theatre. The turns are among the best on the circuit.

The California Canneries Company in its new plant at the Potrero, is packing this year fully 40 per cent more than in 1906. The new plant at Napa, which is being operated by the Napa Canning Co., is also working to its fullest capacity. The pack of the two plants will average close to 100,000 cans per day. The output for both has been sold, and orders for upwards of 250 cars of goods have been turned down in the past few days, as the company is unable to supply the demand. This company is the first to load 1907 goods for Great Brittain, which are now going on board the Duquesne, loading at Long Wharf, Oakland.

Quality in lieu of free goods—that's Griffon's.

CHANGING TO A CASH SYSTEM.

By F. J. PERRA,
Of Perra & Cruzen, Frederic, Wis.

Almost any merchant who is doing a large cash business and wishes to change his business to a cash basis expects that he will have to sustain considerable loss in the way of sacrificed business, which may be true to greater or less extent, but if he goes about it in the proper way we think any merchant can make as large a net profit on the year the change is made as on any previous year. At least, this was more than true in our case.

In the first place, it takes at least a year to effect the change. You must first make it an object for your customers to pay cash. We started out by giving out tickets with cash purchases only, which we redeemed at four per cent in trade, which actually cost us about three per cent. We did not refuse to accommodate our good credit customers as before, but we noticed a gradual decrease in our book accounts.

It is all very well to talk about not trusting your mother-in-law or any of her relations, but if you indiscriminately refuse to trust your old customers without any warning your are liable to suffer a great loss. On the other hand, make the paying of cash an object to your customers and your mother-in-law will perhaps be the first to avail herself of the opportunity of saving four per cent on her purchases. In no case do we give tickets on a credit sale.

THE "CHARGE IT" HABIT.

Get your customers in the habit of paying cash. "Charge it" becomes a by-word and a habit in a retail store. Avoid the word as much as possible. Make cash transactions your hobby. Let one man look after the credit accounts and you will have better results than if everybody has a hand on the books.

We have aluminum trade checkc in all the different denominations. When a customer asks for credit the clerk at once refers him to the credit man, and if he is worthy of credit he is given $5.00 or $10.00 in trade checks and he goes on and pays for the goods as though he had the cash. When his trade checks are gone he has the embarrassment of asking for more, which he hesitates to do if the first have not yet been paid for. This does away with charging every little item and gets our customers out of the "charge it" habit, and the credit man has the opportunity of granting or refusing credit to a customer each time he asks for it and or granting him just the amount of credit he sees fit.

The customer is always required to O. K. each slip that is charged to him with his signature, avoiding every ordinary possibility of a disputed account. The slips are kept on file until the account is paid. We use a credit account system which is very satisfactory.

The actual amount of tickets redeemed amounts to about half the total of our sales and when we figure the difference between this expense and the amounts saved on forgotten charges, bad accounts and interest on accounts, we find it on the credit side of our books.

Under ordinary circumstances a store doing the amount of business we do must carry $2,000 to $4,000 on the books; under the above system we have reduced our book accounts down to less than $300 and have increased our sales over fifteen per cent. Are we doing a cash business?

The beet sugar season is now on and factories at the various points are already running, or will be opened in a few days. The factory at Visalia began several days ago with a force of 150 men, and the Oxnard factory will start August 15. The latter plant will handle the product from eleven thousand acres.

The Parrot Estate So. is completing arrangements for the construction of a first-class steel and brick structure on the east side of Davis st, covering the entire block between Sacramento and Commercial, with a depth of 120 feet, and will have five floors and basement. Haas Bros., have leased the building.

None Such Condensed Mince Meat

IT PAYS A FINE PROFIT

The consumer is willing to pay 15c per package (2 big pies) as they get "full value received" in quality and quantity.

Merrell-Soule Co., the manufacturers, were 24 years ahead of the U. S. Pure Food Law. Their plant was inspected by United States officials, and confirmed and passed as 100 per cent Perfect.
Can you beat it?

The Merrell-Soule None Such Condensed Mince Meat is from every point of view the best in the world. The consumers say so, and their competitors admit that None Such has 90 percent of the Condensed Mince Meat business, and it has obtained it, not because the goods were offered cheap, but because the quality was the best and the price reasonable."

THE RETAIL GROCERS ADVOCATE

EARL D. EDDY, EDITOR. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., AUGUST 23 1907. VOL. 12 NO. 34

They Want a Profit.

Grocers Practically a Unit in Demanding Protection by Bottlers.

CAN DO AS MILLERS HAVE.

Such Men Merely Want Competitors Will Be Controlled.

The work of canvassing the retail grocers of San Francisco has almost been completed.

Field Secretary Powers has been greatly aided in this work by the retail grocers who have interviewed their neighbors.

Mr. C. S. Harrison, acting as assistant to Mr. Powers, has also seen many grocers.

There is practically only one sentiment.

Every grocer—this means with the exception of one or two men—says:

"A 10-cent price on beer leaves no profit. We don't want to sell for 10c. At the same time, if we charge 15c, two for 25c, we would lose trade unless the bottlers make the other fellow quit selling at 10c. We could afford to lose the beer trade at 10c, but when people go elsewhere for their beer, they are likely to buy their provisions in the other place, too."

Not one single grocer seen by Mr Powers or Mr. Harrison thought a 10c price on beer gave enough profit or wanted to continue selling at 10c if he could avoid it.

Every grocer in the Richmond District wants a profit.

A few small places are forcing more men every day to sell at 10c.

Every grocer in the Potrero wants a 15c, two for 25c price.

Nearly all of them are selling 10c beer.

The big advertising stores, like West, Elliott & Gordon, feel that they cannot afford to have the little fish market and fruit peddler undersell them. It must be extremely aggravating for a big concern that advertises aggressively to face such a condition.

If the little men could not sell for 10 cents, the need of force to secure protection would be practically eliminated.

Firms like West, Elliott & Gordon do not do business along spite lines.

They are made up of big, broad gauge business men. They know the need of profit.

They cannot afford to have some concern with only a fraction of their responsibility and not even a shadow of their business standing make it appear that they are doing business on extravagant lines.

The bottlers should make EVERYBODY sell beer for 15c and two for 25c. When they let the "pikers" in some back alley or the fruit dealer in the middle of the block sell their beer for 10c, a firm like West, Elliott & Gordon very naturally would feel resentful if the same bottler tried to use force to make them quit selling at that price.

The writer has not interviewed West, Elliott & Gordon on this matter, but his sympathies are with West, Elliott & Gordon and he is certain that when the bottlers go to that firm with a business-like proposition, backed up by an assurance that this big firm will not suffer any discrimination, that it will accede to these propositions.

The bottlers, in their letter to the Associated Retail Grocers said that there were as many grocers who wanted a 10c price as wanted a profit.

This is not true.

The grocers want a profit, and what is more, they are going to get honest protection in that profit.

The bottlers do not realize yet, how much in earnest many of these men are. They do not realize how many of the grocers who do not think will be willing to do what is suggested by their friends among the grocers who do think.

We are certain that the bottlers interested will yield when they realize as they will when they see the data secured by the Associated Retail Grocers, how absolutely unified the grocers are in their demand for a profit.

Already our lists contain the names of grocers handling more than THIRTY THOUSAND DOZENS OF BEER each month.

Most of these men handle two Wash-

An excursion and an evening's entertainment for Wednesday, Sept. 11th.

A banquet for Thursday, Sept. 12th.

These make up the entertainment features.

As to work—that will be there in plenty.

The delegates will be expected to provide plans to cover the following points:

How to get better profits.

How to prevent trade abuses such as wholesalers selling to consumers, dishonest shortages, etc.

How to get better laws.

How to make associations effective.

John A. Green, of Celeveland, Ohio Secretary of the National Retail Grocers Association and a [illegible] that organization, will attend the convention and deliver an address.

There will be capable speakers from various parts of the State.

A Hobart Electric Coffee Mill of [illegible]

latest pattern (worth $250) has been contributed to the State Association by Frank F. Wear, the Coast Agent. It will be raffled the last afternoon of the convention. Tickets cost 50 cents. Only the numbers known to be paid for will be considered.

Special rates have been granted on all railroads. Delegates should get receipts from the agent when buying their tickets.

THEY WANT A PROFIT.

ington beers and one local beer. Some handle a little of everything. It would be easy to narrow the list down to ONE WASHINGTON beer and ONE LOCAL beer.

It is to be hoped that results can be secured without discrimination against any bottling concern. It cannot be done, however, unless ALL the bottlers are willing to give protection to the men from whom they have been making thousands of dollars monthly.

DOING GOOD WORK.

ANOTHER RECRUIT.

Merrill Soule Co. Will Maintain Price on None Such Mince Meat.

The story of the Merrell-Soult Co.'s None Such Condensed Mince Meat will be told the public this season by beautiful full-page advertising in many of the big magazines. They will also tell the story on 45,000 handsome lithographed eight-sheet posters extending from the Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific Coast.

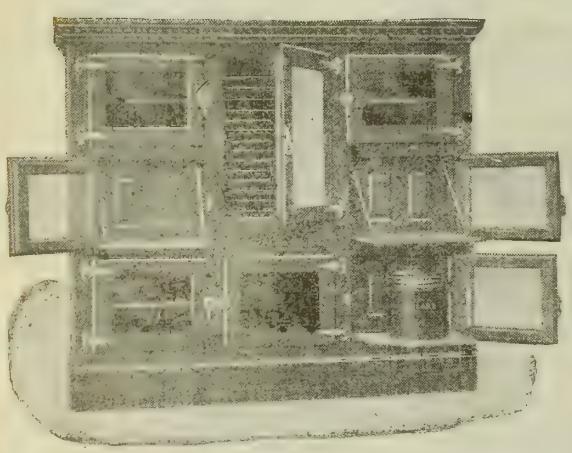
The story that interests the retailer, however, is being told them by this excellent concern to the effect that the selling price has now been so arranged that the retailer will be obliged to sell the goods at a profit. It is the wish of Merrell-Soule Co. that None Such Mince Meat be sold to the consumer at 15c. per package, the price to the retailer being $6.25 per half-gross case. The consumer gets full value received, as each package of Merrell-Soule Co.'s None Such contains Mince Meat to make two big pies or three medium size.

It is claimed that wet Mince Meat is 65 per cent water, and if made to keep without fermentation benzoic acid must be used.

Merrell-Soule Co.'s None Such Mince Meat has been on the market for 24 years, and its trade has grown from nothing, to control in the neighborhood of 80 per cent of all the Mince Meat business of the country.

Retailers can well afford to co-operate with a concern of this kind, that is trying to not only assist them to make sales, but to provide them with a handsome profit in doing so.

PROMINENT GROCER MARRIES.



J. H. Minderman of Chico Takes Unto Himself a Wife.

Palo Alto, Aug. 15.—Miss Lottie B. Hallett and J. H. Minderman, both prominent young people of Chico, were married today at a pretty wedding ceremony, which took place at the home of Mrs. G. Ostrander. Rev. Walter Hays officiated. The ceremony was witnessed only by relatives and a few close friends.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The bride was given away by her father and was attended by Miss Gertrude Collins of Chico, while Minderman was supported by Frank Ostrander as best man. The groom is a prominent business man of Chico, a partner in the largest grocery firm there. His bride is one of that city's most popular young women. Mr. and Mrs. Minderman left this afternoon for Southern California, where they will spend their honeymoon.

Do You Know Them?

Semi-Jobbers With Headquarters Here Quite Active in Northwest.

Our attention has been directed to the activities of the firm of Parks Bros., of this city. These people pose as jobbers, but one of their people admitted to the editor of this paper that they made a business of selling to farmers and other country consumers.

On further investigation we find that this firm operates in Oregon and Washington in quite a large way. So far as California is concerned, we are uninformed. We hope that our subscribers will tell us if they have been annoyed by this form of competition, either from the firm referred to, or others not now known to us.

We are this week in receipt of the following letter from Chas. B. Merrick, secretary of the Grocers' and Merchants' Association of Portland, written under date of August 16:

"Retail Grocers' Advocate,
San Francisco, Cal.
Gentlemen:

Replying to yours of Aug. 8th, I desire to say that we have made some investigation and find that Messrs. Parks Bros. have for some time been selling to consumers in this State; in fact we understand that they operate in the State of Washington also. While they do not affect the merchants doing business in this city to any extent, I learn that in Southern Oregon, they are taking considerable business away from legitimate merchants. I know that you could assist us in getting at these people and that the merchants of Oregon would be very grateful to the California Association. It seems that we ought to assist each other as much as possible, as our troubles are mutual. Any time we can assist you in Oregon I will be glad to have you let me know, and I know the merchants of this State will respond.

..Thanking you very much for the information you have given me, I am, etc."

We also communicated with our Washington friends and the "Seattle Trade Register" of August 16th, says of the matter:

Semi-Jobbers Active.

"Editor Eddy of the Retail Grocers' Advocate writes the "Trade Register" that Parks Bros. of San Francisco informed him that they sell to consumers in Washington and Oregon as well as in California. This firm has advertised itself as a jobbing concern and for the past few years has been an objectionable competitor of retail and jobbers in the eastern part of Washington. The editor of the "Trade Register" has turned over correspondence respecting Parks Bros. to Secretary Higgins for consideration at the forthcoming State Retail Grocers' Association convention, which is expected to arrange for joint action with Oregon and California associations to meet the competition of this firm and other semi-jobbers and mail-order houses operating on the Coast."

This matter should be investigated by all interested parties. Whether our State Association will take any action in the matter is dependent upon the extent of the operations of the firm mentioned. If you know of them, write us—that's all.

NEW YORK CONVENTION.

The largest delegation ever attending a New York State convention met in the City Hall, Elmira, on the afternoon of August 5.

Some remarkable addresses were made at the opening of the convention, the most notable of all being that of L. J. Callanan, of New York City. His topic was, "Sixty Years as a Grocer." It was well worth the time and money spent to hear this remarkable man giving his experience. Mr. Callanan is one of the most successful retail merchants in the United States. His building is five stories high, with a frontage of sixty feet, located on Vesey street, in the down-town section of New York City.

He attends to all the details of his business, buys everything that comes into the establishment, and keeps a supervising eye on his entire force. He is a remarkable man in every sense of the word, and it can well be imagined what the experience of a man of that character might be

The Monday evening session was taken up with an address by Assemblyman Sherman Morgan, talking to the delegates about business legislation; an address on the benefits and possibilities of organization by President B. Bischoff, of Brooklyn, and an able address by former National Secretary Fred Mason.

The Tuesday morning session was devoted to the report of the resolutions committee, and addresses by President Otten of New York, President Martena of Buffalo, and the National Secretary.

The afternoon was devoted to pleasure.

Wednesday morning was devoted to the report of the secretary and treasurer, and the election of officers.

On Thursday morning addresses were made by George Dynn, of Buffalo, Past President H. C. Wilkie of the State Asociation, and J. W. Pitt of Corning, after which the question box was opened and a general discussion folowed on the topics of the day. The entire session was a business one.

President Churchill of Jamestown, delivered an address, his talk being of a local character. President Otten of the New York Association spoke on the work of the local association.

D. C. Barnum of Binghamton, told of the manner in which the work of the grocers' association progressed, and J. A. Beyer of Rochester, gave an interesting talk, telling of the manner in which the grocers' field days are conducted in the Flower City, and of the manner in which the Wednesday afternoon half-holidays during July and August was introduced.

The following officers were elected: President, C. S. Tuttle, Hornell; 1st vice-president, Elwood Hanson, Brooklyn; second vice-president, F. M. Tallman, Buffalo; third vice-president, S. Irving Pugsley, Peekskill; secretary, Charles Thorpe, New York; treasurer, C. E. Durgin, Rochester.

All officers were re-elected with the exception of the third vice-president.

On the week of July 28 and during the week of the convention, the State Association had in operation a food show under the direction of State Secretary Charles Thorpe. The booths were very beautifully arranged, and the exhibition was well attended, and no doubt a large sum will be put into the treasury of the State Association through the efforts of the State Secretary and the success of the food show.

The delegates were very much pleased with the success of the convention, and left for home Thursday evening feeling well paid for the time spent and the information received, which will no doubt be put to good use by those in attendance. John A. Green.

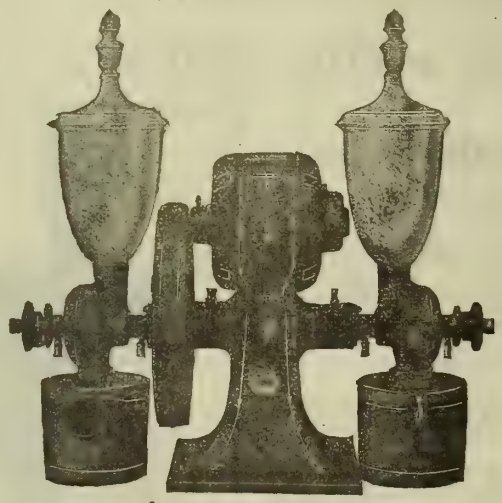
Clean, Sharp-Cut and Nail-Eating Features

Ideal Tea Company, 17-19 East Santa Clara Street,
San Jose, Cal., Mar. 14, 1907.



Frank F. Wear, Oakland,

Dear Sir: Have been using coffee mills for over 20 years and had experience with nearly all of them. Always wanted one a "little better" for the mill is a great factor in maintaining coffee trade. Our last purchase was one of your No. 2121 Hobart's and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the best we have seen. Are particularly pleased with the clean sharp cut of the granulating burrs, something we have always wanted and never found so near perfection as in our Hobart.

We "press the button," the Mill does the rest—and does it right, and its nail eating qualities stand alone. Would not consider ourselves up-to-date without it.

Respectfully yours,

New York, Aug. 15.—Willett & Gray report:

The week.—Raws: Declined .05c. Refined: Unchanged. Net cash quotations this date are: Molasses, 3.00c.: Centrifugals, 3.89c; Granulated, 4.65c.

Raws.—After a long period of inactivity, holders became tired and at the close of the week they forced unwilling buyers to accept 10,500 bags of Cuba sugars, with the result that spot quotations show a decline of 1-16 c. on Centrifugals and 3-16c. on Molasses sugars.

Refined.—The market for refined sugar is lifeless, with prices unchanged at 4.70c. less 1 per cent. cash for Granulated, quoted by Federal for prompt shipment, and 4.80c. to 4.90c. less 1 per cent. named by the other refiners for prompt and delayed shipment.

Grocers are realizing that the country is not actually consuming sugar as rapidly as anticipated, and it remains to be seen whether the expected increase will be realized later in the season.

The small demand for refined sugar at present is due, in a measure, to the disturbed conditions of the financial markets, some dealers finding it difficult to obtain from bankers the usual loans needed for the carrying of full stocks of merchandise, thus making it necessary in instances for them to limit their operations in sugar to a hand-to-mouth basis.

In view of the weakness which has developed in the local market for raws the tendency of the market for refined rather favors buyers.

TEA.

New York, Aug. 15.—John B. Brown & Co., report:

The market is strong, and all spot teas are from 10 to 25 per cent below the same grades and qualities as exists in the producing countries. There is a very fair run of business.

COFFEE.

New York, Aug. 15.—Willett & Gray report:

The market has ruled quieter during the past few days, influenced to some extent by the strike of telegraph operators delaying business with the interior. But these matters will be temporary only, and as this is usually the active season for Coffee, it is expected the demand will soon show up in good volume. The understone to the market is decidedly good and there is more disposition to believe the current crop is small. Not only so; from various reliable quarters cables have been received referring to the unfavorable weather continuing for so long a time and very prejudical to the current and the growing crop.

For the first six weeks of the season the receipts compare with the movement of two years ago, but are 600,000 bags less than this time last year. Undoubtedly this slow movement is due to the wet and cold harvesting season, and during which period such a large quantity of the ripe berries was beaten from the trees and, according to last accounts, beyond recovery. While, therefore, there has been a wide difference between the estimates of the current crop at Santos, actual conditions have been such as to bring the conviction that the large estimates are absolutely impossible, and it is even reported that some of the smaller estimates are being reduced.

The future of the Coffee market was depending upon the size of the current crop and the prospects of the growing crop, but now it seems to be an assured fact that the current crop is small, while the conditions prevailing in regard to the next crop are about as unfavorable as they can be, and surely indicating the extreme probability of another small yield to follow this one.

Visible supply of world, in bags Aug. 1, 1907, 16,075,812; July 1, 1907, 16,399,953; Aug 1, 1906, 9,978,053; Stock U. S. all kinds, in bags Aug 1, 1907, 3,933,190. July 1, 1907, 3,919,947; Aug 1, 1906, 3,443,594.

Stock Brazils in New York, August 14, 3,430,692 bags. Total Brazils in the United States, 3,506,111 bags. Total in U. S., other kinds, August 12, 311,454 bags. Deliveries of Brazils for the week ending August 10, 92,191 bags against 91,559 bags last year. Receipts of Brazils for week ending August 11, none.

RICE.

New York, Aug. 13.—Dan Talmage's Son's Co., report:

Market for the week has been very interesting to those who are watching it closely. Demand for immediate shipment continues fairly active and assortments are badly broken. New Crop is coming in slowly, and is held at full prices, being a reflection of conditions in primary markets. Japans are scarce and advanced fully ¼c per pound.

Advices from the South note little doing on the Atlantic Coast. The growing crop is progressing favorably At New Orleans there is an active movement, much restricted by the scanty supply of Cleaned of every style. The tardy arrival and sparse receipts of New Crop has been a disappointment to many, especially to those who discounted a speedy decline.

In the Interior Southwest Louisiana and Texas the growing crop is doing well and more forward plantings approaching time of harvest.

Cables and correspondence from abroad note curtailment of demand account of high price. Holders anticipate further advance in view of the scanty supplies.

Samples Mailed on Request

fruit by Secretary Wilson and representative growers and packers of California on Friday of last week at the rooms of the California State Board of Trade, has attracted attention at home and abroad. The California State Board of Trade has seen from various sources oral and written expressions on the subject. The plain, everyday, unsuspecting consumer, and the well-informed, eye-open, critical dietarian, as well as the scientific determiner of quantity and quality, all agree that the method of fruit curing followed in this State up to the present time is not at all harmful. "Too much," says the Government. "Too little," say the fruitmen, and the all important question of "how much" is yet to be determined. One visitor to the California State Board of Trade showed a box containing samples of apricots, nectarines and peaches cured after the usual method two and one-half pounds of sulphur to 2500 pounds of fruit and one sample of peaches cured by the Government standard, .035 of 1 per cent or 2.45 grains to the pound. The first-named samples were nice and fresh looking, except where in contact with the last named, which was in a state of decay, soft and covered with mold. All of these samples were taken from the exhibit made to Secretary Wilson at the meeting on the 9th inst. An analytical and industrial chemist of this city, P. W. Tompkins of Curtis & Tompkins, sent in tabulated results of an exhaustive series of analyses of apricots and peaches of the pack of the years 1906 and 1907, and in his letter accompanying it said: "That the results of his determinations showed that there was hardly enough of sulphur dioxide remaining in the fruit after cooking to be considered and that practically all of it so remaining was combined and not in a free state.' City Food Inspector Cutler of Kansas City., Mo., says that he has notified the National Government that his tests of California dried fruit cured with sulphur on the usual plan show that it is entirely wholesome and that Kansas City accepts it freely. Not one of the army of disinterested consumers find any fault or sees any harm in California sulphur-cured dried fruits."

WALNUTS.

Los Angeles.—Those who have recently returned from the walnut raising districts of Southern California report that the trees are now more heavily laden than has been the case for years. Last year the prospect was bright for an unusual yield, but the trees were eventually blighted by a destructive worm and several weeks of scorching weather. This season the worm is not feared, as precautions have been taken. No signs of the destroyer have so far appeared. The prospect of a bumper crops is particularly pleasing to growers because unusually high prices may rule owing to failure of the walnut orchards in France this season. Advices are that cold and rain have seriously crippled the orchards in that country, and it is estimated that they will not yield more than a third of the average crop. As a bumper domestic crop will not be sufficient to make up for the shortage in the foreign crops, prices it is believed, will be much higher than those of last year.

New York, Aug. 15.—The California walnut crop is reported to be much shorter than expected. Prospects have entirely changed within the last 30 or 40 days. Walnuts have been dropping badly and orchards that promised well a month ago have now comparatively few nuts. The crop is said to be about half an average and less than half of that of last year. It is probable that prices will not be made until the middle of September, and 15c for No. 1 soft shell is being freely predicted.

BEANS.

Ventura.—Some authorities here are estimating a third less of lima bean output in the county than last season. Last year was a record breaker for that legume. The output amounted to more than 650,000 sacks. This year, up to a week ago, it was predicted the yield would be as great or greater, because of the fact that more land was put in beans. Now growers are not all of one opinion as to the outlook. There is complaint in some quarters that the beans are not setting well on the vines.

CANNED FRUITS.

According to "California Fruit Grower" most canners are running their plants to capacity and will be for some time to come in an endeavor to make a pack commensurate with the demand for canned fruits this year. All the larger packers are well sold out and are only offering broken lines and in a few varieties just at the moment and until they know where they stand and what they will have to offer after present bookings are taken care of. The pack of the State will be large taking the total of all varieties. The apricot crop of course will be extremely light, but a good peach pack is anticipated. A larger pack of gallons will perhaps be made in this line than was anticipated. Sales departments are busy getting their specifications and assortments into shape."

CORN.

Corn does not look any easier and the demand for this staple continues to be far in excess of what it was a year ago. The prospects of the corn pack are always problems which no one has been able to figure out with any degree of certainty and this year is no exception to the rule. Packers of corn have been pretty hard hit in the past and they are claiming that they are making arrangements to put up a small pack if what they say is true.

According to the Chicago "Canner," the condition of the sweet corn crop, though the weather has been favorable over the greater part of the country during the past week, makes a delayed opening of the packing season certain and a smaller production than last season's pack of 8,739,908 cases for the United States a probability.

The corn pack of 1906 was several million cases smaller than either the immediately preceding pack or that of 1904.

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, Aug. 15.—Representatives of Maine Sardine packers yesterday received instructions, by wire, to announce an advance of 10c a case in the price of quarter oils, to take effect on August 24. This will make the f. o. b. Eastport quotation $3.10 on that kind of domestic sardines. In justification of the advance it is stated that the high cost of oil, cans, labor, etc., not to speak of the short pack to date and a heavy consuming demand, makes it necessary for the packers to get more money for their goods. It is reported on good authority that fully 700,000 cases of domestic sardines have already been sold for delivery out of this season's pack while the total output to date amounts to less than 250,000 cases practically all of which has already gone into consumption. The demand continues active, and packers are not at all disposed to contract freely, even at the advance, for, while the tides are now right and the run of fish has improved, there is no certainty that it will continue, and consequently there is a prospect that the packers may oversell. Should consumption continue at the present rate, a further advance in prices is not likely. There have been few fish packed in key-opening cans so far this season, owing to the inability of the packers to get that style of container. The only factory equipped to make key-opening cans in adequate quantity was destroyed by fire early in the spring, and it will take a long time to duplicate the machinery. The result of the scarcity of key openers has been to increase the demand for tear-top cans.

IMPORTED SARDINES, ETC.

New York, Aug. 12.—Strohmeyer and Arpe Co., report:

The writer of this, our Mr. Porges, has just returned from an extended trip through Europe and we shall now resume our regular report as to market conditions in our line.

In France, the sardine fishing, unfortunately, is an absolute failure so far, and there is very little hope of any extensive catch of sardines this season. Our market is entirely bare of French sardines.

In Portugal the same condition prevails, and there is no small fish being caught, which would be suitable for ¼ tins for the American market. For this reason Portuguese sardines are very scarce in this market, and the few remaining lots are offered at advanced prices. In Spain they have no catch of sardines, either.

The catch of sprats is entirely over for the season, and we cannot look for any new supply before the end of the year. Stocks here are very insignificant, and in Europe there is hardly anything left. Prices for sprats are therefore very firm, and a little good demand will easily exhaust all supplies.

In Norway, our Mr. Porges found the conditions rather serious. Almost all the large packers have so many orders on hand to be packed this season that it will be almost impossible to execute all the orders entrusted to them.

Owing to the scarcity of French sardines in the last few years, the Norwegian smoked sardines have been introduced more and more to the public, and owing to their really superior character have taken a strong hold of the public in America, and the consumption of Norway smoked sardines is increasing from day to day.

Just to illustrate Mr. Porges tried his level best, he was unable to get the manufacturers of our "Nansen" and "Nordstar" brands to accept contracts for more than less than half of what we have imported of these brands last season. This, of course, makes the condition serious, and prices for smoked sardines are almost sure to go higher.

In Italy and Spain he found prices for Olive Oil extremely high and with no likelihood of any lower prices in the near future.

French, Belgian and Italian Peas.—While the crop has been fairly good, it yielded only a very limited quantity of the small grades like Sur Extra Fins and Extra Fins. Prices paid to the farmers for the raw product were higher than ever before. The demand for peas in this country has been very good, and it is likely that we may see firmer and higher prices for peas in the near future. French mushrooms continue as scarce as they have been during the last few months, and although prices are virtually exorbitant, all small mushrooms arriving are taken readily at full asking prices by eager consumers. On the whole, we find almost every article that we handle offered at a higher price than we have paid for the same last season, and, nevertheless, the demand for most of our articles has shown no decrease in spite of the advanced prices. This shows that trade is in a healthy condition, and we look forward to a very large fall business.

SALMON.

New York, Aug. 15.—In view of the reiterated statements made by trade authorities on the Coast that this season's pack of red Alaska salmon will amount to little more than half of that of last year, a great deal of speculation is being indulged in by the trade as to the probable opening price and the date of its announcement. In some quarters it is believed that the principal packers will not make prices until the pack is completed and they are in a position to definitely figure costs. A rumor was current yesterday that the Alaska Packer's Association had named a price of $1 15 f. o. b., but when asked about it, F. A. Aplin, of the J. K. Armsby Company, who are the association's selling agents, denied that their principals had made a price on the 1907 pack of red Alaska salmon. With reference to the indicated shortage in this year's output of salmon, Mr. Aplin said: "The pack of salmon to Attracting Trade.

Food Laws Help Trade Relational.

Manufacturers and retailers, many of whom have raised serious objections to the pure food laws, are just beginning to realize that there is a very large measure of compensation in what they have regarded as rather oppressive laws.

The pure food laws are bringing manufacturer, jobber and retailer closer together, and out of this better relationship substantial benefit will come to each.

The manufacturer's and jobber's brands must now stand upon their merits as defined by law. If a brand is not what is is "cracked up" to be the retailer will not handle it. First, because he really desires to give his patrons a good product, and, again, because he cannot afford to fly in the face of the law. The manufacturer who is conscientious is not going to risk his commercial status by trying to beat the law and get the retailer into trouble with those who are charged with the administration of the law. He is going to put up a product that will stand the severest test, if he is wise, and then he is going to give the jobber a guarantee without any flaws in it.

The manufacturer's brands and the jobber's brands will come to stand for purity and quality in fact. With what amounts to an official endorsement back of the retailer's and manufacturer's declarations, the consumers will buy the goods and have an abiding faith in their declared quality.

It was not always so. There were plenty of manufacturers who depended largely upon high sounding phrases, loud labels and big discounts to sell their poor goods. The manufacturer whose goods had real merit was forced to compete with the fakirs. He had a hard time proving the quality of his goods. Now the nice words will "butter no parsnips" for the fakir. He must come out into the light of the law and show just what he has for sale, and he must show it so plainly anyone of ordinary common sense may understand whether a beautiful package contains food fit to eat or not.

During the past five or ten years manufacturers have been forced to address themselves largely, to the consumer. Producers of poor or ordinary foods were able through the medium of the daily press and the sign boards to force the attention of the public on their cheap products. There were no statements too extravagant for these people to make. They had poor goods to sell, but highly colored advertisements to the consumer, and gorgeous packages, on which were brazenly set forth virtues their wares did not contain, made up their chief stock in trade. Their labor was not in vain, either, for there are thousands of good people who were impressed with the showing these advertisers could make. It did not seem possible that men could be so bold as to set up the preposterous claims they really made. The manufacturer with a meritorious product could do no more. But he was forced into spending a small fortune in talking to the consumer.

The jobber and the retailer could not help the manufacturer. They were forced to keep what the people demanded, whether it had merit or not. And so the manufacturer, the jobber and the retailer fell apart.

Under the present conditions there is a strong probability that these three kinds of dealers will have a better relationship. It is only natural that this should be so. The retailer can now afford to push a good brand, and he cannot afford to push any other. There will not be the call now, from the consumer for food unfit to eat. The manufacturer of this class of food products will not be able to gull the consumer any longer, for the good reason that he will risk a conflict with the authorities whenever he attempts through his advertisements to sell something that is not all he claims for it.

The man with the goods that has merit can now address himself to the jobber or retailer with the full assurance that his words will be taken to mean just what they say. The jobber and retailer can now well afford to take the word of the manufacturer and then push his goods. The manufacturer need no longer appeal to the consumer to call for his goods. The retailer will now find it profitable to talk to the consumer for him, and thus save thousands of dollars that used to be spent in an effort to reach the consumer.

The better relationship that is bound to exist among manufacturers, jobbers and retailers, due to the operation of the pure food laws, is one of the commercial blessings of the law.

supply the world it is now figured, will not exceed 2,500,000 cases, as compared to the pack of last year 3,774,000 cases. This vast shortage will practically all be in what we term red fish. Last year the pack of red fish, chinook, sockeye and red Alaska was about 2,500,000 cases; this year it will be about 1,400,000 cases. It is now figured that the pack of Alaska red salmon is about 800,000 cases, which will be the supply for the world in this grade. When you stop to consider that this is no more than was distributed in the United States alone last year, when the pack was 1,475,000 cases, you will see how serious the situation is.

"The activity in the spot market, I believe, is almost wholly due to the very great increased consumption, as the size of the orders placed with the jobbers here (jobbers being the only source of supply), as first hand, like ourselves, have depended upon the jobbers to fill orders for months, do not indicate the slightest speculative buying. We are simply facing in a very great measure a clean-up of the stocks of salmon the world over. The English market has advanced and is now on a parity with the New York market. It is a serious situation for the packers, as they were obliged to outfit at a fixed expense, and where the pack is seriously cut the cost of the production is correspondingly higher.

"It is safe to say that every case of sockeye salmon canned on the Puget Sound this year will cost double the price that the packers will receive for it. The packer of Alaska salmon will not fare quite so badly, but he faces a serious loss. If our figures as to the probable pack of British Columbia and America are correct—and they cannot be changed very much—comparison with the past will be of interest.

"The total pack of salmon for the year 1903 was 3,606,411 cases; 1904, 3,323,654 cases; 1905, 4,630,685 cases; 1906, 3,774,423 cases.

"The stocks of salmon in distributors hands is the lightest in years. These figures show that the pack for the four preceding years has been nearly 15,500,000 cases, showing an average consumption of over 3,800,000 cases, against an estimated pack this year, as stated before, of probably not to exceed two and a half million cases."

HAY.

Somers & Co., report under date of August 20.:

Arrivals of Hay for the week just ended amount to 4680 ton, practically the same quantity as for the week preceding. Rail arrivals have not been quite as plentiful as they were during last week but water shipments have been very much in evidence. As the season grows late more strenuous efforts are being made to move the crop, and from all appearances we will have a continued rush by schooner until the rains prevent shipping. Considerable Hay is being shipped to interior points, and the warehouses in the regular Hay districts are about filled. In the large Grain Valleys of the State a large proportion of the Volunteer crop is still out of doors, and we fear that quite a bit of it will be baled owing to labor and transportation difficulties.

To sum up the situation our idea is that the market will drag along a bit heavily during the next 30 or 60 days, after which time we anticipate a sharp advance to cover the carrying charges on what Hay will be shipped to market thereafter.

An occasional car of fancy Wheat Hay still sells at above quotations; this can be said also of choice Tame Oat, New Wild Oat, however, is very much in evidence, and concessions are being made of late in order to effect sales. Most receivers, however, are attempting to maintain the old range of prices which we give to-day as follows:

Choice Wheat Hay	$18.00 to 20.00
Good Wheat Hay	16.00 to 17.50
Other grades same	9.00 to 15.00

FILLMORE LEASES EXTENDED.

Many of the merchants doing business on Fillmore st. between Sutter and McAllister sts. have secured or are endeavoring to obtain extensions on their leases. Baldwin & Howell report that all tenants from whom they collect rents on Fillmore st. have applied for renewals of leases, which have been in most cases granted them by landlords. The majority of the leases run for three years from next May or June. Some of them, however run for a longer period. A notable instance in which a long lease has been made by Baldwin & Howell is that of the premises occupied by E. P. Charlton & Co., 1313 to 1319 Fillmore st. This firm has renewed its lease for eight years from next May at an aggregate rental of nearly $50,000. A. L. Lilienfeld & Co., George Haas & Sons and J. Vincent, who occupy premises adjacent to Charlton, have renewed their leases for a period of three years from next May at an aggregate rental of nearly $60,000. All of the firms doing business on the east side of Fillmore st. between O'Farrell st. and Bryington ave. have secured extensions of their leases for three years from next May. These include the Swiss-American Bank, Royal Shoe Co., Elite Clothing Co., Carroll & Tilton and Charles Lyons, Joe Poheim, at the southeast corner of Post and Fillmore sts. has obtained an extension of three years through Baldwin & Howell, and I. Goldman has also secured an extension of his lease from the same firm.

Purposes and Accomplishments

OF THE

California Retail Grocers' & Merchants' Association

OFFICIAL PAPER—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Plan of Operation.

Prior to 1900, different associations of members of Chambers of Commerce had asked for various laws, from time to time, and had always failed to secure results through lack of organization. These failures caused the Retail Grocers' Association of San Francisco to invite other similar associations to send delegates to a convention in September, 1900. At this convention, it was decided to form an organization to be known as the

CALIFORNIA RETAIL GROCERS' AND MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

This Association was organized to enable the grocers of California and other merchants to co-operate in order to accomplish results by their united action that they could not secure singly. Each Association sends delegates to an annual convention. These delegates decide the policy to be followed and elect officers to carry out their plans. Every individual member has the right to attend the annual convention as a delegate.

The next State Convention will be held at Sacramento on [illegible] 10th, 11th and 12th, 1907.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

LAWS SECURED.—Prior to the Legislative session of 1907, the combined efforts of the merchants affiliated with the California Retail Grocers and Merchants' Association secured the following results:

Permitting the Attachment of the Wages of Public Officials.

Making a Wife's Separate Property Responsible for Family Bills for the Necessaries of Life. Property owned before marriage or acquired by gift exempt.

Making a Guarantee of Purity a Sufficient Defense for a Dealer Charged with Violating the Pure Food Law.

We also secured the passage of the following, but through [illegible] of the Legislature.

VETOED BY GOVERNOR PARDEE.

Making an Account Date from the Time of the Last Item and making a Payment Renew an Account. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Allowing Merchants to Form Mutual Fire Insurance Companies. Vetoed by Governor Pardee.

Declaring Trading Stamps Illegal. Declared Unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

SESSION OF 1907.

At the Legislative Session of 1907, the Board of Governors [illegible] both well organized, and although we were [illegible] of funds, we secured the passage of the following laws ALL OF WHICH were approved by Governor Gillett and THEY ARE NOW LAWS.

1. Making the time in which an open book account outlaws FOUR years instead of two.
2. Allowing the formation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.
3. Making the passing of a check WITH INTENT TO DEFRAUD a State's Prison offense.
4. Providing that the dealer shall not be held responsible for the brand of goods GUARANTEED TO BE AS PURE.

WE HAVE MORE LAWS TO GET. We want your influence.

We have, by united action, convinced the manufacturers of flour in several localities that the trade wanted them to stop senseless cutting. This has added many dollars to the profits of the grocers.

We propose to secure [illegible] desirable [illegible] we can.

(a) Protect EFFECTIVELY [illegible] Along this [illegible] to be cut. We want your influence.

(b) Protect EFFECTIVELY [illegible] a party who would otherwise [illegible] We want your influence.

(c) Protect EFFECTIVELY [illegible] and "short" packages to [illegible] We want your influence.

We are helping members collect bad bills [illegible] by a set of collection letters [illegible] property owned.

Our paper, The Retail Grocers' Advocate, which we own, is the [illegible] which makes it possible for us to secure the results outlined above.

ALL THESE THINGS COST MONEY [illegible] a year alone. We think you ought to [illegible] dues DON'T YOU?

" 10,000 monthly, dues...	7.50
" 5,000 monthly, dues...	5.00
" 2,000 monthly, dues...	2.50
Under 2,000 monthly, dues.	1.00

The following officers were chosen to serve till the next general election early in 1908:

President....H. D. Cushing, Oakland
Vice-President....H. Hauch, Alameda
Treasurer. J. L. Woodworth, E. Oakland

Directors.

John Mitchell, Central Oakland; T. L. Fleming, Central Oakland; Geo. Tum Suden, East Oakland; A. J. Nor, West Oakland; S. J. Sill, Berkeley.

The directors will meet at least once each month. The members will be called together whenever matters requiring concerted action come up and there will be a big social meeting once a quarter.

The men responsible for the re-organization of the association feel that they can afford to pay dues as per schedule, even if they do no more than maintain the flour prices and keep the yeast cake among the selling articles.

Their secretary will work in conjunction with San Francisco, San Jose and other Bay Cities and the organized grocers will be able to exert an influence that should put many more articles on the protected list.

A FAKE EXPOSED.

S. F. Grocers' Exchange Denies Unwarranted Use of Its Name.

At a meeting of the San Francisco Grocers' Exchange at 17 Oak St., on Wednesday, Aug. 14th, Secretary J. M. Sullivan was instructed to write to Mr. Fred Krueger, demanding that Mr. Krueger stop printing the name of the Exchange in a publication issued by him under the name "Grocers' Bulletin."

This action was taken because the peculiar position given to the announcement of the Grocers' Exchange would make it appear as if the Grocers' Exchange were interested in some way in the "Grocers' Bulletin." This is not the case. The publication is a list of delinquent debtors printed by Mr. Krueger at his own expense and every dollar earned by the same goes into Mr. Krueger's pockets and not into the funds of the grocers.

Mr. Levin of 1701 Post St., should be proud of his store force, as his clerks are above the average. A few more grocers like him will make the association a greater success than ever.

Welbrock & Bremer are the proud possessors of as neat an up-to-date grocery as can be found in San Francisco. They are located on 1035 Golden Gate Ave.

DISCRIMINATION ADMITTED.

The Ice Trust Acknowledges to Sacramento Board of Health That Grocers Are Not Allowed to Deliver Ice Except in Cases of Illness.

Sacracento, Cal, Aug. 14.—The local ice trust has admitted that it will not allow grocery stores to deliver ice to customers except in cases of illness. At a meeting of the city board of health last night it was officially reported that such is the case.

Some time ago The Union showed how the ice trust discriminated against the delivery of ice by grocers. Managers of local ice companies at once denied the statement, although it was known to be a fact. Last night Dr. James reported to the board of health that the ice trust admits the discriminating practice.

Dr. James, by letter, reported on ice delivery. He said that on July 1st all grocery stores were forbidden by ice factories to deliver ice except in cases of sickness where life demanded it. A larger number of delivery wagons has been put on, and Sacramento now has more than any city on the coast, according to population. The ice company told him it would, in case any sick person failed to get ice as required, see that a proper supply is delivered as required and added that the order for non-delivery by groceries was made for purely business reasons, and exceptions could always be made in case of sickness.—Sacramento Union.

IN NEW QUARTERS.

Wichman, Lutgen & Co. Establish New House for Gilt Edge Whiskies.

Wichman, Lutgen & Co. are back in San Francisco with splendid appointments at 431-439 Clay St. They moved into their palatial quarters on June 20th. They now have 20,000 square feet of floor space divided between three floors and a big concrete basement.

The "Gilt Edge" whiskies, both rye and bourbon, have always been deservedly popular. The firm too has always been so thoroughly fair and liberal in its dealings with the trade that their business has increased continually.

The Advocate anticipates a continuance of the growth in the new quarters.

A SUBSCRIBER OBJECTS.

To the "Poisoning of Groceries and Vegetables by Dogs.

The Calistogian is in receipt of the following communication through the mails from a lady subsmriber, and as it is more suggestive of common sense than that of vulgarity, it is given space in these columns:

At Home, July 30, '07.

Editor "Calistogian":

Praise to thee, for thou alone can help us in our dire extremity. As a lady, I desire to say a few words to the retail merchants of this, our beloved little town, through the columns of your valuable paper. My subject is a delicate one; therefore I the more earnestly beseech your charitable consideration. You know it has become quite the thing for our local merchants to make a display of groceries and vegetables on the sidewalks in front of their places of business. And you also know that there are some very tall dogs running about town.

Now, Mr. Editor, undoubtedly you have a very comprehensive idea of what I am desirous of saying, and if you will help me out, you will certainly do the suffering public a very great favor. What is needed is to have such goods put in or on boxes or shelves above high-water mark. For the good of women in particular, and mankind in general, the grocers wil please attend to this matter at once.

Those wire screens they use over baskets and barrels are not water tight. This is a delicate subject, as I said before, but you know that when a lady goes to a store for cabbage and beets she does not like to be obliged to purchase watermelons and peas all at the same time. Ann Observer.

"THE RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION."

The following letter received from J. B. Holland, president of the Mississippi Retail Merchants' Association sets forth very clearly the object of the asosciation:

"The question 'What is the Retail Merchants' Association,' is breifly answered, that every merchant in our State may know what the association stands for, and what those towns or individuals are missing who are not associated with this organization, also some conditions that may be brought about by a united effort. In the first place, it is not a money making scheme; not an association launched for the benefit of a few; nor is it an association launched for the benefit of the retailer to the detriment of the public.

"The object of this association is to safeguard the interests of all retail merchants, and to encourage the formation of local associations throughout the State, and to co-operate with the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States:

"To assist in confining the re trade of the village, cities and tov to the legitimate retailers of th towns;

"To correct evils attending the cre system;

"To abate trade abuses, injuri and unbusinesslike methods, and to cure the co-operation of all manuf turers in securing just and equita prices on all staple and standard m chandise, and thus to produce a m healthful conditions of the retail tra

"To disseminate trade informati encourage improved business meth and generally to advance the int ests of all retail merchants and wh salers, and to secure more frien relations among all retailers who sire to advance their mutual intere

"To secure State and National le lation, just and equitable to the tailers, and to oppose such legislat as would prove detrimental to th welfare, and to protect the pu against the sale of impure foods, n branded, and short weight goods.

"The above clearly shows the obj of the association, and doesn't it peal to you as a good thing?

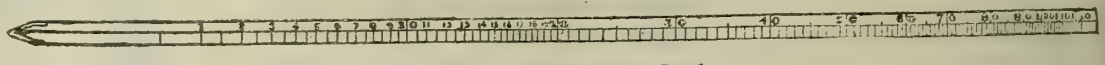
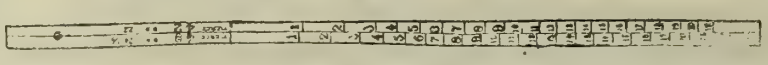
THE "ADVOCATE" GAUGING RODS HAVE ARRIVED!!



Send Your Order In At Once.

There is no question but what every merchant should have his own measuring instruments on which he can for protection. Oil and vinegar are frequently overgauged and unless a merchant has a set of gauging instruments he not tell whether he is paying for oil or vinegar that is charged to him at, say 52 gallons, when as a matter of fact the rel will only hold 48 gallons. This is a trick frequently practiced as these concerns know that few dealers have measu instruments.



The long stick is used to determine the actual capacity of the barrel while the small one shows the amount th lacking in the barrel. Protect yourself as many readers of this paper have, by buying a set of the Advocate gaugin struments which are sold at a normal figure. It is advisable to have two sets, one for vinegar, molasses and syru another for oil if it is bought in barrels as one set should not be used to gauge both oil and vinegar or molasses.

We will deliver the gauge rods to you at your store at these prices, cash in advance: 1 Guage and 1 Want Rod $1.45; 2 Guages and 2 Wantage Rods, $2.80; 3 Guages and 3 Wantage Rods, $4.20.

Cuts in this advertisement show both the gauge and wantage rods. Complete directions for using will be f free with each set.

ASSOCIATION VS. TRUSTS.

Association work, as we understand it, bears the same relation to trust control of business that a free government does to a monarchy.

The association aims to uplift and benefit the many engaged in business. The trust would wipe out the many, that a few might have an over-abundance.

It is possible to harmonize business conditions so that many and not the few shall reap the profit under changed business conditions.

The association is a tower of strength when new conditions confront the trade. If its members have been true to its interests, which are their own, they have chosen as officers or leaders men of keen perception, who have perhaps seen the storm coming long before it breaks, and have given warning acordingly.

It is an old saying that when a new situation develops there is always found the man to fill it.

Too much praise cannot be given to the men who have unselfishly given of their time and energy in building up associations for the benefit of their fellow brothers in trade.

The same amount of brains and energy put into their personal affairs would have in many cases netted them many dollars; but they keep right on working for the good of all to the sacrifice of their private business interests. Sometimes the sacrifice made was not even appreciated by those for whom it was made. But it makes no difference; they keep on working anyhow. There are men in the world to whom mere money grabbing is a sordid occupation compared to the uplifting, even in a small degree of their fellow men. It is to such men the world owes what is best in its laws and institutions. Fools, some of the greatest were called in their day. It is possible they even thought so of themselves. But future generations rose to call them blessed.

NEW PICKLE MANUFACTURERS.

Vinegar Works to Be Run in Connection With $100,000 Enterprise.

Watsonville, Aug. 9.—One of the most important industrial enterprises ever launched in this section is the undertaking proposed by Jones Bros. & Co., of California and Kentucky. This $100,000 corporation has purchased the cider and vinegar factory of Prettyman & Wolf Co. These old works are now being thoroughly remodeled and brought up to date.

It is claimed the remodeled works will have a capacity of 5,000 tons of apples this season. The real object of the company is said to be to conduct a pickle factory in connection with the vinegar plant, and all plans are practically perfected for the immediate launching of such an enterprise.

The proposed factory means an expenditure of approximately $100,000. The machinery will include the latest devices for the rapid and economic production of pickles of all kinds.

The importance of such an enterprice to this city and surrounding country can hardly be estimated. It will mean an immediate market, with unlimited demand, for nearly all clases of small produce.

Jones Bros. & Co. is officered by men of years of experience in the conduct of the pickle business, having successfully carried on such interests in the Eastern States. It is probable their factory here will give employment to 100 people.

E. R. Kreiger, president, and J. H. Shanks, secretary of the company, will both become permanent residents of Watsonville, their families having arranged to locate here.

H. G. Lang has just returned from a pleasant two weeks at Rio Vista.

McCarthy Bros. report that they continue to find shortages in their vermicelli.

W. D. Leahy, of J. H. Newbauer & Co. is spending a few days at Bartlett Springs.

W. W. Hewitt, city salesman for William Cluff Co., is off on a three weeks' vacation.

Frank Elliott, for years with Hills Bros., is now representing Parrott & Co. on the "street."

Ray Schabel,"street" buyer for Wellman, Peck & Co., is spending two weeks at Glen Alpine.

S. A. Newbauer, vice-president of J. H. Newbauer & Co., is spending his holidays at Catalina Island.

James Reilly has a pretty new store at 23d and Guerrero streets. It is nicely stocked and is kept very neat.

George Lauinger of Tillmann & Bendel, leaves for several weeks at Catalina Island on Saturday of this week.

F. W. Hansen, 801 1st Ave., says he thinks every grocer in his neighborhood would like to get a fair price for beer.

J. H. Manley of the Dyersville Canning Co., of Dyersville, Iowa, packers of high grade corn, is calling on the local jobbing trade.

John Grindley, for twenty years with the Capitol Mills, was stricken with apoplexy last week and no hope is held out for his recovery.

The firm of Lee & Van Winkle, 1174 Ellis St., have just installed one of the large Hobart Mills at $350, and are much pleased with the same.

Julius Rothschild, for many years associated with his brother in the John Rothschild Co., has gone to New York to embark in the banking business.

Milton Unger, formerly with J. H. Newbauer & Co., is confined in a private hospital with appendicitis. His condition is reported to be very grave.

Fred H. Olsen, who conducted the Fountain Coffee Parlors on California and Drumm Sts for many years, has opened a modern cafe and grill room at 160 First St., where he is giving a glad welcome to his many friends.

H. N. Edlin, Ellis and Devisadero, says: "The Collection Letters have helped me get in considerable money. Of course, you cannot get blood from turnips, but I am now money in that I would not have had if it were not for the letters."

A new front with a balcony around the store, new shelving and counters, etc. and more light has improved the appearance of the store of the late A. B. Knox at 878 Valencia st. very much Mr. Robert Knox has managed the store since his father's death.

It is reported that the new store of J. H. Newbauer & Co., corner Davis and Pacific, is to be one of the most commodious and substantial west of the Rocky Mountains. It will in a measure be in keeping with the business built up by this enterprising firm.

C. E. Young, 2859 16th st., thinks the Grocers Association should take up the peddler problem. The peddlers who pay no taxes nor rent nor clerk hire and only a very small license take up so much of the fruit business etc. that the sales are so little that the grocers profits are cut down and they have to charge more for what they do sell because of the small quantity they handle.

DUE TO CARELESSNESS.

Grocery Clerk Blamed for Death of Customer in Southern California.

The clipping found below carries an object lesson which is so obvious that further comment seems unnecessary:

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Martin Coralis, who lives near the Orange county line, was terribly burned in an explosion of gasoline last night and died a few hours later. She attempted to start a fire with a can supposed to contain coal oil, but which was full of gasoline. Her husband charges that a grocery clerk made the fatal mistake.

will save your clerks' time, your customers' time, and advertise your store. Write for catalogue describing our various Electric Mills, with capacities for granulating from four ounces to nine pounds of coffee per minute.

The illustration shows our double mill, No. 08712, with motor for direct current; one mill fitted with grinders for granulating, and the other for pulverizing. Each iron hopper holds six pounds of coffee. There are two speeds, fast and slow, which can be instantly changed from one to the other; at fast speed this mill granulates three pounds of coffee, or with ½ H. P. motor for alternating current. The latter for slow speed only. Can be regulated while running for grinding either fine or coarse.

HIGH DESTINY OF GOOD GROCERS.

What Might Be and What the State Grocers' Association Is Helping to Make Possible.

(Written Expressly for the Advocate by State President A. A. Jost, of Sacramento.)

In the hustle, bustle and confusion of our every day life, and as we come and go with much the same daily routine, did it ever occur to you that, in the varied activities of commercial enterprise, there was a closer relation existing between the grocer, his clerk and the consuming public than any other line of business?

Within the ranks of grocerydom, there are some of the brightest of men. They have made the grocery business a life study and have, by their close application, earnest study and a desire to do good, assumed a position of more than an ordinary distributor of the nessaries of life. These men have made themselves factors, indicating the policy to be pursued by all up-to-date merchants.

Fill a High Place.

While they appeal to the public for support and patronage, their object is more than the monetary gain to be derived from the ordinary transaction, the barter and sale of every day business life. These men are merchants who look on and treat their customers as friends and who have the interest of the public at heart. In many cases, by their influence, they are able to disburse those brands of goods which have merit, and thus materially assist the housewife or the chef in making up, to the best advantage, the menu for the hungry family.

A. A. JOST, Sacramento.
President Cal. Retail Grocers' & Merchants' Ass'n.

The organization of an association, which would embrace the entire State, and thereby bring together all interests and enable the strong ones to help the less fortunate brother and protect the strong ones from the folly of the foolish, was the outcome of mature thought. The brightest and best minds of the grocery trade have been enlisted in the good work.

Success Exceeds Anticipations.

The organizers of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, while they had ambitious hopes, hardly dreamed that our association would accomplish the many objects which now stands as mile stones on the road to a mighty conquest.

As we look back over the past seven years, we cannot but congratulate ourselves upon our success.

How much better are the ocnditions in a general way!

These have, in almost every instance, been brought about by the effects of our co-operation and association.

The interchange of thoughts and experiences have enabled many to avoid various unforseen circumstances. It is probable that it may have been as a beacon light to warn the thoughtful man of some unknown rock on which he might have been financially wrecked.

The association has given us protection in the matter of credit. It has eliminated many of the risks we would have otherwise taken.

Manufacturers to Maintain Prices.

The problem of having the individual manufacturer name and maintain the minimum selling price on his goods has been used to advantage. By some it has been unsuccessful in certain instances where not fairly followed up. Notwithstanding this fact, it is sure to win; for it is right and just, and it is only a matter of a short time until every manufacturer of repute will not only be willing, but anxious, to name a price and protect the same.

We need better organization in some of the cities and towns before we can secure the best results. The sooner that the leading grocers in the principal centers get together, the sooner they will achieve the possibilities which await their efforts.

Let the merchant be honest, not alone with himself, but with his clerks and his customers. He must not overlook the fact, also, to insist on honest weight, count and measure from the one of whom he buys his goods.

Insist On Getting What You Pay for.

If a certain brand does not come up to the standard, turn it down. Then tell your neighbor, and secure through your association united action. The manufacturer will then surely come to time.

Value of the "Advocate."

Every firm in the grocery business in California should be a subscriber to the Retail Grocers' Advocate.

Why?

Because it is the mouthpiece of our association and voices our need. It contains valuable information that every dealer should have. It outlines many policies which will be helpful to us all. Its information of market contions are up to date and very reliable. It tells you what has been accomplished, both in association and legislative work. It gives you a forecast of many markets, thereby enabling the merchant to provide for his needs at the correct prices.

Sacramento Welcomes Everybody.

We want to see you at the big convention in Sacramento, Sept. 10th, 11th and 12th. You can secure first-class excursion tickets (get a receipt from agent at point of starting) any time after Sept. 1st, good until Sept. 14th. This rate will be one and a third for round trip tickets, and includes the members of your family as well.

This will give all an opportunity to attend the National Irrigation Congress, which convenes Sept. 4-7, and there is going to one of the finest exhibits ever seen at our State Fair. The convention promises to be well attended. Every merchant of California should be there, for it is his association and he should help by his presence, influence and counsel.

The big, new hall in the Red Men's Temple, on 10th St., between I and J Sts., has been secured. In this hall, some of the new laws favoring grocers were formulated and enacted.

The entertainment committee has outlined a splendid program and there will be no dull moments—not if time, work, talent and money can accomplish the end.

REASONS FOR OUR EXISTENCE.

Why the State Association Was Formed, What It Has Done and What it Plans Doing.

WHAT THE STATE ASSOCIATION MEANS.

(Written for the Advocate by Secretary Frank B. Connolly of San Francisco.)

Men go into the grocery business to earn a living and if possible acquire a competence.

Their success depends on how thoroughly they know their business.

No one man knows everything. Every man has always something still to learn.

Some people can learn only from books. Some people cannot learn from books but are able to profit by the experience of others.

There is a small class that can only learn from bitter experience.

More unfortunate than the puppy whose eyes opens in seven days, this last class goes through life blind and are always bumping into things and getting hurt, except when they are driven by some controlling power or led by some kindly hand.

The State Grocers Association is a benefit to those grocers who can learn from the experience of others and can advantage by reading what others have done. It helps them to help themselves by pointing out the most effective way of doing things. It also helps them by enabling them to prevent their blind brothers from interfering with the other grocers, sometimes by leading their blind brothers and sometimes by forcing them to keep in the right path.

Most grocers would appear to have come originally from Missouri. I say this because they are practically a unit in their chorus: "You must show me."

This article is written with the intention of "showing them."

Four Big Things Done.

During the past year we have done four big things.

Two of these things are of immediate value to the grocery trade.

FIRST—Preventing interference with the laws secured at the legislature. Also the securing of the passage of the following four laws:

(a) Extending the life of an open account from two to four years.

(b) A law allowing the formation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.

(c) Making the drawing of a check with intent to defraud a State's Prison offense.

(d) The insertion of a clause providing that the retail dealer need only show a guarantee of purity to escape punishment for violation of the Pure Food Law, thus making the wholesaler and manufacturer responsible.

It will be remembered that at the prior sessions of the Legislature we secured the passage of the following laws:

(a) Allowing the garnishment of the wages of public officials.

(b) Making the wife's separate property responsible for bills for the necessaries of life.

SECOND—We secured the co-operation of the merchants in sixty-six different cities and towns in a request to the D. Ghiraredlli Co. that they protect the retail selling price of their goods, with the result that the D. Ghirardelli Co. were glad to render the grocers the assistance and protection for which they asked.

What The Future Holds.

The two things accomplished that will be of great value to the trade in the future are as follows:

First—The methods necessary to secure for the State Grocers Association an adequate income through its paper the "Retail Grocers' Advocate."

(The writer feels certain that the members will take advantage of the experience secured during the past year and profit thereby).

Second—We have learned the lesson of what is necessary to insure permanent success of grocery associations in the interior of affiliating cities.

All of these items and plans will be fully discussed in the Convention at Sacramento.

Everybody Is Welcome.

We hope that every grocer in every community that has an association will be present.

We hope that every grocer in every community that has not got an association but would like one, will be present.

We hope that every grocer in every community too small to support an association, will be present.

Every grocer who comes to Sacramento will be welcome to attend our meetings.

It will be a pleasure for us to make it possible for him to assist in our deliberations and assure him that the results accomplished at our Convention will be of the greatest possible value to him.

What The Organizers Expect.

Our State Grocers' Association was organized on an ideal plan.

It pre-supposed that the grocers and merchants of each large community would be able to get together in associations. It also pre-supposed that each organization would have different plans of sufficient value to warrant the respective organizations keeping together without outside assistance. It also pre-supposed that each community would have men possessing the peculiar faculty necessary to hold a considerable body of men together month in and month out.

According to the theory, also, these different organizations would each year send representatives to carry out plans that their respective organizations would have decided were essential for success.

Plan of State Convention.

To carry out this theory, each association of the State is invited each year to send delegates to the State Convention.

In order that the small towns may not be overwhelmed by the big cities, we allow each association two delegates at large. Association with a membership of fifty or over, we allow an additional delegate for each ten members. The large associations are allowed one delegate in addition to these for each additional fifty members.

Grocers in towns where there is not an affiliating association are allowed to serve as delegates provided that there are not more than two delegates from any one town. This action was taken because if there were three delegates present from one town, these three men could form an association, electing one of their numbers as President, another as Vice-President, and the third as Secretary and Treasurer. All three could be present as delegates since their association would be entitled to two delegates at large and one delegate for their fraction of ten members.

The delegates who attend the Convention, plan the programme for the ensuing year. They decide among themselves to what purposes the State Organization shall devote its strength. They then elect a Board of Directors consisting of eleven men chosen from many different communities. They then provide that these men shall meet frequently.

Each meeting is held in different town. Thus every interest of the State is looked out for.

We only need sufficient funds to secure the maintenance and creation of executive machinery. With this we can assure the grocers of California protection in their profits on so many of their leading staples that the ratio of failurs among grocers will assuredly be greatly lessened.

Essentials for Success.

To accomplish the best results, we must have the active interest and the active co-operation of the dealers in many communities.

We have already proven the enormous influence of the trade when intelligently directed, both at the legislature and with various leading manufacturers.

It rests with us to secure two things:

1st—The funds necessary to maintain our work as it should be.

2nd—The adoption of plans that will insure the co-operation of our members.

The three months following our Convention of last year were spent by Field Secretary Powers and myself in perfecting a compact organization of the grocers with an eye to results at the Legislature and in so systematizing the work that we should be prepared to wield the greatest amount of influence with the least effort and expenditure of time. As a consequence, we were able to bring influence to bear on nearly every member of the Senate and of the Assembly.

From the first of the year and until the middle of March our efforts were directed almost entirely towards securing legislation. Field Secretary Powers spent a large part of his time at Sacramento and much of our remarkable success is due directly to his conservative, yet aggressive action in Sacramento and to the prompt and affective support that was given to him every time he appealed to our members for action. The value of our preparation was proven by the results.

Legislative Campaign Carefully Planned.

Shortly after the session of the Legislature with the advice of Field Secretary Powers, we adopted a system of collection letters that have proven of enormous value to our members. They have enabled the grocers of the State to collect thousand of dollars which they never could have received, had it not been for these letters. The commission that would otherwise have been paid to lawyers by our members who made collection through these letters, would have paid their dues to the State Association for many years to come.

Our association also found it necessary during this time to take up the matter of the selling price of the Ghirardelli goods. These goods were being advertised by certain large advertising cutters practically at what they cost the small dealer.

Stop Cutting on Chocolate.

We called the attention of the D. Ghirardelli Co. to the fact that such advertising hurt legitimate grocers since, in some instances, it forced them to reduce their prices and thus sell the goods at a loss or else it put them in a bad light with their customers. It hurt every grocer in the State, no matter how distant from San Francisco, to have his customers read in the San Francisco papers that there was a firm in San Francisco selling chocolate at 25c for which he had to pay 30c or 35c to his home dealer. It was only when the State Association was able to present a showing from the grocers of 66 different communities besides San Francisco, that the D. Ghirardelli Co. realized that it would be safe for them to establish a retail selling price. Since then they have maintained the price and have done everything in their power to induce cutters to refrain from selling their goods without a proper margin of profit.

Several trips have been made to the grocers of adjoining cities to assist them in getting together. In every instance it was found that they were eager to come together. But the State Grocers' Association was not in a position to follow up this advantage and supply what these numerous communities so badly need. We must plan to do this at the Sacramento Convention and make California the best organized State in the National Association.

Plain Talk No. 2

In what can you afford to place confidence now-a-days? The average grocer's shelves show a wonderful collection of misplaced confidences. In no line is this more apparent than in scouring soaps.

SAPOLIO has made, by long effort and advertising, a pronounced success. Scores of little rivals have tried to snatch a share of the profit. There are fifty such soaps in the United States whose combined sales do not equal that of the original article.

Turn to your shelves, and see how often you have given your time, money and space to those untried, unknown, unsuccessful articles.

Yes, we are talking to you. How many have you on your shelves? 3, 4, 5, 6?

Misplaced confidence. How often do the unsuccessful dealers say to our salesmen, "I would be glad to give you an order but I cannot do it until I have closed out these two scouring soaps." It would be a long story if the order has to be delayed for that reason.

You can put confidence in SAPOLIO and all its statements. Some of the most successful grocers of the United States, tired of these trifling substitutes, handle no scouring soaps but SAPOLIO.

GROWTH AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

Veteran Association Worker Tells What the State Association Means in California.

[Written for the Advocate by Ludwig Warnke of Alameda, Ex-president of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.]

Last year, in response to the request of Mr. Powers, I wrote an article for publication in the official program of the State Association upon the subject, "Wnat Has Been and What Will Be Done."

The past year has seen the fruition of much that I then foretold. We have secured the passage of four laws. We have kept up the price on flour for the cities about San Francisco bay. We have procured protection on Ghiradelli's goods.

Through lack of means, we have not been able to push the work of organizing and strengthening weak associations as we have desired and would have done had we been in position to do so . The State Directors now think they have found a way to secure the results that they have, for so long a time seen just beyond their reach.

The last few months have seen splendid growth for the Advocate and that growth, if properly tended, insures enough funds to meet our expenses.

At the suggestion of the editor of the Advocate, I am submitting for republication my letter of last year:

Last Year's Letter.

It is with a great deal of satisfaction that I am contemplating my fire years' connection with the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.

Since its inception a great deal has been accomplished and more will be.

It has brought the grocers of this great State together.

It has taught them that co-operation is their salvation.

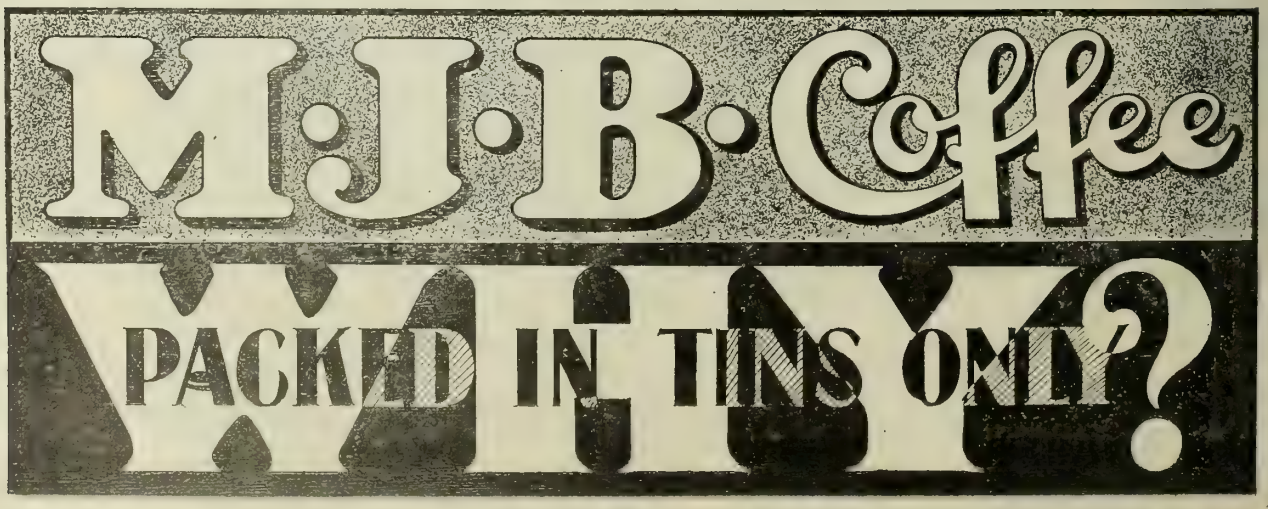
It has created a better feeling amongst the members of the trade.

It has lessened the hours of labor.

L. WARNKE,

An Alamedan Who Has Served as President and Secretary of the State Ass'n. and of His Local Ass'n. and Is Now a State Director.

It has in many communities eliminated the fierce and suicidal competition that existed heretofore.



It is educating the grocer.

It is teaching the manufacturer and wholesaler that the grocer is entitled to a reasonable margin of profit.

It has collected thousands of dollars for its members.

Some Laws Secured.

The Association was instrumental in having secured the following laws:

1st. Compelling public officials to pay their honest debts.

2d. Preventing a husband to transfer his property to his wife to evade payment of debt.

3rd. Protecting the grocer from prosecution under the Pure Food Law, if he procures a guarantee of purity from the wholesaler or manufacturer.

It was also responsible for the defeat of a number of obnoxious measures, introduced at the two last sesisons of the Legislature, which, if passed, would have increased the diffi culties of making an honest living in the grocery business.

As eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, the grocers must stand together, and they will.

Work at Hand.

Various trade abuses need correcting; unjust laws will have to be changed; manufacturers must be shown the necessity of protecting the retail selling price of their goods to curb the malicious or ignorant cutter; wholesalers must be shown that their interests are identical with those of the retailer; bad debtors must be watched, etc., etc.

The last five years have shown that the dues have been returned to the members manifold in benefits derived.

The Association has done this, but only with the aid of its members.. Paying dues, of course, helps, but the real and telling results have come only when the members themselves have done things.

Therefore, fellow grocers, do not simply promise "sympathy," but DO things by taking an active interest.

Members Must Help.

The Association has secured much merely because it was shown through the activity of its officers who gave of their time, without any remuneration, that the trade wanted certain things. Had the members of the various affiliating Associations assisted more actively in our work, the results would have been even greater.

Paying dues, of course, is a great help. But each member must keep in mind that the dues only insure the permanency of the State Association, which is a large machine at his disposal. Through this machine he can accomplish many things he could not get by his individual efforts. The machine, however, will not work itself. The members must give to it time, thought and energy and the machine will then do the work towards which the members direct it.

Time and Brains Needed.

In consequence I would therefore emphasize the fact that when a member has paid his dues he has done only one-third of his duty, since it is only by the personal active interest of the individual members that our splendid organization is made able to do the things that all expect of it.

Progress in San Francisco.

Profits and Protection Assured For All by by the Associated Retail Grocers.

(Written for the Advocate by President Geo. B. Doyle.)

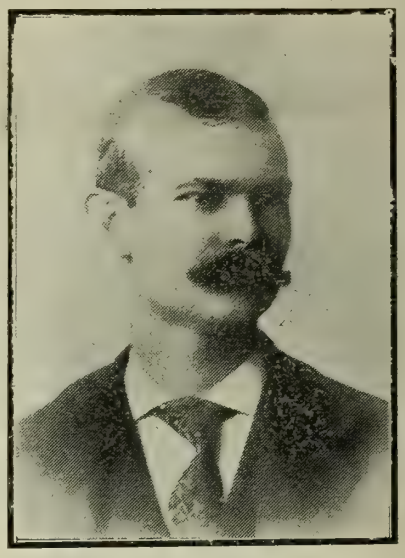
The Associated Retail Grocers of San Francisco can well be proud of the results secured for their members during the past twelve months. Our success has been due to a great extent to the fidelity of its Board of Directors who have attended many meetings when it was extremely difficult for them to travel from one part of the city to the other.



We have worked under numerous difficulties that it will be hard for anyone living outside of San Francisco to appreciate.

The first of these has been the necessity forced upon each dealer to exert himself personally in his business as he never had to do before the great disaster of April, 1906. This was the result of a radical increase in rents, in the wages of employes, in every item that enters into the expense of running a grocery store. As a consequence of this increased cost of doing business, together with the fact that many of our merchants were seriously crippled by the disaster, every man has found it necessary to prune his expenses at every possible point. This has forced the merchants to keep the number of their hired help as small as possible, although in many instances the volume of business done was much greater than during the previous years. This condition of affairs made it very hard and often impossible for our members to give to their association a tithe of the time formerly devoted to its work.

The plague of strikes which has decended upon the city has also borne heavily upon our members. The existence of the car strike so increased the difficulty of getting around town that we have found it undesirable to hold meetings except under the stress of absolute urgent necessity.

Mr. Cusack Helps Organization.

During the last months of 1906, our organization profited by the assistance of Mr. Jos. Cusack. Mr. Cusack was at one time in the grocery business and was an earnest worker in the association cause.

With the first of the year we arranged with Mr. Aaron H. Powers, the former editor of the "Grocers' Advocate", to serve as our Field Secretary at a nominal salary. This meant, of course, that we had only a portion of Mr. Power's time. In spite of this, our organization has done more for the grocers of San Francisco since the first of the year than any association of grocers has ever done in the history of organization work in our state.

Our organization raised several hundred dollars for the legislative fund of the State Grocers Association. Through the efforts of individual members and the influence particularly of Mr. Stulz, Mr. Powers, Mr. Fliezer, Mr. Connolly and the writer, we secured what we never had before—the united support of the San Francisco delegation in both houses of the Legislature. This was a mighty power for results in our campaign for better laws and all merchants, both wholesale and retail, all over the State are profiting by the laws resulting from these efforts.

Our members, too, have been securing a profit of 25c. a sack on flour. Until three months ago, they were forced to give 5c. of their profit to the millers for drayage. This left them, at that time, a margin of only 15c. per sack. Flour was then being sold at $1.30 per sack.

Milked For Cartage Charges.

We petitioned the mills to add the drayage to the cost of the flo ur and advance the selling price of flour 5c. per sack, making it $1.35 and giving the grocers 20 cents margin. It required considerable negotiation before the mills finally decided to accede to our request. They then did more than we asked fo them. They advanced the retail selling price of flour 10c. per sack (40c. per barrel), making the selling price $1.40 instead of $1.30.

The grocers of San Francisco faced a very dangerous point in the history of the fight for a profit on flour. If the grocery trade as a unit did not raise the price of flour in accordance with the request of the mills, it would have sounded the knell of the flour card and would have resulted in the wholesale cutting of prices and the falling back to the margin of 5c. and 10c. per sack on flour, which means a loss.

That this was a real danger, was shown by our experience in many different parts of San Francisco. Again and again the Field Secretary found two or three firms jealous of each other and too ready to believe the false reports of dishonest customers who would tell them of cutting and secret rebates that never existed. The Field secretary found it necessary on numerous occasions to canvass entire districts in order that the members might be brought back to maintain the price on flour without it being necessary to call the mills to discipline the offenders.

The horizontal raise from $1.30 to $1.40 as the selling price of flour without an advance in the cost price of flour, presented very great difficulties. These were met by our organization and its Field Secretary, in a way that has resulted in thousands of dollars in profits for the grocers. A Special meeting of our Board of Directors was called to consider the problem. We all realized how critical the situation was. It was decided to ask the flour mills to make use of the daily papers to advertise the fact that the price of flour was $1.40 per sack in order to familiarize the general public with the fact that , that was the price and make it easy for the grocers who had charged $1.30 to change the price to $1.40. We also asked the mills to send out circulars to the grocery trade stating that the retail selling price was $1.40. Our Field Secretary was instructed to send word to every grocer in San Francisco that the selling price of flour was now $1.40 and he was also given carte blanche to secure publicity in the newspapers if the mills refused to apply to them.

New Price Made General.

The long experience as a newspaper man of Mr. Powers proved of value at this juncture and every paper in the city came out in long articles in which they announced the retail selling price of flour as $1.40. The papers, also, at the same time, called the "Flour Trust" many hard names.

This did not hurt the retail grocers, however, since they also were among the victims of the flour trust and had to do what the flour trust dictated. It did not hurt the millers, either, although it rather vexed some of them at the time. Nevertheless, it is hardly to be questioned that if this action had not been taken at this time, the retail grocery trade would have found it necessary to begin all over again its fight for protection on the price of flour with the handicap of having failed once in their efforts.

Our success in the flour card has had a double value. It not only has given a profit on flour, but it has also shown a way for securing profits on many other staples.

Among these things, the first that we have taken up is the Ghiradelli chocolates and cocoas. It required some time and the assistance of the State Grocers' Association to convince the D. Ghiradelli Co. that it would be safe and profitable to protect a retail selling price. For some months back that firm has given us their generous support and the grocers have shown their appreciation by selling more of the Ghiradelli goods than ever before.

Want a Profit on Beer.

Our association is now in the throes of an effort to induce the leading beer bottlers to protect the retail selling price of their product. Bottled beer is handled by nearly every grocer in San Francisco. It is probable that there are not more than ten exceptions to the rule. At the advanced price put on their product by the bottlers, the grocers actually make no profit in selling beer at the old price—10c. per bottle. In many communities it is impossible at present to ask more in some districts without endangering much to ask more in some districts without endangering much of the trade in staple groceries since many small places insist on selling for 10c. The question of a fair price for beer, as it should be if fixed by the beer bottlers, will make a difference of as much as $150.00 per month in the profits of some of our members.

We are securing the joint co-operation of the grocers in this matter and the writer hopes to be able to tell at the next Convention of the success secured through our efforts.

Master Bakers Gouge Grocers.

When this matter is finished, we hope to turn to the bakers and demand fairer treatment from them. The Master Bakers have a strong association. When the Labor Union advanced the cost of bread to them about 1 per cent they advanced the cost to the retail grocer about 10 per cent and refused to take back stale bread. This has left the grocers so narrow a margin that there is practically no profit in handling bread.

This condition affects the grocers in Alameda, Berkeley and Oakland as well as in San Francisco. We expect to bring about an abatement of this evil as soon as we are through with the beer problem.

There are several leading staples whose manufacturers, we feel confident can be induced to protect the retail selling price on their goods. In this work we expect the co-operation of the State Grocers Association distributed throughout California.

Plans For Closer Organization.

We expect to be able to give to the grocers in the interior the assistance of a compact body in San Francisco united as never before, to demand from the wholesale trade and from the manufacturer consideration for the retail grocer. There are trade abuses such as dishonest shortages and the improper selling to parties who would not be able to cope with, without the assistance of a strong organization in San Francisco.

We have employed as an assistant for Secretary Connolly and Field Secretary Powers, Mr. C. L. Harrison, a very clever young man whose work will be to call upon our members in San Francisco and collect their dues and carry to them the message of what our organization is doing and also bring about the active co-operation of the grocers in San Jose, Los Gatos and the cities between San Jose and San Francisco.

San Francisco has the misfortune of facing a second combination of retail grocers. We hope, however, to be able to convince these gentlemen before long that they can best advance themselves and the interests of the grocery trade by co-operation with us.

HOW FLOUR PROFITS WERE WON.

A Review of the Events That Brought Better Trade Conditions to Thousands of Merchants.

(Written for the Advocate by Aaron H. Powers, Field Secretary for the State Grocers Association and the Associated Grocers of San Francisco.)

The purpose of this article is not to open old sores or to awaken dead prejudices. Therefore we wish to state in the beginning that while the Globe Milling Co. was the first mill to protect the retail selling price of flour for the retail grocer and the movement to insure a profit could not have been a success without the support that they gave, yet the strongest and the most effective worker in the maintenance of price on flour to-day is Mr. Horace Sperry of the Sperry Flour Co. and the Port Costa Mills were among the first to see the necessity of supporting our movement.

Owing to the agitation instituted by the men who direct the Associated Retail Grocers of San Francisco the grocers in hundreds of cities throughout the State are securing a profit on flour, although in many instances they are profiting by this help without having asked for it and without realizing that it was one of the results of organized effort. It is to make them understand how much work, money, time and bitterness this triumph of associated effort cost that the writer presents the following statements of facts. In doing so he wishes to apologize if he has failed to give credit in any instance where credit is due and will be pleased in a second article to make reparation if any active worker has been neglected in this particular.

The Beginning of the Movement.

Every grocer in all the cities about San Francisco bay should be giving thanks every working day of the year to the Associated Retail Grocers for the profit he is getting on flour and special thanks on the Sabbath.

The writer has found so many ignorant of how this profit on flour was secured that he feels that, in justice to the numerous hard workers, the matter should be reviewed fully.

The writer had attended several meetings of the Grocers' Association of Alameda County in which there was bitter complaint of the inadequate margin in handling flour. The Southern California grocers had secured a margin on flour through the fact that the mills refused to supply cutters. The Sperry Milling Co. had been one of the prime movers in securing this result in Los Angeles and their activity in behalf of the grocers interests had resulted in their securing a large volume of business from the Southern dealers.

Shortly after the State Convention at San Jose, Mr. Paulding, who had been working in Southern California, was induced to come to San Francisco and, with the writer, took up the matter of having the mills refuse to supply cutters.

Globe Mills the Pioneers.

We received encouragement only from the Globe Grain & Milling Co., the other mills claiming that, while such a step might be successful in Los Angeles, it was not practical for a sea port city like San Francisco.

During his stay in San Francisco, Mr. Paulding put in a great deal of his time in interviewing the grocers of San Francisco. But it was only through the personal efforts of Mr. F. B. Connolly that the movement was brought to a focus.

The Grocers' Advocate had educated a large part of the grocery trade to believe that the protection of the flour price was possible. The writer spent much time interviewing the leading grocers of the city and their views were printed in the Advocate and unquestionably tended to help others make up their minds.

Opposition From Mr. Krueger's Friends.

Mr. Connolly found that the organization known as the San Francisco Retail Grocers was then dominated by men (most of whom have since retired from the grocery business) who had little interest in the matter since some of them sold absolutely no flour by the sack and owing to grudges and spites of long year's standing, did not seek to advance the movement and their Secretary, Fred Krueger, not only did nothing to help but was heard from in many quarters as shaking his head wisely and saying that the grocers could not get a profit on flour and that the whole thing was "just a crazy idea of that man Powers."

Mr. Connolly saw that it was necessary to have an organized movement if success was to be hoped for. He took the time to organize a "Committee of 100."

"Committee of 100" Called Together.

This Committee was made up of the leading grocers of San Francisco and was organized for the purpose of securing better profits on grocery articles and particularly on flour. After the organization of this "Committee of One Hundred," a conference was called of the mills and the grocers of Alameda, Berkeley and Oakland.

American Milling Co.

The only cereal mill operating in San Francisco where you can always get your meals fresh. Your support is respectfully solicited.

American Milling Co.

162-185 Erie St. San Francisco

At this conference, the contention made by Mr. Connolly and the other grocers of San Francisco, together with the leading merchants of the cities across the bay was that the grocery trade was practically a unit in desiring the mills to refuse to sell to dealers who sold flour at an insufficient margin of profit. All the mills were represented at this meeting and, while they expressed their willingness to do anything that would be for the interest of the entire grocery trade, they complained that the grocers were not a unit in desiring the price maintained and felt that under the circumstances it would be unwise to protect the selling price of flour.

One mill, the Globe Grain & Milling Co., stated that they would maintain a retail selling price on their flour and refuse to sell to cutters.

Grocers Work Patiently For Proof.

The preliminary work of securing signatures and trying to get the mills to protect their price without fighting had taken up over six months. The grocers did not want to act hastily. Even after the mills had turned down their proposition, the grocers tried for nearly two months more to convince them of their error and thus secure a peaceful solution of this important problem.

When it became evident that the mills would not protect their prices, the matter was advanced very strenuously.

War is Declared.

Practically all the grocers of Alameda County and about 200 of the grocers of San Francisco devoted themselves particularly to the interest of the protected flour of the Globe Grain & Milling Co. and did not sell any of the other brands when they could possibly avoid it.

There was no feeling on the part of the retail grocers. With them, it was purely a matter of business. Every sale of a protected brand gave them a profit. It saved them from the necessity of selling some other flour on which they were not assured a profit. The consequence was that they found it to their interest to keep on selling the protected flour and the sale of the products of the Globe Mills increased by leaps and bounds.

Flour Salesmen Show Bitterness.

There was considerable bitterness on the part of some of the salesman for the unprotected flour. These men sought to discourage the grocers and were unfairly abusive in their denounciation of the Advocate, Mr. Powers, Mr. Paulding, and others whose sole fault was that they were working to advance the movement to better trade conditions.

Finally the mills awoke to the fact that the grocers were in earnest in desiring a profit and that when they interfered with the movement, they not only hurt the grocers but hurt themselves.

Early in January of 1906, the American Milling Co. and the Del Monte Milling Co., realized that the grocery trade was in earnest and began protecting the selling price of their flour.

On January 25th, 1906, the Port Costa Mills, who were always in sympathy with the movement, issued a letter protecting the selling price of their flour.

J. Salomon Fights Against Profits.

At this time, J. Salomon, president of the "S. F. Retail Grocers," started a newspaper campaign against F. B. Connolly, who was a competitor of Mr. Salomon's, since his store was only a few blocks away. The "News" quoted Mr. Salomon as saying that the movement had no chance for success and that he saw "no ultimate gain in the proposition." This also was the attitude taken by Mr Fred Krueger, secretary of the S. F. Grocers, and resulted in making the mills that were not ready to protect the price feel that the movement was not worthy of support.

aster, the Sperry Milling Co. announced that they would not allow the retail selling price of its brands to be cut. Immediately the Stockton Milling Co. fell into line.

Since that time, the Sperry Milling Co. has been a tower of strength to the movement for insuring a fair price on flour. Horace Sperry has given to the matter his personal attention and is today the strongest supporter of this movement which has meant so many thousands of dollars to the grocers, not only in San Francisco, but all over the State since it was inaugurated by the State Grocers' Association.

Whenever his attention has been called to any cutting, the cutting has been stopped and both Mr. Blood and Mr. Cohn, the Sperry drummers, are unceasing in their efforts to keep probable cutters in line.

Smaller Mills Come In.

New York.—The Electrical Development Co., whose charter has been filed with the clerk of the Circuit Court for Hartford County, Md., purpose to revolutionize the Maryland milk industry by the use of electric milking devices instead of the prevailing hand processes. The incorporators are: Alexander S. Bell, F. R. Williams, J. Alexis Shriver, Bertram N. Stump, Wm. E. Robinson, Geo. C. Morrison and L. T. Appold. Directors named are: Messrs, Bell, Williams, Shriver, Stump and H. E. Karr.

The milking machine is looked upon as the most favorable of the prospects of the new company's numerous industries as the labor situation in Harford County has reached such a stage that dairymen and farmers have found it difficult to handle large herds of milk-producing cows. It is asserted that by the use of the milking machine absolutely pure milk can be sent to Baltimore consumers, the covered cans and the rubber tubes leading directly from the cow's udder to the cans, eliminating danger of contamination by dust, dirt or the odors of a stable. The new company purposes principally to develop electric power, which will be particularly applied to farm work. The first plant will be established on Winter's Run, about two miles from Belair, where a modern electric plant will be installed in the old quarters of the J. C. Hollingsworth Wheel Co.

About 200 men are engaged on the Mills building, and reconstruction is progressing at such a rapid rate that by January 1st the main building will be ready for tenants, and by the following April the annex on Bush St., will be completed and ready for occupancy.

A dispatch from Washington says the commissary department of the army has reached the conclusion that it is no longer necessary to ship canned vegetables to Alaska for the use of the troops stationed there. The reason given is that so many vegetables are raised in Alaska that it is possible for the troops at most stations to be supplied with fresh vegetables all the year.

A large shipment of Cross & Blackwells' goods now in this port and in direct shipment from London is being held up by the Federal authorities pending a decision as to whether they conform to the United States pure food law. The shipment has been held for several weeks already and the market is nearly bare of these goods. What disposition will be made of them is not known and it may be weeks before a decision is reached. The government is making careful inspections of all goods received from foreign countries and several large import shipments have been ordered deported.

Three large gangs of men are at work on the bridge doing the necessary piling and bridge work, and before the public will realize it the bridge will be an accomplished fact.

Livermore.—Mention has been made in the country papers from time to time of the possibility of the Alameda Sugar Co. laying a pipe line from its plantation in the lower end of this valley to the factory at Alvarado, but few people have been inclined to take the proposition for the company, last Saturday stated that the company is seriously considering the laying of a pipe line before next season's campaign.

NECESSITY OF ORGANIZATION.

Some Reasons Why Dealers Should Get Together for Results.

(Written by J. A. Green of Cleveland, Ohio, Secretary of the National Retail Grocers' Association.)

During my recent visit to the Canadian convention, held at Hamilton, Ont., several points of interest were brought forth and many arguments advanced as to why retail merchants should organize.

The National Association of Retail Grocers takes in all kinds of merchants.

Many of the States have recently changed the name of their State associations from "Grocers" to "Merchants," and many of them were organized as such, but while the name of the national association is that of retail grocers, it has wisely provided in its constitution that all merchants may become members.

Some of the reasons advanced at the convention of the Canadian merchants might well be placed before the members and readers of the trade papers.

Reasons for Joining.

The retail grocers' association is formed to look after all retail interests through one association.

The manufacturers are all united in one association. The farmers are all united in one association. Labor is organized in one association. The retail merchant is indispensable in every community, he is the medium or guardsman who stands between the manufacturer and the consumer, and our interests must be protected through our own association. No one will look after our interests unless we do it ourselves. In the past we have not been class conscious. We have allowed those who know nothing of our circumstances to make our laws.

Get Legislative Recognition.

All this is now changed, and we can place our views intelligently before our legislators, as every legislative measure that is introduced into Congress comes before the watchful eye of our active officers. They oppose injurious legislation and promote measures that will benefit the retail trade.

As retail merchants, we occupy more business premises, carry more stock on our shelves, are more largely assessed, pay the largest share of taxation, pay more insurance, more wages, contribute more largely toward the government revenue, employ more clerks, contribute more to charities, and have a larger voting power than all the other commercial bodies combined.

A Central Organization Necessary.

If the retail merchants are destroyed, the cities and towns will be destroyed. Then why should we not stand shoulder to shoulder in guarding and protecting our commercial welfare?

No great or far reaching work can be carried on without a strong and vigorous center. We must have a pivot from which to work, and these centers are our State and National officers, who are elected at the annual conventions by all the members. The majority of retail merchants are too busy to know what is transpiring around them, and even if they did, without an organization they would be helpless.

Each Dealer Should Help.

Individual merchants by themeslves are mere units, but united they command respect. It would cost one member a very large amount to do what now can be done by many at a very small cost for each. Therefore, to carry on our work, and give the smallest merchant an opportunity of becoming a member, so that we can count on his influence, the membership fee is placed at 25 cents per annum, anticipating that every retail merchant would pay the small amount when requested to do so. (Note.—Membership in State Associations carry a membership in the National.)

If every retail merchant would contribute this small amount, our work could be carried on without letting the expense rest on the active workers, who now bear it. If you are, therefore, not a member, some one else is bearing your burden, and as we all benefit we should in all fairness cheerfully contribute toward the expense.

The Educational Campaign.

This year we have entered upon a vigorous educational campaign, which will take considerable money to carry out. Will you, therefore, as a retail merchant, help us in our work?

If you are a member of any other trade or business association, that should not prevent you from uniting with us. We must all work and act together and present the same views to our legislators after they have been wisely considered, and this can only be done by consultation and united action through one association.

We want you to know what we are doing, we want your experience and your influence, and we must have your financial support to carry this work on.

If you are not a member we want you to become one now. We want every retail merchant to be in our ranks, not one outside. We believe in fair trade, clean competition, honest merchandising, and proper legislation. Are you willing to help us? If so, send in your per capita.

ARE BOOSTING RICE AS BEST FOODSTUF.

Louisiana Concern Says It Will Spend Thousands to Prove That White Cereal is Best Product to Eat.

An advertising campaign will soon be floated which will make rice the most popular foodstuff known, if the plans of the American Rice Packing company do not miscarry.

The value of rice as a foodstuff has been known for some hundreds of years, but a systematic campaign to place it on the United States market has resulted in spasmodic advertising schemes which did not get at the real value of the cereal as a food product.

A recent statement by Dr. H. W. Wiley to the effect that a given amount of rice will provide more units of energy than any other product is the cause of the renewed interest in exploiting this cereal.

Outside of Louisiana the consumption of rice by the masses of the United States is comparatively limited, for the reason that they are ignorant of its merit. To remedy this defect Chas E. Cormier of New Orleans, an enthusiast on the subject of the use of rice, has originated a publicity campaign effective will be known as the American Rice Packing Co.

The company is capitalized at $500,000, and Mr. Cormier is its president. W. C. Gilmore of New York, eastern representative of Louisiana and Texas rice mills, is vice-president, and Mortimer S. Bate, of New York, is secretary and treasurer. Its purpose will be a double one, to advertise rice and to sell it. An experienced advertising firm has been engaged to do the advertising, and a new system of handling rice has been devised to make is popular.

As is well known, rice is now handled in burlap bags, involving leakage and short weight and the risk of spoilage by frequent reshipments and exposure to long delays on filthy wharves. After the retailer receives it it is dumped into a barrel and scooped out as occasion requires. No attempt has ever been made to inclose it in a neat package of small dimensions, ready for delivery to consumers, like canned goods for instance. To obviate this difficulty the new company will put in two sizes—one at 10 cents and another at 25 cents. These packages will be thoroughly sealed, dustproof and secure from contamination in transit.

Tact is ability to appreciate the other fellow's position and reasons; to accommodate them and sway them to mutual advantage.

A WISE SAFEGUARD.

The Indiana Food and Drug Commission has pointed the way for other food commission and health authorities in one great point, which it would be worth while emulating. Commissioner Barnard, of that board has just issued a notice to canners of that State informing them that, as a rule of the board, it will hereafter be unlawful for proprietors of canning plants to employ persons suffering fro mcancer, tuberculosis or similar diseases, or people with sore hands, within the State of Indiana. Employes will also be required to wash their hands before and after working. A regulation of this sort might once have been regarded as "fussy" but with the dangers of infection so clearly understood as they are to-day that stage has passed. By all means guard the public from infection by the foods we eat.

Mountain View.—The Sanguinetti cannery, of Mountain View, opened last week for the season. The proprietors did not intend to open until next year, but an order for fruit caused them to change their plans. A pack of peaches and tomatoes will be put up.

A MAGNIFICENT MANUFACTURING PLANT

Six Acres of Floor Space For the Production of Crackers and Candies.

Five Story Building of the Most Modern Type of Fire Proof Architecture.

New Home of American Biscuit Co. and Pacific Coast Biscuit Co. Now Nearing Completion.

One of the most interesting topics of the day, and one which is attracting the attention of the entire country, is the rapidity with which the City of San Francsco is being rebuilt. Out of the ruins caused by the recent disaster there are going up hundreds of magnificent structures of brick, stone, steel and reinforced concrete, elegant in architecture. When completed, they will make the City of San Francisco one of the most beautiful in the world.

As every one knows the old San Francisco was noted for its handsome buildings. The new San Francisco, with its immense and elaborate structures, which are most modern in every way, will be far grander and more spectacular.

While public attention has been centered on the newly erected and partially completed buildings located on the principal streets of the business section, there is one building which so far has escaped notice.

Six Acres of Floor Space.

It is a magnificent, as well as immense structure, occuping half a block. It is situated on Battery and Vallejo Streets and Broadway. It is five stories in height, of reinforced concrete, with galvanized iron window frames and doors, and fire proof glass. The building has a floor space of nearly six acres. It is of the most recent architecture, modern in every way, and represents the highest type of fire proof structure.

It is practically divided into two buildings by a fire wall of reinforced concrete, and will be occupied by two of the California's largest corporations. THE AMERICAN BISCUIT COMPANY and THE PACIFC COAST BISCUIT COMPANY.

Most Up-To-Date In the United States.

In that part of the building which will be occupied by the AMERICAN BISCUIT COMPANY, there will be seven ovens, and the entire plant will be fitted and equipped with the most up-to-date and modern machinery used in the manufacturing of biscuit.

There will be a complete equipment for the manufacturing of Sugar Wafers. In fact, when this building is ready for occupancy, it will be the most up-to-date and thoroughly equipped biscuit factory in the United States.

At present the rapidly increasing demand for the products of the AMERICAN BISCUIT COMPANY is severely taxing the plant at 311 Bay Street, and they are forced to operate night and day in order to supply the demand.

A Trade Mark That Stands For Purity.

As soon as the AMERICAN BISCUIT COMPANY begin operations in their new building, they will then be in position, not only to fill all orders promptly, but to place upon the market from time to time, new goods, which will be original in texture as well as name. Within a short time, the AMERICAN BISCUIT COMPANY will place upon the market a complete line of Package Biscuit, which will be sold under their own Trade Mark. This Trade Mark will represent purity and quality, and will bear the guaranty of AMERICAN BISCUIT COMPANY.

An Enormous Candy Factory.

The Northern section of this immense building will be occupied by the PACIFIC COAST BISCUIT COMPANY, and will also be equipped with the most modern and up-to-date machinery for the manufacture of candies. It is the intention of the PACIFIC COAST BISCUIT COMPANY to place upon the market a complete line of candies, which will include a high grade line of package candies, and which will be second to none in the country in quanlity and workmanship.

The PACIFIC COAST BISCUIT COMPANY is at present operating a small plant at Oakland, which, however, is unable to supply their present demand. When they begin operations in their new building, they will be in position to fill all orders promptly.

Will Employ Many People.

This new factory will furnish employment for about 500 persons. Every necessity, as well as many comforts will be provided for their convenience.

In reputation, the AMERICAN BICSUIT COMPANY and PACIFIC COAST BISCUIT COMPANY stand among the first of all the manufacturing concerns in the Pacific Coast States., and this building when completed and occupied by these corporations, will be a credit not only to the City of San Francisco, but to all the Pacific Coast States.

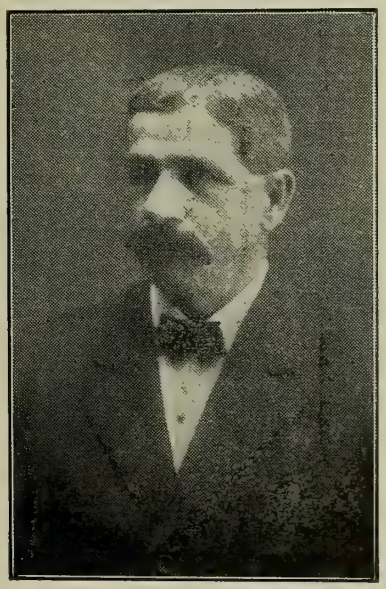
Review of How Grocers Can Get the Best Out of Their Association.

[Written Expressly for the Advocate by State Vice-President C. A. Mottaz of Los ngeles.]



Los Angeles, Aug., 1907.

One year has again elapsed since our last State Convention, which was held in Oakland, Cal., and was the banner of all the convention of the retail grocers of California.

We must ask ourselves two questions:

Have we, as members, accomplished our aims? Have we realized our purpose?

I will say: "If our wishes and aims have not been reached, who have we to blame but ourselves?"

C. A. MOTTAZ, Los Angeles.
Vice-President of the State Grocers' Ass'n. and Past President of the Grocers' Ass'n. of Southern California.

"In my estimation, we have accomplished our purposes and set an example of what can be accomplished by having a strong organization.

"We have been the direct means of having laws put on the statute books of California by the State Legislature, which are worth more to the retail dealers than all the costs of the State Association since its existence.

This is only the forerunner or the beginning of the benefit of our State Association if the individual member will do his duty.

I surely see a great future for our State and National Association. But there is much education and strenuous labor to be done before we can expect the complete results.

We have set an example.

We have the machinery started.

But we must keep on and furnish the materials to keep the machine a-going. The wheels need oil constantly and we, as members, have to furnish this material, and the more of this material we supply, the stronger and firmer will our State Association grow.

The Might of the Grocer.

Where is there a council, a legislature or even a governor who would ignore and oppose a strong State Association?

Gentlemen, it is high time for the retail grocer to know his strength.

The abuses are many that need to be corrected. From the jobbers and from the manufacturers, there are abuses where the State and even the National Associations are needed.

For instance, if a jobber or manufacturer wishes to sell to a department store, they will tell the trade it is to "their best interests."

Without a strong association, what recourse has the small grocer.

None, whatever. He has to submit to Mr. Jobber even if he knows that by encouraging the jobber and the department store, the small dealer is surely growing the hemp to manufacture the rope that will hang him a little later as catalogue houses and department stores are surely the most bitter enemy of the corner grocer.

This is only one abuse.

There are many others that can be corrected only by a strong association.

Los Angeles Profits Greatly.

The local association here in Los Angeles is doing an immense amount of work. It is of great benefit to every member who will take interest in it.

If, for some unforeseen cause, it should cease to exist, it would be the greatest calamity that ever visited grocerydom in Los Angeles.

I have pointed out briefly the necessity of a strong association.

How to make the association more effective and most valuable is an important study.

It is only necessary for each individual member to help and furnish his share of labor and funds.

What good would a big church be in a community if all the members would stay away from it and say: "The Board of Directors and the preacher will take care of it!"

The very same will apply to our association.

The officers cannot make the association of any value whatever unless each member does his share and assists the officers. By so doing, they reap the benefit which, by right, belongs to them. In time, the grocery business will reach the standard where it belongs.

As I said before, the grocers need education.

Advocate an Educator.

One of the best educators now is the Advocate.

Our paper has done work of immeasurable value this past year. It has pointed out the path for us. It has smoothed the way. It has fought our battle where we could not have fought ourselves.

It has given the grocers valuable information. The battle on short weight and measures has done much to show some their careless way of doing business. I have seen cases where a grocer would order beans and receive potatoes; cheeses that were never weighed when received, etc. I hope the Advocate will proceed and keep up the good work with even greater success.

In conclusion, will every member of the association support and encourage the officers, furnish the funds freely to keep the good work on the move?

I hope these few lines will remind every one of the need of a very strong association—State and National.

FRIENDSHIP DISPLACES ENMITY.

Business Men of Sacramento Operate with Kindly Rivalry Instead of Bitterness.

[Written for the Advocate, by F. B. Fancher of Sacramento, President of the Pacific Coast Grocers' Association.]

There are some things the benefit of which are self-evident. Among them, the pursuit of happiness and membership in the State Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association.

The benefits derived by THIS AMERICAN CASH STORE from membership in this association are of the most substantial character.

We have increased the volume of our business.

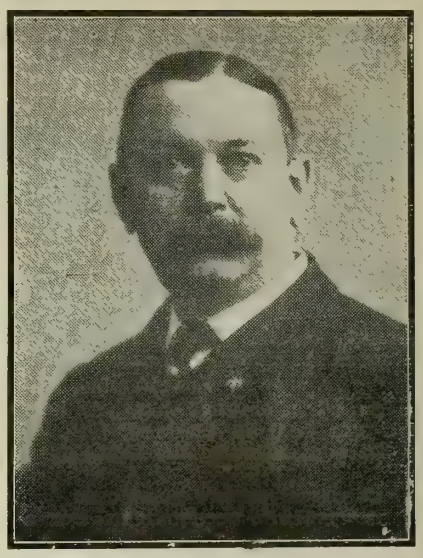
We have increased the net profits arising therefrom. We have been taught better and more economical methods of transacting our business.

We have been benefited immeasurably by the legislation secured wholly through the efforts of the State Association.

In view of these facts, it is incomprehensible to the writer how any grocer in the state who uses a mental process in the conduct of his business can afford NOT to be a member of the State Association.

Big Benefits in Sacramento.

Since we organized, Sacramento has had one of the best associations in the state.



Before we had an association, we were, speaking in a general sense, bitter and deadly enemies of each other.

The smaller dealers believed, and freely expressed the belief, that the larger stores, the big fellows, were swine and wanted to get all the grocery business, as well as the balance of the earth.

The larger stores acted as though they believed the community would be greatly benefited if the smaller stores were wiped off the map.

sion, there immediately ensued a frost that was dangerous

F. B. FANCHER,
A Prominent Association Worker of Sacramento.

Grocery staples were sold at cost. Prices were cut on everything. A practical condition of civil war existed that rendered it impossible for anybody in the grocery business to make any money, and exceedingly difficult for most of us to make a bare living.

Hold a Monthly Banquet.

Now all this is changed.

The grocery business in Sacramento is in a highly prosperous condition. Over 90 per cent of the grocers are members of the association, and good members, too.

We all work in harmony.

Advocate Helps Produce Hustle.

"The Advocate" at all times, in season, and out of season, has been insistent, and persistent in pushing association work. It has done more than any individual or association to make out work successful. It keeps everlastingly successful. It keeps everlastingly "at it" and it shows how to make the rest of us uncomfortable if we don't "hustle" a little ourselves.

Every grocer should take the Advocate and join the State Association.

If there are any skeptics in the grocery business in California, who question the benefit derived from membership in the State Association, and they will attend the State Convention in Sacramento, September 10th, 11th and 12th, we will guarantee to convert them from the error of their ways, and show them the folly of trying to do a successful grocery business in California without joining and supporting the State Asociation vigorously in its splendid work.

OPTIMISM FROM SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

Operations That Have Helped Grocers to Better Success South of Tehachipi Pass.

(Written for the Advocate by J. F. Paulding, of Los Angeles, Sec'ty. of the Southern California Grocers' Ass'n.)

The chief value of the State Association, in my mind, is to get better laws, which could not be accomplished by any individuals or any individual organization.

To handle the matter rightly it takes a central point to work from with a central board to direct the work.

The State conventions are advantageous to decide what we want to work for.

The value that the State Association is to the grocers and merchants of this State cannot be computed, nor is it appreciated.

There is not a favorable law on our statute books today that was not placed there by association effort.

There have been attempts to repeal the laws we now have, which were prevented by the State Association and its influence.

The State Association has done a great deal to point out the good to be accomplished by organization, and much good has been done to the grocers of many communities from the fact that they were shown the way by a representative of the State Association.

The credits, laws and profits are much better than they would be if it were not for the State Association.

Future Full of Promise.

What we can and should do in the future should be judged by the past.

We have done much and we can do a great deal more if we try.

We can convince manufacturers that they should protect their trade in a legitimate profit.

We can convince the retailers and wholesalers that it is to their interests to work against the Parcels Post bill.

We can convince the dealers that they are not using proper judgment in extending credit.

We can convince dealers that they are not properly supporting those manufacturers who are giving them a profit.

We can convince the dealers that we need more good laws.

These and many other things can and should be taken up more strongly in the future by the State Association.

In this vicinity, we have supported the State Association in securing laws; have secured better profits for our dealers; have prevented discrimination by the wholesalers and manufacturers; have helped fight the Parcels Post bill; have prevented several different times the passage of obnoxious city measures that would be expensive to the dealers; and have decreased the losses in bad bills at least 25 per cent. We have also many grocers who are friendly that would never have known each other had it not been for our organization. These and many other matters have had our attention, all of which have been handled to much better advantage by the organization than they would have been individually.

I do not believe we would have had a State Association today if it had not been for the "Advocate," and practically all that has been accomplished has been either directly or indirectly through the influence of that paper.

STOCKTON STILL SMILING.

Strong Cohesion Among Dealers Through. Associated Effort Makes Business Pleasant and Profitable.

[Written for the Advocate by State Treasurer C. B. Pearson of Stockton.]

This question is often heard: "Of what value is the State Association?"

In reply to this, let me say, that if any grocer who is posted will stop and consider, he will find that there are many advantages to be derived by membership in our Association that do not appear at first thought.

From a monetary standpoint, the chief advantage to me personally is the recent collection of a $99 bill from one of our policemen, which was made possible by the law, allowing the attachment of wages of city and county officials, secured by the State Association.

The better feeling existing between competitors has also been a distinct advantage. The better prices resulting from our Association has made the organization a very essential part of our business.

I know that every grocer in Stockton has profited similarly to our firm. They have benefited in the collection of bad accounts and in the correcting and abatement of numerous trade abuses.

In my opinion, the most important matter to be taken up at the coming convention, is completing a plan of action so as to encourage and assist manufacturers to establish fair retail prices on their goods and refuse to supply firms that cut those prices.

Our local association is in good shape. The members are all working together and there is a splendid era of good feeling.

I have studied the Grocers' Advocate with much interest. I read the "Points to Watch" first and consider that department of the greatest value from a business point of view. It posts the dealer on conditions in advance of the arrival of Mr. Travelingman. When the drummer hands you a lemon, you know whether to take it or not. We have made good money out of this department again and again. We hope the editor of the Advocate will keep on improving and enlarging his price list and keep up his careful study for "Points to Watch," and we feel sure that it will make the paper of constantly increasing importance and value.

These features insure that the grocers will read the paper for the money value of its contents. This fact has enabled the Advocate to enroll them in the various movements instituted by our State Association.

With this mouthpiece, making known our plans and showing in many different ways their value and the need and possibility of the help of the individual grocers, we have secured concerted action among merchants in many widely separated cities so that we have been able to accomplish results that would have been impossible without the Advocate's assistance.

Our success before the legislature is one of the best examples of this. The paper gave publicity to the laws we wanted. It has made it possible, too, for us to correct, easily, trade abuses that otherwise we would have had to endure.

Up to the present writing we expect that our representation will include the writer (C. B. Pearson), J. D. Campbell, T. F. Knutzen, F. W. Aubry, W. E. O'Connor, G. E. Bartholomew, W. R. Smees and perhaps others. Three or four of the gentlemen will be accompanied by their wives.

ALAMEDA—L. Warnke:—I will certainly attend the convention of the State Grocers' Association at Sacramento. The first and most important subject to be considered should be how to get better profits. This, in a nutshell, is the great and only problem of the grocery business. Everything else is merely incidental. We should also plan as to how we can prevent trade abuses, such as wholesalers selling to consumers, dishonest shortages, etc. Our organization must also exercise eternal vigilance lest we lose some of the advantages we have already gained. A very important matter will be how to make the various associations of the State more effective for their members.

I think one of the most important things made possible by our organization is that it enables a large number of grocers to say at the same time to the manufacturer that if he does not require a fair price to be maintained for his goods, that these grocers will not handle them. I, for one, will be very glad to help exert this influence.

The association has helped me personally in many ways. I have profited by the better laws. I have been able to collect money I would ont have received had it not been for the association. I have received a better margin on my goods. Not the least of my advantages, I consider the friendly feeling that now exists between myself and my immediate competitors.

I think that the greatest factor in bringing about these better conditions has been the Grocers' Advocate. The "Points to Watch" department I have always found of great value while the general grocery topics are not only of much special interest, but also a great help through their wise and timely suggestions.

REDDING—F. F. Dustin:—"There will possibly be two or three merchants attend the State Convention from this community. The convention should, in my judgment, devote the greatest amount of time to planning how to get better profits. The problems of preventing trade abuses, such as unfair treatment by wholesalers, dishonest shortages, etc., and the work of making affiliating associations stronger, should be given careful thought. Personally, I have profited directly through the laws secured by the State Asociation and also by the better profits resulting from its efforts. I will refuse to handle goods that can be cut, and will, within reason, handle instead similar goods when the manufacturere of those goods refuses to supply cutters."

CROCKETT—W. F. Booth: "There will probably be two (2) representatives at Sacramento from our city. The writer and Mr. C. Dodge, manager of Davis Bros., inc., will try to be present. We think the State Association can do no more important work than plan to make associations in the various cities more effective. We have profited directly by the better margins resulting from the efforts of the State Association and in other ways. This firm will be glad to do all in its power towards inducing manufacturers to refuse to supply cutters, to the extent of refusing to handle the goods that can be cut. We like every department of the Advocate and it would be hard to say which we like best."

IRVINGTON—E. N. Babb & Co.:—I hope to be able to attend the Convention at Sacramento and will, probably, be accompanied by Mrs. Babb. While I may not have profited directly by the laws secured by the State Grocers' Association and its collection letters, etc., I consider that the organization has done a great deal to better the condition of all grocers. I want to congratulate the Association on the splendid value represented in the Advocate. The paper's market reports and its crusade against the short weight and measure evil have been of enormous value. I find that shortages are the greatest leak in my business and the hardest to guard against."

TRACY—Fabian-Grunauer Co.:—"There will probably be one representative from our town and he will most likely be accompanied by his wife. Through the influence of the State Asscciation, we now get a fair profit on flour and several other articles, and there is much greater friendliness among the business men of similar interests. We will gladly lend our influence to build up trade on articles that cannot be cut in preference to those that can. We like every part of the Advocate.

BIRD'S LANDING—Bird & Smith:—"We enclose $3 for our year's dues to the California Retail Grocers' and Merchant's Association. We have been weighing and counting some since the Advocate stirred us up, but have found very few shortages. We consider the Advocate a good paper, published wholly in the interest of a well-deserving and good cause. Many a single copy is worth more than what a year's subscription costs."

SANTA ANA—Parsons & McNaught: We fear that the distance to Sacramento precludes the possibility of our having a representative at the State Convention. The matter of better profits is the question of first importance. We think that the legislature should be asked to make it easier to form mutual fire insurance companies. We have suffered very little from unfair interference by wholesalers. The better laws have benefited us materially. We have also been advantaged by the better profits and the friendlier feeling among the men in the grocery business and the broader views that have resulted from conferences with fellow grocers. The Advocate suits us all O. K. as it is. We can think of no change that would add to its value to us."

Hay Fork—C. D. Morton:—"We would surely be at the State Convention if it were not for the fact that we celebrate here Sept. 9, 10 and 11. The subject of "Better Profits" should be given the most attention at the State Convention. I have already profited by the better profits resulting from associated effort and also from the State Collection letters. I will be glad to help induce manufacturers to protect the selling price of of their goods. I hope that the Association will send out men to form county associations in districts not large enough to warrant local organizations."

VALLEJO—Wm. English:—"It gives me great pleasure to send a check for $3.00 for membership in the State Grocers Association and thus help the good work your are doing. I hope you will be able to let Mr. Powers come up here and give us a boost towards forming an Association in Vallejo. I think that we would not have any trouble in starting a branch of the State Grocers Association here with a little help, as the element that interfered before is now out of business and I think all the grocers here are anxious for an association."

BOLINAS—Bonaiti & Petar:—"Our community will not be represented at the State Convention. We are sorry as we feel that special attention should be given to the subject of protecting retailers from unfair treatment by wholesalers and manufacturers and similar trade abuse We have profited through the better margins made possible by the State Association. We think all the article. in the Advocate are good. We think the association is doing very good work. The writer is sorry that he cannot get in personal touch with more of the members."

PETALUMA—W. R. Veale:—"I would be more than pleased to go to Sacramento and take my wife, were it not that my partner has made arrangements to be away on the same dates. Under the circumstances, I cannot go I am very sorry, since I feel that I will miss a very interesting and valuable experience."

Guitard's Pure

means satisfaction to the consumer and a fair profit to the grocer.

Pure Coffee, Tea, Chocolate, Spices, Extracts and Baking Powder of Guittard quality cannot be sold for less.

To pay more means no better quality—simply less profit for the grocer.

WHITTIER—A. Jacobs:—"None of the merchants of our city have as yet signified their intention of attending the State Convention. There is much work to be done there. They should plan to back up the manufacturer, who is our only hope for protected prices. They should plan to act together in refusing to buy from wholesale firms who do not treat the retail trade fairly. They must plan to keep on trying for better laws. They must see what they can do to induce regular meetings among the associations and more faithfulness in listing "slow pay" and "never pay" debtors. Our experience is that grocers can save more by giving an hour or two monthly to posting each other as to deadbeats than they can in two or three days' hard work without such protection. But to get men to do this is another matter. Our firm has profited directly in many ways by the work of the State Grocers' Association. The better collection laws have mads us money. The collection system has helped us. We get better prices than we did formerly and our competitors are now our friends. We are glad to note that the Advocate is improving on the matter of printing."

Bethany.—C. Schlichtmann: "The writer will probably attend the State Grocers Convention at Sacramento on Sept. 10th, 11th and 12th. The most important subject, in my judgment, to be considered is the preventing of trade abuses such as wholesalers selling to consumers, dishonest shortages, etc. I have profited directly through the better prices resulting from the efforts of the State Association and I will gladly help to make it unprofitable for any manufacturer to allow the profits to be cut out of his goods. The department devoted to "Market Reports" is the part of the Advocate I like best."

MARTINEZ—L. M. Lassell Co.:—"We regret we can not be with you at the convention in Sacramento, but will look with interest for the "doings" you are to have and will be pleased to read in the Advocate the benefits and results derived from your convention. All parts of the Advocate are GOOD. We are unable to select any one part as better than the others. We wish you a success at the convention."

VACAVILLE—Gray Bros. & Co.:—"R. C. Gray and wife will be in Sacramento during the convention of the State Association and will attend its sessions. Enclosed you will find $3 to pay for our dues during the ensuing year. You have our best wishes for the success of the Association and the Retail Grocers' Advocate."

SEBASTOPOL—Geo. McFarlane:—"As I cannot go myself to the annual convention, I have concluded to send my son, Fred McFarlane, and one of my clerks, Arthur Fitzsimmons, in my place. I am very sorry I cannot be with you myself as I heartily endorse your work as an association."

PLEASANTON—J. E. Bairos:—I enclose $5. Please use $3 of this to pay my dues to the State Grocers' Association and let the remainder be employed to help my chance of securing the Hobart Coffee Mill. I will not be able to attend the State Convention, but I wish you luck.

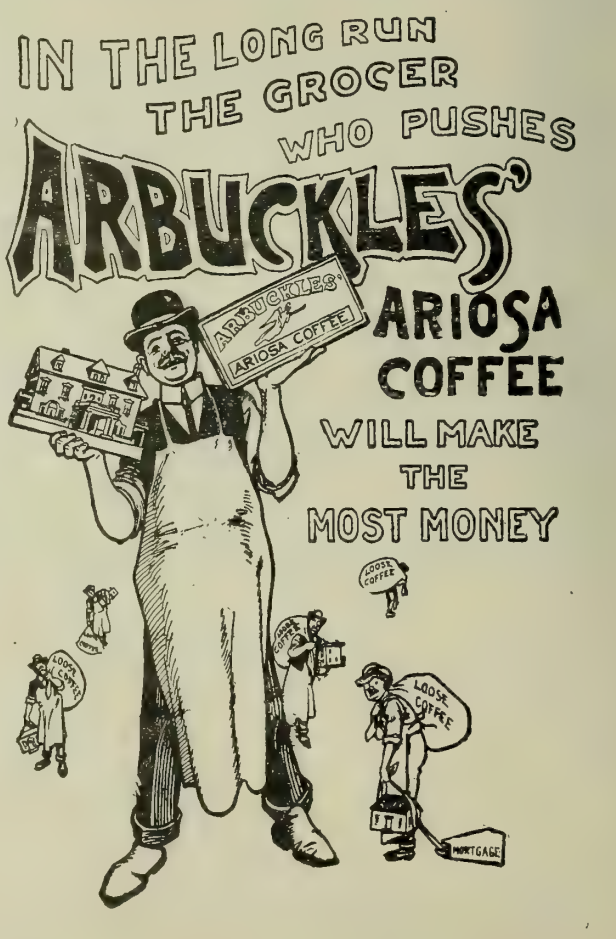
MORGAN HILL—Votaw, Taylor & Co:—"We are glad if in any way we have or can help the Association, for we believe that if its power is used in the past, it can be the means of doing great good. Our Mr. Votaw will try and go to the State Convention at Sacramento."

SANTA CRUZ—C. D. Hinkle:—"I would like to attend the Annual Convention of the California Retail Grocers at Sacramento, but just now is our busy season and we are crowded to the limit, so that I do not think it will be possible."

PASO ROBLES—S. Seideman & Co.:—"As I have just returned from a long journey abroad, it will be impossible for me to attend the convention of the State Grocers' Association. You have our best wishes for continued success in your good work."

HOPLAND—W. W. Thatcher:—"I will be impossible for me to attend the State Convention as I am very busy. Hop-picking has begun and this means that I cannot get away for some time. I hope you will have success in your meeting."

Rockin.—J. C. Ford:—"I will try to get to Sacramento one day at least of the State Convention. I attended a meeting of the Association in San Francisco once and it was certainly all right. I wish you all success."



LOS ANGELES—J. F. Paulding:—"Our organization will send four delegates: C. A. Mottaz, W. C. Longstreth, L O. Powers and J. F. Paulding. The writer will be accompanied by his wife."

Weaverville.—D. Hansen:—Mr. Bremer of the Weaverville Supply Co. may attend the State Convention. The writer thinks he cannot attend himself. We have no wives to send."

WHITE RIVER—Mitchell Bros.:—"We do not know as yet whether we can come to Sacramento for the State Convention. We would like very much to do so."

SANTA MARIA—J. H. Fisher & Co:—"Stress of business will prevent our attending the convention of the State Grocers Association at Sacramento.

INGOT—McKendrick & Silver:—"It is doubtful if we will be able to attend the State Convention."

ASSOCIATIONS BENEFIT WHOLESALERS.

Brief Review of the Possibilities of Good, Resulting From Closer Co-operation.

(Written for the Advocate by C. M. Carr, secretary of the California Wholesale Grocers Association.)

This office recognizes fully the necessity as well as desiribility of the closest kind of co-operation between the Wholesaler and Retailer.

Our work is always along these lines.

It is to be regretted that at times there has appeared a spirit of antagonism to this idea, the fostering of which by either side of the question is sure to result, to say the least, in impairing the cordial relations which are so necessary to obtain the best results.

The Wholesale Grocer is no less dependent upon the Retailer than the Retailer upon the Wholesaler. The important quality necessary in their relations is confidence in each other.

Honesty and Fairness Bring Peace.

In communities where the highest standard of business integrity prevails, the relations are least disturbed and the best results obtained. Therefore, to promote the desired friendly relations between the two factors, it would seem that if all made it a point to elevate the standard of business integrity and work on these lines, that there is business enough for all, conditions could be greatly improved.

The spirit of willingness to correct an evil when found to exist, is the desired condition and the only one that is sure to bring relief.

Retail Associations Deserve Encouragement.

Wholesale Grocers as a body stick too closely to their work and do not mingle freely enough with Competitors or their Customers, the Retailers. This comes of necessity because the life of the Wholesale Grocer is so much of a grind. He is always ready to respond with his contribution of money but does not always lend his presence which often times would be more acceptable.

Organization in all branches of business is absolutely necessary to success in these days.

One cannot obtain the greatest measure of success with out it. Hence every encouragement should be given to organization of retailers everywhere.

Where Co-operation Counts.

My connection with, the Wholesale Grocers of California assures me that, as a body, they are fully alive to and appreciative of the benefits which result from friendly co-operation with the retailers, their customers, and are always ready to lend their influence to legitimate efforts to improve conditions.

Retailers have it in their power to lighten the work of the Wholesaler by cheerfully accepting and endorsing up to date methods and policies adopted by that branch of the trade.

The Grocery business in the past seems to have been unnecessarily subject to greater imposition in its conduct than some other lines. Latterly it is assuming more of the share of dignity to which it is entitled.

Co-operation has been a strong factor in bringing about the change. Honest effort for the good of all is the spirit to be encouraged, holding in firm check any evidence of the efforts of individuals for personal gain or advantage.

Along these broad lines, co-operation of the two factions is sure to produce good results for all.

I thank you for the opportunity to present the above and remain yours truly.

Secretary, California Wholesale Grocers Association.

Wine and the Pure Food Law,

We are pleased to see that California's able wine men are making their influence felt abroad. Such men as Sbarboro, Rossi, Morgan, and their associates are always doing something to spread the gospel of California and her grapes. The good of such preaching in the East is marked, and we need some of it at home, where there is not sufficient loyalty to our great home product. Our public dinners are examples of the scarcity of our wines where they should be in evidence.

At the State and national food convention recently held at Jamestwon, Va., Percy T. Morgan, president of the California Wine Association, spoke on American wine and its relations to the Pure Food Law. The following is taken from Mr. Morgan's speech upon the subject:

"What is wine? This question appears to be agitating grape growers throughout the civilized world. In France its manifestation is in a refusal to pay taxes and in riotous demonstrations which threaten the very stability of the government. In nearly all important wine producing countries the authorities attempt to answer the question by legislative enactment. The American wine-grower is still wondering whether it means the product of fermentation of cane or glucose sugar, apple cider, colored and flavored, or the fermented product of grape juice.

Many Imitations Being Marketed.

"Authoritative answer to this question is fraught with great consequences to the vineyardist who, after immense struggles with known and unknown diseases; with climatic and soil conditions, has finally arrived at the point where, after five or seven years of unproductive toil, he can grow grapes.

"The pure food laws are ostensibly made for the protection of the consumer. Should they not also react for the benefit of the producer?

"Growers of grapes cannot successfully compete with other products which, if the more alcoholic producing qualities alone are considered, can yield by fermentation, from twice to three times as much as the same weight of grapes. When, therefore, they see a product sold under the generic designation of 'wine,' labeled under the pure food laws in the most bewildering manner, they ask themselves, what is sweetened sherry grape pomace; claret grape pomace; claret wine modified; sweetened Catawba modified; corrected claret; claret wine, guaranteed under the pure food and drug act, containing one-tenth of one per cent benzoate of soda and harmless coloring; port wine, guaranteed under national pure food and drugs act, containing harmless coloring and one-tenth of one per cent benzoate of soda sweetened with cane sugar and pure saccharine; and such other designations too numerous to mention as are found connected with wine, since the national pure food law went into effect?

Cider Is Defined.

"Cider, the alcoholic product of the juice of apples, whether or not assisted with added sugar, is not subject to the revenue laws, and can, therefore, be sold without license, so we find wine and the fermented product of other materials than apples sold in prohibition states as 'cider,' and, in other states, we find the fermented product of apples, sweetened and colored, masquerading under the guise of 'wine.'

"If the fermented product of other fruits is privileged to be dealt in without federal or local license, it seems unjust to the producer of fermented grape juice to be placed under such restrictions unless he is, in compensation, afforded protection from the competition of other like beverages containing alcohol derived by fermentation.

"So far the pure food law has not operated to the benefit of the maker of wine exclusively from grapes. This product, in order to comply with the regulations in relation to preservatives or anti-ferments, must be racked and handled until it will stand clear and remain sound on its own merits, and he meets, in the markets, at prices with which he cannot successfully compete, wines into which (by merely so marking them on the original package) other constituents and preservatives are permitted to enter.

Weakness of Pure Food Law.

"Then, by the operation of the pure food law in states where uniform legislation has not been enacted, the inhibition of the national pure food law covers only goods in the original packages.

"The pure food law will cause uniform enactment in the states which will automatically give effect to local laws where the authority of the national government over interstate commerce ceases.

"In a recent article in the Chicago Record-Herald, Otto Ericson, president of a large retail grocery house, summed up this question very succintly as follows:

" 'The federal law represents the deepest wisdom of the present day on this subject. It is a sane, carefully considered, common sense piece of legislation. If the manufacturing and jobbing interests of the country are to be properly perfected and the best possible results are to be secured by the people, future legislation in all the states should consists only of re-enactment by the state legislatures of the federal law. To be sure, some minor defects have been found and others probably will be developed, but this would be true of any piece of legislation.

Similar State Laws Necessary.

" 'An advantage of national and state legislation would be that the construction of the law and court decisions bearing thereon, secured by the federal government, would be available by, and probably would be taken as the final authority in the different states. The new national law is a great thing for the American people; let us have the full benefits under it by shaping all state legislation on the same line.'

"The making of pure wines is one of the simplest processes known; there are no secrets or dark chamber mysteries about it and those who try to throw such around it are generally 'fakers.' In dry wine-making, that is to say, red and white wines of the French, Italian and German types, the only requisites are cleanliness and watchfulness. The grapes are crushed and stemmed and conveyed to the fermenting tanks and, in the case of red wines, allowed to ferment on the skins to draw the color, while white wines are drawn off as soon as the fermentation has proceeded sufficiently to allow a separation of the juice from the pulp.

"Temperatures must be carefully watched to guard against either running up to a point where healthy ferments suffer and unhealthy ones develop; or going below a point where healthy activity ceases. Such contingencies are met by mechanically cooling or warming the musts, and in districts where fermentation is difficult or uncertain, selected, cultivated wines yeasts are employed.

"As soon as the first fermentation ceases the wine is drawn into closed tankage, where, in the succeding months, the secondary or final fermentation takes place. Thereafter, it is merely a question of careful storage, racking and filling up the wines until maturity of their remaining clear for commercial use.

Sweet Wine Processes.

"In the sweet wine-making, the grapes are crushed as in dry wine-making, but in order to preserve the sweetness, the juice is drawn off when fermentation has proceeded to the point desired, and grape brandy is added to arrest further action. Sherries are made by heating the wine, either by sun or artificial heat, in packages of various capacity for the requisite period.

"California's wonderful climate, probably unequaled in the civilized world for grape production, makes the manufacture of wine easy and certain and the great fertility of its vineyards makes the cost so reasonable that there should be neither excuse nor incentive for adulteration. The only drawback is the distance of California from the consuming centers, which makes the transportation of wine very expensive. This disadvantage will be lessened with the completion of the Panama Canal. In anticipation of this, immense wine storing establishments are being erected on the shore of the Bay of San Francisco, whence wines can be drawn direct into tankage on board ocean-going vessels; thus also minimizing the daily enhancing cost of shipping cooperage.

"In the not far distant future the consumer should be able to procure sound, healthful California wines in every center at a price little, if any, more than bottled mineral water or beer."

RESULTS SECURED BY ADVOCATE.

Progress of the Year and What the Future Should Bring Forth.

(Written by John W. King, Chairman of Advocate Committee.)

JOHN W. KING.
State Director and Chairman "Advocate" Committee.

In order to definitely learn the results of our experience with the "Retail Grocers Advocate," the writer, as chairman of the committee having the paper in charge called in an expert accountant to investigate the books and advise us as to its earnings.

We find that the "Advocate" earned for us a much greater amount than the efforts employed by the State Grocers Association in its behalf warranted. When we take into consideration the fact that through the paper we have been able to secure results and to engender enthusiasm otherwise impossible, it will readily be seen that our investment has been a desirable one.

It will be still more profitable, since I am saitsfied that the organization will give to the paper a completer and more effective support in the future than they have extended it in the past.

It will be remembered that shortly after the Convention of the State Grocers Association ,a committee was appointed to purchase the "Advocate" on terms submitted by Mr. Powers.

The purchase was made, but for several months nothing was done towards utilizing the paper and its entire management was left in the hands of Mr. Powers. Only one of the "Advocate" committee, Mr. Hauch of Alameda, worked actively in its behalf. By his exertions certain advertising was secured that was of enormous value at that particular period.

For several months following this, only desultory assistance was extended the manager of the paper. Since the managers of the State Association as well as the manager of the "Advocate" were devoting the greater part of their energies and time in securing results in the legislature at Sacramento. After the legislature had adjourned, we were able to give more consideration to the growth of the paper.

Under the earnest and clever direction of Mr. Earl D. Eddy, the paper then advanced by rapid strides. Mr. Eddy has had the active co-operation of Field Secretary Powers and Mr. Doyle, President of the local Association and Mr. Frank B. Connolly, Secretary of the State Association.

How well the needs of the trade have been observed in th way of general news matter and grocery information, I need not tell the readers of the "Advocate." The number of letters of approval from all over the country printed in its columns from time to time show that we have been able to supply the grocers with the kind of live matter they desire and need. Our subscriptions have shown a marked increase and the advertising patronage has been improving very satisfactorily.

The net profits of the first ten months have exceeded $1000.00. The profits for the last two months of the fiscal year which ends Sept. 30th will, we anticipate, be about $500.00 more.

The writer will confess that the association managers have been culpably negligent in the matter of the "Advocate" or the gross profits from the paper would have been far greater.

The writer is satisfied, however, that this neglect will not be repeated during the ensuing year and that we will be able to secure for our association sufficient income to make a valuable campaign of organization possible and at the same time have in the "Advocate" a wonderful power to assist us in securing any results that the Directing Board may deem wise.

Frank F. Wear, Oakland.

Dear Sir: Have been using coffee mills for over 20 years and had experience with nearly all of them. Always wanted one a "little better" for the mill is a great factor in maintaining coffee trade. Our last purchase was one of your No. 2121 Hobart's and we do not hesitate to pronounce it the best we have seen. Are particularly pleased with the clean, sharp cut of the granulating burrs, something we have always wanted and never found so near perfection as in our Hobart.

We "press the button," the Mill does the rest—and does it right, and its nail eating qualities stand alone. Would not consider ourselves up-to-date without it.

Respectfully yours,

GENTLEMEN:--The Hobart Electric Manufacturing Company of Troy, Ohio, in connection with myself, are hereby donating to your Association one of our very latest No. 2121 Floor Pedestal Electric Coffee Mills, free of all expense to you whatsoever, in Sacramento, California.

It will be assential for us to personally supervise the demonstsation of this new mill, owing to the construction which has not existed in coffee mills prior to this date. It is understood that we will do this during the progress of your Convention at the Assembly Hall on the dates of the 10th, 11th and 12th of September, this year.

This mill in question has already been telegraphed for and in fact is EN ROUTe to Sacramento.

The only stipulations that are requested by the Hobart Electric Manufacturing Company and myself are; to-wit:

FIRST--That the machine will go to a member of the State Grocers Association.

SECOND:--That he will install and operate the mill in his store.

THIRD--That under no consideration shall the mill be used for speculative purposes by the fortunate recipient.

Yours very respectfully,
FRANK F. WEAR.

MEETING OF FRISCO GROCERS.

Dealers Will Decide Action To Be Taken In The Meeting of the Beer Bottlers.

WILL ELECT DELEGATES TO STATE CONVENTION.

Many New Members Joining To Help The Work of Getting Fair Profits.

A big meeting of retail grocers is to be held at Union Hall, 182 Church street, corner 14th and Market, on Wednesday Evening, Sept. 4th, at 8 p. m. ....

A final decision will be reached on the beer question.

This was decided at the meeting of the directors of the Associated Retail Grocers held Wednesday evening, Aug. 28th.

President Geo. Doyle called the meeting to order There were present Secretary F. B. Connolly and Directors J. W. King, H. S. Elliott, J. Irvine and B. A. Schmidt. Absent: Gus Lehrke and J. A. Stulz.

Field Secretary Powers reported splendid results secured in the matter of collecting dues and securing new members through the assistance of Carl F. Harrison who also assisted in completing the securing of signatures on the Beer Bottler matter.

Mr. Powers and Mr. Harrison both reported that the trade were practically a unit in wanting the bottlers to do as the flour mills do—refuse to supply cutters. The men who were selling for 10c were doing so unwillingly and would welcome an opportunity to get a fair profit and be assured that more of their competitors could be allowed to sell for 10c.

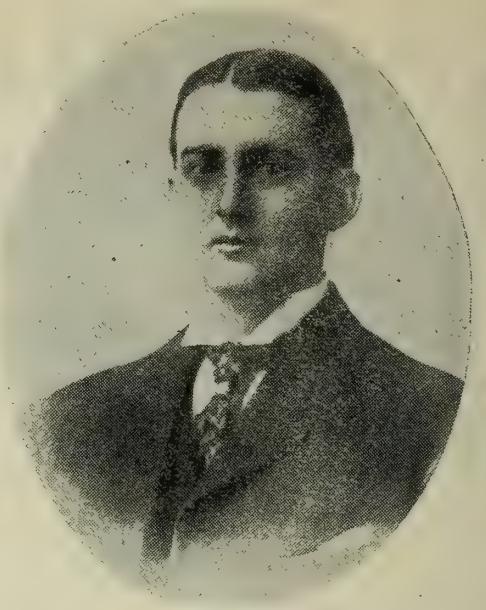
Mr. Powers reported that the signatures had been secured of 261 grocers selling 29,618 cases of beer each month to a statement that they wanted the bottlers to refuse to supply cutters and that they would stand by the bottlers who took this action and would refuse to handle the beer of the bottlers who are willing to have their beer sold for 10c.

It was decided to call a general meeting for Wednesday evening, Sept. 4th at Union Hall.

Mr. Powers was directed to call on the beer bottlers and confer with them.

Mr. Harrison was directed to continue interviewing the grocers and securing new members.

Twenty-two new members were reported since August 1st.



Plans were discussed for increasing the value of the organization to its members.

It will only be a short time when these plans will be put in operation.

At the meeting on Wednesday evening, delegates will be elected to the State Grocers Convention at Sacramento.

Al grocers are invited to attend the meeting.

PARKS BROS. AGAIN.

Interior Merchants Write of Peddling Methods of These Pretending Wholesalers.

Last week we told about the activities of the firm of Parks Bros., who have a store at 372 Fifth St., this city They have big signs over the door stating that they are "Wholesale Grocers" and the local telephone book repeats the information.

We are in receipt of the following letter which speaks for itself:

Beckwith, Cal.,
Aug. 26, 1907.

The Retail Grocers' Advocate,
San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sirs:—

In regard to your inquiry as to the "Selling to Consumers" by the firm of Parks Bros., will state that this firm is well known in these parts as a seller to farmers and to consumers in general. They solicit orders to the extent of carloads and then send in a man to distribute the goods to the farmers and townspeople in Sierra Valley. They do not attempt to sell to stores at all.

We would be glad to have such operations as this carload business, dealt with as it should be.

Very truly,
PLUMAS COMMERCIAL CO.

Now, speak up, gentleman; if there are others who know of the operations of these "wholesale grocers" (?) please write us at once. If you are going to attend the convention in Sacramento. come primed to bring this matter before your fellow merchants. There is a remedy for such trade abuses and you can help correct them only by working hand in hand with other sufferers.

In the Eastern States a never-ending campaign is being waged against these "box-car" merchants. The grocers of California should be no less alert to take steps to combat such obviously unfair competition.

Let us have some more letters—not necessarily about Parks Bros. only—no doubt there are others at the same game.

DOUBLED THE BUSINESS.

Some Data About the Dayton Scale Co. and Its Methods.

When the smoke of the great fire cleared away, the remains of about $75,000 worth of Dayton Scales were smoldering in the ashes of San Francisco.

Among the first to jump into the harness and bring to the trade the things they needed most promptly was J. J. Duffie, the agent of the Dayton Scales who, with the assistance of W. H. Graham and H. D. Luce, has since that time put $125,000 worth of scales on the counters of San Francisco merchants. Over $250,000 worth have been sold throughout teh interior during the same time.

The sales of the Dayton Scale Co. have increased by leaps and bounds. Though it had grown enormously in 1905, yet the sales are now double what they were two years ago. The month of February, 1907, saw the most sales of any month in the history of the company's operations on the Coast. The sale of $32,000 worth of scales to one firm, Lesser Bros., butchers, of San Jose and Oakland, is a record sale even for Mr. Duffie.

This growth is the result of excellence. The trade recognizes the value of the Dayton Scales, which are every day speaking eloquently for themselves from thousands of counters. The fact that their ability to weigh with exactness saves the merchant the cost of scale several times in a year, is the chief reason why the Dayton is so generally replacing other scales.

The proud boast of the Dayton people is that they can prove to the merchant where one of their Money Weight Scales will save him $200 a year. These scales tell automatically the cost, selling price and net profit on every sale, with as much exactness as a bank figures interest or exchange.

The Dayton Scale Co. have always co-operated with the Association workers, both here and in the East.

They helped San Francisco entertain the National Grocers' Convention in 1904.

In 1905, they made the State Grocers' Asosciation their guests during the convention at Stockton, taking them up the San Joaquin river in a specially chartered steamboat and giving them a royal good time.

Review of Conditions as Reported by Experts in Various Centers.

PIONTS TO WATCH.

TOMATOES.—
New pack is sure to rule high.

CANNED GOODS.—
Everything in this line is exremely short.

SALMON.—
Read this week's review and draw your own conclusions.

SPRATS.—
Stocks extremely low. Prices are sure to go higher.

SARDINES.—
Catch in France is a total failure; same report comes from Portugal.

BEANS.—
Stocks should be kept up to limit, because most of the varieties raised in California will probably yield a short crop.

RICE.—
There will not be a safe buying basis on rice until September 15th. or later. Hand to mouth purchases are counselled.

EVAPORATED APPLES.—
On account of high prices ruling on future Eastern evaporated apples California apples will undoubtedly bring good figures this season.

DRIED FRUITS.—
As a result of the sulphur agitation the market has declined considerably many large buyers refusing to buy California Dried Fruits unless packers give a full guaranty—none of them will accede to this demand.

PRUNES.—
Not only is the crop in this country a very short one, but the crop in all foreign producing countries is very much lighter this season than in many years past. With resumption of active demand about October 1st. prices should advance materially.

SUGAR.

The local situation has shown no change during the week ending August 29th.

Western Sugar Refining Company, advise under date of Aug. 20.:

We beg to announce that we are now in the market with our new Powdered Sugar, for icing and frosting purposes, under the brand of "Monarch."

"There will be a differential of ten (10) points on Monarch Powdered over and above the price of Standard Fine (Cane) Granulated in 100 lb sacks. This, it will be noted, is the same price as our regular brand of Powdered. Monarch Powdered is packed in sacks of 100 lbs. each, barrels, half-barrels, and boxes of 30 lbs. each; and the price of same in barrels is 10c in half-barrels 25c., and in boxes 50c. per 100 lbs. higher than in sacks.

"If our regular Powdered Sugar is desired, all that it will be necessary to mention is simply "Powdered," but in case our Monarch Powdered is

New York, Aug. 22.—Willett & Gray report:

The Week.—Raws: Unchanged. Refined: Unchanged. Net cash quotations this date are; Molasses, 3.00c.; Centrifugals, 3.89c.; Granulated, 4.65c.

Raws.—The market has ruled quiet but steady throughout the week under review.

Holders are confident that their sugars will be wanted sooner or later and are exerting no pressure to sell, which is advisable, as buyers have ample stocks for immediate requirements and feel that the prevailing conditions of the refined sugar market, do not justify the engagement at this time of large supplies for the future.

The probabilities are that buyers will pursue more of a hand-to-mouth policy than usual for some time.

Refined.—The demand continue to be unusually small.

As an instance of the tightness of money and the consequent curtailment of dealer's carrying stocks of sugar, the failure is reported of a grocery firm due, to their inability to obtain the usual loans from bankers. However, general business conditions are sound. only there is a tendency to take a slower pace than in recent years, which is well, as the country has been going a little too fast.

The demand for sugar at this period of the year is dependent so much on the out-turn of the fruit crops that we have called for special reports from our correspondents in all sections of the country and are publishing same as they are received. The reports to date from eastern, central and southern states and Ontario are uniformly more pessimistic as to this season's production than was anticipated, the indications pointing to a fall-short of one-fourth to three-fourths compared with the crops of last year, while the local stocks of sugar are about as usual. On the other hand, Arkansas and Pacific coast states have full crops.

COFFEE.

New York, Aug. 22.—Willett & Gray report:

The continued dullness in Coffee is partly due to the difficult money market and disturbed feeling in financial quarters, but at the same time the telegrapher's strike delays business with the interior, curtailing transactions. However, the general condition as well as the undertone in Coffee are good and promising. The weather conditions in Brazil continue unfavorable and the expectations regarding the growing crop remains very doubtful.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

A Cream of Tartar Powder, free from alum or phosphatic acid

Makes Home Baking Easy

ALL grocers should carry a full Stock of Royal Baking Powder.

It always gives the greatest satisfaction to customers, and in the end yields the larger profit to the grocer.

The market is very firm owing to the meagre assortment of all grades. Domestic Japan rices are bringing higher prices today than ever before in the history of the Rice Industry in the U. S. This is owing to the short crop of last season and the increased consumption throughout the U. S. Good grades of Dometsic Japan rice bought from New Orleans today would cost more laid down in this city than what imported Japan can be bought for.

"Prices on the Pacific Coast have not increased in proportion to the actual market advance owing to the fact that dealers and jobbers carried large stocks and have been selling under the actual market value.

"The new River Crop which is always the first to mature has been sold New Orleans and nearby markets at "top" prices. Texas and Louisiana mills will commence milling about the 1st. to the 15th of September.

"The market will open at "top" prices therefore we do not look for conditions to settle to a safe buying basis until Sept. 15th and probably later. We do not look for any goods to be offered on this Coast until the middle of October as it will take at least thirty days before the railroads can bring cars through from mills. Japans mature thirty days later than Honduras, therefore new crop will not be offered until November.

New York, Aug. 20th.—Dan Talmage's Son, Co., report:

"Not for many a season has the market been so thoroughly swept and garnished at the close of a commercial year as on August 1st. There was an equivalent of about 100,000 pockets, some portion in the Rough held over by mills to make the "wheels go round" after the summer's repairs, also some held for seed. Taking such and screenings, the remnant grocery stocks was barely 25,000 pockets in first hands. With practically no old and little New, the high range of the market as an entirely is a natural sequence.

As every indication points to the fact that the country is down to bare bones, on Rice there is an assurance that a sizeable demand, quite up to all receipts, will prevail for several weeks.

"Thus far the supply has been from the Mississippi Parishes, and the market will depend on such for quite a month to come.

"Planters as a rule are prudent and are disposed to care for their crops, hence threshing and shipping of Rough, will take second place. There has been some showery weather of great service to the late crops, sort of top dressing in way of moisture, stimulating the development of the grain. In the main, receipts thus far have been dry, well cured, and exceptionally fine.

"The Southwest crop, (Louisiana and Texas) is reported in splendid shape, but no large amount is likely to be put on the market before the middle of next month.

"Cables and correspondence from abroad note that prices rule nominal on account of light business."

DRIED FRUIT.

The State Board of Trade has given out the following information relative to the fruit-sulphuring question:

"According to advices received by the California State Board of Trade from the principal fruit-packing centers, there is no longer hesitancy on the par of the packers generally in taking the fruit offered by the growers. The latter, with few exceptions, are doing their best to solve the sulphuring problem in an intelligent, practical and commercial way, using as little of the fumes as is consistent with producing an acceptable product, and so the packers are reascured, and those who were inclined to take advantage of the situation to the detriment of the grower, as well as those who were overcautious and fearful as to the outcome, are getting in line, and the work is being carried on in the usual way. The packers as a rule will not dip, and only resulphur when absoluteely necessary, so the danger of trouble at the market end is minimized. The dried fruit this season is of superior quality as compared with that of last year in most places, and the season's output is expected to exceed that of last year, which was large."

LOCAL.—Under date of August 26.—Aprominent dried fruit, house submits the following review of conditions in their line:

"We beg to submit the following market review. If you make use of some, we should prefer that you do not use our firm name in connection therewith.

"Market on Dried Fruits is a quiet one, much quieter than ordinarily at this season of the year. We attribute the lack of demand largely to the sulphur agitation, both the Eastern buyers and the packers here in this State being very uncertain as to the effect the law will have, and for this reason not inclined to operate.

"As a result of the sulphur agiation. the market on Peaches has declined considerably, most large buyers refusing to purchase California Dried Fruits unless we give them a full guaranty, and at this time none of the packers are willing to do this. The quantity of peaches dried in the State will be considerably larger than last year. We estimate 15,000 tons dried as against 10,000 last year.

"APRICOTS.—Market a very quiet one. But few apricots left in the State. Prices have declined quite considerably, for the same reason that peaches have gone off in value.

PEARS.—But a limited quantity will be dried. Market is yet wholly nominal. Even the European buyers, who usually purchase the bulk of the crop, show no interest whatsover in this article.

"PITTED PLUMS, NECTARINES, SILVER PRUNES.—Will be very few dried in the State this season.

PRUNES.—The crop is turning out even lighter than previous estimates of about 75 to 80 million lbs. Reports coming in from every section of the State lead us to believe that this estimate will be too high by about 10,000,000 lbs. No change in market values, which of course can be attributed to the very light demand. A good indication, however, of the strength of the market is that notwithstanding the light demand, values have been so well maintained. The estimate of last year's crop was 180,000,000 lbs. Not only is the crop in this country such a very short one, but the crop of prunes in all foreign producing countries is very lighter this season than in many years past. We look for a revival in demand by October 1st. and if we have anything like an active demand, prices should advance materially. There has been some little demand for old prunes this past few weeks, and market is cleaning up rapidly at full figures.
